
The department also offers an approved two-year residency in child psychiatry. Fellowships in consult/liaison psychiatry and addiction medicine are available after residency training.

Courses

Psychiatry Courses

PSYC:8301 Clinical Psychiatry 4 s.h.
Requirements: third-year MD enrollment.

PSYC:8401 Adult Psychiatry arr.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8402 Child Psychiatry arr.
Roles of child psychiatry as a consultation service. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8403 Adult Outpatient Psychiatry and Psychotherapy 2,4 s.h.
Diagnostic assessment, evaluation, treatment of psychiatric patients; exposure to both psychotherapeutic, psychopharmacologic treatments. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8404 Women's Wellness and Counseling Service 4 s.h.
Experience evaluating and treating women with mental illness, with some emphasis on practitioner's autonomy; four-week rotation. Requirements: psychiatry clerkship.

PSYC:8405 Advanced Inpatient Subinternship in Medical Psychiatry 4 s.h.
Hands-on experience in evaluation and treatment of patients with combined medical and psychiatric disease; decisions regarding appropriate consultations, diagnostic tests, treatment; etiology and pathophysiology. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8408 Advanced Inpatient Subinternship in Mood/Psychotic Disorders 4 s.h.
Subinternship in adult psychiatry; experiences that maximize autonomy and responsibility; inpatient rotation focuses on one subspecialty area (psychotic disorders or mood disorders); emphasis on substantial medical comorbidity; assess and address medical and psychiatric needs of assigned patients in a collaborative and integrative fashion; assess and manage patients independently at the level of a psychiatry intern, reporting directly to the attending; call is required; didactic curriculum focuses on critical appraisal of medical literature. Prerequisites: PSYC:8301. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PSYC:8409 Eating Disorders 2,4 s.h.
Inpatient rotation; emphasis on co-occurring psychiatric and comorbid medical conditions associated with eating disorders; patient assessment and management at an advanced level; direct patient care and engagement in clinical decision-making for complex patients with substantial comorbidity; call is required; student experience maximizes autonomy and responsibility; didactic curriculum; focus on critical appraisal of relevant medical literature. Prerequisites: PSYC:8301. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PSYC:8410 Intellectual Disability 2,4 s.h.
In-depth two week clinical experience in the interdisciplinary approach to assessment and management of individuals with intellectual disability. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8411 Substance Use 2,4 s.h.
In-depth clinical experience in assessment and management of individuals with alcohol and drug abuse. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8412 Emergency Psychiatry 2,4 s.h.
In-depth clinical experience in assessment and management of acute psychiatric illness under supervision of faculty with expertise in care within this setting; clinical experiences centered in emergency department at University of Iowa Health Care. Prerequisites: PSYC:8301. Requirements: third- or fourth-year MD enrollment.

PSYC:8413 The Thriving Physician 2 s.h.
Two-week elective for medical students in their clinical years; designed to promote awareness, wellbeing, compassion, and career satisfaction through contemplative practices and the integration of concepts of positive psychology into daily living; through readings, discussions, and experiential activities, physicians-in-training will learn how to engage in reflective personal and professional self-care; classes will be half-day in length with time outside of class dedicated to practicing and incorporating skills into everyday activities. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8414 Consultation Psychiatry 2,4 s.h.
Opportunity for in-depth clinical experience in psychiatric assessment and management of general medical and surgical patients; elective clerks serve on consultation-liaison psychiatry teams at University of Iowa Health Care and the VA Iowa City Health Care; may include opportunities for outpatient work in relevant settings (e.g., emergency psychiatry, outpatient clinics providing integrated psychiatric and medical care). Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8415 Geriatric Inpatient Psychiatry 4 s.h.
Rotation in Department of Psychiatry specialized inpatient geriatric psychiatry unit; students work under faculty and resident supervision.

PSYC:8417 Advanced Psychiatry, Des Moines, IA 4 s.h.
Medical students choose from several different options to become familiar with the practice of psychiatry in community hospital settings in the Des Moines area; evaluation and management of patients across lifespan and in subspecialty settings. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8450 Continuity of Care in Psychiatry 4 s.h.
Experience in Psychiatry Continuity of Care Clinic; maximizes autonomy and responsibility in an outpatient continuous care setting. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PSYC:8497 Research in Psychiatry arr.
Experience and training in practical application of scientific methodology; work with research project at psychiatric service or affiliated cooperating research centers.

PSYC:8498 Psychiatry On Campus arr.
Arranged by student with departmental approval. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PSYC:8499 Psychiatry Off Campus arr.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

Radiation oncology specializes in the delivery of radiation treatments for cancer patients. It includes treatments with linear accelerators as well as isotopes and temporary and permanent surgically implanted sources. Radiation oncologists also use these methods to treat some benign diseases, such as Graves' ophthalmopathy and trigeminal neuralgia. Treatments often employ stereotactic CT-image-guided and MR-image-guided techniques.

The Department of Radiation Oncology is dedicated to educating undergraduate and graduate students, MD and other health professions students, and residents. Its faculty members provide instruction for Doctor of Philosophy students in the Free Radical and Radiation Biology Program [p. 1889] through their participation in FRRB:3110 Medical Physics I, FRRB:3215 Medical Physics II, FRRB:5000 Radiation Biology, FRRB:7000 Redox Biology and Medicine, and FRRB:7001 Molecular and Cellular Biology of Cancer.

The department's professional staff provides training in radiation therapy technology for undergraduate students in the Radiation Sciences Program [p. 1966] by teaching RSTH:3120 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship I, RSTH:3225 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship II, RSTH:3325 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship III, RSTH:4125 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship IV, and RSTH:4225 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship V.

The department also offers specialized research projects and sponsors postdoctoral students in biology, physics, and clinical disciplines by arrangement with the instructor or mentor. Frequently, students from the departments of Biomedical Engineering and Electrical and Computer Engineering are involved.

Residency

The department provides a four-year physician residency training program in radiation oncology that includes clinical care and education. It also has a two-year residency program in medical physics.

MD students can elect a four-week radiation oncology rotation and/or a two-week multidisciplinary cancer care elective. Nursing students, dental residents, and fellows in gynecologic oncology, breast cancer, and in adult and pediatric hematology and oncology complete rotations in the department.

Courses

Radiation Oncology Courses

RADO:8401 Radiation Oncology for Medical Students 4 s.h.
Integration of clinical oncology, physics, and cancer biology; clinical work with faculty mentors; experience in clinical evaluation, technical physics, biological application.

RADO:8497 Research in Radiation Oncology arr.
Medical research, clinical or laboratory projects; individual study.

RADO:8498 Radiation Oncology On Campus arr.
Arranged by student with department approval.

RADO:8499 Radiation Oncology Off Campus arr.
Arranged by student with department approval.

Undergraduate major: radiation sciences (BS)

Website: https://medicine.uiowa.edu/radsci/

Radiation sciences professionals work with physicians to gather accurate patient information for diagnosis, treatment, and/or research of disease and injury. They provide direct patient care, produce quality images, and deliver treatment using a variety of radiation sources. The radiation sciences professional must apply knowledge, skill, and mature judgment while operating complex equipment safely and efficiently. Strong communication, organizational, and patient care skills are essential for a successful career in radiation sciences.

The University of Iowa's radiation sciences educational programs are designed to provide students with opportunities for intellectual, professional, and social growth. Students learn with faculty members and instructors who are committed to radiation sciences education.

Radiation sciences is one of two undergraduate majors in the field of medical imaging offered by the Carver College of Medicine. It encompasses radiologic technology, breast imaging, computed tomography, magnetic resonance imaging, cardiovascular interventional, diagnostic medical sonography, and radiation therapy programs. The other undergraduate major in medical imaging is nuclear medicine technology; see Nuclear Medicine Technology [p. 1923] in the catalog.

The Carver College of Medicine is located on the University of Iowa health sciences campus, which includes University of Iowa Health Care, one of the nation's largest university-owned teaching hospitals. For information about the college's academic programs and resources, see Carver College of Medicine [p. 1843] in the catalog.

UI Health Care and the Carver College of Medicine have a proud academic tradition of preparing students for successful careers in the radiation sciences. Today, that tradition continues through its strong curriculum, quality clinical experience, and commitment to undergraduate education in the creation of images and treatment of patients using highly sophisticated equipment and techniques.

The Carver College of Medicine, in partnership with the Department of Radiology, is committed to equal access and, consistent with its academic mission and standards, strives to achieve excellence through the advancement of diversity. The Carver College of Medicine recognizes and values all aspects of human difference, defining diversity in the broadest sense. Its programs strive to create a welcoming culture.

Programs

Undergraduate Program of Study

Major

- Major in Radiation Sciences (Bachelor of Science) [p. 1976]

Courses

- Breast Imaging Courses [p. 1966]
- Cardiovascular Interventional Courses [p. 1967]
- Computed Tomography Courses [p. 1968]
- Diagnostic Medical Sonography Courses [p. 1968]
- Magnetic Resonance Courses [p. 1971]
- Radiation Sciences Courses [p. 1971]
- Radiation Therapy Courses [p. 1972]
- Radiologic Technology Courses [p. 1973]

Breast Imaging Courses

RSBI:3310 Patient Care for Breast Imaging 3 s.h.
Foundation for providing high-quality patient care during breast imaging exams and procedures; patient communication, assessment, and treatment options including surgical, nonsurgical, and reconstruction. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences RT degree track or ARRT primary certification in radiography.

RSBI:3315 Breast Imaging Clinical Internship I 2 s.h.
Breast imaging clinical internship practicum at UI Health Care; rotation through department imaging rooms; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; participation in routine and advanced breast imaging exams; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:3225. Requirements: radiation sciences major.

RSBI:4110 Breast Imaging Procedures and Analysis 3 s.h.
Breast imaging exams including technique, image evaluation, and positioning. Prerequisites: RSBI:3310. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences RT/BI track or ARRT primary certification in radiography.

RSBI:4115 Breast Imaging Clinical Internship II 4 s.h.
Breast imaging clinical internship scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotation through department imaging rooms; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; experience facilitated by breast imaging technologists, radiologists, residents, and clinical coordinator; participation in routine and advanced breast imaging exams; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSBI:3315. Requirements: radiation sciences major.

RSBI:4120 Anatomy and Pathology for Breast Imaging 2 s.h.
Anatomy, localization terminology, histology, and cytology; pathology including mammographic appearance and reporting terminology; benign, high risk, and malignant conditions and their mammographic appearances.

RSBI:4130 Breast Imaging Acquisitions and Principles 2 s.h.
Physics and hardware used in obtaining exams in breast imaging; equipment operations including design characteristics of mammography units, digital acquisition, display, and informatics.

RSBI:4210 Breast Imaging Advanced Procedures and Analysis 3 s.h.
Advanced breast imaging modalities including breast sonography, breast MRI, sentinel node mapping, and interventional procedures. Prerequisites: RSBI:4110.

RSBI:4215 Breast Imaging Clinical Internship III 4 s.h.
Breast imaging clinical internship scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotation through department imaging rooms; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; experience facilitated by breast imaging technologists, radiologists, residents, and clinical coordinator; participation in routine and advanced breast imaging exams; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSBI:4115.

RSBI:4220 Quality Control in Breast Imaging 3 s.h.
Quality control aspects related to breast imaging; quality assurance and evaluation including accreditation, certification, and Mammography Quality Standards Act (MQSA) regulations; quality control including mammographers tests and digital quality control tests; medical physicist test including general quality control tests and quality control tests specific to digital imaging and tomosynthesis. Prerequisites: RSBI:4130.

RSBI:4308 Breast Imaging Practicum 1-6 s.h.
Breast imaging clinical internship scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotation through department imaging rooms; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; experience facilitated by breast imaging technologists, radiologists, residents, and clinical coordinator; participation in routine and advanced breast imaging exams; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Requirements: admission to Radiation Sciences RT to BS online track.

Cardiovascular Interventional Courses

RSCI:4110 Vascular Anatomy 3 s.h.
Normal arterial and venous anatomy of the circulatory system illustrated through angiographic, magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), and computed tomography (CG) images; common variants. Prerequisites: ACB:3110 or HHP:2100 or HHP:3105 or HHP:3115.

RSCI:4120 CVI Principles 4 s.h.
Imaging and accessory equipment for vascular interventional and cardiac interventional procedures; imaging equipment quality control; fundamental principles of vascular and cardiac procedures; patient preparation and care, radiation safety, contrast medium, pharmacology, and sedation. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation science RT/CVI track or ARRT primary RT certification.

RSCI:4130 Electrocardiogram and Hemodynamics 3 s.h.
ECG analysis, hemodynamic principles and waveform analysis, cardiac output, vascular resistance, calculations of stenotic valves. Prerequisites: ACB:3110 or HHP:2100 or HHP:3105 or HHP:3115.

RSCI:4140 CVI Peripheral Procedures and Pathology 3 s.h.
Angiographic and interventional procedures of the abdomen, thorax, and upper and lower extremities; associated pathologies. Prerequisites: RSCI:4110. Corequisites: RSCI:4120, if not taken as a prerequisite. Requirements: RSCI:4110 or three months CVI experience.

RSCI:4150 CVI Neurology and Nonvascular Procedures and Pathology 3 s.h.
Angiographic and interventional procedures of the head and neck; associated pathologies. Prerequisites: RSCI:4110. Corequisites: RSCI:4120, if not taken as a prerequisite. Requirements: RSCI:4110 or three months CVI experience.

RSCI:4160 CVI Cardiac Procedures and Pathology 4 s.h.
Cardiac diagnostic and interventional procedures; associated pathologies. Prerequisites: RSCI:4110. Corequisites: RSCI:4120 and RSCI:4130, if not taken as prerequisites. Requirements: RSCI:4110 or three months CVI experience.

RSCI:4170 CVI Clinical Internship III 4 s.h.
Cardiac-interventional clinical time scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotations in adult cardiac, electrophysiology, and pediatric catheterization; competency and objective-based education provided with clinical performance evaluations and constructive feedback from CI staff and clinical coordinator; clinical coordinator facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies. Prerequisites: RSCI:4180. Corequisites: RSCI:4130 and RSCI:4160, if not taken as prerequisites. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/CVI track.

RSCI:4180 CVI Clinical Internship II 4 s.h.
Vascular-interventional clinical time scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; labs specialize in peripheral, neuro- and non-vascular procedures; competency and objective-based education; clinical performance evaluations providing constructive feedback from VI staff and clinical coordinator; clinical coordinator facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies. Prerequisites: RSCI:4190. Corequisites: RSCI:4140 and RSCI:4150, if not taken as prerequisites. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/CVI track.

RSCI:4190 CVI Clinical Internship I 2 s.h.
Introduction to VI and CI labs including basic set up, equipment, and procedures; preparation to spend more concentrated time in each area for future internships; provides 192 hours of clinical experience over a 12-week period. Prerequisites: RSRT:3225. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences RT/CVI degree track or CVI clinical internship.

RSCI:4308 Cardiovascular Interventional Practicum 1-6 s.h.
Cardiac-interventional (CI) clinical time scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotations in adult cardiac, electrophysiology, and pediatric catheterization; competency and objective-based education provided with clinical performance evaluations and constructive feedback from CI staff and clinical coordinator; clinical coordinator facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies. Requirements: admission to Radiation Sciences RT to BS online track.

Computed Tomography Courses

RSCT:4100 Sectional Anatomy for Imaging Sciences 3 s.h.
Sectional anatomy identifiable on computed tomography and magnetic resonance imaging, including transverse, coronal, and sagittal planes. Prerequisites: ACB:3110 or HHP:2100 or HHP:3105 or HHP:3115.

RSCT:4105 Computed Tomography Clinical Internship I 2 s.h.
Clinical internship scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotation through CT scanners, 3D lab, and radiation therapy departments; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical coordinator facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by CT technologists, radiologists, residents, and coordinator; participation in routine and advanced CT scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as student gains experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:3225. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/CT track.

RSCT:4115 Computed Tomography Clinical Internship II 4 s.h.
CT scanners, 3D lab, and radiation therapy department rotation at University of Iowa Health Care; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical coordinator facilitates schedule, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by CT technologists, radiologists, residents, and coordinator; participation in routine and advanced CT scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSCT:4105.

RSCT:4120 Computed Tomography Procedures I 4 s.h.
Computed tomography procedures of the head, neck, thorax, mediastinum, abdomen, and pelvis; positioning techniques, patient preparation, monitoring and care, indications and contraindications for procedures; contrast media usage; basic protocol information with adjustments to tailor procedures for patient's indications; brief units on patient care relevant to CT; CT parameters and equipment. Corequisites: RSCT:4100. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/CT track or ARRT primary certification in radiologic technology, nuclear medicine, or radiation therapy.

RSCT:4125 Computed Tomography Procedures II 4 s.h.
Imaging information in musculoskeletal exams, 3D reconstruction, CTAs; cardiac; CT arthrography, PET/CT, SPECT/CT, virtual colonoscopy; procedure indications and contraindications, patient and room preparation, positioning techniques, contrast media usage, and scan parameters; basic protocol information and how to tailor procedures to a patient's indications; information in common pathological conditions found in CT images and protocol appearance variations. Prerequisites: RSCT:4120. Corequisites: RSCI:4110, if not taken as a prerequisite.

RSCT:4130 Computed Tomography Physical Principles and QC 4 s.h.
Physical principles and instrumentation; historical development and evolution of CT; characteristics of radiation, beam attenuation, linear attenuation coefficients, tissue characteristics, Hounsfield numbers, data acquisition, image manipulation techniques, tube configuration, collimation design and function, detectors, image quality factors, functions of CT computer and array processor; image processing and display examined from data acquisition through postprocessing and archiving; radiation protection practices and QC. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/CT degree track or ARRT primary certification in radiologic technology, nuclear medicine, or radiation therapy.

RSCT:4215 Computed Tomography Clinical Internship III 4 s.h.
CT scanners, 3D lab, and radiation therapy department rotation at University of Iowa Health Care; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical coordinator facilitates schedule, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by CT technologists, radiologists, residents, and coordinator; participation in routine and advanced CT scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSCT:4115.

RSCT:4308 Computed Tomography Practicum 1-6 s.h.
Computed Tomography (CT) scanners, 3D lab, and radiation therapy department rotation at University of Iowa Health Care; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical coordinator facilitates schedule, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by CT technologists, radiologists, residents, and coordinator; participation in routine and advanced CT scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Requirements: admission to Radiation Sciences RT to BS online track.

Diagnostic Medical Sonography Courses

RSMS:3100 Cardiac Sonography I 3 s.h.
Anatomy and physiology of cardiovascular system imaged sonographically; proper sonographic imaging techniques, normal anatomy, exam protocol, and proper instrument settings; pathology and pathophysiology of common conditions related to adult cardiovascular system. Prerequisites: RSMS:3110 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:3101 Cardiac Sonography I Lab 2 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience involving basic sonographic adult cardiac imaging and clinical history analysis; students perform sonographic exams utilizing scanning simulation to develop skills in sonographic anatomy recognition, scan plane orientation, transducer manipulation, instrumentation, and exam protocols. Prerequisites: RSMS:3111 with a minimum grade of C. Corequisites: RSMS:3100.

RSMS:3110 Foundations of Sonography 3 s.h.
Sonography history, ergonomics, terminology, image orientation; basic theories of sound waves, echo production, transducers, equipment operation, body imaging, Doppler, hemodynamics.

RSMS:3111 Foundations of Sonography Lab 1 s.h.
Sonography history, ergonomics, terminology, image orientation; basic theories of sound waves, echo production, transducers, equipment operation, body imaging, Doppler, and hemodynamics. Corequisites: RSMS:3110.

RSMS:3115 Diagnostic Medical Sonography Clinical Internship I 1 s.h.
Introductory clinical experience in health care setting developing a basic understanding of sonography clinical environment and professional practice standards; applying patient care techniques and developing professional communication skills.

RSMS:3120 Abdominal Sonography I 3 s.h.
Embryology, anatomy, and physiology of various abdominal structures imaged sonographically; abdominal vasculature, hepatobiliary system, pancreas, urinary system, adrenals, spleen, male anatomy; proper sonographic imaging techniques, including appearance of normal anatomy, imaging protocol, proper instrument settings. Prerequisites: RSMS:3110 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:3121 Abdominal Sonography I Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience in sonographic abdominal imaging; students perform exams utilizing scanning simulation to develop skills in sonographic anatomy recognition, scan plane orientation, transducer manipulation, instrumentation, and exam protocols. Prerequisites: RSMS:3111 with a minimum grade of C. Corequisites: RSMS:3120.

RSMS:3130 Obstetrical and Gynecological Sonography I 3 s.h.
Embryology, anatomy, and physiology of the female reproductive system and developing fetus; proper sonographic imaging techniques, including appearance of normal anatomy, imaging protocol, proper instrument settings. Prerequisites: RSMS:3110 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:3131 Obstetrical and Gynecological Sonography I Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience involving basic sonographic obstetrical and gynecological imaging and clinical history analysis; students perform sonographic exams utilizing scanning simulation to develop skills in sonographic anatomy recognition, scan plan orientation, transducer manipulation, instrumentation, and exam protocols. Prerequisites: RSMS:3111 with a minimum grade of C. Corequisites: RSMS:3130.

RSMS:3140 Vascular Sonography I 3 s.h.
Anatomy and physiology of peripheral and cerebral vascular systems; analysis of hemodynamics, Doppler waveforms, pressure measurements, plethysmography, sonographic appearance, scanning techniques; evaluation of pathology and pathophysiology common to the lower extremity arterial and venous systems, and cerebrovascular system. Prerequisites: RSMS:3110 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:3141 Vascular Sonography I Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience involving basic vascular sonographic imaging and clinical history analysis; students perform non-imaging vascular physiologic tests and sonographic exams utilizing scanning simulation to develop skills in sonographic anatomy recognition, scan plane orientation, transducer manipulation, instrumentation, and exam protocols. Prerequisites: RSMS:3111 with a minimum grade of C. Corequisites: RSMS:3140.

RSMS:3150 Cardiac Physiology and Hemodynamics 3 s.h.
Analysis of cardiac physiology and hemodynamics related to sonography; correlation with Doppler application in cardiovascular imaging, ECG, auscultation, cardiac catheterization; advanced and developing imaging techniques.

RSMS:3205 Cardiac Sonography II 3 s.h.
Sonographic evaluation of advanced pathophysiology of human heart; sonographic appearance, imaging techniques, and exam modification. Prerequisites: RSMS:3100.

RSMS:3206 Cardiac Sonography II Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience involving the application of advanced sonographic cardiac imaging and clinical history analysis. Prerequisites: RSMS:3101. Corequisites: RSMS:3205.

RSMS:3215 Diagnostic Medical Sonography Clinical Internship II 3 s.h.
Application of basic skills of sonographic imaging and physiologic vascular testing in the health care setting.

RSMS:3230 Sonography Principles, Physics, and Instrumentation 3-4 s.h.
Physical principles of sound waves, their applications to imaging of the human body, operation and physical characteristics of various ultrasound transducers, method by which the sound wave is converted into a visual image, instrumentation components and their functions, Doppler principles, image artifacts, advanced hemodynamics, and spectral Doppler waveform analysis. Prerequisites: RSMS:3110.

RSMS:3231 Sonography Principles, Physics, and Instrumentation Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience in the application of sonographic imaging emphasizing physics principles, instrumentation, and quality assurance testing. Corequisites: RSMS:3230.

RSMS:3240 Abdominal Sonography II 3 s.h.
Pathology and pathophysiology of abdominal and superficial structures imaged sonographically; interventional sonographic procedures; post-procedure protocol; associated clinical and laboratory findings; imaging techniques, analysis of findings, and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:3120.

RSMS:3250 Obstetrical and Gynecological Sonography II 3 s.h.
Sonographically related pathological and abnormal congenital conditions of gynecology and obstetrics, infertility, assisted reproductive therapy, invasive procedures in obstetrics and gynecology, postpartum complications and maternal-fetal bonding; clinical findings, laboratory studies, and prognosis correlated with sonographic findings; appropriate image analysis and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:3130.

RSMS:3260 Breast Sonography 2 s.h.
Embryology, anatomy, physiology, and pathophysiology of the breast as it relates to sonographic imaging; proper sonographic imaging techniques, including appearance of normal anatomy, imaging protocol, proper instrument settings; sonographic findings of diseases involving the breast.

RSMS:3270 Vascular Sonography II 3 s.h.
Pathology and pathophysiology of complex diseases of the peripheral, cerebral, and abdominal vascular systems evaluated sonographically; associated clinical findings; techniques in physiologic, nonimaging tests, and duplex sonography; analysis of findings and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:3140.

RSMS:3300 Pediatric Sonography 3 s.h.
Anatomy, sonographic anatomy, pathophysiology, sonographic appearance, and Doppler correlation of disorders affecting the pediatric population, including abdominal, musculoskeletal, peripheral vascular, and cerebrovascular systems, neonatal brain and spinal cord.

RSMS:3305 Pediatric Cardiac Sonography 3 s.h.
Anatomy, sonographic anatomy, pathophysiology, sonographic appearance, and Doppler correlation of disorders affecting the pediatric cardiac population; associated clinical findings; techniques in sonographic imaging, analysis of findings, and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:3205. Requirements: completion of or current enrollment in a diagnostic medical sonography program.

RSMS:3306 Pediatric Cardiac Sonography Laboratory 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience involving basic sonographic pediatric cardiac imaging and clinical history analysis; students perform sonographic exams utilizing scanning simulation to develop skills in sonographic anatomy recognition, scan plane orientation, transducer manipulation, instrumentation, and exam protocols. Corequisites: RSMS:3305. Recommendations: completion of or current enrollment in a diagnostic medical sonography program.

RSMS:3315 Diagnostic Medical Sonography Clinical Internship III 3 s.h.
Application of sonographic imaging and physiologic vascular testing skills in health care setting; students develop competency in basic exams.

RSMS:3325 Abdominal Sonography II Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation utilizing computer-aided learning and scanning simulation to develop skills in interventional sonographic procedures with real-time ultrasound guidance; advanced abdominal and superficial structure imaging; exploring case studies; image analysis in identifying pathologies and differential diagnoses. Prerequisites: RSMS:3121.

RSMS:3376 Vascular Sonography II Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulation experience to develop skills in advanced sonographic imaging of the vascular system and performance of advanced nonimaging vascular physiologic tests; analysis of findings and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:3141.

RSMS:4110 Advanced Sonography 3 s.h.
Exploration of advanced sonographic imaging techniques and new technologies. Prerequisites: (RSMS:3240 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3250 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3270 with a minimum grade of C) or (RSMS:3205 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3270 with a minimum grade of C).

RSMS:4111 Advanced Sonography Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulated application of advanced sonographic imaging techniques and new technologies. Prerequisites: (RSMS:3325 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3376 with a minimum grade of C) or (RSMS:3206 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3376 with a minimum grade of C). Corequisites: RSMS:4110.

RSMS:4115 Diagnostic Medical Sonography Clinical Internship IV 5 s.h.
Application of sonographic imaging and physiologic vascular testing skills in the health care setting; students develop competency in high-level procedures. Prerequisites: RSMS:3315 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3376 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:4120 Advanced Cardiac Sonography 3 s.h.
Advanced cardiac sonographic imaging techniques, quantifications, and new technologies; analysis of applications and limitations of imaging techniques. Prerequisites: RSMS:3205 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:3270 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:4121 Advanced Cardiac Sonography Lab 1 s.h.
Laboratory-based learning and simulated application of advanced cardiac sonographic imaging techniques, quantifications, and new technologies. Prerequisites: RSMS:3206 with a minimum grade of C. Corequisites: RSMS:4120.

RSMS:4210 Fetal Cardiac Sonography 3 s.h.
Anatomy, sonographic anatomy, pathophysiology, sonographic appearance, and Doppler correlation of disorders affecting the fetal cardiac population; associated clinical findings; techniques in sonographic imaging, analysis of findings, and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:4110. Recommendations: sonography students, sonographers, and physicians with foundational knowledge in routine screening fetal heart sonographic evaluation.

RSMS:4215 Diagnostic Medical Sonography Clinical Internship V 5 s.h.
Application of sonographic imaging and physiologic vascular testing skills in health care setting; students develop advanced skills. Prerequisites: RSMS:4115 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:4110 with a minimum grade of C and RSMS:4111 with a minimum grade of C.

RSMS:4220 Multidisciplinary Capstone Seminar 3 s.h.
Case-based learning; students analyze and synthesize data, determine proper course of action, and evaluate outcomes; preparation for professional work environment. Prerequisites: RSMS:4110.

RSMS:4230 Musculoskeletal Sonography 3 s.h.
Anatomy, sonographic anatomy, pathophysiology, sonographic appearance, and Doppler correlation of disorders affecting the musculoskeletal system; associated clinical findings; techniques in sonographic imaging, analysis of findings, and documentation of pathology. Prerequisites: RSMS:4110. Recommendations: sonography students, sonographers, physicians, and other health professionals with foundational knowledge in sonographic imaging.

Magnetic Resonance Imaging Courses

RSMR:4110 Fundamentals for the MRI Technologist 3 s.h.
Caregiving skills specific to patients undergoing MRI examinations, including techniques in effectively communicating for safety and comfort; maintaining patient and personnel safety; patient preparation, monitoring, and venipuncture; technologist's role in a wide variety of MRI examinations and patient conditions. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/MRI track or ARRT primary certification in radiologic technology, nuclear medicine, sonography, or radiation therapy.

RSMR:4120 MRI Procedures I 4 s.h.
Imaging techniques related to central nervous and musculoskeletal systems; specific clinical applications; available coils and their use; considerations in imaging parameters; specific choices in protocols and positioning criteria; anatomical structures and the plane that best demonstrates anatomy; signal characteristics of normal and abnormal structures; information on common pathological conditions found in MRI images and protocol appearance variations. Prerequisites: RSCT:4100 and RSMR:4110. Requirements: concurrent registration in RSMR:4110, if not taken as a prerequisite; or three months MRI experience.

RSMR:4130 MRI Procedures II 4 s.h.
MRI techniques related to neck, thorax, breast, abdomen, and pelvis; specific clinical applications; available coils and their use; considerations in imaging parameters; specific choices in protocols and positioning criteria; information on common pathological conditions found in MRI images and protocol appearance variations. Prerequisites: RSMR:4120.

RSMR:4140 MRI Acquisition and Principles I 3 s.h.
Physics and hardware used in obtaining a magnetic resonance signal, including magnetism, NMR signal production, tissue characteristics, spatial localization, pulse sequencing, imaging parameters and options, and special applications; exploration of skills useful in maximizing MR image quality. Prerequisites: RSMR:4110. Requirements: concurrent registration in RSMR:4110, if not taken as a prerequisite; or three months MRI experience.

RSMR:4150 MRI Acquisition and Principles II 3 s.h.
Advanced MRI techniques; MR angiography and further investigation of fast image acquisition sequences; overview of MR magnets, installation, operation, and facility design; computers and digital image acquisition as they apply to MR; outline of quality assurance procedures. Prerequisites: RSMR:4140.

RSMR:4160 MRI Clinical Internship I 2 s.h.
Application of magnetic resonance imaging skills in health care setting; development of competency in high-level procedures and protocols. Prerequisites: RSRT:3225. Corequisites: RSMR:4110, if not taken as a prerequisite. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/MRI track.

RSMR:4170 MRI Clinical Internship II 4 s.h.
MRI clinical internship scheduled at University of Iowa Health Care; rotation through each MRI department scanning room; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical preceptor facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by MRI technologists, radiologists, residents, and preceptor; participation in routine and advanced MRI scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as student gains experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSMR:4160. Corequisites: RSMR:4140, if not taken as a prerequisite. Requirements: acceptance to BS radiation sciences RT/MRI track.

RSMR:4175 MRI Clinical Internship III 4 s.h.
Rotation through MRI department scanning rooms at University of Iowa Health Care; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical preceptor facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by MRI technologists, radiologists, residents, and preceptor; participation in routine and advanced MRI scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSMR:4170.

RSMR:4308 Magnetic Resonance Imaging Practicum 1-6 s.h.
Rotation through MRI department scanning rooms at University of Iowa Health Care; competency and objective-based education with required clinical performance evaluations; clinical preceptor facilitates schedules, rotations, learning objectives, evaluations, and competencies; experience facilitated by MRI technologists, radiologists, residents, and preceptor; participation in routine and advanced MRI scans; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Requirements: admission to Radiation Sciences RT to BS online track.

Radiation Sciences Courses

RSP:1100 Introduction to the Radiation Sciences 1 s.h.
Exploration of radiation sciences field (radiologic technology, nuclear medicine and PET, diagnostic medical sonography, radiation therapy, computed tomography, magnetic resonance imaging, cardiovascular interventional); introduction to basic principles and modalities associated with the field in preparation for application to radiation sciences or nuclear medicine technology major.

RSP:2110 Pathology for Radiation Sciences 2 s.h.
Broad overview of common human diseases for the radiation sciences professional. Emphasis on disease prevalence, morbidity and mortality, risk factors, diagnosis, treatment, and prevention strategies. Fundamental vocabulary and concepts, basic disease processes, and the role of medical imaging and therapy in the diagnosis and treatment of disease are explored.

RSP:2120 Patient Care for the Radiation Sciences 3 s.h.
Foundation for providing care to clients during radiographic examinations; taking medical histories, basic life support, medical emergencies, vital sign assessment, body mechanics, infection control, sterile techniques, intravenous equipment, administration; advance concepts in client assessment and monitoring, including evaluation and monitoring of clients in pain, and clients in acute and chronic states of illness; communication techniques, role playing. Requirements: acceptance to radiation science degree track.

RSP:3130 Introduction to Radiation Safety and Radiobiology 1 s.h.
Instruction on safe operation of radiation producing equipment and handling of radioactive materials; origin and/or derivation of certain formulae and techniques useful in radiation protection programs; regulatory agencies, regulations, and regulatory guides pertinent to student's field; emphasis on applied aspects of radiation protection; characteristics and biological effects of ionizing radiations, properties and uses of radioisotopes, medical applications, and biological basis for protection procedures. Requirements: enrollment in radiation sciences or nuclear medicine technology program. Same as FRRB:3130.

RSP:3210 Medical Ethics and Law 2 s.h.
Introduction to ethical reasoning and problem solving; integration of knowledge about patient care and ethical/legal issues which occur in process of providing care; ethical principles of autonomy, beneficence, justice, nonmaleficence, paternalism, Patient's Bill of Rights, resolving moral dilemmas; legal principles of malpractice, intentional torts, negligence. Requirements: radiation science or nuclear medicine technology major.

RSP:3220 Radiation Sciences Quality Management and Health Care Administration 2 s.h.
Introduction to quality management and health care administration topics relevant for the radiation sciences professional. Students are introduced to quality improvement tools, methodologies utilized in healthcare projects, health care economics, coding, and reimbursement. Students learn how medical informatics and artificial intelligence impact the field of medical imaging and therapy.

RSP:4110 Research Methodology for Radiation Sciences 3 s.h.
Introduction to research concepts and methods for the radiation science professional. Requirements: radiation sciences or nuclear medicine technology major.

Radiation Therapy Courses

RSTH:3100 Introduction to Radiation Therapy 2 s.h.
Introduction to cancer as a disease; defining methods to treat cancer with emphasis on radiation therapy; simulation, planning, and treatment delivery of radiation therapy. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:3101 Introduction to Radiation Therapy Lab 1 s.h.
Provides students with the fundamental concepts and techniques used in radiation therapy. Students will gain knowledge and hands-on experience with radiation therapy equipment and procedures, learning how to safely and effectively deliver radiation treatments. Key topics include patient safety and communication, treatment room orientation, patient positioning, imaging, workflow, and radiation safety.

RSTH:3110 Medical Physics I 1-3 s.h.
Introduction to radiation used in clinical setting; fundamental physical units, measurements, principles, atomic structure and types of radiation; X-ray generating equipment, X-ray production, and its interaction with matter. Requirements: admission to free radical and radiation biology program or acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program, and maxillofacial or radiation oncology resident. Same as FRRB:3110.

RSTH:3120 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship I 3 s.h.
Student rotations through different radiation therapy related areas; assist, practice, and test radiation therapy principles learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:3132 Radiobiology in Radiation Therapy 1 s.h.
Continuation of RSP:3130; geared towards students enrolled in the radiation therapy program.

RSTH:3205 Principles of Radiation Therapy I 3 s.h.
Didactic and laboratory work in principles of radiation therapy; historic and current aspects of cancer treatment; role of radiation therapist; patient care, treatment delivery accessories, tumor localization treatment delivery protocols. Prerequisites: RSTH:3100. Requirements: enrollment in radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:3206 Principles of Radiation Therapy I Lab 1 s.h.
Provides students with the fundamental knowledge and techniques used in radiation therapy. Students gain hands-on experience with radiation therapy equipment and treatment procedures, learning how to safely and effectively deliver radiation treatments covered in the didactic portion of the course. Additionally, students learn about topics related to radiation physics, treatment planning, patient positioning, special procedures, patient education, and chart checks. Prerequisites: RSTH:3100.

RSTH:3215 Medical Physics II 0-3 s.h.
Treatment units used in external radiation therapy; beam calculations, isodose distributions, brachytherapy, quality assurance and quality management, protection and safety. Prerequisites: RSTH:3110. Requirements: admission to free radical and radiation biology program or acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program. Same as FRRB:3215.

RSTH:3225 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship II 3 s.h.
Student rotations through different radiation therapy related areas; assist, practice, and test radiation therapy principles learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSTH:3120. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:3325 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship III 4 s.h.
Student rotations through different radiation therapy related areas; assist, practice, and test radiation therapy principles learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSTH:3225. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:4105 Principles of Radiation Therapy II 2 s.h.
Evaluation and management of neoplastic disease using knowledge in arts and sciences; critical thinking and basis of ethical clinical decision-making; epidemiology, etiology, detection, diagnosis, patient condition, treatment and prognosis of neoplastic disease. Prerequisites: RSTH:3205. Requirements: enrollment in radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:4125 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship IV 4 s.h.
Student rotations through different radiation therapy related areas; assist, practice, and test radiation therapy principles learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSTH:3325. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:4225 Radiation Therapy Clinical Internship V 5 s.h.
Student rotations through different radiation therapy related areas; assist, practice, and test radiation therapy principles learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSTH:4125. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

RSTH:4230 Radiation Therapy Capstone 3 s.h.
Professional development; review of concepts. Prerequisites: RSTH:4105. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences therapy program.

Radiologic Technology Courses

RSRT:2120 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship I 1 s.h.
Student rotations through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Requirements: acceptance to radiation sciences RT/CT, CVI, or MRI degree track.

RSRT:2130 Radiographic Procedures I 2 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic positioning principles; technical and positioning information needed to perform radiographic imaging of chest and abdomen on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions. Corequisites: RSRT:2140 and RSRT:2141.

RSRT:2140 Radiographic Analysis I 1 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic analysis principles; technical, positioning, and analysis information needed to evaluate images of chest and abdomen on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions. Corequisites: RSRT:2130 and RSRT:2141.

RSRT:2141 Radiographic Procedures and Analysis I Lab 1 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic procedures and analysis principles; technical, positioning, and analysis information needed to evaluate images of the chest and abdomen on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions; lab bridges didactic and clinical learning. Corequisites: RSRT:2130 and RSRT:2140.

RSRT:2225 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship II 3 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:2120.

RSRT:2230 Radiographic Procedures II 3 s.h.
Technical and radiographic positioning information needed to perform images of upper and lower extremity; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions. Prerequisites: RSRT:2130.

RSRT:2240 Radiographic Analysis II 2 s.h.
Radiographic procedure and image analysis information needed to evaluate images of upper and lower extremity and shoulder; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions; labs. Prerequisites: RSRT:2140.

RSRT:2241 Radiographic Procedures and Analysis II Lab 1 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic procedures and analysis principles; technical, positioning, and analysis information needed to evaluate images of upper and lower extremity and skull on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions; lab bridges didactic and clinical learning. Corequisites: RSRT:2230 and RSRT:2240.

RSRT:2250 Radiographic Fluoroscopic Procedures 2 s.h.
Technical, radiographic positioning, and analysis information needed to perform radiographic procedures that utilize fluoroscopy; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions. Prerequisites: RSRT:2130 and RSRT:2140.

RSRT:2251 Radiographic Fluoroscopic Procedures Lab 1 s.h.
Introduction to technical, radiographic positioning, and analysis information needed to perform radiographic procedures that utilize fluoroscopy; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions; lab bridges didactic and clinical learning. Corequisites: RSRT:2250.

RSRT:2325 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship III 3 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:2225.

RSRT:3110 Radiographic Analysis III 1 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic analysis principles; technical, positioning, and analysis information needed to evaluate images of hip, pelvis, spine, thorax, and skull on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions. Corequisites: RSRT:3111 and RSRT:3120.

RSRT:3111 Radiographic Procedures and Analysis III Lab 1 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic procedures and analysis principles; technical, positioning, and analysis information needed to evaluate images of hip, pelvis, spine, thorax, and skull on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions; lab bridges didactic and clinical learning. Corequisites: RSRT:3110 and RSRT:3120.

RSRT:3120 Radiographic Procedures III 2 s.h.
Introduction to radiographic positioning principles; technical and positioning information needed to perform radiographic imaging of hip, pelvis, spine, thorax, and skull on adult and pediatric patients; emphasis on quality patient care and adaptation to a variety of client conditions. Prerequisites: RSRT:2230 and RSRT:2240. Corequisites: RSRT:3110 and RSRT:3111.

RSRT:3125 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship IV 4 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:2325.

RSRT:3132 Radiation Safety in Radiologic Technology 1 s.h.
Continuation of RSP:3130; geared towards students enrolled in the radiologic technology program.

RSRT:3140 Radiographic and Digital Imaging 3 s.h.
Factors that govern and influence production of radiographic image; X-ray and scatter production; patient interactions; function of kVp, mAs, and distance as applied to contrast and spatial resolution; practical issues concerning automatic exposure control and grid usage.

RSRT:3141 Radiographic and Digital Imaging Lab 1 s.h.
Introduction to factors that govern and influence production of radiographic image; X-ray and scatter production; patient interactions; function of kilovoltage peak (kVp), milli-ampere-second (mAs), and distance as applied to contrast and spatial resolution; practical issues concerning automatic exposure control and grid usage; labs for practice and application of theoretical principles associated with production of quality images. Corequisites: RSRT:3140.

RSRT:3220 Emotional Intelligence for the Health Care Professional 2 s.h.
Introduction to emotional intelligence; scientific background for why emotional intelligence exists and exploring its applications to the health care setting; connection of emotional intelligence to interactions that occur between health care professional and their patients, patient families, and coworkers.

RSRT:3225 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship V 3 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:3125.

RSRT:3230 Radiographic Physics and Imaging Equipment 3 s.h.
Characteristics of atomic structure, electricity, and X-ray machines; properties of X-rays and their interaction with matter; measurement of radiation exposure; construction principles and theories of operation of specialized imaging equipment, including fundamentals of acquisition for imaging intensification, geometric tomography, mobile/portable radiography, and magnification principles.

RSRT:3231 Radiographic Physics and Imaging Equipment Lab 1 s.h.
Introduction to characteristics of atomic structure, electricity, and X-ray machines; properties of X-rays and their interaction with matter; measurement of radiation exposure; construction principles and theories of operation of specialized imaging equipment including fundamentals of acquisition for imaging intensification, geometric tomography, mobile/portable radiography, and magnification principles; labs for practice and application of theoretical principles. Corequisites: RSRT:3230.

RSRT:3325 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship VI 2 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:3225.

RSRT:4125 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship VII 1 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:3325.

RSRT:4225 Radiologic Technology Clinical Internship VIII 1 s.h.
Student rotation through different radiography-related areas of University of Iowa Health Care; assist, practice, and test radiographic examinations learned in didactic setting; skill building for care and management of patients; conduction of performance assessments and completion of guideline objectives for each rotation; performance expectations become progressively higher as students gain experience and skills. Prerequisites: RSRT:4125.

RSRT:4230 Radiologic Technology Capstone and Certification Exam Preparation 2 s.h.
Certification exam preparation; preparation and distribution of detailed written outlines of exam content; series of content-specific quizzes, midterm, and final "mock board" exam to evaluate student learning and preparedness for taking the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists (ARRT) national certification exams; professional preparation; for students in final semester of program. Requirements: enrollment in radiation sciences RT/BI, CT, CVI, or MRI program.

Radiation Sciences, BS

The Radiation Sciences Program offers two paths toward completing the major:

- an on-campus program in radiologic technology, diagnostic medical sonography, or radiation therapy for students who have not completed a radiation sciences modality; or
- an online program for registered radiologic technologists and nuclear medicine technologists who would like to earn a Bachelor of Science degree by distance education.

Undergraduate study in radiation sciences is guided by the academic rules and procedures outlined under Undergraduate Rules and Procedures [p. 1844] in the Carver College of Medicine section of the catalog.

Programs designed to lead to professional licensure are subject to federal regulations regarding informational disclosures. Please see Professional Licensure Disclosures by Program for further information.

Requirements

The Bachelor of Science with a major in radiation sciences requires a minimum of 120 s.h. Work for the on-campus degree includes a set of courses that are prerequisite to entering the radiation sciences major, completion of one of eight radiation sciences professional programs, and elective coursework sufficient to complete the minimum of 120 s.h. required for graduation. Students must complete the radiation sciences professional program at the University of Iowa. Registered radiologic technologists interested in earning the degree through distance education should see RT to BS (Online) [p. 1985] in this section of the catalog.

Admission to the radiation sciences major is competitive and selective; acceptance into a professional program or the major is not guaranteed. Students who wish to enter the major must first be admitted to the University of Iowa as College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS) students with a radiation sciences interest. As CLAS students, they must apply to the radiation sciences professional program of their choice by Jan. 15 of the year in which they wish to enter; see Apply on the Radiation Sciences Program website. Transfer students are encouraged to apply in early November to allow time for transfer course articulation. Accepted students enter a professional program, the radiation sciences major, and the Carver College of Medicine the following fall semester.

Applicants for admission to the University of Iowa whose first language is not English are strongly encouraged to complete the University of Iowa English Proficiency Evaluation and satisfy the university's English Proficiency Requirements before they apply to a professional program. Students must have permission to register for a full academic load before they may be admitted to a radiation sciences professional program.

The radiation sciences major requires students to complete a minimum of two years of a high school world language prior to admission.

For additional information on UI admission requirements, contact University of Iowa Admissions.

First-year and transfer applicants admitted to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as radiation sciences interest students must complete all courses that are prerequisites to the radiation sciences major (including approved transfer equivalents) by June 1 before they may begin one of the radiation sciences professional programs and enter the major. The only exception to this deadline is that the physics course required for the diagnostic medical sonography program may be completed in the summer session. Prerequisite courses vary slightly depending on which professional program a student wishes to enter.

Students who have declared a radiation sciences interest but have not yet applied and been accepted to a professional program are advised at the University of Iowa Academic Advising Center. After they have been accepted to a professional program, they are advised by the Radiation Sciences Office of Student Affairs.

Upon successful completion of the professional program, students are eligible to apply for national certification exams for their program's specialty area(s). Once they have completed the professional program and all other requirements for graduation, they are granted a Bachelor of Science degree.

The Bachelor of Science with a major in radiation sciences requires the following coursework.

Prerequisites to the Radiation Sciences Major

Students must complete the following prerequisite courses (28–33 s.h.) by the end of the spring semester before they enter the program and the major. Students may complete physics for the sonography program in the summer. Additionally, students must have earned an overall cumulative college grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.50, a UI GPA of at least 2.00, and a 2.00 term GPA in the spring/summer semesters immediately preceding the start of the professional program. Students who wish to enter either of the two-year professional programs (radiologic technology or radiation therapy) must complete a total of 60 s.h. of college coursework, including the following prerequisites, by the end of the spring semester before they enter the program and the major.

Students are advised for success based on academic strength, not necessarily for a four-year plan. Prerequisite courses for the three-year professional programs (multi-credentialed radiologic technology and diagnostic medical sonography) may take more than one year to complete. Prerequisite courses for the radiologic technology and radiation therapy professional programs may take more than two years to complete.

- Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts
- Values and Society

See GE CLAS Core [p. 22] (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences) in the catalog for approved courses in the areas listed.

Recommended Pre-Major Work

The Radiation Sciences Program recommends that before students submit an application to a radiation sciences professional program and the major, they job-shadow a professional who works in their area of interest and gain hands-on patient care experience. Each professional program lists recommended courses that may be completed in addition to the required courses.

Electives

In order to earn the minimum of 120 s.h. required for graduation, students may need to complete elective coursework in addition to the prerequisite coursework listed and one of the professional programs in medical imaging. They should plan their elective courses in consultation with their advisor.

Radiation Sciences Professional Programs

Students must complete one of the following on-campus radiation sciences professional programs at University of Iowa Health Care:

- radiologic technology [p. 1979];
- radiologic technology and breast imaging [p. 1979];
- radiologic technology and cardiovascular interventional [p. 1979];
- radiologic technology and computed tomography [p. 1979];
- radiologic technology and magnetic resonance imaging [p. 1979];
- diagnostic medical sonography and cardiac/vascular [p. 1977];
- diagnostic medical sonography and general/vascular [p. 1977]; or
- radiation therapy [p. 1984].

Each program offers modality-specific didactic and supervised clinical education courses. Graduates of the professional programs and associated internships are eligible to apply for one or more certification exams.

The diagnostic medical sonography programs span three years, the radiation therapy program spans two years, and the radiologic technology programs span two or three years. Each program begins in the fall.

Admission to all radiation sciences professional programs is competitive; each program accepts a limited number of students and acceptance is not guaranteed.

Students participating in clinical rotations at non-UI Health Care facilities as part of their professional program are required to meet the immunization and testing requirements of those facilities in addition to those required at UI Health Care locations.

Diagnostic Medical Sonography

A diagnostic medical sonographer is a skilled professional who uses high-frequency sound wave equipment to create diagnostic images and data that assist health care professionals in their diagnosis of patients with disease. Ultrasound imaging is used on many parts of the body, including the abdomen, heart, blood vessels, and the developing fetus of a pregnant person. When determining normal and abnormal findings, the sonographer must demonstrate sectional anatomy through transducer manipulation. The sonographer uses independent judgment in recognizing the need to extend the scope of the study according to the diagnostic findings. The sonographer spends extended time with the patient obtaining a thorough history of symptoms, explaining the exam, answering questions, and performing the exam.

Each of the radiation sciences diagnostic medical sonography (DMS) degree tracks consists of two professional programs —DMS and cardiac and vascular sonography or DMS and general and vascular sonography. Each of these three-year programs is selective and competitive; acceptance is not guaranteed. Students must satisfy all UI admission requirements, complete all prerequisites, and be accepted into the diagnostic medical sonography professional program following an application and selection process; see Diagnostic Medical Sonography on the Radiation Sciences Program website.

Diagnostic Medical Sonography and Cardiac and Vascular Sonography

The diagnostic medical sonography program in cardiac and vascular sonography provides a multispecialty education in cardiac (echocardiography) and vascular sonography (ultrasound imaging). Students learn about sonographic imaging and evaluation, hemodynamics and Doppler evaluation, sonography equipment, sectional anatomy, pathology, patient care, medical ethics, emotional intelligence, research methodologies, and quality management. They become proficient in using sonographic imaging equipment and in performing cardiac and vascular sonographic procedures, including invasive procedures, emergency exams, and 3D imaging. They also participate in supervised clinical education. An elective course and lab in pediatric cardiac sonography and an elective course in fetal cardiac sonography are available.

Upon completing the program, graduates are eligible to apply for the national certification exams in diagnostic medical sonography in the specialty areas of cardiac (echocardiography) and vascular technology.

Students who have completed all prerequisite courses by June 1 (except physics, which may be completed in the summer session) are eligible to apply to this three-year program. Application deadline is Jan. 15. Up to eight students are accepted into this track each year, which begins in the fall.

DMS and Cardiac and Vascular Sonography, Required Courses

Upon acceptance into the diagnostic medical sonography and cardiac and vascular professional program, students will complete required courses and internships during their second, third, and fourth years.

Diagnostic Medical Sonography and General and Vascular Sonography

The diagnostic medical sonography program in general and vascular sonography provides a multispecialty education in obstetrical, abdominal, and vascular sonography (ultrasound imaging). Students learn about sonographic imaging and evaluation, hemodynamics and Doppler evaluation, sonography equipment, sectional anatomy, pathology, patient care, medical ethics, emotional intelligence, research methodologies, and quality management. They become proficient in using sonographic imaging equipment and in performing obstetrical and gynecological, abdominal, and vascular sonographic procedures, including invasive procedures, emergency exams, pediatric sonography, and 3D imaging. They also participate in supervised clinical education. An elective course in breast sonography and fetal cardiac sonography is available.

Upon completing the program, graduates are eligible to apply for the national certification exams in diagnostic medical sonography in the specialty areas of obstetrics and gynecology, abdomen, and vascular technology.

Students who will have completed all prerequisite courses by June 1 (except physics, which may be completed in the summer session) are eligible to apply to this three-year program. Application deadline is Jan. 15. Up to 12 students are accepted into this track each year, which begins in the fall.

DMS and General and Vascular Sonography, Required Courses

Upon acceptance into the diagnostic medical sonography and general and vascular professional program, students will complete required courses and internships during their second, third, and fourth years.

Radiologic Technology

A radiologic technologist is a healthcare professional who specializes in the imaging of human anatomy for diagnosis and treatment. Radiographers prepare patients for the imaging exams, move patients into the correct position for their imaging, and operate specialized equipment. Radiographers work in many different settings including hospitals, medical labs, doctor offices, and outpatient centers. Areas of specialization include bone densitometry, cardiac interventional radiography (CI), computed tomography (CT), magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), mammography, radiography, and vascular interventional radiography (VI).

The radiation sciences radiologic technology degree tracks consist of five professional programs. Up to 25 students are accepted into the radiologic technology program each year.

- Radiologic Technology [p. 1980]
- Radiologic Technology and Breast Imaging [p. 1980]
- Radiologic Technology and Cardiovascular Interventional [p. 1981]
- Radiologic Technology and Computed Tomography [p. 1982]
- Radiologic Technology and Magnetic Resonance Imaging [p. 1983]

Each of these two- or three-year programs is selective and competitive; acceptance is not guaranteed. Students must satisfy all UI admission requirements, complete all prerequisites, and be accepted into a radiologic technology professional program following an application and selection process; see Radiologic Technology on the Radiation Sciences Program website.

Radiologic Technology

The radiologic technology (RT) program provides education in pathology, radiation biology, radiation protection, patient care, sectional anatomy, emotional intelligence, medical ethics, medical research, quality management, and health care administration. Students learn about radiographic procedures, imaging and evaluations, imaging equipment, quality assurance, and clinical education in radiography. Clinical education takes place in a variety of medical imaging sites and includes day, evening, and weekend obligations at clinical locations that are geographically dispersed.

Upon completion of the program, graduates are eligible to apply for the national certification exam in radiography.

Students who will have completed a total of 60 s.h., including prerequisite courses by June 1, are eligible to apply to this program. Students typically apply to this two-year program during their second year and begin in fall of their junior year. Application deadline is Jan. 15.

Radiologic Technology and Breast Imaging

Students participate in the radiologic technology curriculum as previously stated for the first two years.

The breast imaging (BI) component provides didactic education in patient care procedures, pathology, anatomy, imaging procedures and analysis, Mammography Quality Standards Act (MQSA) quality control, and image acquisition principles. Students become acquainted with imaging equipment, study quality assurance, and participate in supervised clinical education in radiography and breast imaging.

Upon completion of the program, graduates are eligible to apply for the national certification exams in radiography and mammography.

Students who will have completed all prerequisite courses by June 1 are eligible to apply to this program. Students typically apply to this three-year program during their first year and begin in the fall of their sophomore year. Application deadline is Jan. 15.

Radiologic Technology and Cardiovascular Interventional

Students participate in the radiologic technology curriculum as stated previously for the first two years.

The cardiovascular interventional (CVI) component provides didactic education in imaging equipment, pharmacology, sterile techniques, cardiac monitoring, vascular anatomy and physiology; cardiovascular, peripheral, and neurological procedures and pathology; therapeutic intervention techniques; and digital angiography. Students become acquainted with imaging equipment, study quality assurance, and participate in supervised clinical education in radiography, cardiac interventional, and peripheral and neurological interventional.

Upon completion of the program, graduates are eligible to apply for the national certification exams in radiography, vascular interventional technology, and cardiac interventional technology.

Students who will have completed all prerequisite courses by June 1 are eligible to apply to this program. Students typically apply to this three-year program during their first year and begin in fall of their sophomore year. Application deadline is Jan. 15.

Radiation Therapy

A radiation therapist is a healthcare professional specializing in the administration of radiation treatments to patients with cancer and certain benign conditions. As part of a multidisciplinary team, they work closely with radiation oncologists, medical physicists, dosimetrists, and oncology nurses.

A radiation therapist's primary duties include treatment delivery, patient care, equipment operation, and treatment planning.

Radiation therapists play a critical role in cancer care, combining technical expertise with patient-centered care to improve treatment outcomes. They typically work in hospitals, cancer treatment centers, and freestanding clinics. With additional education and experience, radiation therapists can advance to roles such as dosimetrists, educators, researchers, or leadership and administrative positions.

Admission to this two-year program is selective and competitive; acceptance is not guaranteed. Students must satisfy all UI admission requirements, complete all prerequisites, and be accepted into the radiation therapy professional program following an application and selection process. See the Radiation Sciences website for more information.

Radiation Therapy

The radiation therapy professional program teaches the theory and techniques of radiation therapy technology, with emphasis on competence in areas of oncology treatment planning, treatment delivery, dosimetry, and use of megavoltage radiation-producing equipment to administer treatment. Students participate in clinical education in radiation therapy. Radiation therapy students also complete coursework in sectional anatomy, computed tomography (CT) procedures and physics, and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) fundamentals.

Upon completing the program, graduates are eligible to apply for the national certification exam in radiation therapy. Students will have also completed didactic coursework for the national certification exam in CT and MRI, but not the clinical component.

Students who have completed a total of 60 s.h., including prerequisite courses by June 1, are eligible to apply to this program. Students typically apply to this two-year program during their second year and begin it in the fall of their junior year. The application deadline is Jan. 15.

The radiation therapy program accepts up to ten students each year into one of the two track options. Students in both tracks attend didactic classes on campus in Iowa City during their junior year and online during their senior year.

Upon acceptance into the radiation therapy professional program, students will complete required courses and internships during their third and fourth years.

RT to BS (Online)

The RT to BS is an online program designed for registered radiologic technologists and nuclear medicine technologists who wish to earn a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in radiation sciences by distance education. The program requires a minimum of 120 s.h. Students who successfully complete a radiologic technology (RT) or a nuclear medicine technology (NMT) program and pass the board certification exam are awarded 60 s.h. of credit. They are also awarded credit for equivalent coursework that is prerequisite to entering the major. Upon admission to the major, students complete a second modality online, with or without a practicum.

Students choose coursework in any of the five online modalities: breast imaging (BI), cardiovascular interventional (CVI), computed tomography (CT), or magnetic resonance imaging (MRI). This program of study does not require a practicum. However, practicum opportunities at University of Iowa Health Care may be available for application. Acceptance into a practicum is not guaranteed. For more information, visit the Radiation Sciences website.

In order to be admitted to the radiation sciences major, students must pass the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists (ARRT) radiography (R), ARRT nuclear medicine technology (N), or Nuclear Medicine Technology Certification Board (NMTCB) exam. They must also have completed all coursework prerequisite to entering the major with a grade-point average of at least 2.50, not including RT or NMT program courses. Students may count approved transfer credit toward the required prerequisites; learn more by visiting Transfer Courses on MyUI.

Applicants for admission to the University of Iowa whose first language is not English are strongly encouraged to complete the university's English Proficiency Evaluation and satisfy the university's English Proficiency Requirements.

The radiation sciences major requires students to complete a minimum of two years of a high school world language prior to admission.

For additional information on UI admission requirements, contact the University of Iowa Admissions.

Prerequisites to the Radiation Sciences Major

In addition to the completion of an RT or NMT program, students must complete the following prerequisite courses (25–29 s.h.) before they may enter the radiation sciences major.

PSY:1001	Elementary Psychology	3

Medical Terminology

Course #	Title	Hours
CLSA:3750	Medical and Technical Terminology	2

Culture, Society, and the Arts

Two courses for 3 s.h. each in two of these areas.

- Understanding Cultural Perspectives
- Historical Perspectives
- International and Global Issues
- Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts
- Values and Society

See GE CLAS Core [p. 22] (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences) in the catalog for approved courses in the areas listed.

Once students are admitted to the Carver College of Medicine and the radiation sciences major, they must at least complete their final consecutive 30 s.h. at the University of Iowa, including the online modality courses and practicum (optional).

Second Modality

Students complete the following with a C or above.

Core Courses

Course #	Title	Hours
Both of these:
RSCI:4110	Vascular Anatomy	3
RSCT:4100	Sectional Anatomy for Imaging Sciences	3

Modality Courses

Course #	Title	Hours
24 s.h. from these:
RSBI:3310	Patient Care for Breast Imaging	3
RSBI:4110	Breast Imaging Procedures and Analysis	3
RSBI:4120	Anatomy and Pathology for Breast Imaging	2
RSBI:4130	Breast Imaging Acquisitions and Principles	2
RSBI:4210	Breast Imaging Advanced Procedures and Analysis	3
RSBI:4220	Quality Control in Breast Imaging	3
RSBI:4308	Breast Imaging Practicum	1-6
RSCI:4120	CVI Principles	4
RSCI:4130	Electrocardiogram and Hemodynamics	3
RSCI:4140	CVI Peripheral Procedures and Pathology	3
RSCI:4150	CVI Neurology and Nonvascular Procedures and Pathology	3
RSCI:4160	CVI Cardiac Procedures and Pathology	4
RSCI:4308	Cardiovascular Interventional Practicum	1-6
RSCT:4120	Computed Tomography Procedures I	4
RSCT:4125	Computed Tomography Procedures II	4
RSCT:4130	Computed Tomography Physical Principles and QC	4
RSCT:4308	Computed Tomography Practicum	1-6
RSMR:4110	Fundamentals for the MRI Technologist	3
RSMR:4120	MRI Procedures I	4
RSMR:4130	MRI Procedures II	4
RSMR:4140	MRI Acquisition and Principles I	3

RSMR:4150	MRI Acquisition and Principles II	3
RSMR:4308	Magnetic Resonance Imaging Practicum	1-6

A practicum is not required. Acceptance into a practicum is not guaranteed

Students may apply up to two of the following multidisciplinary courses toward the modality courses requirement.

Course #	Title	Hours
Up to two of these:
ASP:1800	Aging Matters: Introduction to Gerontology	3
ASP:3150	Psychology of Aging	3
CPH:1400	Fundamentals of Public Health	3
CSED:4111	Building Leadership and Success at Work	3
CSED:4140	Foundations of Leadership for Community Agencies	3
CSED:4175	Motivational Interviewing	3
CSED:4194	Interpersonal Effectiveness	3
CSED:4197	Citizenship in a Multicultural Society	3
ECON:1200	Principles of Macroeconomics	4
GHS:3850	Promoting Health Globally	3
HHP:2130	Human Development Through the Life Span	3
MGMT:2100	Introduction to Management	3
MGMT:3500	Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness I	3
PSQF:1075	Educational Psychology and Measurement	3
PSQF:2700	Introduction to Understanding Trauma and Resilience	3
RHET:2135	Decoding Disability: Rhetoric of Access and Accommodations	3
SOC:3510	Medical Sociology	3
SOC:4225	The Social Psychology of Leadership	3
STAT:1020	Elementary Statistics and Inference	3

Electives

Students choose elective coursework to complete the minimum 120 s.h. required and the final consecutive 30 s.h. necessary to qualify for graduation.

Career Advancement

The majority of radiation sciences graduates are employed upon graduation. Graduates generally find jobs in hospitals, clinics, imaging centers, and physicians' offices. With experience, and sometimes additional education, they may find related jobs in management, sales, education, or as application specialists. Some students choose to continue their education in a master's, physician assistant, or other related medical program.

Most radiation sciences professionals with full-time jobs work 40 hours a week and may have holiday, weekend, evening, night, and on-call hours.

Students who complete Iowa's professional radiation sciences programs are eligible to apply for national certification exams administered by the appropriate agency in order to practice.

Licensure laws for radiographers, sonographers, and radiation therapists vary from state to state. Iowa is a licensing state, requiring radiographers and radiation therapists to have a permit to practice. Passing the national exam is a criterion used to issue a permit to practice.

More information on radiation sciences careers and outcomes may be found on the Radiation Sciences Program website. The Pomerantz Career Center offers multiple resources to help students find jobs.

Academic Plans

Sample Plans of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

a The Academic Advising Center advises Radiation Sciences Interest students on prerequisite course planning. Students are advised for success, based on academic strength, not necessarily for a four year plan. Prerequisites may take more than one year to complete.

b BIOL:1140 or HHP:1400 is recommended not required. Most students will need to complete BIOL:1140 or HHP:1400 prior to Human Anatomy (based on academic strength).

c Enrollment in math courses requires completion of a placement exam.

d This course is recommended not required.

e Students must complete 6 s.h. by taking 3 s.h. courses from two of the following areas: Historical Perspectives, International and Global Issues, Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts, Understanding Cultural Perspectives, or Values and Society.

f Please see the Radiation Sciences Programs website and your academic advisor for detailed application instructions and deadlines.

g If not previously completed.

Radiology

Chair

- Bruno A. Policeni

Faculty: https://medicine.uiowa.edu/radiology/our-people

Website: https://medicine.uiowa.edu/radiology/

The Department of Radiology has a three-fold mission of education, research, and patient care. It trains Doctor of Medicine students, residents, and fellows and offers programs for medical professionals. It is a leader in innovative research relating to diagnosis and treatment across the clinical subspecialties, including MRI, PET, breast imaging, cardiac and pulmonary imaging, and imaging informatics. Residents, fellows, medical students, and graduate students have opportunities to participate in research projects in the department. The radiology library provides varied resources and services for department faculty and staff.

The department also provides diagnostic and therapeutic radiology services for patients and families in Iowa and surrounding states through its clinical services at University of Iowa Health Care. Visit the Department of Radiology website to learn more about the department's activities and resources.

Undergraduate Education

The Department of Radiology offers clinical education to students in the Nuclear Medicine Technology [p. 1923] and Radiation Sciences [p. 1966] programs.

MD Training

The Department of Radiology offers a clerkship for Doctor of Medicine students and provides additional courses, research experiences, and externships for students interested in learning more about radiology. Several of the department's programs are open to medical students from other institutions. See Medical Student Training and Externship Program on the Department of Radiology website.

Residency

The department offers three residency programs in diagnostic radiology, interventional radiology, and nuclear medicine; see Education on the Department of Radiology website.

Fellowships are available in these specialties: body imaging, breast imaging, endovascular surgical neuroradiology, interventional radiology, musculoskeletal radiology, neuroradiology, pediatric radiology, molecular imaging, theranostics, and cardiothoracic imaging. Practicing radiologists have access to several departmental traineeships that provide category 1 continuing medical education credit through the Carver College of Medicine.

Courses

Radiology Courses

RAD:8007 Medical Student Fellowships in Radiology (Externships) 0 s.h.
Students work directly with on-call radiology residents; respond to pages, communication with clinicians and consults, facilitate communication with technologists; involves a large amount of medical thinking with emphasis on indications for diagnostic imaging, study protocols, and contrast utilization. Requirements: MD standing in radiology externship.

RAD:8301 Clinical Radiology 2 s.h.
Two-week clerkship. Requirements: MD enrollment.

RAD:8401 Advanced Clinical Radiology arr.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

RAD:8402 Vascular and Interventional Radiology arr.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

RAD:8497 Research in Radiology arr.
Medical research, clinical or laboratory projects; individual study.

RAD:8498 Radiology On Campus arr.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

RAD:8499 Radiology Off Campus arr.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

Stead Family Department of Pediatrics

Chair

- Alexander G. Bassuk

Website: https://pediatrics.medicine.uiowa.edu/

The Stead Family Department of Pediatrics provides a solid foundation for MD students and postgraduate trainees. It offers extensive opportunities for general pediatrics and subspecialties training.

Affiliated programs add depth to the educational program in community pediatrics and primary care. The department is affiliated with the child and maternal health programs of the Bureau of Family Health, Iowa Department of Public Health, University of Iowa Stead Family Children's Hospital, the Center for Disabilities and Development, the Blank Children's Hospital in Des Moines, and community sites.

MD Training

Didactic lectures and physical examinations of newborns, toddlers, and older children provide MD students with their initial pediatric patient contact. This experience includes taking a history, performing a physical examination, appraisal of growth and development, nutrition, and symptomatology of newborns, toddlers, and adolescents.

For core and advanced medical students, the inpatient service provides training in the complex problems of disease and critical illness. Students participate in daily rounds involving general pediatrics and all subspecialties. Challenging and interesting cases are presented for discussion of diagnosis and treatment.

Outpatient experience, available in the core clerkship and advanced electives, stresses principles and practices required for the maintenance of children's health, treatment of common general pediatric disorders, and the diagnosis and treatment of subspecialty ambulatory patients.

Residency and Fellowships

The department offers an accredited three-year residency program designed to prepare trainees for professional careers in general pediatrics or further fellowship training. The program meets the eligibility requirements of the American Board of Pediatrics (ABP) and is approved for 15 residents and one child neurology resident per year by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME).

Fellowships are available in multiple pediatrics subspecialties. Fellowship programs encourage the development of knowledge and skills through research and clinical experiences in the chosen discipline. Upon satisfactory completion of the program, fellows meet the ABP eligibility requirements in their subspecialty.

Facilities

The Stead Family Department of Pediatrics has inpatient and outpatient facilities at the University of Iowa Stead Family Children's Hospital. Additional outpatient facilities are located at Iowa River Landing in Coralville, UI Heath Care—North Liberty, UI Health Care—Scott Boulevard, and Cedar Rapids Pediatrics.

The pediatric inpatient service has approximately 189 beds and more than 60,000 patients are seen each year in the general, specialty, continuity care, and field clinics and in University of Iowa Health Care Emergency Medicine. The Center for Disabilities and Development provides resources for children with intellectual or developmental disabilities and cerebral palsy.

The department maintains a number of laboratories that perform both clinical and research studies.

Courses

Pediatrics (Stead Family Department of Pediatrics) Courses

PEDS:6101 Primary Care: Infants, Children, and Adolescents II 3 s.h.
Enhancement of clinical knowledge and skills for infant, child, adolescent care; development and refinement of knowledge and skills in primary health care delivery. Prerequisites: NURS:6100. Corequisites: NURS:6702. Same as NURS:6101.

PEDS:7264 Clinical Applications of Applied Behavior Analysis 1-3 s.h.
Experience behavioral observations, consultation, and/or conducting behavioral assessments (including preference assessments and functional analyses), matched treatments; interviews with care providers, collect behavioral data, conduct behavioral assessments, matched treatments; follow-up with care providers.

PEDS:8301 Clinical Pediatrics 6 s.h.
Principles, practices of health maintenance and treatment of acute and chronic illnesses in children; emphasis on diagnosis and evaluation, nutrition, behavior problems, disorders affecting children; patient care, daily rounds, ward work. Requirements: third-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8401 Advanced Inpatient Subinternship in Pediatric Care arr.
Experience on pediatric inpatient team caring for patients ranging from infants through adolescents; evaluation, formulation of differential diagnoses, diagnostic workups, appropriate therapy programs. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8402 Advanced Inpatient Subinternship in Pediatrics: Blank Children's Hospital, Des Moines arr.
Experience in the care of general pediatric inpatients; daily rounds and teaching by senior residents and faculty members; daily didactic conferences. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8403 Neonatology (NICU) arr.
Experience caring for ill neonates, proficiency in using diagnostic tests and procedures; responsibility for care of several infants; reference and literature review, conferences, teaching, clinical rounds. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8404 Critical Care (PICU) 4 s.h.
Direct care of critically ill children in a multidisciplinary medical/surgical/cardiac intensive care unit, under supervision of pediatric residents and staff; participation in educational activities and formal clinical rounds. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8405 Emergency Room Blank Children's Hospital, Des Moines arr.
Pediatric emergencies and urgent care, proficiency in pediatric medicine procedures; expansion of basic knowledge. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8406 Pediatric Pulmonary 4 s.h.
Extensive opportunity to learn clinical assessment of respiratory diseases and complaints including physical exam, history taking, and interpretation of ancillary study (e.g., lung functions, allergy testing, blood gases); diagnosis, management, and follow-up for common chronic respiratory conditions in pediatric population. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8407 Pediatric Cardiology arr.
Participation in clinical activities; observation of cardiac catheterization; experience in cardiac auscultation, ECG, radiography; emphasis on physical diagnosis, approach to heart disease and murmurs in children. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8408 Pediatric Gastroenterology arr.
Diagnosis, management, treatment of diseases of gastrointestinal tract, liver, pancreas in children; ward rounds, consultations, clinics, diagnostic procedures, conferences. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8409 Pediatric Hematology/Oncology arr.
Basic concepts of clinical approach to hematologic and oncologic problems in children and adolescents; primarily outpatient experience. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8410 Pediatric Neurology arr.
Participation in outpatient and inpatient activities, teaching, morning ward rounds. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8412 Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics 2,4 s.h.
Normal developmental sequence of gestation and early childhood, impact of environmental influences; antecedents of developmental disabilities; methods to detect cognitive and motor delays in preschool children; long-term consequences of developmental disabilities for children, their families; advantages of interdisciplinary teamwork. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8415 Medical Genetics for the Senior Student arr.
Participation in diagnostic, therapeutic problems; techniques for evaluation, appropriate counseling in genetic cases; conferences. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8416 Neonatal Intensive Care Unit, Blank Children's Hospital 4 s.h.
Experience equivalent to intern on neonatal intensive care unit teaching service at Blank Children's Hospital, Des Moines; four-week rotation.

PEDS:8417 Community Pediatric Outpatient Elective 2 s.h.
Opportunity to participate as active members of a community-based general pediatric office; work directly with community-based faculty and non-physician team members; build on clinical skills developed in M3 pediatric clerkship. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PEDS:8418 Pediatric Intensive Care Unit, Blank Children's Hospital 4 s.h.
Development of knowledge and clinical skills in recognition of critical illness in children; basic strategies of initial resuscitation and management.

PEDS:8419 Pediatric Rheumatology, Allergy, and Immunology 4 s.h.
Introduction to fields of rheumatology and allergy/immunology; utilization of self-reflection to guide self-directed learning; identification of knowledge and performance gaps and address those gaps; demonstration of ability to use evidence-based medicine in production of an evidence-based project; understand how socioeconomic factors affect patient populations through observed patient interactions. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PEDS:8420 Pediatric Palliative Care 2,4 s.h.
Palliative medicine as a specialty which enhances quality of life, reduces suffering for patients with serious illnesses, and provides education and support for their families; interdisciplinary consult teamwork with patient's primary medical providers for inpatient or outpatient management of symptoms, goal setting, and decision-making; introduction to pediatric palliative care with option to be involved in adult palliative care and local hospice services. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PEDS:8421 Pediatric Endocrinology 2,4 s.h.
Diagnosis, management, and treatment of pediatric endocrine diseases: growth disorders (short stature, tall stature, delayed puberty, precocious puberty), thyroid disorders (hypothyroidism, hyperthyroidism, thyroid nodules), diabetes mellitus, diabetes insipidus, dysgenetic syndromes, ambiguous genitalia, adrenal insufficiency or adrenal steroid excess, and hypopituitarism. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PEDS:8431 Pediatric Nephrology 2,4 s.h.
Introduction to general pediatric nephrology cases and management. Requirements: MD enrollment.

PEDS:8450 Continuity of Care in Outpatient General Pediatrics 4 s.h.
Work with experienced general pediatrician in a longitudinal clinical experience for the academic year; paired with faculty pediatrician to see patients in a weekly clinic, provide clinical care to a defined patient population; growth and development, health supervision, and management of common acute and chronic clinical problems. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8495 Pediatric Intensive Care Off Campus arr.
Arranged by student and department. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8497 Research in Pediatrics arr.
Medical research, clinical or laboratory projects; individual study.

PEDS:8498 Pediatrics On Campus arr.
Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

PEDS:8499 Pediatrics Off Campus arr.
Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

Surgery

Chair

- Ronald Weigel

Faculty: https://surgery.medicine.uiowa.edu/our-people

Website: https://surgery.medicine.uiowa.edu/

The Department of Surgery offers didactic instruction as well as clinical and other practical experiences for medical students. It also hosts a wide spectrum of clinical and scientific research.

Faculty

The faculty's strengths center on pathophysiology and problems of severe burns, trauma, organ transplantation, surgical control of morbid obesity, surgical oncology, bowel disease, biliary tract disease, pediatric surgery, endocrine disease, plastic surgery, diseases of the esophagus, artificial organs, transplantation, and vascular surgery. Research also is underway in the sequence of mutations and in the localization of genes predisposed to cancer.

MD Training

Department of Surgery courses provide a unique combination of experiences oriented toward patient care and understanding of surgery's place among a physician's skills. Surgery courses are open only to MD students and qualified students in associated health sciences.

Students develop an awareness of surgery's role in the treatment of disease. Emphasis is placed on general surgery, basic emergency surgery, trauma, oncology, burns, gastrointestinal and biliary tract disease, endocrine disease, pediatric surgery, transplantation, plastic and reconstructive surgery, and peripheral vascular surgery.

The majority of surgery courses involve patient-centered discussions and practical exercises interwoven with operating room experience. Lectures and conferences are scheduled regularly on specific topics.

The department offers independent study courses in selected surgery topics and clinical experiences; some are available to fourth-year MD students by arrangement with the faculty.

Facilities

Abundant patient contact provides education on a wide variety of surgical diseases. The Department of Surgery provides training in the only burn unit in Iowa approved by the American College of Surgeons and in the Level I Trauma Center at University of Iowa Health Care.

Laboratories provide equipment, space, and technical expertise to support teaching and a wide spectrum of clinical and scientific research. Projects are available in gastrointestinal surgery, surgical microbiology, peripheral vascular surgery, transplantation, wound healing, organ preservation, vascular surgery, pediatric surgery, and surgical oncology.

The laboratories are also used for supervised teaching exercises in surgical techniques for medical students and junior residents and for the refinement of techniques for senior residents and faculty members.

Courses

Surgery Courses

SURG:8301 Clinical Surgery 6 s.h.
Experience as active member of surgical team; work on inpatient units, in clinics and operating room; assist in elective and emergency patient care.

SURG:8401 Advanced General Surgery 4 s.h.
Opportunity to strengthen clinical skills through experiences in the operating rooms, clinics, wards, and intensive care units of University of Iowa Health Care.

SURG:8402 Advanced Inpatient Subinternship in General Surgery 4 s.h.
Responsibility for management of selected surgical inpatients, on a surgical service. Prerequisites: SURG:8301.

SURG:8406 General Surgery, Des Moines, IA 4 s.h.
Care of general surgery patients in private hospital setting. Prerequisites: SURG:8301.

SURG:8407 Intensive Care Unit - Trauma, Iowa Methodist 4 s.h.
Subinternship on trauma service team; evaluation and management of critically ill patients in the emergency room, operating room, intensive care unit. Prerequisites: SURG:8301. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

SURG:8409 General Surgery, Davenport, IA 4 s.h.
Participation in diagnosis and management of general surgical patients under supervision of attending surgeons from Davenport Surgical Group, Genesis Medical Center. Prerequisites: SURG:8301. Requirements: fourth-year MD enrollment.

SURG:8411 Multidisciplinary Breast Elective 2,4 s.h.
Evaluation and management of benign and malignant breast diseases; focus on multidisciplinary nature of treatment of breast disease; for students who plan to pursue residency in general surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, family practice, or other field with focus on women's health. Requirements: MD enrollment.

SURG:8419 Advanced Inpatient Subinternship in Plastic Surgery 4 s.h.
Exposure to a wide range of educational opportunities and to the complexity and diversity of health care in the plastic surgery setting related to policies, environment, cultural, socioeconomic, and financial considerations; provides experience in all areas of plastic surgery; for students with an interest in plastic and reconstructive surgery. Requirements: MD enrollment.

SURG:8420 Plastic Surgery 4 s.h.
Plastic surgery experience, including craniofacial, hand, reconstruction, and aesthetic surgery. Enhances students' understanding of both the technical and patient care aspects of plastic surgery, including reconstructive and cosmetic procedures. Requirements: MD enrollment.

SURG:8460 Surgical Residency Preparation 4 s.h.
Preparation for surgical residency; focus on application of knowledge and skills accumulated through medical school to surgical patient care; development of an advanced understanding of preoperative, intraoperative, and postoperative care of patients, critical care knowledge, communication skills, and technical skills necessary for surgical specialties. Requirements: MD enrollment.

SURG:8497 Research in Surgery arr.
Medical research, clinical or laboratory projects; individual study.

SURG:8498 Surgery On Campus arr.
Surgery on campus; individually arranged. Prerequisites: SURG:8301.

SURG:8499 Surgery Off Campus arr.
Prerequisites: SURG:8301.

Urology

Chair

- Karl Kreder

Website: https://urology.medicine.uiowa.edu/

Urology encompasses the subspecialty areas of urologic nephrology, oncology, and endocrinology; male reproductive physiology; erectile dysfunction; neurourology; pediatric urology; urinary tract stone and infection, including endourology; laparoscopic and robotic urology; trauma and reconstructive urology; urodynamics and female urology; diagnostic urology; and urinary tract obstruction.

The Department of Urology offers instruction in all of these areas to MD and graduate students and provides continuing education for the delivery of urologic care.

Continuing Education

The department offers continuing education activities throughout the year for urologic and family practitioners. These activities are conducted by the faculty, whose interests include pediatric urology, reproductive physiology and male infertility, urologic oncology, urinary tract stone (including endourology/laparoscopy), robotic surgical procedures, trauma and reconstructive urology, female urology, and prostatic diseases.

Research

The department has earned international recognition for its studies of prostatic diseases. The urological laboratories conduct research and offer instruction in experimental oncology, cellular immunology, and infertility.

MD Training

The Department of Urology cooperates with several University of Iowa basic science departments to educate first-year MD students on the relationship between urology and the basic sciences. It collaborates with the Department of Microbiology and Immunology [p. 1903] in teaching and research concerning the immunology of genitourinary cancers and renal transplantation.

In the first-year MD course, MED:8134 Mechanisms of Health and Disease III, and the second-year courses, MED:8221 Clinical and Professional Skills III and MED:8224 Mechanisms of Health and Disease Keystone, the department presents illustrative lectures and demonstrations related to the diagnosis and treatment of genitourinary tract diseases.

Second-, third-, and fourth-year MD students take Department of Urology courses that provide experience in all areas of urology. The department's selective two-week clerkship covers the fundamentals of these areas through experience in outpatient clinics, surgical settings, and inpatient units at University of Iowa Health Care, the Iowa River Landing, and the VA Iowa City Health Care. MD students can take advanced elective courses of intensive study in any of the urologic subspecialties after completion of URO:8301 Clinical Urology.

Courses

Urology Courses

URO:8301 Clinical Urology 2 s.h.
Work in urology unit, clinic; responsibility for patient care, working with residents.

URO:8401 Advanced Urology 4 s.h.
Experience as integral member of urological staff, junior resident level. Requirements: MD enrollment.

URO:8402 Pediatric Urology 2,4 s.h.
In-depth study of pediatric urology topics. Requirements: MD enrollment.

URO:8403 Urologic Oncology 2,4 s.h.
Multispecialty exposure to diagnosis and treatment of patients with current and newly diagnosed urologic malignancies. Requirements: MD enrollment.

URO:8404 Female Pelvic Floor Dysfunction 2,4 s.h.
Requirements: MD enrollment.

URO:8497 Research in Urology arr.
Medical research, clinical or laboratory projects; individual study.

URO:8498 Urology On Campus arr.
Clinical clerkship; individually arranged by student with departmental approval.

URO:8499 Urology Off Campus arr.
Individually arranged by students with department approval.

Faculty: https://nursing.uiowa.edu/faculty-staff/faculty-directory

Website: https://nursing.uiowa.edu/

The College of Nursing is an integral part of the University of Iowa health science campus, sharing in and contributing to teaching, research, and patient care resources that have earned international recognition. The university provides a robust setting for nursing preparation because the educational and clinical resources vital to educating nurses are evidence based, diverse, and available on or near the campus. Faculty and students participate fully in university life and contribute their time, interests, and abilities to the many general and special activities of a major research university.

The college's Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN), the Clinical Nurse Leader (CNL) and Nursing Systems Administration (NSA) subprograms for the Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) as well as the MSN Entry into Practice subprogram and the Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) program, are accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), an autonomous accrediting arm of the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN). They are also approved by the Iowa Board of Nursing. The anesthesia nursing program (in the Doctor of Nursing Practice) is accredited by the Council on Accreditation of Nurse Anesthesia Educational Programs.

Graduates of the prelicensure BSN and MSN Entry into Practice qualify to take the National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX) required for practice as registered nurses (RN). Graduates of advanced practice majors in the graduate program are eligible to take certification examinations and apply for Advanced Registered Nurse Practitioner (ARNP) licensure.

Related Minor and Certificates

Aging and Longevity Studies

College of Nursing students may participate in the Aging and Longevity Studies Program, which provides undergraduate students with a multidisciplinary approach to gerontology. The program offers a minor. Students plan their course of study with their academic advisor in close cooperation with the Aging and Longevity Studies Program coordinator. The Aging and Longevity Studies Program is administered by the School of Social Work (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences). For more information, see Aging and Longevity Studies [p. 47] (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences) in the catalog.

Informatics (Health Informatics Subprogram)

The Graduate College offers the Certificate in Informatics with a health informatics subprogram. The subprogram emphasizes the organization, management, and use of health care information; health care research, education, and practice; and information technology developments in the socioeconomic context of health care.

College of Nursing students working toward the certificate complete IGPI:5110 Introduction to Informatics, which explores decision-making processes and technological tools to support health care administration, management, and practice.

Students earn additional credit in foundational informatics coursework, including one elective chosen in consultation with their major program advisor and their certificate advisor. Students who earn credit for a thesis, project, or independent study in their major program of study may apply the credit as an elective if the certificate advisor determines that the subject matter is pertinent.

To learn more, see the Certificate in Informatics [p. 1760] (Graduate College) in the catalog. For additional information, see Health Informatics on the Graduate College website.

Student Organizations

All College of Nursing BSN prelicensure students are members of the National Student Nurses Association and its local chapter, the Iowa Association of Nursing Students (IANS). The Student Nurse Association at the University of Iowa (SNAUI) provides opportunities for professional growth and development in nursing. SNAUI representatives are members of the Undergraduate Student Government (USG).

University of Iowa Men in Nursing (UI MiN) provides opportunities for nurses to meet, recruit, talk, and influence the environment for men in nursing. It is open to all nursing students.

The college's Association of Graduate Nursing Students (AGNS) provides opportunities for professional growth, sharing of research, and representation on varied college and university committees.

See Student Life–Nursing Student Organizations on the College of Nursing website.

Facilities

The College of Nursing Building is centrally located on the university's main campus, in close proximity to the Carver College of Medicine, the College of Dentistry, the College of Pharmacy, the College of Public Health, University of Iowa Health Care, and the Hardin Library for the Health Sciences.

The College of Nursing Building (CNB) boasts collaborative spaces, flexible learning spaces, and state-of-art classroom technology. The CNB spaces include two 84-seat flexible classrooms, two 49-seat flexible classrooms, and a clinical skills classroom on the ground floor; collaboration rooms for quiet study and group learning, student commons, and graduate student space are on the first floor; five seminar seating classrooms on the third floor; and flexible conference room and office space on the fourth floor.

The Nursing Clinical Education Center (NCEC), located at University of Iowa Health Care, provides hands-on simulation and laboratory experiences for both undergraduate and graduate nursing students. The center is also a training hub for the university's Department of Nursing Services and Patient Care. The NCEC houses state-of-the-art health care simulation technology. It has multiple classrooms, a resource library, a lobby with ample seating, and gathering spaces for private meetings. The center is codirected by the College of Nursing and the UI Health Care Department of Nursing Services and Patient Care.

Courses

College of Nursing Courses

NURS:1020 First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Introduces first-year undergraduate students to the intellectual life of the University of Iowa; provides an opportunity to work closely with a faculty member or senior administrator; seminars help students make the transition to college-level learning through active participation in their own learning.

NURS:1030 Human Development and Behavior 3 s.h.
Normal developmental transitions experienced by individuals and family systems throughout the lifespan, including physical, cognitive, and social-emotional development. Requirements: nursing or nursing-interest major.

NURS:1800 Aging Matters: Introduction to Gerontology 3 s.h.
Overview of the field of gerontology from a bio-psycho-social framework; how the human body and brain age, effects of these biological changes on physical and cognitive functions, and interaction of these individual factors with societal contexts; broad perspective to give students a foundation in gerontology, paving the way for more advanced courses in biology of aging, psychology of aging, and global aging; for students from a wide range of disciplines and levels, no prior knowledge of aging required. GE: Social Sciences. Same as ASP:1800, CSD:1800, SSW:1800, TR:1800.

NURS:3099 Leadership U 1-3 s.h.
Development of leadership in nursing; application of leadership theory in practice by participating in activities such as attending professional organization meetings, acting as a delegate, writing legislation, holding a board position, or being part of a multidisciplinary or international team to organize events for community involvement. Requirements: nursing major.

NURS:3110 Healthcare Finance 3 s.h.
Basic structure of U.S. health care system and how it is funded; tools for making decisions about available financial resources.

NURS:3111 Caring for Vulnerable Populations 3 s.h.
Introduction of basic concepts to deconstruct the caring of a variety of vulnerable populations. Content includes bias along many lines of difference, discrimination in healthcare, structural racism from a historical context, systemic inequities in healthcare delivery and outcomes, and social determinants of health. Concludes with an exploration of strategies to advance health equity and improve health for all.

NURS:3128 Health Assessment and Communication Across the Lifespan 3 s.h.
Assessment and communication skills; development and application of cognitive skills to perform systematic, holistic, and culturally competent health assessments; emphasis on application of clinical reasoning involving assessment, nursing diagnoses, interventions, and outcomes. Requirements: admission to a College of Nursing program.

NURS:3138 Nursing and Pharmacological Interventions I 5 s.h.
First of a two-part series focusing on basic biophysical concepts that inform nursing and pharmacological interventions, including sleep, immobility, skin care, wound healing, infection, and human response to illness; selected disorders and/or diseases, including GI disease, disorders of bowel and urine elimination, diabetes, and cancer; introduction to health literacy and principles of health education. Requirements: NURS:3128 taken as a prerequisite for the MSN-EIP program or taken as a corequisite for the BSN program.

NURS:3151 Introduction to Clinical Concepts for Nursing 2 s.h.
Introduction to aspects of nursing care including physical exam, health assessment, and psychomotor nursing interventions; students practice strategies to promote safe care of patients, including calculation of medications prior to administration; emphasis on effective patient communication, education, and integration of medical terminology; application of nursing interventions, psychomotor skills, and medication dosages and calculation; health, physical, and psychosocial assessment; first of a three-part laboratory and simulation series. Corequisites: NURS:3128. Requirements: admission to a College of Nursing program.

NURS:3160 Professional Role I: Professionalism and Patient Safety 3 s.h.
Introduction to inherent nursing values, history, theories, and scope of professional nursing; concepts of safety, risk identification, and clinical decision-making; information technologies that promote quality and safety. Requirements: admission to the College of Nursing.

NURS:3198 Distance Education: Independent Study 1-3 s.h.
Supervised study designed for individual undergraduate students.

NURS:3199 Independent Study 1-3 s.h.
Supervised study designed for individual undergraduate students.

NURS:3438 Nursing and Pharmacological Interventions II 5 s.h.
Second of a two-part series focusing on complex biophysical concepts that inform nursing and pharmacological interventions, including fluids and electrolytes, shock, and perioperative care; focus on selected disorders and/or diseases, including neurological, immune, musculoskeletal, cardiovascular, respiratory, renal, and endocrine disorders. Prerequisites: NURS:3138.

NURS:3451 Basic Clinical Concepts for Nursing 1 s.h.
Caring for the adult patient with diverse disease processes through experiential learning; emphasis on complex physical and psychosocial assessment, clinical reasoning, team building, interprofessional education and communication, and application of the nursing process to provide safe and effective nursing care; second of a three-part laboratory and simulation series. Prerequisites: NURS:3151.

NURS:3460 Professional Role II: Research 3 s.h.
Introduction to concepts and process of research in nursing; primary focus on understanding research and its foundation for nursing practice. Requirements: basic statistics and NURS:3160 taken as a prerequisite or corequisite for the RN-BSN program or taken as a corequisite for the BSN program. Recommendations: upper-level statistics.

NURS:3518 Pathology 3 s.h.
Introduction to abnormal functioning of cells, tissues, organs, and systems over the human lifespan; focus on hematological, immune, neurological, musculoskeletal, cardiovascular, respiratory, renal, gastrointestinal, endocrine, and reproductive system; alterations in metabolic processes and alterations in homeostatic mechanisms impacting the internal milieu; emphasis on critical thinking. Requirements: admission to a College of Nursing program.

NURS:3595 Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness I 3 s.h.
Operational and financial aspects of nonprofit management; mission and governance of organization; strategic planning for effective management, including finance, budget, income generation, fund-raising. Same as ENTR:3595, MGMT:3500, MUSM:3500, RELS:3700, SSW:3500.

NURS:3600 Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness II 3 s.h.
Qualities for leadership of nonprofit organizations, including relationships with staff and volunteers; relationship of nonprofit and outside world; marketing, public relations, advocacy strategies for nonprofits. Same as MGMT:3600, RELS:3701, SSW:3600.

NURS:3615 Adult Medical/Surgical Nursing Practicum 3 s.h.
In-depth clinical experience; application of basic and complex concepts of nursing care for adults of all ages in a variety of settings, focus on older adults; development and application of critical thinking skills necessary to understand disease process, associated signs and symptoms; emphasis on interventions and outcomes. Prerequisites: NURS:3128 and NURS:3138 and NURS:3151 and NURS:3518.

NURS:3620 Gerontological Nursing 3 s.h.
Nurse's role in promoting, maintaining, and restoring the health of aging adults; internal and external influences on older adults, application of nursing science to the care of older adults in diverse settings. Prerequisites: NURS:3138 or NURS:3160.

NURS:3625 Gerontological Nursing Practicum 2 s.h.
In-depth clinical experience designed to apply basic and complex concepts of nursing care for adults of all ages in a variety of settings; focus on older adults; development and application of critical thinking skills necessary to understand disease process and the associated signs and symptoms, interventions, and outcomes. Prerequisites: NURS:3138. Corequisites: NURS:3620.

NURS:3631 Nursing Care of Children and Families 2 s.h.
Promoting, maintaining, and restoring the health of parents, infants, children, and adolescents in childbearing families; examination of nursing care of newborns, well children, and children with acute and chronic illness within the context of family and community. Prerequisites: NURS:3438. Corequisites: NURS:3632.

NURS:3632 Nursing Care of Childbearing Families 2 s.h.
Promoting, maintaining, and restoring health for women of reproductive age, childbearing families, and newborns; examination of nursing care for family planning, preconception health, prenatal care, childbirth, newborn care, and maternal and neonatal complications within the context of family and community. Prerequisites: NURS:3438. Corequisites: NURS:3631.

NURS:3635 Parent Child Nursing Practicum 2 s.h.
Application of nursing knowledge to promote, maintain, and restore health; vulnerable populations of interest including persons with mental health disorders, infants, children, adolescents, their families; processes of childbearing and childrearing within context of families. Prerequisites: NURS:3615. Corequisites: NURS:3631 and NURS:3632.

NURS:3640 Psychiatric/Mental Health Nursing 3 s.h.
General principles and practices of psychiatric/mental health nursing; psychiatric disorders, populations at risk, continuity of care, and problems in daily living; unique needs of diverse populations. Corequisites: NURS:3645.

NURS:3645 Mental Health Nursing Practicum 2 s.h.
Application of nursing knowledge to promote, maintain, and restore health; vulnerable populations of interest including persons with mental health disorders, infants, children, adolescents, their families; processes of childbearing and childrearing within context of families. Corequisites: NURS:3640. Requirements: NURS:3615 and NURS:3438 taken as prerequisites for the BSN program or enrollment in the MSN-EIP program.

NURS:3650 Community and Public Health Nursing 3 s.h.
Role of nursing in the relationship between community conditions and public health; emphasis on principles of public health combined with nursing knowledge and skills to address health needs of individuals, families, communities, and populations. Corequisites: NURS:3655 or NURS:5220.

NURS:3651 Advanced Clinical Concepts for Nursing 1 s.h.
Advanced and specialty nursing skills; focus on pediatric and obstetric simulation as well as advanced, medical-surgical skills; opportunity for ongoing development of essential clinical skills including team communication, clinical reasoning, patient safety, evidence-based practice, incorporation of the nursing process, patient education, and nursing care across the lifespan; third of a three-part laboratory and simulation series. Prerequisites: NURS:3451.

NURS:3655 Community and Public Health Nursing Practicum 2 s.h.
Learning opportunities to apply principles of public health with nursing knowledge and skills to address health promotion, disease and injury prevention, and nursing management of infectious disease and chronic health conditions; nursing activities focus on improvement of health outcomes at individual, family, community, and global levels within the context of population-focused practice. Corequisites: NURS:3650.

NURS:3660 Professional Role III: Improving Health Systems 3 s.h.
Legal and regulatory processes that impact health care, how disparities influence health care, and evidence-based approaches for improving quality of care; strategies for working effectively in intra and interdisciplinary teams; integration of a culture of safety. Prerequisites: NURS:3460.

NURS:3712 Human Sexuality, Diversity, and Society 1-3 s.h.
Introduction to human sexuality from a biopsychosocial, sex-positive perspective; sexuality as a normal and essential component of human existence and expression throughout the life span; influence of gender, class, religion, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, ability status, age, and culture on sexuality interwoven and highlighted; diversity of perspectives and experiences shared through active participation and respectful dialogue. Same as SSW:3712.

NURS:3731 Healthier Living for Well-Being 1 s.h.
Strategies to reduce stress and promote healthy resilience; overall well-being and academic performance support; evidence-based, skills-building assignments focus on cognitive behavioral and coping techniques. Requirements: nursing interest or admission to the College of Nursing.

NURS:3732 Global Health Nursing 3 s.h.
Complexity of health and nursing in a global context; overview of biological, social, epigenetic, and environmental contributors to health and diseases in populations around the world and nursing's role in improving health; includes case studies of various global organizational and educational structures and systems relative to population health, selected infectious diseases, nutritional deficiencies, and health effects of environmental change. Same as GHS:3732.

NURS:3734 Introduction to Human Genetics 3 s.h.
Introduction to organization of the human genome and basic principles of inheritance in humans; cells and development, chromosome structure and function, gene structure and function, genes in pedigrees and populations, implications of genetic variation on health.

NURS:3737 Care of the Patient in Pain 3 s.h.
Foundational and advanced content in the area of pain management across populations, the lifespan, and settings of care; content and learning focus on core competencies for pain management recommended of all health care professionals; emphasis on development of interdisciplinary team, including nurses, as an advocate for quality and safe pain management; content areas include type of pain, pain therapies, assessment and measurement, treatment, self-management, evaluation/monitoring, disparities, and bioethics; no clinical component. Requirements: upper-division standing. Recommendations: pharmacology and pathophysiology.

NURS:3740 End-of-Life Care for Adults and Families 3 s.h.
End-of-life issues in care of adults, older adults, and their families. Same as ASP:3740, MED:3740.

NURS:3741 Nurse Residency Role Transition Seminar 3 s.h.
New graduate nurses entering practice are enrolled in transition-to-practice programs focused on integration of knowledge, skills, and professional behaviors necessary to provide safe, quality care; associate degree nurses evaluate how they achieved mastery of core knowledge and competencies and discuss Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) Entry-to-Practice Competencies; students examine transition-to-practice experience and document ways in which knowledge, skills, and attitudes are impacted and improved; engage in group discussion and reflective writing assignments to evaluate professional growth during transition-to-practice. Requirements: associate degree nurse graduate currently enrolled in or recent completion of a nurse residency program accredited by Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) or UI online nurse residency program (nurse residency program completed within two years or current enrollment with completion in a minimum of five months).

NURS:3742 Selected Topics in Nursing 1-2 s.h.
In-depth study of topics in professional nursing practice and health care; workshop format.

NURS:3744 Critical Care Nursing 3 s.h.
Provides nursing students with the knowledge required to safely and competently care for critically ill or injured patients; builds upon foundational courses in medical/surgical acute care. Requirements: NURS:3615 or RN licensure.

NURS:4096 Distance Education: Honors Independent Study 3 s.h.
Building on honors seminar, students implement the project they designed in the seminar with guidance from the student's contracted honors faculty mentor; honors project is expected to apply current professional evidence and result in a rigorous scholarly product; the specific type of product is negotiated with honors faculty mentor; while a minimum of 90 hours is required for honors project, honors faculty mentor and student work together to determine the specific schedule commitments. Prerequisites: NURS:4098.

NURS:4098 Honors Seminar 1 s.h.
Crafting a meaningful honors project; structured steps for development of a project idea, measurable learning objectives, GANTT chart timeline, beginning literature review related to the independent study subject; identification/ completion of organizational requirements such as approval processes, access to electronic systems, and training.

NURS:4099 Honors Independent Study 3 s.h.
Building on honors seminar, students implement the project they designed in the seminar with guidance from the student's contracted honors faculty mentor; honors project is expected to apply current professional evidence and result in a rigorous scholarly product; specific type of product negotiated with honors faculty mentor; while a minimum of 90 hours is required for honors project, honors faculty mentor and student work together to determine specific schedule commitments. Prerequisites: NURS:4098.

NURS:4155 Nursing Internship 5 s.h.
Immersion capstone experience to engage in practice under direct supervision of a professional registered nurse mentor; design, provide, coordinate, and evaluate care; work with teams to deliver evidence-based care; improve quality, patient safety, and outcomes. Requirements: enrollment in final semester of program.

NURS:4160 Professional Role IV: Leadership and Professional Engagement 3,5 s.h.
Concepts of leadership, followership, management, informatics, and professional engagement; quality improvement strategies and skills; professional development, career trajectory, and role transitions. Prerequisites: NURS:3660.

NURS:4170 Baccalaureate Seminar 1 s.h.
Examination of didactic and clinical learning experiences; documentation of changes in knowledge, skills, and attitudes to demonstrate achievement of relevant competencies; group discussion and reflective writing assignments to evaluate professional growth that has occurred during the BSN program. Requirements: enrollment in final semester of program.

NURS:5002 Leadership and Management Essentials 3 s.h.
Roles and strategies for leading and managing others in health care environments to influence health care delivery and provide a healthy, innovative working environment; focus on selected leadership and organizational concepts essential to leaders in health care.

NURS:5007 Applied Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Introduction to basic principles and methods of epidemiology and demonstration of applicability in field of nursing and nursing research; topics include historical perspectives of epidemiology, epidemiological models of health and disease, measures of disease occurrence and association, disease screening, causal inference, study design and application of epidemiological approaches to clinical practice, program planning and evaluation.

NURS:5009 Evaluating Evidence for Practice 3 s.h.
Opportunity for clinicians to develop proficiency in use of research- and evidence-based practice; essentials of the research process, qualitative and quantitative research, components of evidence-based practice; acquisition of knowledge and skills necessary for research (knowledge) utilization initiatives and application of evidence-based practice principles in clinical settings; identification of appropriate research questions, synthesis of knowledge base for evidence-based practice, revision of clinical practice guidelines, and evaluation of research utilization and evidence-based practice initiatives.

NURS:5010 Clinical Data Management and Evaluation 3 s.h.
Clinical data management essential for evaluating evidence-based practice/performance improvement projects; a high caliber data management plan will provide key stakeholders with information necessary to make decisions and includes components of identified processes and outcomes linked to variables and data sources, adequate statistical power, data cleaning and manipulation techniques, statistical methods, and a meaningful presentation of variables that addresses the concerns and questions of key stakeholders; knowledge and skills necessary to develop and execute data management plan for final project. Prerequisites: NURS:5009. Requirements: master's or doctoral standing.

NURS:5014 Graduate Physiology for Advanced Practice 3,5 s.h.
In-depth study of physiologic processes across the lifespan; cellular, organ, and systems functions; physiological responses to the internal milieu; interrelationships between body systems and cellular and body-wide defense mechanisms; synthesis of evidence-based information from various sources related to selected physiological phenomena. Requirements: admittance to a graduate healthcare practice program.

NURS:5015 Health Systems, Finance, and Economics 3 s.h.
Global, economic, organizational, legal, political, and technological contexts in advanced nursing practice; knowledge and skills necessary for understanding the evolution of health services organizations, financing of health care, and relationships among socioeconomic systems influencing health care and nursing practice; impact of macrosystems on distribution, acquisition, and use of financial and economic principles in delivery of health care services. Prerequisites: NURS:5002.

NURS:5016 Health Care Infrastructure and Informatics 3 s.h.
Health care infrastructure with a focus on the United States; role of information and technology in its development and implementation; role of data sets, information technology, and emerging technologies in supporting providers in managing patient care and population health of vulnerable groups. Prerequisites: NURS:5002 and NURS:5015.

NURS:5017 Quality and Safety 3 s.h.
Foundation for understanding concepts of safety and quality across health care settings; focus on providing a safe environment, elevating staff performance and clinical outcomes related to safety and quality, and methods for continuous improvement.

NURS:5018 Clinical Education in the Care Environment 3 s.h.
Preparation to assume role of educator with individuals, groups, and communities, including staff and students; teaching/learning process for providing client education; knowledge and skills needed to effectively fill role of preceptor/mentor.

NURS:5019 Role Development: Educator in a Practice Discipline 3 s.h.
Becoming an educator in a practice discipline; unique knowledge, skills, approaches to didactic and clinical teaching; overview of curriculum development process that affects revision/development; faculty role in curriculum development and evaluation; knowledge and skills to create a learner-centered environment for professional students; key facilitation and evaluation strategies; application of concepts during field experience working directly with experienced faculty.

NURS:5020 Application of Educator Role Competencies 1-3 s.h.
Individually designed activities to strengthen performance as an educator in a practice discipline; meet with experienced instructor to develop specific objectives and related activities to be completed during a 45-hour field experience. Prerequisites: NURS:5019.

NURS:5021 Physiology, Pathophysiology, and Pharmacology I for the Clinical Nurse Leader 3 s.h.
Basic scientific concepts required for BSN and clinical nursing experience; matches physiology and pathophysiology with pharmacological treatments as combined core elements; focus on regulation of cellular, organ, and system functions; regulation of internal milieu; functional interrelationships among body systems; cellular and body-wide defense mechanisms; synthesis of information related to pathophysiological phenomena; pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamics principles essential for general practice; specific drug classes used in management of clinical conditions. Two semesters.

NURS:5022 Physiology, Pathophysiology, and Pharmacology II for the Clinical Nurse Leader 3 s.h.
Basic scientific concepts required for BSN and clinical nursing experience; matches physiology and pathophysiology with pharmacological treatments as combined core elements; focus on regulation of cellular, organ, and system functions; regulation of internal milieu; functional interrelationships among body systems; cellular and body-wide defense mechanisms; synthesis of information related to pathophysiological phenomena; pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamics principles essential for general practice; specific drug classes used in management of clinical conditions. Two semesters. Prerequisites: NURS:5021.

NURS:5023 Pathophysiology for Advanced Clinical Practice 4 s.h.
In-depth study of pathophysiologic processes across the lifespan; emphasis on dysregulation of cellular, organ, and system functions; clinical manifestations of common disease states; resultant physiological responses to internal milieu; interrelationships among body system; cellular and body-wide defense mechanisms; synthesis of evidence-based information from a variety of sources related to selected pathophysiological phenomena. Requirements: graduate-level physiology course.

NURS:5031 Health Promotion and Assessment for Advanced Clinical Practice 3-4 s.h.
Emphasis on health promotion and advanced health assessment; didactic and clinical laboratory instruction allows students to develop and demonstrate mastery of advanced knowledge and skills in health assessment; content related to promotion of health and prevention of disease; focus on application of content with individuals within the student's respective population-based scope of practice. Requirements: admission to post-BSN DNP program.

NURS:5032 Mental Disorders in Advanced Practice 3 s.h.
Foundation for advanced practice nurse to provide care for common mental health disorders; presentation of neurophysiological, genomic, environmental/social, and developmental theories to understand etiology and presentation of common mental health conditions; psychopharmacological and nonpharmacological principles and modalities for treatment of common mental health problems.

NURS:5033 Pharmacotherapeutics for Advanced Practice Nursing 3 s.h.
Pharmacotherapeutic principles essential for advanced clinical practice; specific drug classes frequently used in the management of clinical conditions experienced by patient populations; legal considerations related to prescriptive authority and prescribing patterns. Prerequisites: NURS:5023.

NURS:5035 Graduate Pharmacology Specialty 3 s.h.
Principles of pharmacology learned in NURS:5033; principles and practices necessary for safe prescribing and medication management of a specialty population (e.g., pediatrics, geriatrics, acute care, mental health). Prerequisites: NURS:5033.

NURS:5036 Psychopharmacology for Advanced Clinical Practice 3 s.h.
Scientific knowledge of psychopharmacology and its application to treatment of clients with psychiatric disorders across the lifespan; advanced concepts in neuroscience, neurobiology of mental disorders, pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics of psychotherapeutic medications in the management of targeted symptoms of psychiatric disorders in clients across the lifespan. Prerequisites: NURS:5023 and NURS:5033.

NURS:5037 Health Promotion and Assessment for Clinical Nurse Leaders 3-4 s.h.
Emphasis on health promotion and advanced health assessment; didactic and clinical laboratory instruction allows students to develop and demonstrate mastery of advanced knowledge and skills in health assessment; content related to promotion of health and prevention of disease; focus on application of course content with individuals across the lifespan. Requirements: admission to MSN-CNL program.

NURS:5038 Advanced Diagnostic and Therapeutic Procedures for Acute Care 1 s.h.
Introduction to use of advanced diagnostic and therapeutic techniques commonly encountered in acute and critical care; students are provided opportunities to interpret and incorporate technologically derived data; discussion of practices to protect patients, such as informed consent, risk benefit analysis, infection control, and pain management; laboratory experiences allow students to practice techniques used to perform invasive procedures. Prerequisites: NURS:5023 and NURS:5031 and NURS:5033. Requirements: graduate-level physiology course.

NURS:5039 Advanced Diagnostic and Therapeutic Procedures for Primary Care 1 s.h.
Introduction to use of advanced diagnostic and therapeutic techniques commonly encountered in primary care; selected laboratory experiences designed to enhance familiarity with use of technologies and interpretation of technologically derived data; discussion of practices used to protect patients (e.g., informed consent, risk benefit analysis, infection control, pain management). Prerequisites: NURS:5023 and NURS:5031 and NURS:5033. Requirements: graduate-level physiology course.

NURS:5040 Genetics/Genomics for Advanced Nursing Practice 2 s.h.
Essential content for understanding the role genetics/genomics plays in health and disease; focus on the core competencies of American Nurses Association (ANA), which provides a framework for advanced nursing practice preparation to incorporate genetics/genomics knowledge for development of prevention, diagnosis, and treatment options in order to optimize health outcomes relevant to clinical role and specialty. Requirements: master's or doctoral standing.

NURS:5041 Psychotherapeutics for Advanced Practice Nursing Across the Lifespan I 2 s.h.
Scientific knowledge of psychotherapies and its application to treatment of clients with psychiatric disorders across the lifespan; focus on advanced concepts of effective communication and utilizing evidenced-based psychotherapy theories in the management of targeted symptoms of psychiatric disorders in clients across the lifespan.

NURS:5042 Psychotherapeutics for Advanced Practice Nursing Across the Lifespan II 1 s.h.
Scientific knowledge of psychotherapies and its application to treatment of clients with psychiatric disorders across the lifespan from NURS:5041; students identify two forms of evidenced-based psychotherapy theories and prepare a pathway to certification in each form of psychotherapy. Prerequisites: NURS:5041.

NURS:5210 Foundations of Professional Nursing 1 s.h.
Introduction to professional nursing practice and exploration of nursing discipline, history, and interprofessional partnerships; examination of nursing theories and professional identity of the nurse. Requirements: admission to MSN Entry into Practice program.

NURS:5215 Medical Surgical Care of Chronically Ill Adults 3 s.h.
Chronic disease management and reinforcement of clinical judgment, prioritization, psychomotor skills, and professional behavior with diverse patient populations in a variety of health care settings; application of evidence-based nursing practice and safe person-centered practice in the nursing process to adult patients with chronic health care needs; clinical focus includes activities of daily living, positioning, mobility, nutrition, therapeutic communication, asepsis, medication administration, elimination management, interprofessional collaboration, and transition of care. Prerequisites: NURS:3645. Corequisites: NURS:3138.

NURS:5220 Medical Surgical Care of Acutely Ill Adults 3 s.h.
Acute disease management and reinforcement of clinical judgment, prioritization, psychomotor skills, and professional behavior with diverse patient populations in a variety of health care settings; application of evidence-based nursing practice and safe person-centered practice in the nursing process to adult patients with acute health care needs; emphasis on building leadership skills, independent decision-making, interprofessional collaboration, person-centered education, and prioritization with adult patients who have acute health care needs. Prerequisites: NURS:5215. Corequisites: NURS:3438.

NURS:5225 Community Health Across the Lifespan Practicum 2,4 s.h.
Integration of specialty populations knowledge in providing care to individuals and communities of diverse backgrounds; experiences take place in community, pediatric/mother/baby/family, and geriatric settings; students use nursing process to deliver person-centered care within spheres of disease prevention/promotion of health and well-being, and hospice/palliative and supportive care in a variety of population settings; focus on improvement of health outcomes at individual, family, and community level within context of population-focused practice. Prerequisites: NURS:5220. Corequisites: NURS:3620 and NURS:3631 and NURS:3632.

NURS:5401 The Care of the Frail Elderly 3 s.h.
Clinical management of the elderly; emphasis on economic considerations, principles of gerontological care, common syndromes, ethical issues; clinical application experience in a long-term care setting. Prerequisites: NURS:5035. Corequisites: NURS:6200 and NURS:6701. Same as ASP:5401.

NURS:5636 Clinical Nurse Leader Seminar 2-3 s.h.
Evolution of clinical nurse leader (CNL) role, eight core role functions, and the process of integration of CNL role into health care system. Requirements: admission to MSN-CNL program.

NURS:5666 Leadership in the Microsystem 3 s.h.
Assessment of the microsystem of practice, clinical nurse leader role as leader embedded in a microsystem, and identification of opportunities to enhance care delivery in the microsystem.

NURS:5696 Clinical Nurse Leader Capstone Clinical Immersion 6 s.h.
Intensive immersion in role and practice expectations of the clinical nurse leader (CNL); experienced leaders within the microsystem, who are experts in the provision of clinical services at the point of care/services, serve as mentors. Requirements: enrollment in final semester of MSN-CNL program.

NURS:5697 Specialty Practice in Nursing Systems 4 s.h.
Practice in nursing and health care leadership; interventions that influence health care outcomes for individuals, populations, or systems; final capstone concepts and experiences prepare students to deliver and manage safe, effective, and quality care to diverse populations in a variety of settings and roles, and master nursing and health care leadership principles; 165-hour guided capstone program implementation and practicum is the centerpiece of learning experience.

NURS:5800 Independent Study arr.
Supervised study and/or clinical practice adjusted to needs of master's degree students.

NURS:5801 Master's Project 2-3 s.h.
Opportunity for in-depth analysis and synthesis of a chosen topic that contributes to some aspect of nursing practice.

NURS:5803 Distance Education: Master's Independent Study arr.
Supervised study and/or clinical practice adjusted to needs of master's degree students.

NURS:5806 Distance Education: Master's Project 2-3 s.h.
In-depth analysis and synthesis of a chosen topic that contributes to some aspect of nursing practice.

NURS:6000 Human Anatomy for Advanced Practice 4 s.h.
Integrated study of interrelationships between anatomic structure and physiological function in health and disease at various points in the lifespan; mechanisms governing and supporting cellular, organ, and system function; internal milieu; relationship of study to clinical assessment of functional integrity of individual organ systems utilizing pertinent objective and subjective data; implications of pathophysiology for anesthesia and implications of anesthesia for pathophysiology; foundation for clinical practicums and courses in nurse anesthesia. Requirements: completion of an undergraduate human anatomy and physiology course and admission to anesthesia nursing program. Same as ACB:6000.

NURS:6004 Scientific Principles for Anesthesia Practice 4 s.h.
Applicable chemical and physical properties of molecules important in anesthesia; technological principles and equipment used to safely deliver those molecules to patients and monitor patients during anesthesia; topics include basic chemical and physical calculations, properties of substances in solution, measurement, behavior of gases and other fluids, effects of heat transfer, and the specific chemistry of inhaled and intravenous anesthetics and adjuvant drugs. Corequisites: NURS:6006. Same as ANES:6004.

NURS:6006 Pharmacology of Anesthesia Practice 3 s.h.
Builds on content from foundational graduate pharmacology course; focus on safe prescribing, administration, and management of medications used to provide general, regional, or local anesthesia and analgesia for all patient populations across lifespan undergoing varied surgical, obstetrical, or other procedures in any health care setting. Prerequisites: PCOL:6204 with a minimum grade of B-. Requirements: enrollment in anesthesia nursing program. Same as ANES:6006.

NURS:6007 Basic Principles of Anesthesia Practice 5 s.h.
Overview and integration of anesthetic agents and techniques; patient assessment, preoperative airway evaluation, anesthetic planning, principles of fluid management, and arterial blood gas interpretation; principles of general and regional anesthesia and techniques as they pertain to each surgical specialty; Occupational, Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), The Joint Commission (TJC), and institutional regulations and requirements pertinent to anesthesia practice. Prerequisites: NURS:6004 with a minimum grade of B- and NURS:6006 with a minimum grade of B-. Same as ANES:6007.

NURS:6010 Advanced Principles of Anesthesia Practice I 4 s.h.
Special needs and intraoperative anesthetic management of complex patient populations and those with advanced pathologic states; anesthetic techniques for specific surgical subspecialties including pediatrics, obstetrics, neurosurgery, cardiac, vascular, thoracic, transplant, trauma, EENT, dental, and aesthetic or reconstructive procedures; pertinent pathophysiology and anesthetic monitoring and management techniques; clinical case conferences provide opportunities to discuss perianesthetic complications and challenges. Prerequisites: NURS:6007 with a minimum grade of B- or ANES:6007 with a minimum grade of B-. Same as ANES:6010.

NURS:6012 Advanced Principles of Anesthesia Practice II 1 s.h.
Acute and chronic pain treatment modalities for all patients presenting for a variety of medical or surgical procedures across the lifespan. Prerequisites: NURS:6007 with a minimum grade of B- or ANES:6007 with a minimum grade of B-. Same as ANES:6012.

NURS:6050 Introductory Clinical Anesthesia 2 s.h.
Initial mentorship in clinical anesthesia; development of basic clinical skills needed for a career as nurse anesthetist; application and integration of theoretical knowledge in clinical setting. Prerequisites: NURS:6004 and NURS:6006. Corequisites: NURS:6007. Same as ANES:6050.

NURS:6051 Clinical Anesthesia I 2 s.h.
Mentored clinical anesthesia experience; advancement and enhancement of clinical skills in providing anesthesia for various surgical subspecialities including general, orthopedic, pediatric, geriatric, gynecologic, urologic, dental, EENT, ambulatory surgery, and invasive diagnostic procedures. Prerequisites: NURS:6050 or ANES:6050. Corequisites: NURS:6010. Same as ANES:6051.

NURS:6052 Clinical Anesthesia II 2 s.h.
Additional mentored clinical anesthesia experience; advancement and enhancement of clinical skills in providing anesthesia for various surgical subspecialities including general, orthopedic, pediatric, geriatric, gynecologic, urologic, dental, EENT, ambulatory surgery, and invasive diagnostic procedures. Prerequisites: NURS:6051 or ANES:6051. Same as ANES:6052.

NURS:6053 Advanced Clinical Anesthesia 2 s.h.
Mentored clinical anesthesia at selected sites; development of advanced clinical skills and critical thinking by providing anesthesia for all surgical specialties and invasive diagnostic procedures in all anesthetizing locations; providing anesthesia for all patients in all settings, including on call emergency surgeries. Prerequisites: NURS:6052. Same as ANES:6053.

NURS:6054 Obstetrical Anesthesia 2 s.h.
Experience delivering analgesia and anesthesia for parturients during labor and delivery process. Prerequisites: NURS:6052. Same as ANES:6054.

NURS:6055 Rural Anesthesia 2 s.h.
Opportunity to develop experience providing anesthesia and associated health care services at UI-affiliated clinical sites in rural settings. Prerequisites: NURS:6052. Same as ANES:6055.

NURS:6100 Primary Care: Infants, Children, and Adolescents I 3 s.h.
Enhancement of clinical knowledge and skills for infant, child, adolescent care. Prerequisites: NURS:5035. Corequisites: NURS:6701.

NURS:6101 Primary Care: Infants, Children, and Adolescents II 3 s.h.
Enhancement of clinical knowledge and skills for infant, child, adolescent care; development and refinement of knowledge and skills in primary health care delivery. Prerequisites: NURS:6100. Corequisites: NURS:6702. Same as PEDS:6101.

NURS:6104 Essentials of Pediatric Primary Care: Infants, Children, and Adolescents 3 s.h.
Builds on prior graduate coursework to enhance foundational knowledge and skills in infant, child, and adolescent population; application of essential concepts of pediatric primary care to identify, diagnose, and manage health issues; emphasis on concepts (e.g., growth and development, anticipatory guidance, common pediatric health concerns) managed in ambulatory health care systems. Prerequisites: NURS:5031. Corequisites: NURS:5035.

NURS:6200 Primary Care: Adults and Older Individuals I 3 s.h.
Provides the knowledge and clinical decision-making for assessment, diagnosis, and management of complex acute and chronic health conditions found in adult and older adult patients. Students will become increasingly practice ready and proficient in providing patient-centered, evidence-based care to complex patients. Prerequisites: NURS:5023 and NURS:5031 and NURS:5033 and NURS:5035. Corequisites: NURS:6701.

NURS:6201 Primary Care: Adults and Older Individuals II 3 s.h.
Provides the knowledge and clinical decision-making for assessment, diagnosis, and management of complex acute and chronic health conditions found in adult and older adult patients. Students will become increasingly practice-ready and proficient in providing patient-centered, evidence-based care to complex patients. Prerequisites: NURS:6200. Corequisites: NURS:6702.

NURS:6400 Pediatric Acute Care I 3 s.h.
First of two courses exploring management of complex acute, critical, and chronically ill patients with urgent and emergent conditions; focus on alterations in pathophysiology, advanced assessment, diagnosis, and collaborative management of infants, children and adolescents with selected episodic/chronic health problems in acute/critical care. Prerequisites: NURS:5035. Corequisites: NURS:6701.

NURS:6401 Pediatric Acute Care II 3 s.h.
Second of two courses exploring management of complex acute, critical, and chronically ill patients with urgent and emergent conditions; focus on alterations in pathophysiology, advanced assessment, diagnosis, and collaborative management of infants, children and adolescents with selected episodic/chronic health problems in acute/critical care. Prerequisites: NURS:6400. Corequisites: NURS:6702.

NURS:6410 Adult-Gerontology Acute Care I 3 s.h.
First of two courses exploring management of complex acute, critical, and chronically ill patients with urgent and emergent conditions; focus on alterations in pathophysiology, advanced assessment, diagnosis, and collaborative management of adults and older adults with selected episodic/chronic health problems in acute/critical care. Prerequisites: NURS:5035. Corequisites: NURS:6701.

NURS:6411 Adult-Gerontology Acute Care II 3 s.h.
Second of two courses building on prior acute care content and focusing on critical, complex, and end of life care; emphasis on evidence-based strategies to stabilize patient's condition, assessment of risk for and prevention of complications, restoration and maintenance of optimal health and functioning, and/or provision of palliative care in context of patient's physical and psychosocial environment. Prerequisites: NURS:6410. Corequisites: NURS:6702.

NURS:6500 Psychiatric/Mental Health Nursing for Advanced Practice Didactic I 3 s.h.
Introduction to psychological principles and theories as they relate to mental health across the lifespan, intersections between physical and mental health, and role of advanced practice nurse in psychiatric/mental health care; examination of psychological theory within a life span developmental framework from infancy to older adult; introduction to role of cultural diversity in mental health; emphasis on assessment, diagnosis, and management of mental disorders that are common in adults. Prerequisites: NURS:5032 and NURS:5036. Corequisites: NURS:6701.

NURS:6501 Psychiatric/Mental Health Nursing for Advanced Practice Didactic II 3 s.h.
Builds on prior lifespan content with specific focus on selected populations, families, and groups; students further define and expand their practice of psychiatric/mental health nursing based on the integration of theory, standardized languages, and research; exploration of a variety of approaches and issues of service delivery; emphasis on methods and skills for completing a comprehensive mental health assessment and managing common psychiatric illness in childhood/adolescence and late life. Prerequisites: NURS:6500. Corequisites: NURS:6702.

NURS:6550 Advanced Leadership and Management 3-4 s.h.
Leadership and management concepts and theories; application to roles unique to executive nurse leader in health care organizations in institutional and community settings; emphasis on advanced leadership roles for facilitating, integrating, and coordinating complex structures, processes, and outcomes in health care systems.

NURS:6551 Financial Management 3-4 s.h.
Preparation for nurse leaders and practitioners to use techniques for financial analysis and decision-making for patient care programs across the health care continuum; focus on efficient and effective management of resources for delivery of quality health care services.

NURS:6552 Executive Management in the Organization 3-4 s.h.
Manage operations of patient care services across health care continuum within the framework of an established health care organization; focus on efficient and effective management of the structure, governance, patient care delivery system of care, and outcomes of care.

NURS:6553 Seminar on Innovations 4 s.h.
Strategizing about taking meaningful action, disrupting stable processes, diffusing innovation, and sustaining change; emerging innovations in nursing and health care systems that impact the functions and responsibilities of nurse leaders.

NURS:6554 Seminar on Healthy Work Environments 3 s.h.
Application of leadership and management knowledge specific to creating and sustaining healthy work environments in health care; current and emerging issues focused on health care work environments.

NURS:6555 Care Coordination Across Professional and Organizational Boundaries 3-4 s.h.
Structures, processes, concepts, tools and experience that leads to effective coordination of patient care, case and population health management as well as information, management and financial systems supporting care coordination; knowledge and skills for understanding structures, processes, challenges, solutions and innovations in coordinating patient care across professional disciplines and organizational boundaries; impacts of care coordination issues on patient experience, care quality and costs; evaluate interventions for informed and effective care processes in field experience.

NURS:6556 Marketing and Communications for Health Care Leaders 3 s.h.
Preparation to strategically plan, establish, and manage a customer-centric marketing strategy; focus on marketing frameworks and theories, and development of a strategic marketing approach with appropriate leadership strategy and positioning to ensure customer value; health care leaders' role in the marketing mix, mobilization of partners, crisis management, and crisis communication planning and response skills.

NURS:6557 Clinical Practice Management and Leadership for Advanced Practice Providers 3-4 s.h.
Overview of key aspects for health care provider leadership in clinical practice management and health care enterprise; advanced practice providers are expected to deliver health care services, lead to deliver value, achieve maximum reimbursement, and meet the Institute for Healthcare Improvement's quadruple aims; focus on value management, revenue cycle management, professional leadership, provider leadership, and clinical practice management; students read, discuss, explore, critique, and practice skills related to course topics.

NURS:6701 Advanced Practice Clinical Practicum I 3-4 s.h.
Application of advanced physical assessment, pathophysiology, and diagnostic reasoning in a clinical setting appropriate to a specific population. Prerequisites: NURS:5035 or NURS:5036. Corequisites: NURS:6100 or NURS:6400 or NURS:6410 or NURS:6500 or (NURS:5401 and NURS:6200) or (NURS:6100 and NURS:6200).

NURS:6702 Advanced Practice Clinical Practicum II 3-4 s.h.
Continuation of NURS:6701; emphasis on diagnostic reasoning and formulation of treatment plans. Prerequisites: NURS:6701. Corequisites: NURS:6101 or NURS:6201 or NURS:6401 or NURS:6411 or NURS:6501 or (NURS:6101 and NURS:6201).

NURS:6703 Advanced Practice Clinical Practicum III 1-4 s.h.
Synthesis of role expectations for advanced practice with focus on clinical competencies appropriate to the specialization. Prerequisites: NURS:6702.

NURS:6704 Practicum in Executive Leadership and Management 3-4 s.h.
Immersion experience in application of principles and methods of leadership, management, and evaluation to facilitate health care operations in various settings; student collaboration with a preceptor for mentored in-depth immersion in systems practice.

NURS:6802 Health Policy, Law, and Advocacy 3 s.h.
Issues that shape health care economics and policy development; framework for understanding work of legislators and other policy makers; emphasis on state and national level; health issues in developing countries; health care system, its economics, financing, role of government, not-for-profit entities, and nongovernmental organizations.

NURS:6808 Population Health for Advanced Practice 3 s.h.
Coordination and integration of care delivery for population health and clinical effectiveness across the continuum of care; management of optimized outcomes; emphasis on informatics infrastructure and translation of evidence-based practice to managing care provision and achieving desired outcomes as a result of care provision.

NURS:6809 Advanced Practice Role I: Introduction 2-3 s.h.
Introduction to competencies necessary for advanced nursing practice at the doctoral level; introduction to topics related to knowledge, skills, and abilities that enable doctorate of nursing practice graduates to function as leaders in a health care and nursing practice; topics may include advanced nursing practice role development, communication, collaboration, leadership, ethics, finance, organizational structure, and scope of practice and regulatory issues; first in a two-course sequence. Requirements: doctoral standing.

NURS:6810 Advanced Practice Role II: Integration 2-3 s.h.
Focus on transition to leadership roles that nurses prepared with a Doctor of Nursing Practice degree are expected to fill in practice; students are called upon to demonstrate synthesis of content from previous DNP program courses; discussion of topics pertinent to advanced roles in nursing practice including challenges and opportunities, leadership in health systems and the profession, interprofessional communication and collaboration, conflict management, dissemination of evidence and expertise to improve health care, advocacy and ethical decision-making. Prerequisites: NURS:6809.

NURS:6811 Social Determinants of Health and Health System Inequities 3 s.h.
Social determinants of health outcomes and inequities; social and economic forces that shape them using various perspectives and lenses; conceptualization and measurement of variables representing risk and inequities that serve as the organizing framework for course discussions, including individual and social factors; critical analysis of research studies for social bias.

NURS:6826 Doctor of Nursing Practice Project I 2 s.h.
Identification and analysis of a practice, system, or policy problem related to advanced nursing practice; development of an evidence-based proposal to improve outcomes for a group, population, or community; project will reflect student's independent scholarship and includes 370 minimum cumulative hours in the Doctor of Nursing Practice project series; first in a four-course sequence. Requirements: doctoral standing.

NURS:6827 Doctor of Nursing Practice Project II 1-2 s.h.
Students finalize their proposal, obtain project site approvals, complete human subjects review, begin implementation once approved, and prepare for project evaluation; project reflects student's independent scholarship; Doctor of Nursing Practice project series; second in a four-course sequence. Prerequisites: NURS:6826. Requirements: doctoral standing.

NURS:6828 Doctor of Nursing Practice Project III 1-2 s.h.
Students continue implementation, begin to evaluate outcomes of their chosen project, and prepare a rough draft of documents for defense of the project; project will reflect the student's independent scholarship; Doctor of Nursing Practice project series; third in a four-course sequence. Prerequisites: NURS:6827. Requirements: doctoral standing.

NURS:6829 Doctor of Nursing Practice Project IV 1-2 s.h.
Students finish evaluation; prepare and defend their project to faculty, peers, and the community; and give a final report to the project site; project will reflect student's independent scholarship; Doctor of Nursing Practice project series; fourth in a four-course sequence. Prerequisites: NURS:6828. Requirements: doctoral standing.

NURS:6900 Computational Intelligence 3 s.h.
Concepts, models, algorithms, and tools for development of intelligent systems; data mining, expert systems, neural networks for engineering, medical and systems applications. Same as ISE:6350.

NURS:7000 Philosophy and Sociology of Nursing Science 3 s.h.
Introduction to philosophical, historical, and sociological underpinnings of contemporary science and traces history of nursing as scientific and applied discipline; exploration of the nature of knowledge, different ways of knowing, history of science, various philosophical approaches, goals of knowledge generation; analysis of sociology of science to identify the norms, cultural and political influences, differences among scientific disciplines; emphasis on interdisciplinary science; identification of concepts and conceptual definitions, especially as these differ across disciplines. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7001 Qualitative Research 4 s.h.
Provides a foundation in the design of qualitative and mixed methods research and analysis of qualitative and mixed methods data; emphasis on interactions among research purpose, question, aims, and interaction of that triad with sampling, setting, data collection, and analysis; using interpretive description as an exemplar, students design and conduct a small qualitative study relevant to their own interests; College of Nursing faculty present overviews of methods in which they have expertise, such as feminist research, ethnography, and narrative. Prerequisites: NURS:7000 and NURS:7002 and NURS:7006. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7002 Designing Research 3 s.h.
Introduction to designing research studies; identifying a problem and determining overall goal of the study; research goal subsequently leading to purpose, specific aims, and choice of a specific design; focus on issues related to maintaining continuity throughout the design of a study. Prerequisites: NURS:7000 and NURS:7006. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7003 Quantitative Research 4 s.h.
Refinement of student's understanding of the application of scientific logic; discussion of various quantitative methods; sampling theory and approaches to sample selection, recruitment, and methods to avoid bias; issues related to study validity, intervention development and evaluation, instrument selection, management of large data sets, and maintenance of data integrity; lab is designed as a workshop using guided exercises, peer sharing, and collaborative work groups to provide experiences integrated with content covered in didactic section of the course. Prerequisites: NURS:7002 and NURS:7006.

NURS:7006 Theory and Model Development 3 s.h.
Critical role of theories in science and the importance of continuous refinement of theory throughout a program of research; focus on theory construction and model building; examination of relationships linking concepts; analysis of structure, scope, and forms of theories/models; construction of micro- or mid-range theories/models using positivistic and inductive approaches; emphasis on critical analysis of literature. Prerequisites: NURS:7000. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7310 Measurement in Health Research 3 s.h.
How to develop and employ measures that are operationalized within the context of theories and conceptual models; sound measurement principles and practices, as well as adequate testing for reliability and validity using appropriate methods and procedures. Prerequisites: NURS:7006.

NURS:7404 Biological Markers in Health Research 3 s.h.
Use of biomarkers as surrogate clinical endpoints, measure of behavior, and measures of exposures; judicious integration of biomarkers into an overall program of health research in light of pertinent considerations, including validity and reliability, feasibility and cost. Prerequisites: NURS:6811 and NURS:7002 and NURS:7003.

NURS:7509 Research Residency 1-3 s.h.
Participation in a research project based on an individualized plan of study, under guidance of an experienced researcher; students register with the respective faculty member for a residency that takes place at the University of Iowa, or register with their advisor for a residency that takes place outside the University of Iowa. Requirements: admission to the PhD in nursing.

NURS:7800 Independent Study arr.
Supervised study adjusted to needs of doctoral degree students. Requirements: doctoral enrollment.

NURS:7801 Seminar: Research Scholarship Role Development 2 s.h.
Preparation for successful completion of doctoral coursework, comprehensive examination, and dissertation; faculty-guided structure provides opportunities for students to assimilate knowledge and behavior of a scholar and activities that facilitate and optimize socialization and success as nurse scientists and academic faculty. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7803 Research Practicum I 2 s.h.
First of two practicums that serve as a system of apprenticeship by which students are mentored through selected aspects of scientific processes, methodologies, analysis, and dissemination of results; projects relevant to student's area of study. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7804 Research Practicum II 2 s.h.
Second of two practicums that serve as a system of apprenticeship by which students are mentored through selected aspects of scientific processes, methodologies, analysis, and dissemination of results; project relevant to student's area of study. Requirements: PhD standing.

NURS:7805 Dissertation Research arr.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing, BSN

The College of Nursing offers two paths to the Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN): a prelicensure program for students who do not hold a nursing license (see the Bachelor of Science in Nursing [p. 2018] in this section of the catalog) and a program for registered nurses (see Nursing–RN [p. 2020] in this section of the catalog).

The BSN programs prepare students for careers caring for patients in hospitals and in community agencies such as public health services, schools, homes, and industries. They also provide a base for graduate study in nursing.

In addition to combining general education with specialized career preparation, the University of Iowa programs in nursing offer the advantage of full participation in the social, cultural, and recreational activities of a highly diverse campus community. A university education enables students to prepare for a career as well as a life of thought and action informed by knowledge, introspection, and contemplation.

The BSN programs provide a basis for nurses' roles in wellness and health promotion, in acute care, and in long-term care for chronic illness. The professional nurse may provide care to individuals, families, groups, and communities along a continuum of health, illness, and disability in any sector of the health care system.

In addition to providing care, the nurse serves as a coordinator of health care by organizing and facilitating the delivery of comprehensive, efficient, and appropriate service to individuals, families, groups, and communities. The nurse demonstrates the ability to conceptualize the total continuing health needs of the patient, including legal and ethical aspects of care. The University of Iowa programs' goal is to produce graduates who are competent, committed, creative, and compassionate.

Programs designed to lead to professional licensure are subject to federal regulations regarding informational disclosures. Please see Professional Licensure Disclosures by Program for further information.

Learning Outcomes

Graduates of the Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) will be able to:

- ensure delivery of safe, quality nursing care to diverse individuals, families, groups, communities, and populations throughout the lifespan and across systems of care;
- integrate theoretical and scientific knowledge gained from natural and social sciences, and culture, society, and the liberal arts into nursing;
- demonstrate leadership and teamwork skills across systems of care to promote quality health outcomes;
- use the best evidence from multiple ways of knowing to inform practice to make clinical judgments, solve problems, and address system improvements;
- demonstrate a basic understanding of how health care policy, regulation, resource stewardship, technology, and economics impact nursing practice and quality health outcomes;
- use effective interprofessional communication and collaboration strategies to promote quality health outcomes;
- apply health promotion and disease prevention strategies to diverse individuals, families, groups, communities, and populations to promote quality health outcomes; and
- demonstrate professional values fundamental to the discipline of nursing.

Expenses and Insurance

Students pay University of Iowa student fees throughout the BSN program. They must purchase uniforms, shoes, a stethoscope, and a watch with a full-sweep second hand, and they must pay the cost of computer testing, supplies, and materials for required nursing courses. All nursing students arrange and pay for their own health screening requirements, health insurance, and transportation once they are enrolled in clinical nursing courses. They also pay fees that cover the cost of criminal background checks, laboratory equipment, professional liability insurance, and simulation.

Mandatory Health Insurance

Upon admission to the College of Nursing and each August after, BSN prelicensure students must provide verification that they have obtained and currently hold health insurance that satisfies the following minimal standards of coverage (or an equivalent alternative health care plan):

- $250,000 lifetime benefit;
- coverage for hospitalization, including coverage for room and board, physician visits, surgeon services, X-ray, and lab services;
- inpatient deductible under an individual policy not exceeding $500 per admission and a 20% copayment/coinsurance requirement; and
- coverage for medically necessary care, including physician services, X-ray, and lab services for the treatment of emergencies, illness, accident, and injury.

Professional Liability Insurance

All students in the College of Nursing are required to carry professional liability insurance throughout the duration of their program. Agencies that provide clinical practicums for College of Nursing programs require that students have insurance coverage. BSN prelicensure students and nursing–RN students are covered by a group policy supported by student fees.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing

The Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) prelicensure program of study requires a minimum of 128 s.h., including 64 s.h. in the nursing major and 64 s.h. in supporting coursework that is a prerequisite to the nursing major. The program is intended for students beginning their education in nursing. All students must earn a grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.00 to earn the degree.

BSN students may complete their entire program at Iowa, enrolling in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences to complete courses that are prerequisites to the nursing major, or they may transfer from an institution that offers comparable prerequisite courses that are approved by the University of Iowa and the College of Nursing. University of Iowa students who have declared an interest in the prelicensure nursing program are advised at the university's Academic Advising Center until they are admitted to the College of Nursing. They must earn standard admission to the College of Nursing once they have completed the prerequisite coursework. Students who earn standard admission to the College of Nursing have five semesters to complete prerequisite coursework. They begin work for the nursing major in the spring of their third year and complete the major in four semesters, earning the BSN degree.

Highly qualified applicants may be admitted to the College of Nursing directly under the BSN direct admission program; see Admission [p. 2021] in this section of the catalog. Students who are part of the BSN direct admission program spend their first four semesters (two years) on prerequisite coursework and complete the requirements for the nursing major during the next four semesters (their third and fourth years), earning the BSN in a total of four academic years.

Nursing courses are based on concepts of health, deviations from health, and nursing intervention. Coursework progresses in complexity across the curriculum. The curriculum reflects the current trend in health care delivery toward an emphasis on nursing as a service provided both inside and outside hospitals. Students have access to clinical experiences selected from a multitude of agencies in Iowa and around the country. After admission to the College of Nursing, each student is assigned a professional advisor in the college's Felton Student Success Center.

The following coursework is required for BSN students.

Requirements	Hours
General Education Prerequisites	13
Natural Science Prerequisites	23
Social Science Prerequisites	9-10
Other Prerequisites	19
Courses Required for the Major	64

The BSN prelicensure program requires the following coursework. Students must complete the prerequisite coursework before beginning the work required for the major in nursing.

Prerequisite Courses

All of the following prerequisites must be completed prior to enrolling in the nursing major courses. Any high school deficiencies must be completed or satisfied with collegiate coursework. Students work with their academic advisor to ensure these requirements are complete.

General Education Prerequisites

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
RHET:1030	Rhetoric: Writing and Communication	4
International and Global Issues course		3
Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts course		3
Values and Society or Understanding Cultural Perspectives course		3

Natural Science Prerequisites

Honors in Nursing

The College of Nursing Honors Program provides seminars and independent study experience for qualified students. In order to pursue honors studies in nursing, students must maintain a University of Iowa GPA and a nursing major GPA of at least 3.50.

The honors program in nursing enables students to explore subject matter based on individual interests, needs, and goals. It provides opportunities for self-initiative, research experience, scholarly writing, and intellectual and personal development, and it challenges students to grow and excel. Students who fulfill the requirements of the program graduate with honors in nursing.

In addition to honors in their majors, prelicensure BSN students have a variety of opportunities for honors study and activities through membership in the University of Iowa Honors Program; visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the university's honors program.

Nursing–RN

The nursing–RN program of study requires 32 s.h. of credit. Students must hold a valid nursing license (RN) and an Associate Degree in Nursing or Diploma in Nursing. They must maintain a grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.00 to earn the BSN.

The program is designed to offer registered nurses the opportunity to build on their nursing knowledge and experience by earning a Bachelor of Science in Nursing. Students take courses that focus on professionalism and patient safety, research, improvement of health systems, leadership, professional engagement, and community and public health.

Students may transfer coursework completed at other colleges and universities to satisfy the prerequisites, general education requirements, and electives for admission to the College of Nursing (see "Admission to the Nursing–RN Program" under Admission [p. 2021] in this section of the catalog). Once a student is admitted to the program, the student has the option of completing the required 32 s.h. in three, four, or five semesters.

The program is delivered online, with limited face-to-face meetings for the community health practicum experience and leadership project. Students must complete a practicum experience or an immersion experience in Eswatini, Africa, and may be required to drive up to 100 miles to a regional practicum setting.

The College of Nursing participates as a receiving institution in the Iowa Statewide Articulation Plan for Nursing Education: RN to Baccalaureate.

The nursing–RN program requires the following College of Nursing coursework.

Courses Required for the Major

Course #	Title	Hours
NURS:3111	Caring for Vulnerable Populations	3
NURS:3160	Professional Role I: Professionalism and Patient Safety	3
NURS:3460	Professional Role II: Research	3
NURS:3518	Pathology	3
NURS:3650	Community and Public Health Nursing	3
NURS:3655	Community and Public Health Nursing Practicum	2
NURS:3660	Professional Role III: Improving Health Systems	3
NURS:3734	Introduction to Human Genetics	3
NURS:4160	Professional Role IV: Leadership and Professional Engagement	5
NURS:4170	Baccalaureate Seminar	1
Nursing electives		3
Total Hours		32

See RN–BSN Plans of Study on the College of Nursing website for semester-by-semester views of required coursework for full-time (three semesters) and part-time (four or five semesters) study for fall and spring entry.

Honors in Nursing

The College of Nursing Honors Program provides seminars and independent study experience for qualified students. In order to pursue honors studies in nursing, students must maintain a University of Iowa GPA and a nursing major GPA of at least 3.50.

The honors program in nursing enables students to explore subject matter based on individual interests, needs, and goals. It provides opportunities for self-initiative, research experience, scholarly writing, intellectual and personal development, and it challenges students to grow and excel. Students who fulfill the requirements of the program graduate with honors in nursing.

Nursing–RN/3+1 Agreements

Agreements With Area Community Colleges in Iowa

The nursing–RN program at the College of Nursing has RN to BSN 3+1 agreements with area community colleges in Iowa for qualifying nursing graduates to seamlessly transfer to the UI College of Nursing to finish their Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) degree in one year. Under the 3+1 structure, nursing students stay in their three-year program at a community college and then complete the BSN degree in one year (three semesters).

The nursing–RN program at the College of Nursing provides access to baccalaureate education for nurses throughout the state. The 3+1 partnership provides enhanced opportunities for unparalleled leadership experience while allowing students to continue working in their communities as they complete their degree.

See RN to BSN 3+1 on the College of Nursing website for the agreements with multiple higher education institutions around the state of Iowa.

Combined Programs

Nursing–RN/DNP

Students in the RN subprogram of the BSN who are interested in earning a Doctor of Nursing Practice degree with an adult gerontology primary care nurse practitioner, family nurse practitioner, health systems, or pediatric nurse practitioner–primary care subprogram may apply to the combined program offered by the College of Nursing. For information about the DNP degree, see the Doctor of Nursing Practice, DNP [p. 2029] in the catalog.

See RN–BSN Plans of Study on the College of Nursing website for semester-by-semester views of required coursework for Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) Nursing–RN/DNP study for fall and spring entry.

Admission

Students entering the university who are not registered nurses (RN) apply to the BSN prelicensure program. Registered nurses apply to the nursing–RN (RN–BSN) program.

International students seeking admission into the College of Nursing as a first-year or transfer student, who are citizens of a country in which English is not the official language, must score at least 100 (internet-based) on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL).

University of Iowa students who have not earned admission to the College of Nursing must present a minimum iBT of 80 with no subscore lower than 17, and complete the English Proficiency Evaluation (unless they have a TOEFL score of 100 or higher on the iBT). Students may be required to complete English as a Second Language course work if specified as a result of the English Proficiency Evaluation. If such course work is required, it must be completed prior to the start of the nursing major.

Registered nurses educated outside the United States are required to present verification of having passed the Commission on Graduates of Foreign Nursing Schools (CGFNS) examination and specified Excelsior baccalaureate nursing examinations.

Applicants admitted to the College of Nursing are expected to be able to meet the curriculum's performance standards; see the section titled "Technical Standards."

A criminal background check is conducted for all prelicensure and undergraduate students before they begin the nursing major. Admission to all programs is conditional pending a successful review of criminal background and abuse registry.

Admission to the BSN Prelicensure Program

All applicants to the BSN prelicensure program (direct and standard admission applicants) must have satisfied the following minimum high school course requirements.

- English: four years.
- Mathematics: three years, including algebra I, algebra II, and geometry.
- Science: one full year of biology, chemistry, and physics in each subject.
- Social science: three years.
- World languages: four years (fourth-level proficiency) of the same world language; or two years (second-level proficiency) in two different world languages; or two years of the same world language plus one 3 s.h. course from the GE CLAS Core [p. 22] International and Global Issues, Values and Society, Understanding Cultural Perspectives, or World Languages and Cultural Exploration.

BSN Direct Admission

A select group of highly qualified students is admitted to the College of Nursing directly from high school through the BSN Direct Admission Program. To be considered for direct admission, students must meet the following requirements:

- a grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.80, and
- completion of all the minimum high school course requirements listed under "Admission to the BSN Prelicensure Program."

High school requirements must be satisfied prior to enrollment at the University of Iowa.

Students admitted through the Direct Admission Program must maintain a cumulative GPA of at least 3.00 and remain in good standing during their first four semesters at the University of Iowa. Students who fail to meet these requirements may be subject to probation or dismissal from the College of Nursing.

BSN Standard Admission

In order to apply for standard admission to the College of Nursing, students must:

- have a minimum cumulative GPA of at least 3.00;
- have a minimum of 48 s.h. of college credit at the end of application semester;
- have completed the minimum high school course requirements listed under "Admission to the BSN Prelicensure Program," with any deficiencies satisfied through college coursework; and
- have a grade of C or higher on all prerequisite coursework.

Students must also have completed the following coursework with a grade of C or higher. All natural sciences coursework must have been completed within 10 years of enrollment in the nursing major.

Course #	Title	Hours
Natural Sciences
All of these or comparable courses:
CHEM:1070	General Chemistry I	3
CHEM:1080	General Chemistry II	3
BIOL:1141	Human Biology: Health Professions	4
At least one of these:
HHP:2100	Human Anatomy	3
HHP:2310	Nutrition and Health	3
HHP:2400	Fundamentals of Human Physiology	3
MICR:3164	Microbiology and Human Health	4
Social Science
At least one of these:
NURS:1030	Human Development and Behavior	3
PSY:1001	Elementary Psychology	3
SOC:1010	Introduction to Sociology	3-4

If admitted to the College of Nursing, successful standard admission applicants must:

- maintain a cumulative GPA of at least 3.00;
- have a minimum of 64 s.h. of college credit; and
- have completed all prerequisite coursework under the Bachelor of Science in Nursing [p. 2018], and degree requirements except nursing courses prior to enrollment/ matriculation in the nursing major courses.

Admission to the Nursing–RN Program

Applicants to the program must hold an RN license and an Associate Degree in Nursing or Diploma in Nursing. They must have a cumulative GPA of at least 3.00. Admission is highly competitive, with emphasis on the natural sciences (anatomy, biology, chemistry, microbiology, physiology), writing (composition I and II), and mathematics (statistics). World language is not an admission requirement.

Technical Standards

Applicants to the College of Nursing are expected to be capable of completing the entire nursing curriculum and earning a BSN degree. Nursing is a practice discipline with cognitive, sensory, affective, and psychomotor performance requirements. The college's technical standards provide an objective measure on which to base informed decisions about whether individual students will be able to participate in the nursing program. Technical standards also help students determine whether they will need accommodations or modifications in order to participate.

The technical standards are provided to all students before matriculation and are available online in the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Handbook; see Section VIII: Clinical Course and Health Science Student Requirements. Students with disabilities who believe that they may need assistance in meeting the core performance standards should contact Student Disability Services.

Selection

The college's admission committee recommends to the dean the applicants who appear to be best qualified. Fulfillment of minimum admission requirements does not guarantee admission to the College of Nursing. The committee may require personal interviews. A physical examination report and specific health screening requirements must be on file at University of Iowa Student Health 10 days before the class opens for the first clinical nursing course.

Application Deadlines

- BSN prelicensure direct admission
- BSN prelicensure standard admission
- Nursing–RN (RN to BSN) program (admission occurs fall and spring)

Financial Support

In addition to general assistance available to university students, there are assistance programs specifically for nursing students. Information about financial aid is available from the university's Office of Student Financial Aid.

Career Advancement

The University of Iowa's BSN program provides broad preparation in clinical, scientific, community health, and patient education skills, and promises outstanding career options. With a BSN degree, students are eligible to work as a staff nurse; flight nurse; a nurse on medical, oncology, surgical, pediatric, emergency, or intensive care units; a nurse in outpatient or neighborhood clinics; or a home health care nurse.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics projects that employment for registered nurses to be among the top occupations in terms of job growth through 2033.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

g Recommended. If considering graduate studies please contact your desired school to learn about the statistics requirements.

h Please see Academic Calendar, on Office of the Registrar website, for current degree application deadlines. Students should apply for a degree for the session in which all requirements will be met. For any questions on appropriate timing, contact your academic advisor or Degree Services.

Master of Science in Nursing, MSN

The College of Nursing offers the Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) with three subprogram focus areas: entry into practice, clinical nurse leader (CNL), and nursing systems administration (NSA).

Programs designed to lead to professional licensure are subject to federal regulations regarding informational disclosures. Please see Professional Licensure Disclosures by Program for further information.

Learning Outcomes

Clinical Nurse Leader and Nursing Systems Administration

Graduates will be able to:

- lead unit-level teams to achieve nursing and organizational goals;
- collect, decipher, and analyze data to produce action plans to improve quality;
- promote the adoption, integration, and sustainability of evidence-based practices;
- pursue lifelong learning to support one's professional identity; and
- design innovative nursing practice environments for patient care and the workforce.

Entry Into Practice

Graduates will be able to:

- ensure delivery of safe quality nursing care to diverse individuals, families, groups, communities, and populations throughout the lifespan and across systems of care;
- integrate theoretical and scientific knowledge gained from natural and social sciences and culture, society, and the liberal arts into nursing;
- use leadership skills across systems of care to promote equitable, safe, and quality health care outcomes;
- use the best evidence from multiple ways of knowing to inform practice to make clinical judgments, solve problems, and address systems improvements;
- analyze how health care policy, regulation, technology, and economics impact nursing practice and the delivery of care;
- use effective interprofessional communication and collaboration strategies to promote quality health outcomes;
- apply health promotion and disease prevention strategies to diverse individuals, families, groups, communities, and populations to promote quality health outcomes;
- demonstrate professional values fundamental to the discipline of nursing; and
- apply evidence-based, person-centered care services across the health care continuum.

Requirements

The Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) requires 33, 39, or 66 s.h., depending on the subprogram students choose to complete. Students maintain a Graduate College program grade-point average of at least 2.75.

Graduate students in the College of Nursing must adhere to all Graduate College policies regarding academic standing, probation, and dismissal. Transfer credit applicable to the MSN is limited and must be approved by the program director and College of Nursing associate dean for undergraduate/RN programs or associate dean for graduate practice programs. Coursework taken 10 years or more before the MSN final examination must be updated according to university policy.

MSN Subprograms

- Clinical Nurse Leader (CNL) [p. 2024]
- Entry Into Practice [p. 2025]
- Nursing Systems Administration (NSA) [p. 2026]

Clinical Nurse Leader (CNL)

The Master of Science in Nursing with a clinical nurse leader subprogram is not admitting new students for 2025–26.

The Master of Science in Nursing with a clinical nurse leader subprogram requires 39 s.h. of credit, including a core component of 21 s.h., which students take with College of Nursing doctoral students, and a specialization component of 18 s.h. that centers on the clinical nurse leader role. The clinical nurse leader subprogram focuses on improving the quality of patient care and helping professional nurses to thrive in the health care system. The clinical nurse leader role has demonstrated effectiveness in improving outcomes, elevating current evidence-based practice, enhancing quality, and providing continuous leadership in the microsystem.

Students must successfully complete a capstone immersion.

Two-Year Plan

The MSN with a clinical nurse leader subprogram requires the following coursework for a two-year plan.

First Year, Two-Year Plan

Course #	Title	Hours
NURS:5009	Evaluating Evidence for Practice	3
NURS:5017	Quality and Safety	3
NURS:5018	Clinical Education in the Care Environment (offered in summer odd years)	3
NURS:5021	Physiology, Pathophysiology, and Pharmacology I for the Clinical Nurse Leader	3
NURS:5022	Physiology, Pathophysiology, and Pharmacology II for the Clinical Nurse Leader	3
NURS:5636	Clinical Nurse Leader Seminar	3

Entry Into Practice

The Master of Science in Nursing with an entry into practice subprogram requires 66 s.h. of credit. The subprogram is an innovative program located on the Iowa City campus. It can be completed in five sessions. The entry into practice subprogram leads to a MSN degree that prepares students who do not currently have a nursing degree an opportunity to enter the health care workforce quickly. Class sizes are small and offer unparalleled educational excellence and clinical practice.

The MSN with an entry into practice subprogram requires the following coursework.

First Year, Entry Into Practice

Course #	Title	Hours
NURS:3128	Health Assessment and Communication Across the Lifespan	3
NURS:3138	Nursing and Pharmacological Interventions I	5
NURS:3151	Introduction to Clinical Concepts for Nursing	2
NURS:3438	Nursing and Pharmacological Interventions II	5
NURS:3451	Basic Clinical Concepts for Nursing	1
NURS:3640	Psychiatric/Mental Health Nursing	3

Nursing Systems Administration (NSA)

The Master of Science in Nursing with a nursing systems administration subprogram requires 33 s.h. of credit. It can be completed on a two-and-a-half year plan (five semesters). The subprogram focuses on preparing nurse leaders to serve in a variety of managerial and leadership capacities in all practice environments. The program focuses on graduate-level practice in nursing and health care leadership and the interventions that influence health care outcomes for individuals, populations, or systems.

Students must successfully complete a graduate-level guided capstone program implementation project.

The MSN with a nursing systems administration subprogram requires the following coursework.

First Year, NSA

Course #	Title	Hours
NURS:5002	Leadership and Management Essentials	3
NURS:5009	Evaluating Evidence for Practice	3
NURS:6550	Advanced Leadership and Management	3
NURS:6553	Seminar on Innovations	4

Admission

Applicants to College of Nursing graduate programs must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Applicants must have a grade-point average of at least 3.00. A criminal background check is required for all students upon admission. The College of Nursing has additional application requirements, as follows.

Admission to the MSN Program

Application requirements specific to the MSN program are:

- transcripts from institutions for all undergraduate and graduate coursework; and
- completion of an upper-level statistics course within five years of the application deadline (acceptable University of Iowa courses include BIOS:4120 Introduction to Biostatistics, PSQF:4143 Introduction to Statistical Methods, STAT:3510 Biostatistics, and STAT:4143 Introduction to Statistical Methods).

Applications are reviewed once a year. To be reviewed, the application must be complete with all materials submitted.

Due to the level of web-based coursework required, international students in the MSN subprograms are not eligible for F–1 or J–1 student immigration status. Questions regarding visas and immigration documentation should be directed to International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS).

Additional Application Requirements

- Admission to the Clinical Nurse Leader Subprogram [p. 2026]
- Admission to the Entry Into Practice Subprogram [p. 2026]
- Admission to the Nursing Systems Administration Subprogram [p. 2027]

Admission to the Clinical Nurse Leader Subprogram

Additional application requirements specific to the MSN with a clinical nurse leader subprogram are:

- a bachelor's or advanced degree with a major in nursing from an accredited program;
- approximately one year of experience;
- satisfaction of the legal requirements for the practice of nursing;
- current written recommendations from three persons knowledgeable about the applicant's competence in the practice of nursing and potential for leadership and scholarship (forms required); and
- a current résumé, goal statement (statement of purpose), statement of disclosure, and supplemental/information form.

Applicant interviews are required, and in some cases, virtual interviews may be arranged.

Admission to the Entry Into Practice Subprogram

Additional application requirements specific to the MSN with an entry into practice subprogram are:

- a bachelor's or advanced degree in a discipline other than nursing from an accredited college or university;
- completion of natural sciences courses within 10 years and/or a combination of related experience and training that provides the knowledge and abilities necessary to meet the objectives of the courses;
- completion of prerequisite coursework at the time of application (on track to have no more than two natural sciences and one social science unfinished at the end of the application semester);
- successful background and abuse checks;
- current written recommendations from three persons knowledgeable about the applicant's potential for the practice of nursing and leadership and scholarship

(required forms provided at the time of application by the Graduate College); and
- other forms, including a leadership and experiences form, a statement of purpose form (two essay questions), a statement of disclosure form, and a justification form (if applicable).

Applicant interviews are required, and in some cases, virtual interviews may be arranged.

Applicants to the MSN entry into practice subprogram whose first language is not English and who do not meet the requirements for a waiver are required to submit English proficiency scores. For a complete list of accepted English proficiency exams, score requirements, and waiver eligibility, please refer to the English Proficiency Requirements on the Graduate Admissions website.

Prerequisites for Natural and Social Sciences

To be considered for admission, a maximum of two natural sciences courses and one social science course can be incomplete at the application deadline; all must be completed prior to enrollment in the MSN entry into practice subprogram.

Natural Science Prerequisites

Course #	Title	Hours
These are the courses that are considered prerequisites; applicants need equivalent coursework to these UI courses:
BIOL:1141	Human Biology: Health Professions	4
CHEM:1070	General Chemistry I	3
CHEM:1080	General Chemistry II	3
HHP:2310	Nutrition and Health	3
HHP:2400	Fundamentals of Human Physiology	3
MICR:3164	Microbiology and Human Health	4
NURS:3518	Pathology	3
And one of these:
ACB:3110	Principles of Human Anatomy	3
HHP:2100	Human Anatomy	3

Social Science Prerequisites

Course #	Title	Hours
These are the courses that are considered prerequisites; applicants need equivalent coursework to these UI courses:
NURS:1030	Human Development and Behavior	3
And any two of these:
ANTH:1101/IS:1101	Cultural Anthropology	3
PSY:1001	Elementary Psychology	3
SOC:1010	Introduction to Sociology	3-4
SOC:1030	Contemporary Social Problems	3-4

Admission to the Nursing Systems Administration Subprogram

Additional application requirements specific to the MSN with a nursing systems administration subprogram are:

- a bachelor's or advanced degree with a major in nursing from an accredited program;
- approximately one year of experience;
- satisfaction of the legal requirements for the practice of nursing;
- current written recommendations from three persons knowledgeable about the applicant's competence in the practice of nursing and potential for leadership and scholarship (forms required); and
- a current résumé, goal statement (statement of purpose), statement of disclosure, and supplemental/information form.

Applicant interviews are required, and in some cases, virtual interviews may be arranged.

Application Deadlines

Application deadlines for the MSN subprograms are:

- MSN with clinical nurse leader subprogram: Feb. 1 for fall entry.
- MSN with entry into practice subprogram: March 15 for spring entry.
- MSN with nursing systems administration subprogram: Feb. 1 for fall entry.

Career Advancement

The MSN clinical nurse leader and nursing systems administration subprograms prepare nurses to be equipped with knowledge and skills to lead change, promote health, and elevate care in various roles and settings. Graduates of these subprograms are prepared for critical action with complex, changing systems, including health, educational, and organizational systems.

The MSN entry into practice subprogram prepares non-nurse college graduates of all academic backgrounds to become practicing nurses. Upon graduation, students will be prepared to take the NCLEX–RN nursing licensure exam to be licensed as a registered nurse.

Academic Plans

Doctor of Nursing Practice, DNP

The Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) program is designed to prepare clinicians with the knowledge and skills to provide the highest standard of care for individuals, families, and communities and navigate today's complex health care systems. Nurse managers and administrators will gain the knowledge and skills necessary to develop, implement, and monitor programs of care and policies in complex organizations.

Programs designed to lead to professional licensure are subject to federal regulations regarding informational disclosures. Please see Professional Licensure Disclosures by Program for further information.

Learning Outcomes

Graduates will be able to:

- utilize scientific underpinnings for nursing practice;
- demonstrate organizational and systems leadership;
- evaluate clinical scholarship and analytical methods for evidence-based practice;
- evaluate information systems and patient care technology for the improvement and transformation of health care;
- influence health care policy for advocacy in health care;
- collaborate interprofessionally to improve patient and population health outcomes;
- design clinical prevention and population health interventions; and
- demonstrate expertise in advanced nursing practice.

Requirements

The Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) requires a minimum of 73 s.h. of graduate credit. Students may complete the program in three to five years, depending on their focus area. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

DNP students complete basic graduate core courses, specialty courses, advanced core courses, and practicums. In didactic coursework, they explore clinical leadership, public policy and advocacy, specialty systems, change theory, finance and business, and entrepreneurial tools.

Those who enter the program with a master's degree must complete a minimum of 72 s.h., although some coursework from the master's degree program may count toward the DNP degree. Students who enter with a non-nursing master's degree who are interested in pursuing a focus in health administration can complete DNP degree requirements in health systems. Individuals who have been granted an MSN/APRN may complete the DNP with a minimum of 29 s.h. of graduate credit earned at the University of Iowa after DNP program admission and with a minimum of 43 s.h. of transfer credit previously earned from the UI or elsewhere.

Students must complete a minimum of 1,000 practice experience hours. Individuals who enter the program having completed an MSN may transfer approved clinical hours from their MSN program to the DNP program. The clinical hours requirement is evaluated for each student who has completed an MSN with a specialty program. Students who completed more than 1,000 practice experience hours in an MSN advanced practice program still must complete the number of DNP practicum and project hours determined in consultation with their advisor and the DNP program director.

Students may choose from a number of specialties, including adult gerontology acute care nurse practitioner, adult gerontology primary care nurse practitioner, anesthesia nursing, family nurse practitioner, pediatric nurse practitioner—acute care, pediatric nurse practitioner—primary care, psychiatric/mental health nurse practitioner, and health systems. For yearly plans that detail coursework in these specialty areas, see the following section, "Plans of Study." Visit DNP Plans of Study on the College of Nursing website for a semester-by-semester view of required coursework for each DNP specialty.

A dual certification program is available that allows students to combine two of the nurse practitioner specialties (excluding anesthesia nursing). In addition, a combined program is available for BSN students with the nursing-RN subprogram who are interested in earning the DNP degree with an adult gerontology primary care nurse practitioner, health systems, or pediatric nurse practitioner—primary care subprogram.

Students must adhere to all Graduate College policies regarding academic standing, probation, dismissal, and transfer of graduate credit. Transfer credit applicable to the DNP is limited and must be approved by the DNP program director and the College of Nursing associate dean for graduate practice programs. Transcripts for individuals who have completed an MSN are evaluated individually.

Admission

Applicants to College of Nursing graduate programs must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Applicants must have a grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.00; applicants for the dual certification programs must have a minimum GPA of at least 3.50. A criminal background check is required for all students upon admission. The College of Nursing has additional application requirements, as follows.

Admission to the DNP Program

Application requirements specific to the DNP program are:

- a bachelor's or advanced degree with a major in nursing from a Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) or National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission (NLNAC) accredited nursing program;
- satisfaction of the legal requirements for the practice of nursing;
- current written recommendations from three persons knowledgeable about the applicant's competence in the practice of nursing and potential for leadership and scholarship (forms required);
- a current résumé, goal statement (statement of purpose), statement of disclosure, and supplemental/information form;
- transcripts from all undergraduate and graduate coursework;
- DNP applicants to the direct care programs with master's degrees in nursing from other schools must provide verification of completed clinical hours from their institution's graduate director or must submit appropriate course syllabi;
- additional application requirements for post-APRN MSN to DNP applicants include providing verification of an MSN in a recognized ARNP specialty and proof of certification;
- an upper-level statistics course (undergraduate course at junior/senior level) completed within five years of application deadline except for post-APRN MSN to DNP applicants; acceptable University of Iowa courses are STAT:3510 Biostatistics, PSQF:4143 Introduction to Statistical Methods, STAT:4143 Introduction to Statistical Methods, or BIOS:4120 Introduction to Biostatistics (equivalent courses from other colleges also are accepted), and the upper-level statistics course must have a letter grade of C-minus or higher; and
- specific clinical experience requirements working as a registered nurse are required if applying to subprograms of adult gerontology acute care nurse practitioner, pediatric nurse practitioner–acute care, and anesthesia nursing. Visit DNP Admission Information FAQs on the College of Nursing website for specific work experience requirements.

For statistics courses taken at another institution, refer to that institution's catalog or registrar's office to verify course numbering scheme. Community college courses are not acceptable as an admission prerequisite statistics course. For further questions regarding the admission upper-level statistics course requirement, contact the College of Nursing graduate programs office.

Due to the level of web-based coursework required, international students in the DNP program of study are not eligible for F–1, F–2, or J–1 student immigration status. Questions regarding visas and immigration documentation should be directed to International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS).

Application Deadlines

The application deadline for the DNP is Feb.1 for all subprograms except anesthesia nursing. The anesthesia nursing subprogram application deadline is June 1.

Career Advancement

The DNP program prepares nurses for leadership and advanced practice roles within today's complex health care system. Graduates acquire the knowledge and skills to provide the highest standard of care for individuals, families, and communities.

Nursing, PhD

Learning Outcomes

The Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) program prepares scholars to advance nursing science and contribute to transdisciplinary efforts to improve health outcomes. Graduates of the program are prepared to be leaders who engage in the three roles highlighted by the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN): develop the science, steward the discipline, and educate the next generation of nurses.

Graduates will:

- master in-depth knowledge in a substantive area of nursing;
- conduct original research that generates new knowledge;
- disseminate research results and articulate implications for policy, practice, and the profession; and
- assimilate evolving roles and responsibilities of a nurse scholar.

Requirements

The Doctor of Philosophy program in nursing requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

The program prepares students to advance nursing science and contribute to the body of nursing knowledge. It emphasizes student participation with faculty members on research teams, focused coursework, presentation and publication of research-based knowledge, and interdisciplinary learning experiences.

Graduate students in the College of Nursing must adhere to all Graduate College policies regarding academic standing, probation, and dismissal. Coursework taken 10 or more years before a student plans to graduate from the PhD program must be updated according to university policy.

The PhD in nursing requires the following coursework.

Admission

Applicants to College of Nursing graduate programs must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

The program is open to individuals who have earned a bachelor's degree in nursing, an associate's degree in nursing with a bachelor's or advanced degree in any field, an advanced degree in nursing, or an advanced degree in a health-related field.

A criminal background check is required for all students upon admission. The College of Nursing has additional application requirements, as follows.

Admission to the PhD Program

PhD applicants who have completed an accredited basic nursing program must hold a current license to practice nursing.

Applicants must have a grade-point average of at least 3.00. They must also have successfully completed an upper-level statistics course within five years prior to the application deadline.

Applicants must submit along with their application:

- a two-to-three-page statement describing their educational objectives, career goals, and an area of research for their doctoral study;
- three recommendations from nursing professionals that speak to the applicant's potential as a scholar;
- a current résumé or curriculum vitae; and
- a complete transcript of all college programs and courses.

Applicants whose first language is not English must score at least 81 (internet-based) on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL); at least 7.0 on the International English Language Testing System (IELTS), with no subscore less than 6; or at least 105 on the Duolingo English Test (DET).

The application deadline for the PhD program is Dec. 1. In order to be reviewed, the applicant's file must be complete, with all materials submitted.

Career Advancement

The PhD program prepares scholars to move nursing and health science forward. Graduates are prepared for careers as faculty members in college and university settings as well as researchers, consultants, and leaders in military, academic, or industry venues and in other nonacademic settings.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Adult Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner, Graduate Certificate

Learning Outcomes

Graduates will be able to:

- demonstrate high-quality, evidence-based clinical competence in the advanced practice care of a new patient population focus;
- utilize scientific underpinnings for the advanced practice care of a new patient population focus; and
- incorporate principles of inclusive, compassionate, person-centered care into the delivery of health care.

Requirements

The graduate Certificate in Adult Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner requires 21 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 2.50 in coursework for the certificate. The certificate is available for post-master's Advanced Practice Registered Nurse (APRN) degree students who would like to pursue a second specialty.

The curriculum includes didactic and clinical core courses as well as specialty courses, as determined by the director of the program. Coursework and clinical hours are determined by a gap analysis.

The hallmarks of a University of Iowa pharmacy degree are patient-centered practice, strong grounding in science and evidence-based practice, exploration of career choices through required and elective courses, and exposure to leadership opportunities within the college, the university, and the profession. Career options may include community and/or hospital pharmacy, public service, consulting, long-term care, teaching and research in academia, managed care, pharmaceutical industry, or research careers.

The University of Iowa's PharmD program synthesizes basic scientific principles and practice through caring and communication in an integrated professional program. The role of a pharmacist ranges from managing medication for individuals to shaping national health care policy. Students learn to manage aspects of practice, solve problems, make clinical decisions, clearly communicate ideas, practice ethically, and become leaders in their communities and professions. Students study with professors who, in many cases, are pioneering the development of new drugs and defining the appropriate use of others to solve chronic health problems.

The College of Pharmacy PhD program offers three areas of graduate study: drug discovery and experimental therapeutics, health services research, and pharmaceutics. The major emphasis of these graduate programs is on research and coursework.

The College of Pharmacy collaborates with the College of Public Health to offer the combined Doctor of Pharmacy/MPH degree, and with the Graduate College to offer the Doctor of Pharmacy/MS in informatics degree. In addition, the College of Pharmacy offers a professional Certificate in Emergency Medicine and Critical Care Pharmacotherapy and a professional Certificate in Palliative Care.

College Organization

The College of Pharmacy's faculty and programs are organized in two academic units. These units provide coursework for the Doctor of Pharmacy curriculum and for the college's graduate programs.

Pharmacy Practice and Science

Faculty in Pharmacy Practice and Science (PPS) provide expertise and education in the professional practice of pharmacy. They specialize in a wide variety of clinical pharmacy practices; conduct research on patient and population outcomes related to medication therapy; contribute to the scholarship of teaching and learning in pharmacy education; and provide instruction in the pharmacist's professional role and the safe, effective use of medications.

This unit offers Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy curricula in health services research, which encompasses the behavioral, economic, social, and administrative sciences; and elements of pharmacy practice. It offers coursework through the Applied Clinical Sciences Division and the Health Services Research Division.

Applied Clinical Sciences (ACS) Division

Teaching and research in this division focus on the delivery of care and related services to patients and the education of student and resident pharmacists in practice settings. Courses are offered in pharmacotherapy, communication and practice skill development, clinical problem solving, and patient care. Professional practice mentoring and education are provided in introductory and advanced pharmacy practice experiences.

Health Services Research (HSR) Division

Teaching and research in this division involve economic, social, behavioral, and administrative components of pharmacy practice and medication use. Courses are offered on the health care system, practice management, the professional and business aspects of pharmacy practice, and learning and applying economic and social psychological theories to the study of health services and medication use.

To learn more about the department and its two divisions, visit Pharmacy Practice and Science on the College of Pharmacy website.

Pharmaceutical Sciences and Experimental Therapeutics

Faculty in Pharmaceutical Sciences and Experimental Therapeutics (PSET) provide expertise and education in areas that include the fundamental basis for drug therapy outcomes in patients, factors responsible for specific drug actions in individual patients and larger patient populations, drug metabolism, pharmaceutical toxicology, organic synthesis, structure-activity relationships, drug design, computer-aided drug discovery, bioanalytical chemistry, biopolymeric drugs, molecular pharmacology, dosage form development and performance, pharmaceutical applications of nanotechnology, industrial and manufacturing pharmacy, pharmacokinetics, and pharmacodynamics.

In addition to its educational roles in the Doctor of Pharmacy program, PSET offers PhD and MS degrees in two graduate areas: drug discovery and experimental therapeutics and pharmaceutics. Drug discovery and experimental therapeutics is for students interested in drug discovery and the development of novel therapeutics. It includes interdisciplinary research experiences in medicinal chemistry, biotherapeutics, pharmacogenetics/genomics, and basic pharmacology/toxicology. Pharmaceutics focuses on the characterization of pharmaceuticals and their component materials, the development of new dosage forms and drug delivery systems, pharmaceutical applications of nanotechnology, and the pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamic evaluation of drug actions and interactions.

The department offers interdisciplinary research opportunities with programs in medicine, chemistry, biochemistry, pharmacology, engineering, dentistry, and public health. Its national and international collaborations further enhance the breadth of research activities available to students.

To learn more, visit Pharmaceutical Sciences and Experimental Therapeutics on the College of Pharmacy website.

Programs

Professional Programs of Study

- Doctor of Pharmacy [p. 2061]
- Professional Certificate in Emergency Medicine and Critical Care Pharmacotherapy [p. 2064]
- Professional Certificate in Palliative Care [p. 2065]

Graduate Programs of Study

- Master of Science in Pharmacy [p. 2066]
- Doctor of Philosophy in Pharmacy [p. 2067]

Facilities

Pharmacy Building

A new, state-of-the-art building has set the stage for advancements in science and discovery, and for world-class pharmacy education to continue to grow and thrive. Classroom space is designed for collaborative and hands-on learning. The building boasts 16 collaborative research spaces and 23 learning spaces—centers and team rooms with aspects of universal design. In addition, the college has added 16,000 square feet of manufacturing space with a sterile products processing facility.

The original facility, now called the Pharmaceutical Sciences Research Building, continues to house classrooms, labs, offices, and a manufacturing facility.

The College of Pharmacy is located on the university's health sciences campus in close proximity to five professional schools. Students collaborate with expert health care providers at the Carver College of Medicine, and at the colleges of Dentistry [p. 1291], Nursing [p. 2006], and Public Health [p. 2073]. The College of Pharmacy is located in close proximity to University of Iowa Health Care, the Bowen Science Building, and the Hardin Library for the Health Sciences.

For more than 125 years, the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy has led the way in educating pharmacists and pharmaceutical scientists. The college is well known for its high-quality pharmacy education, advanced practice models, patient care, drug discovery, product development, and contract manufacturing.

University of Iowa Pharmaceuticals

University of Iowa Pharmaceuticals is a pharmaceutical manufacturing facility registered with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration that develops pharmaceutical dosage forms and has manufactured clinical supplies in compliance with Good Manufacturing Practices since 1974. University of Iowa Pharmaceuticals has clients worldwide, including pharmaceutical companies, biotechnology firms, medical departments, and government agencies. Its staff works closely with clients and pharmaceutics faculty members to produce virtually every type of pharmaceutical dosage form, supplying new pharmaceutical agents for use in clinical trials and other research. For more information, visit the UI Pharmaceuticals website.

Courses

Students must be enrolled in the College of Pharmacy to enroll in professional-level (PharmD) coursework numbered 8000–9999. Students who meet prerequisite requirements may register for the college's undergraduate- and graduate-level courses numbered 1100–7999.

College of Pharmacy Courses

PHAR:1000 First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities).

PHAR:1100 Introduction to Pharmaceutical Sciences: Drug Development 1-2 s.h.
Introduction to drug discovery, development, and approval pathways used in the United States; specific focus on career pathways related to pharmaceutical development including the natural and biomedical sciences, clinical, regulatory and legal affairs, sales and marketing, and business development.

PHAR:1111 Need a New Drug? 1 s.h.
Introduction to drug discovery, development, and approval process in the United States; focus on preclinical and clinical development activities and role of the FDA and other regulatory bodies in approval and oversight of available drug products.

PHAR:1150 Emerging Perspectives in Pharmacy and the Pharmaceutical Industry 1 s.h.
Development of curiosity and knowledge of pharmacy practice, the pharmaceutical industry, and drug discovery. Students engage with emerging leaders from the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy Genesis Board. These recent graduates of the PharmD or PhD programs hold influential positions in pharmacy practice, the pharmaceutical industry, government, nonprofits, and innovative companies.

PHAR:1200 Medicines That Changed the World 1 s.h.
Herbal remedies and ancient traditional medicines have led to the discovery of life-saving drug therapies; as science has evolved, how the discovery of other important medicines have come about through advances in chemistry and biology and now through advances in computer science and informatics; students learn about the discovery history of some of the most important drug therapies of the 20th and 21st centuries and how those discoveries are leading to even more important, life-saving treatments.

PHAR:1300 Drugs and American Pop Culture 1 s.h.
Humans have used and misused drugs for thousands of years. Religious, cultural, and social experiences have been influenced by drugs. Review the roles of drugs in visual arts, literature, music, and film. Explore drug use and culture from the 1960s through the present day including the war on drugs and the social programs to combat addictions in America. Discuss the glamorization of drug use versus real-life impact of addictions. Drug names, chemical structure, classification, regulation, medicinal and recreational uses, and medications to assist with recovery will be reviewed.

PHAR:1812 What's in My Medicine Cabinet? An Introduction to Over-the-Counter Medications and Self Care 2 s.h.
Introduction to nonprescription medications for treatment of minor illness and health maintenance; causes, signs, and symptoms of common ailments with information about selection of appropriate over-the-counter therapies and considerations for the need for further care; self-care strategies for disease prevention and wellness.

PHAR:2000 Exploring Travel Medicine: Navigating Healthy Travel 2 s.h.
Introduction to international travel medicine including pre-assessments and planning, services provided to travelers to prevent and manage conditions during travel, and post-travel care.

PHAR:3994 Undergraduate Research in Pharmaceutical Sciences 1-4 s.h.
Individual scientific research conducted under the guidance of a faculty member.

PHAR:3995 Undergraduate Independent Study 1-4 s.h.
Supervised study. Requirements: enrollment in College of Pharmacy undergraduate certificate program.

PHAR:4146 Drug Disposition and Pharmacokinetics 2 s.h.
Introduction to drug absorption, distribution, and elimination processes controlling overall drug exposure in humans; basic quantitative measurements presented and used to demonstrate the influence of drug properties and physiologic action on drug disposition. Prerequisites: (MATH:1460 or MATH:1550 or MATH:1850) and (BIOL:1140 or BIOL:1141 or BIOL:1411 or BIOL:1412) and (STAT:1020 or PSQF:1020 or STAT:1030 or STAT:2010).

PHAR:4736 Properties of Dosage Forms I 3 s.h.
Introduction to principles of physical and chemical sciences important in drug product development; solubility, colligative properties, and partitioning behavior, as well as ionic equilibria, pH control, and chemical stability are evaluated in context of their importance in liquid dosage forms; emphasis on issues impacting drug product quality. Prerequisites: (CHEM:2220 or CHEM:2240) and (MATH:1460 or MATH:1550 or MATH:1850 or MATH:1860).

PHAR:4741 Immunology and Immunotherapies 2 s.h.
Introduction to basics of the immune system and how it protects against infection and disease; in-depth lectures on vaccines against infectious diseases and cancer in terms of their formulations and how they work; focus on past seminal findings, current treatment modalities, and cutting-edge technologies likely to impact future immunotherapeutic strategies.

PHAR:4799 Special Topics in Pharmaceutics arr.
Current topics in pharmaceutics. Prerequisites: MATH:2560 and CHEM:4431.

PHAR:4800 Chemical and Biophysical Properties of Drugs 2 s.h.
Introduction to design of drug molecules based on an understanding of drug-like properties including chemical reactivity and structural optimization; minimization of potentially toxic biotransformations; optimization of absorption; screening methods for selection and classification of optimized molecules. Prerequisites: ((CHEM:2220 or CHEM:2240) and BMB:3110) or (BMB:3120 and BMB:3130).

PHAR:4850 Upstream Biotechnology Processes 2 s.h.
Introduction to fermentation, fermenter preparation, cell growth and medium requirements, inoculation, sampling, process termination, separation of cells, fermentation case study, enzyme activity, and biocatalysis. Same as CHEM:4850.

PHAR:4851 Radiopharmaceuticals in Diagnostics and Therapy 2 s.h.
Use of radionuclides for diagnosis and monitoring of disease and in development of new therapeutic agents; strategies for provision of effective agents, regulatory processes, and safe handling and administration. Prerequisites: CHEM:2220 or CHEM:2240. Recommendations: one semester of physics, one semester of biology, one semester of anatomy or physiology, and one semester of pharmacology.

PHAR:5310 Health Services Research Seminar 1-2 s.h.
Recent research in pharmacy administration.

PHAR:5350 Introduction to Research Methods 3 s.h.
Scientific inquiry, experimental design, data collection, statistical methods used in the study of health services and clinical investigations; focus on understanding the research process and evaluating published studies. Recommendations: introductory statistics.

PHAR:5360 Applied Research Methods: Primary Data 2 s.h.
Advanced topics in research methods; focus on primary data collection and analysis; qualitative, mixed, survey, and intervention research methods with focus on applying these methods to topics in pharmacy health services research. Prerequisites: PHAR:5350.

PHAR:5365 Applied Research Methods: Secondary Data 2 s.h.
Advanced topics in research methods applicable to common sources of secondary data; hands-on experience writing programs to prepare and analyze various health-related data using common statistical software packages (e.g., SAS, STATA, R). Prerequisites: PHAR:5350.

PHAR:5400 Principles of Pharmacogenomics 3 s.h.
Fundamental knowledge of molecular biology and relationship to pharmacological agents; working knowledge of DNA, RNA, and protein changes that occur to influence gene expression; how pharmacological agents can impact biological mechanisms and how this can impact treatment response; requirements to design and carry out an experiment in human and animal models to study specific biological mechanisms; critical evaluation of published scientific literature to describe cutting-edge pharmacological findings in this field. Requirements: graduate standing in pharmacy (clinical pharmaceutical sciences, pharmaceutics, medicinal chemistry), neuroscience, pharmacology, or toxicology.

PHAR:5510 Pharmaceutical Sciences and Experimental Therapeutics Seminar 1-2 s.h.

PHAR:5512 Drug Discovery and Mechanisms 3 s.h.
Process of modern drug discovery, focus on high throughput screening strategies, target validation, pharmacological characterization of new compounds; mechanism of drugs targeting G protein coupled receptors, ion channels and transporters, targets in biological systems.

PHAR:5515 Perspectives in MNPC Research 2 s.h.
Contemporary research in medicinal chemistry and natural products.

PHAR:5520 Medicinal and Natural Products Chemistry Research arr.

PHAR:5537 Enzymatic Basis of Drug Metabolism 3 s.h.
Current literature on catalytic and physical properties, distribution, and substrate specificity of enzymes involved in mammalian drug metabolism. Prerequisites: CHEM:2220.

PHAR:5541 Total Synthesis of Biologically Active Natural Products 3 s.h.
Total synthesis of natural products; use of strategies and tactics for synthetic maneuvering; selectivity of important and complex medicinal compounds; modern chemical methods for construction of carbon-carbon bonds.

PHAR:5542 Molecular Recognition 1 s.h.
Focus on determinants in protein small molecule binding, particularly involving pharmaceutically relevant enzymes and receptors; how modern structure-based drug discovery is greatly aided by ability to employ protein structures in discovery and design of certain classes of drugs; structural approaches for predicting and improving drug affinity and selectivity, which have made a lasting impact across a number of diseases; important contemporary topics include in-depth lectures on fragment based drug discovery (FBDD), use and pitfalls of in silico docking and other screening methods, and emergence of covalent drugs. Requirements: introductory course in biochemistry. Same as BMB:5244.

PHAR:5545 Current Medicinal Chemistry 3 s.h.
Modern approaches to drug discovery with an emphasis on contemporary drug design and development. Course topics include, but are not limited to, driving factors for drug discovery and development in academia and the pharmaceutical industry; altering biological activity and biophysical properties of small molecules and biologicals through structural modification and conjugation; drug-target interactions and binding affinities; pharmacogenomics; bioconjugate chemistry; intellectual property topics and drug discovery and development; computational approaches and in silico resources for drug discovery and optimizing drug structures.

PHAR:5549 Analytical Biochemistry 3 s.h.
Application of modern chromatographic and detection methods used to isolate, characterize, and quantify drugs and macromolecules.

PHAR:5700 Quantitative Research Methods in Pharmacy I 3-4 s.h.
Collection and interpretation of analytical data; instrumental analysis and separation techniques.

PHAR:5720 Pharmaceutical Materials and Analysis 3 s.h.
Strong working knowledge in pharmaceutical solids; different types of solid phases, preparation, and methods of characterization in context of optimizing phase selection with respect to solubility, stability, and processability.

PHAR:5740 Drug Stability 2 s.h.
Principles of chemical and physical stability relevant to drug substances and various dosage forms. Key topics include mechanisms of instability, drug-excipient interactions, kinetics and stability testing, and shelf life predictions.

PHAR:5745 Advanced Biopharmaceutics and Drug Delivery arr.
Advanced design and development of drug delivery systems with emphasis on selection of materials and designs suitable for specific applications; comparison and evaluation of available and emerging technologies. Prerequisites: (BMB:3110 or BMB:3120) and (MATH:3600 or MATH:2560) and (CHEM:2220 or CHEM:2240) and PHAR:4736. Corequisites: PHAR:4146 (if not taken as a prerequisite). Requirements: one semester of human anatomy and physiology.

PHAR:5800 Concepts in Preclinical Drug Development 1 s.h.
Topics relevant to preclinical phase and early clinical stage of drug development; role of drug transporters in drug absorption, distribution, elimination; use of in vitro systems to evaluate drug metabolism, how to use in vitro metabolism data to predict drug clearance in humans; use of animal rule in drug development; biopharmaceutical classification system (BCS) and bioequivalence; biosimilar; use of minimum anticipated biological effect level (MABEL) to determine first-in-human (FIH) dose of protein drugs; drug-drug interaction including basic enzyme kinetics and inhibition (competitive, noncompetitive, uncompetitive); for students seeking to work in pharmaceutical industry.

PHAR:5875 Perspectives in Biotechnology 1 s.h.
Topics related to careers in biotechnology with an emphasis on preparing graduate students for careers outside of academia; discussions led by a series of guest speakers from leading biotech industries; understanding the societal impact of basic research; participation in round-table discussions; and presentation of student research findings. Requirements: graduate standing and good academic standing in a participating department supported by the Predoctoral Training Program in Biotechnology. Same as BMB:5875, CBE:5875, CEE:5875, CHEM:5875, MICR:5875.

PHAR:5880 Protein Pharmaceuticals 4 s.h.
Understanding the differences between proteins and small molecule therapeutics, protein structure and its characterization, manufacturing processes used for biological products, formulation and drug product development, stability issues, and more.

PHAR:6120 Clinical Pharmaceutical Sciences Research arr.

PHAR:6305 Foundation Literature in Health Services Research arr.
Issues related to pharmacy administration, social and behavioral pharmacy, pharmacy education.

PHAR:6320 Health Services Research arr.

PHAR:6330 Models of Patient Behavior and Choice 3 s.h.
Theoretical models used to describe behavior and choice in pharmaceutical socioeconomic research; models from economics, health services research, health behavior, clinical decision-making.

PHAR:6331 Models of Provider Behavior and Choice 3 s.h.
Theoretical background for study of provider decision-making and behavior; models based on a classic economic approach, models used to study provider behavior.

PHAR:6501 Principles and Mechanisms of Chemical Toxicology 3 s.h.
General principles and basic mechanisms of chemical and pharmaceutical toxicology; drug/toxicant disposition, including biotransformation and bioactivation to electrophiles.

PHAR:6504 Mastering Reproducible Science 1 s.h.
Training in methods for conducting rigorous and reproducible science; features an array of faculty who provide lectures and discussions based on their areas of expertise (i.e., research with animals, synthetic chemistry, high throughput screening, etc.) to provide broad exposure and training in these areas; critical evaluation of literature outside of student's own specific field of study.

PHAR:6515 Perspectives in Drug Discovery 1-2 s.h.
Contemporary research in drug discovery and experimental therapeutics.

PHAR:6700 Advanced Pharmacokinetics and Pharmacodynamics 3 s.h.
Application of pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics principles in pharmaceutical research. Prerequisites: PHAR:4146. Requirements: two semesters of calculus and one semester of statistics.

PHAR:6706 Equilibria Processes 3 s.h.
Equilibria pertaining to ionic systems, complexation, partitioning, solubility. Prerequisites: CHEM:2220 or CHEM:2240.

PHAR:6710 Pharmaceutics Graduate Seminar 1-2 s.h.

PHAR:6720 Pharmaceutics Research arr.

PHAR:6820 Drug Discovery and Experimental Therapeutics Research arr.
Participation in a variety of independent and supervised research projects required for doctoral degree in pharmacy.

PHAR:7101 Principles of Experimental Therapeutics 3 s.h.
Introduction to key principles and concepts for research in experimental therapeutics; basic principles related to drug disposition, toxicity, and efficacy.

PHAR:7102 Applied Clinical and Translational Science 3 s.h.
Application of clinical and translational science in a multidisciplinary collaborative environment to develop, conduct, and report research.

PHAR:7331 Analytic Issues in Health Services Research II 3 s.h.
Continuation of HMP:7960; advanced applications, including panel data and qualitative response models. Prerequisites: HMP:7960. Same as HMP:7965.

PHAR:7703 Transport Phenomena 3 s.h.
Diffusion and mass transport phenomena related to pharmaceutical systems.

PHAR:8130 Foundations of Pharmacy Practice I 4 s.h.
Introduction to contemporary pharmacy practice; small-group discussion, application of core concepts through active hands-on learning approaches; for first-year student pharmacists. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8131 Engagement: Professional Skills and Values 1 s.h.
Opportunity for student engagement in the College of Pharmacy prior to Professionalism Ceremony; development as a responsible partner in learning process by nurturing collaboration, leadership, service, compassion, community, self development, and social enrichment among students, faculty, and staff. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8132 Continuing Professional Development 1 s.h.
Engagement with profession of pharmacy and community through service and leadership activities, reflection; use of Continuous Professional Development Cycle (CPD) approach to learning. Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:8133 Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experience Career Exploration 1 s.h.
Hands-on exposure to various pharmacist career opportunities in four different pharmacy practice patient care settings; settings include practice areas and rotation types required for P4 Advanced Pharmacy Practice Experience (APPE) sites in community pharmacy, hospital pharmacy, ambulatory care/family practice, acute care medicine, and other elective practice settings; work with faculty mentor. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8134 Foundations of Health Services 3 s.h.
Foundation issues for pharmacist practice related to social, cultural, behavioral, economic, and organization design components of pharmacy care. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8135 Health Information Retrieval and Informatics 3 s.h.
Introduction and overview of health care information retrieval, organization, and dissemination; retrieval and organization of health information from pharmacy and medical primary and tertiary literature using secondary resources; knowledge and skills to manage, analyze, and legally share health information in electronic health records, pharmacy information systems, and automated systems. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8136 Foundations of Pharmaceutical Sciences 6 s.h.
Introduction and overview of foundations of pharmaceutical sciences. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8140 Foundations of Pharmacy Practice II 4 s.h.
Introduction to contemporary pharmacy practice for first-year student pharmacists; classroom methods include small group discussion-based and active hands-on learning approaches where students will apply core concepts.

PHAR:8148 Pharmacokinetics and Dose Optimization 2 s.h.

PHAR:8149 Foundations of Pharmacology and Toxicology 3 s.h.
Principles of pharmacology and toxicology.

PHAR:8150 Foundations of Health, Wellness, and Disease 2 s.h.
Overview of basic processes of good health and practices that promote wellness; emphasis on mechanistic causes of human disease.

PHAR:8151 Clinical Investigation I: Research Question, Study Design, and Methods 3 s.h.
Creation and dissemination of new knowledge related to pharmacy or health care; broadly based scholarly effort with topics ranging from patient case studies, literature reviews, and analysis of pharmacy practice problems or basic research. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8152 Fundamentals of Compounding 1 s.h.
Introduction to personalized drug delivery systems through the art of compounding. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8153 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Dermatology and Sensory 2 s.h.
Key elements of science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner and focused on particular organ systems or disease states. Requirements: P1 standing.

PHAR:8207 Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experiences Community 3 s.h.
Exposure to the provision of care in a community pharmacy setting; activities focus on those experiences related to the community pharmacy environment, medication distribution, special products and populations, and related professional activities; delivered in set time blocks over winter break and during summer session before or after the P2 year.

PHAR:8209 Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experiences Hospital 3 s.h.
Exposure to the provision of care in a hospital pharmacy setting; activities focus on those experiences related to the hospital pharmacy environment, medication distribution, special products and populations, and related professional activities.

PHAR:8250 Applications of Pharmacy Practice I 2 s.h.
Expands on skills and concepts taught in the foundations of pharmacy practice course series and includes skills relevant to the disease states in the concurrent integrated pharmacotherapy courses; requires application of previously learned knowledge and skills to complex patient cases during Synthesis weeks; taught using a variety of classroom methods including small-group, discussion-based, and active hands-on learning approaches where students will apply core concepts. Requirements: P2 standing.

PHAR:8254 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Endocrine 3 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8256 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Renal, Fluids, and Electrolytes 2 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner; focus on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8260 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Cardiovascular 4 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8261 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Neurology and Psychiatry 4 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8263 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Infectious Diseases 4 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8265 Applications of Pharmacy Practice II 2 s.h.
Expands on skills and concepts taught in the foundations of pharmacy practice course series and includes skills relevant to the disease states in the specific integrated pharmacotherapy courses; taught using a variety of classroom methods including small group, discussion-based, and active hands-on learning approaches where students apply core concepts.

PHAR:8275 Advanced Health Services 2 s.h.
Exploration of advanced topics in health service. Requirements: P2 standing.

PHAR:8276 Clinical Investigation II: Advanced Methods and Literature Interpretation 2 s.h.
Builds upon concepts in research methodology and study design introduced in PHAR:8151; advanced study designs with case examples will be discussed; students will learn the comparative strengths and weaknesses of different study designs to answer research questions and will develop evaluation skills necessary to critically interpret the findings of studies and apply results to patient care. Prerequisites: PHAR:8151. Requirements: P2 standing.

PHAR:8301 Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experience Clinical 1 s.h.
This third IPPE clinical is completed as an introduction to the Advanced Pharmacy Practice Experiences (APPE) to which student pharmacists are exposed during their P4 year; the IPPE clinical involves a P3 student observing and participating with a P4 student currently on an APPE rotation.

PHAR:8352 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Musculoskeletal 4 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states. Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:8353 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Genitourinary and Reproductive 2 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states. Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:8370 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Respiratory and Allergy 2 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8371 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Oncology and Hematology 2 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8372 Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Gastroenterology and Nutrition 3 s.h.
Key elements of the science and practice of pharmacy presented in an integrated manner focused on particular organ systems or disease states.

PHAR:8374 Applications of Pharmacy Practice III 2 s.h.
Expands on skills and concepts taught in the foundations of pharmacy practice course series and includes skills relevant to the disease states in the concurrent integrated pharmacotherapy courses; requires application of previously learned knowledge and skills to complex patient cases during Synthesis weeks; taught using a variety of classroom methods including small-group, discussion-based, and active hands-on learning approaches where students will apply core concepts.

PHAR:8378 Pharmacy Law and Ethics 2 s.h.
Topics include ethical behavior for pharmacists and student of pharmacy law.

PHAR:8384 Applications of Pharmacy Practice IV 1 s.h.
Expands on skills and concepts taught in the foundations of pharmacy practice course series and includes skills relevant to the disease states in the concurrent integrated pharmacotherapy courses; requires application of previously learned knowledge and skills to complex patient cases during synthesis weeks; taught using a variety of classroom methods including small-group, discussion-based, and active hands-on learning approaches where students will apply core concepts.

PHAR:8501 Introduction to Nuclear Pharmacy 2 s.h.
Nuclear pharmacy as a specialty area of pharmacy practice that involves preparation of radioactive materials for patient administration.

PHAR:8502 Advanced Pharmacopalliation of Pain 2 s.h.
Exploration of symptom management across the trajectory of serious illness through a series of longitudinal patient cases.

PHAR:8503 Advanced Pharmacopalliation of Non-Pain Symptoms 3 s.h.
Terminal extubation, terminal agitation, discontinuing life sustaining therapies, and pharmacokinetic and pharmaceutic issues in advanced illness.

PHAR:8505 Advanced Topics in Infectious Disease, HIV, and Antimicrobial Therapy 2 s.h.
Topics in antimicrobial treatment of infectious diseases beyond those in the required pharmacy curriculum, including topics covered in the infectious disease therapeutics course; lectures, case discussion, class participation, and summary presentations of an uncommon organism or antimicrobial agent.

PHAR:8509 Leaders Read: A Book Club Elective 2 s.h.
Introduction to concepts from The Five Practices for Exemplary Leaders by Kouzes and Posner; overview of all five practices with focus on first practice of "Modeling the Way;" values and skills of servant leadership through reading, reflection, and discussion; servant leadership philosophy where the main goal of the leader is to serve, and exploration of why servant leadership is critical; students articulate their own "why" and the importance of service in leadership.

PHAR:8510 Pediatric Elective 1 s.h.
Overview of pediatric developmental differences, disease state medication issues, and clinical decision skills specific to pediatric population. Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:8511 Introduction to Specialty Pharmacy 2 s.h.
Introduction to the rapidly growing field of specialty pharmacy; weekly interactive classes; students spend time in a specialty pharmacy environment and specialty clinic with a clinical pharmacy specialist to gain knowledge and understanding of clinical, business, distributive, and managed care aspects of specialty pharmacy. Requirements: P2 or P3 standing.

PHAR:8513 Advanced Literature Analysis and Evaluation 1 s.h.
Expansion of concepts introduced in first professional discovery course; improvement of knowledge and skills in practical evaluation of drug literature; emphasis on applied interpretation and application of study findings to patient care through active student journal club presentations and facilitation by faculty content experts. Prerequisites: PHAR:8276.

PHAR:8514 Clinical Toxicology 2 s.h.
Introduce students to topics in toxicology beyond those in the required pharmacy curriculum. Focus on developing students' basic understanding of drug mechanism of action, pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamic changes associated with various toxicants, and the management of both pharmacologic and environmental toxicologic emergencies. Requirements: P2 standing.

PHAR:8515 Advanced Cardiotherapeutics 1 s.h.
Provide pharmacy students with a comprehensive understanding of cardiovascular diseases, their management, and the role of pharmacotherapy in optimizing patient outcomes. Students develop a strong foundation in cardiovascular pharmacology to gain the necessary skills to apply their knowledge in a clinical setting. Connect available primary literature evidence to tangible clinical decisions, weighing pros, cons, and potential clinical scenarios in which the clinical choice of therapy may change. Prerequisites: PHAR:8260. Requirements: P2 or P3 standing.

PHAR:8516 Advanced Pharmacopalliation 4 s.h.
Case-based, advanced pharmacotherapy course preparing student pharmacists with attitudes, knowledge, and skills to provide holistic, person-centered care for people with serious illnesses, with an exploration of symptom and medication management across pharmacy practice settings (e.g., community, inpatient, outpatient, transition of care, hospice). Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:8517 Fundamentals of Clinical Pharmacy for the Critically Ill 2 s.h.
Explores three core concepts as they relate to acute care clinical pharmacy practice: clinical skills, evidence-based practice, and communication and professionalism. Requirements: admission to the Certificate in Emergency Medicine and Critical Care Pharmacotherapy and P3 standing.

PHAR:8518 Innovating Healthcare: The Pharmacist Entrepreneur 2 s.h.
Introduction of key fundamentals and processes for starting a business or similar enterprise. From ideation to funding, operations, growth, and exit planning; students gain exposure to various real-world opportunities, challenges, and issues faced by entrepreneurs. Requirements: restricted to majors.

PHAR:8519 Pharmacy Calculations for NAPLEX-Readiness 2 s.h.
Overviews the calculations commonly used in pharmacy practice and assessed through the North American Pharmacist Licensure Examination (NAPLEX). Prepares students to apply calculation problem-solving skills to clinical practice; focuses on the pharmaceutical and clinical calculations critical to the safe and effective delivery of medications to the patient. Requirements: P2 or P3 standing.

PHAR:8706 Pharmacy Projects arr.
Basic and applied research problems of pharmaceutical interest.

PHAR:8707 Independent Study: Research arr.
Research projects working with collegiate faculty members.

PHAR:8708 Substances of Misuse 1 s.h.
Emphasis on the most important themes and concepts in the field of substance use and treatment; drugs of misuse including stimulants, opioids, sedative-hypnotics, alcohol, hallucinogens, marijuana, and performance enhancing compounds; drug use prevention and treatment; depiction of substance use in modern culture.

PHAR:8709 Pharmacist Role in Health Coaching and Nutrition 2 s.h.
Exploration of pharmacist role in health coaching and nutrition.

PHAR:8712 Nonprescription Pharmacotherapy and Self-Care 2 s.h.
Introduction to nonprescription medications; development of patient assessment and consultation skills; understanding of pharmacist's role in patient self-care. Requirements: P2 or P3 standing.

PHAR:8714 Independent Study: Academic arr.
Academic projects working with collegiate faculty members.

PHAR:8717 Ambulatory Care Pharmacy 2 s.h.
Additional experience in the practice of clinical pharmacy; focus on key therapeutic areas where ambulatory care clinical pharmacists currently have a significant impact improving patient care, including anticoagulation management, hyperlipidemia management, and diabetes management; opportunity to develop expertise in clinical decision-making, improve problem solving abilities, and continued development in writing and oral presentation skills. Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:8718 Special Topics in Acute Care 2 s.h.
Pharmacotherapy for common but varied inpatient medicine topics; review of disorder, therapeutic goals, treatment plans, patient education, monitoring; lecture or case-based classes; anticoagulation, hemostasis, diabetic ketoacidosis, ICU overview, hepatic failure, renal replacement therapies, ACLS, antimicrobial and antifungal selection, septic shock, cardiogenic shock, neurogenic shock and neuro/neurosurgical emergencies, burns, sedation.

PHAR:8721 Leadership and Advocacy arr.
Role of leadership and advocacy in shaping profession; promotes the development of advocacy and leadership skills essential to improve self, profession, and community. Requirements: P1, P2, or P3 standing.

PHAR:8724 Health System Pharmacy Practice Management 2 s.h.
Organizational structure of pharmacy departments in hospitals and health care systems; models for delivery of pharmaceutical care; pharmacy's role in drug policy decision-making; provision of drug information; clinical and distributive pharmacy services; control of pharmacy and pharmacy costs; use of information technology and automation for service delivery; supervisory management; quality improvement. Requirements: P2 or P3 standing.

PHAR:8790 Sustainable Clinical Pharmacy Services: Leadership, Management, and Implementation 1 s.h.
Practical knowledge and understanding of how to implement and sustain clinical pharmacy services in a variety of practice settings; how to identify outcomes to evaluate the success of ongoing services; students explore the perspective of leadership and management as it pertains to clinical pharmacy services.

PHAR:8793 Introduction to Global Health Studies 1 s.h.
Overview of topics pertaining to international health and cultural diversity in relation to pharmacy and global health; preparation for student pharmacists to become health care practitioners who optimize the health of patients and society; inspires students to advance the profession by fostering collaboration, global and public health leadership, professionalism and civic engagement; introduction and discussion of important topics in global health, focusing specifically on care of the underserved in a global context.

PHAR:8794 Emergency Medicine 2 s.h.
Overview and discussion of pathology and pharmacotherapy in emergency medicine.

PHAR:8795 More than Medications: Healthcare for the Whole Patient 2 s.h.
Explore the principles and practice of providing whole-person healthcare. Whole-person care is the integration of a variety of resources to support a patient's mind, body, and spirit in their healthcare journey. Additional topics to be covered include interprofessional care teams, palliative care as a public health need, communication strategies, and self-care.

PHAR:8796 Introduction to Travel Medicine 2 s.h.
Overview of services provided to travelers to prevent and management conditions that may arise prior to, during, and after international travel; students learn about topics pertaining to each of these areas.

PHAR:8797 Well-Being and Ethics in Healthcare 3 s.h.
Explore the relationship between the ethical provision of healthcare and the well-being of people living with serious illness and their care team, including healthcare providers, caregivers, and family; prepares students to identify and approach potential challenges and threats to well-being they may face in their personal or professional life. Topics explored via discussion, reflection, and examining multimedia sources include ethics and laws pertaining to living, receiving medical care, and dying; suffering, dignity, and grieving; cultural and spiritual contexts of illness and death; health equity in serious illness care; moral distress; and compassion fatigue. Requirements: P2 or P3 standing.

PHAR:8798 Continuing Professional Development in Palliative Care 1 s.h.
Self-directed learning and development in palliative care; creation and implementation of a professional development plan including activities in service, scholarship and education, leadership and advocacy, and self-care and personal resilience.

PHAR:8799 Active Residency Preparation 2 s.h.
Students develop the best understanding of what a residency is, what programs exist, the usual qualifications for placement, and the necessary pathway and components of residency attainment; hands-on experience with preparation process; for pharmacy students interested in pursuing residency training following graduation. Requirements: P3 standing.

PHAR:9401 Ambulatory Care Rotation 6 s.h.
Clinical experience in providing pharmaceutical care in outpatient clinic settings. Requirements: P4 standing.

PHAR:9404 Community Clinical Rotation 6 s.h.
Clinical experience in the community setting; emphasis on delivery of pharmaceutical care. Requirements: P4 standing.

PHAR:9410 Hospital Pharmacy Rotation 6 s.h.
Instruction and practical experience in various components of hospital pharmacy; emphasis on hospital organization, inpatient and outpatient services, IV admixtures, unit dose, and clinical services. Requirements: P4 standing.

PHAR:9413 Acute Care Medicine Rotation 6 s.h.
Clinical experience applying therapeutic skills for the pharmacotherapeutic management of patients on general medicine or specialty inpatient areas. Requirements: P4 standing.

PHAR:9435 Administrative Bye Rotation 6 s.h.

PHAR:9450 Elective: Patient Care Rotation 6 s.h.
Elective pharmacy practice experiences providing direct patient-centered care in a variety of settings aimed at personalizing student educational interests and career goals. Requirements: P4 standing.

PHAR:9451 Elective: Non-Patient Care Rotation 6 s.h.
Elective pharmacy practice experiences in unique nonpatient-facing practice settings aimed at personalizing student educational interests and career goals. Requirements: P4 standing.

Doctor of Pharmacy, PharmD

Requirements

The Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD) program provides professional education in a number of areas, including pharmaceutical technology, biopharmaceutics, medicinal chemistry and natural products, pharmaceutical socioeconomics, pharmacotherapy, patient care, clinical and hospital pharmacy, and aspects of biotechnology. Graduates of the program are qualified to take examinations required for licensure as a pharmacist.

Programs designed to lead to professional licensure are subject to federal regulations regarding informational disclosures. Please see Professional Licensure Disclosures by Program for further information.

Prerequisite Coursework

The program is preceded by at least two years of pre-pharmacy study in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Iowa or an accredited community or liberal arts college in the United States or Canada. During pre-pharmacy study, students complete the prerequisites for admission to the PharmD program. See Admission [p. 2063] in this section of the catalog for a list of prerequisite coursework.

Professional Curriculum

The PharmD degree requires four years of full-time study in the following coursework, including at least 10 s.h. of professional electives. The College of Pharmacy provides students with high-quality professional practice experiences. Faculty and adjunct faculty serve as preceptors, providing introductory and advanced practice experience at institutions and pharmacies in Iowa, nationwide, and around the world.

Students must meet progression requirements in accordance with Doctor of Pharmacy policies. See the Student Handbook on the PharmD Student Resources page of the College of Pharmacy website.

Professional Electives

PharmD students must complete at least 10 s.h. of didactic professional electives in College of Pharmacy courses (prefix PHAR) numbered 8501–8799 before progressing to advanced pharmacy practice experiences. See Courses [p. 2053] in this section of the catalog.

Fourth Year

During the fourth year, students must complete eight advanced pharmacy practice experiences. All students must complete the first four rotations in the following list (24 s.h.); the remaining advanced pharmacy practice experiences may be selected by each student from a variety of patient-care and non-patient care opportunities.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
PHAR:9401	Ambulatory Care Rotation	6
PHAR:9404	Community Clinical Rotation	6
PHAR:9410	Hospital Pharmacy Rotation	6
PHAR:9413	Acute Care Medicine Rotation	6
Four additional rotations from these categories:
PHAR:9450	Elective: Patient Care Rotation	6
PHAR:9451	Elective: Non-Patient Care Rotation (taken up to two times)	6

Combined Programs

PharmD/MPH

The College of Pharmacy and the College of Public Health offer the combined Doctor of Pharmacy/Master of Public Health program. The combined program requires 42 s.h. of graduate credit in addition to the requirements of the PharmD degree. Students who complete the program are granted both degrees.

The PharmD/MPH program helps students develop expertise in public health related to pharmacotherapy, health promotion, disease prevention, and medication safety. Its graduates may work in areas of interest common to pharmacy and public health, such as the spread and treatment of disease, community health, and immunology; bioterrorism, terrorism, and preparedness; genetics; insurance; managed care; family and juvenile health; and protection of special populations. Employment opportunities are available in hospitals and clinics and with health care providers; private practice; insurance and managed care organizations; local, county, state, and federal government; public health governmental agencies; and colleges and universities.

Separate admission to each degree program is required. Applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the combined degree program.

See the Master of Public Health, MPH [p. 2092] (College of Public Health) in the catalog to learn about curriculum and admission requirements.

PharmD/MS in Informatics (Health Informatics Subprogram)

The College of Pharmacy and the Graduate College offer the combined Doctor of Pharmacy/Master of Science in informatics with a health informatics subprogram. The combined degree program requires the completion of 34 s.h. beyond the bachelor's degree. Students who complete the program are granted both degrees.

The PharmD/MS program assists students in developing special expertise in information technology, including management of electronic health records, health information exchange standards, electronic prescribing, medication management, decision support, as well as other competencies. Graduates will be prepared for employment in industry or academic institutions with skills to address pharmacotherapy issues as well as information technology management.

Separate application to each degree program is required. Applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the combined degree program. It is recommended that students apply to the Graduate College for admission to the MS program before entering the spring semester of their first year in the pharmacy program.

Health informatics coursework must be taken following the first professional pharmacy year. Therefore, PharmD graduation will be delayed by one year. For information about the Master of Science degree, see the MS in informatics [p. 1753] (Graduate College) in the catalog.

Admission

Individuals apply to the PharmD program using PharmCAS, the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy application service. See Doctor of Pharmacy on the College of Pharmacy website for more information.

By selecting the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy, students choose to be part of the legacy of leaders for which the College of Pharmacy has become well known. Iowa pharmacy shapes pharmacy practice nationally and internationally with evidence-based practice models and collaborative pharmacy care innovations.

As aspiring Doctor of Pharmacy students, the first two years are spent completing general education and prerequisite courses to prepare candidates for the PharmD degree. Prior to completing the required courses, students apply to the PharmD program.

Applicants must complete the college-level work listed in the following section, "Prerequisites for Admission." They must also submit official transcripts, two letters of recommendation, and a personal statement. Applicants considered for admission must have a personal interview; the college contacts applicants to arrange interview appointments.

Fulfillment of the admission requirements does not ensure admission to the College of Pharmacy. The admissions committee considers applicants who meet these requirements and selects individuals who, in their judgment, are the best qualified for the study and practice of pharmacy.

Applicants who are accepted for admission are required to submit to a criminal background check and pay an admission acceptance fee. The fee is applied to tuition for the student's first semester of enrollment in the college. The deposit is not refunded to applicants who do not enroll in the College of Pharmacy.

Entering health sciences students are required to have an annual tuberculin skin test (TST) and proof of immunization against mumps, measles, and rubella (two MMRs), tetanus, diphtheria, and varicella before classes begin. The usual regimen of three doses of the Hepatitis B vaccine and a Hepatitis B titer must be completed by the second semester of the first year. All students are required to have hospitalization and health insurance.

Prerequisites for Admission

Applicants to the PharmD program must have completed the following college-level work with a C-minus or higher. In addition to specific courses listed below, students complete a total of 16 s.h. of general education electives; 6 s.h. of those must be within the social sciences. Courses in moral reasoning or ethics, communications, computer science, business, behavioral, humanities, and social sciences are accepted for the Liberal Arts/UI GE CLAS Core area. Courses in physical education skills, applied music, and studio art are not accepted for this area.

Financial Support

Each year the College of Pharmacy awards scholarships to student pharmacists through a variety of awards. The college typically awards over $1 million to help cover the cost of education. Around half of the student body receives a scholarship.

For more information, visit Scholarship Opportunities on the College of Pharmacy website.

Career Advancement

College of Pharmacy graduates enjoy a high placement rate in jobs, pharmacy residencies, or additional educational programs. Graduates commonly choose to practice in a community pharmacy or a hospital setting, but many also hold positions in government, home health care, consulting, clinical pharmacy, managed care facilities, higher education, the pharmaceutical industry, private businesses, and more.

Emergency Medicine and Critical Care Pharmacotherapy, Professional Certificate

Requirements

The professional Certificate in Emergency Medicine and Critical Care Pharmacotherapy requires at least 13 s.h. of credit.

The certificate provides an intensive, structured learning experience for students with an interest in careers in emergency medicine, toxicology, or critical care. Students who complete the certificate will possess the knowledge, skills, and attitudes to serve patients with a wide spectrum of disease states that present to the emergency department and intensive care unit. The program meets the educational needs of pharmacy students who are looking to advance their understanding of emergency medicine and critical care pharmacotherapy, and it provides the advanced knowledge necessary for postgraduate training in emergency medicine, toxicology, and critical care.

The Certificate in Emergency Medicine and Critical Care Pharmacotherapy requires the following coursework. When students enroll in PHAR:9450 Elective: Patient Care Rotation, they may focus on emergency medicine, critical care (cardiovascular, medical, surgical, or burn), or toxicology (poison center or toxicology consult service).

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
PHAR:8517	Fundamentals of Clinical Pharmacy for the Critically Ill	2
PHAR:8718	Special Topics in Acute Care	2
PHAR:8794	Emergency Medicine	2
PHAR:9450	Elective: Patient Care Rotation	6
At least one of these:
PHAR:8505	Advanced Topics in Infectious Disease, HIV, and Antimicrobial Therapy	2
PHAR:8513	Advanced Literature Analysis and Evaluation	1
PHAR:8514	Clinical Toxicology	2
EPID:5500	Introduction to Clinical Epidemiology	3

Admission

Students may apply to the certificate program by Feb. 20 of the second professional year (P2) for an acceptance notification prior to registering for fall of the third professional year (P3).

Applicants must be in good academic standing as defined in the student handbook and have a College of Pharmacy cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00 to apply.

Palliative Care, Professional Certificate

Requirements

Admission to the professional Certificate in Palliative Care has been suspended; the program is not accepting students at this time.

The certificate program prepares students to practice as palliative care generalists or champions upon graduation from the Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD) program. Students who complete the certificate will possess the knowledge, skills, and attitudes to serve patients living with serious illnesses across the trajectory of life in a variety of general pharmacy practice environments and non-palliative pharmacy specialties, including critical care, emergency medicine, geriatrics, and cardiology. The program addresses the educational needs of pharmacy students who may provide pharmaceutical care in a community pharmacy setting, a long-term care pharmacy, oncology, cardiology, infectious disease, critical care, transplant, and emergency medicine. The certificate also prepares graduates to pursue advanced postgraduate clinical training in palliative care and hospice, including palliative care residencies and fellowships.

Admission

Students may apply to the certificate program in the fall semester of the second professional year (P2). Accepted students start the longitudinal course, PHAR:8798 Continuing Professional Development in Palliative Care, in the spring semester of the second professional year (P2).

Applicants must be in good academic standing as defined in the Student Handbook and have a College of Pharmacy cumulative grade-point average of at least 2.70 to apply. The Certificate in Palliative Care admission committee reviews all applications holistically.

Admitted students demonstrate preparedness to engage in a challenging certificate curriculum without compromising their success in the PharmD program and an understanding of what palliative care is and of the program’s requirements.

Pharmacy, MS

The graduate program in pharmacy at the University of Iowa is primarily a PhD program with admission preference given to applicants with a PhD degree objective. Admission to the MS in pharmacy is granted under special circumstances only, which may include international government funding requirement, a Fulbright scholarship or another scholarship source that specifies a master's degree, or a person working in the industry seeking a specific set of knowledge or skills for the purpose of enhancing their value to that employer. A master's degree is not required to be eligible to apply to the PhD program.

Learning Outcomes

Graduates will exhibit the ability to:

- demonstrate both subject matter expertise and the ability to critically evaluate the current state of knowledge in that area of expertise;
- understand the fundamental concepts and applications of current methodology and techniques for the conduct and evaluation of research in their area of expertise;
- demonstrate the ability to conduct research under the direction of a faculty member and interact successfully with other members of a research team;
- effectively communicate research findings in both written and oral formats;
- know and apply the highest ethical standards in research and in the communication of the results of that research; and
- be prepared for career options in academia, industry, government, or other relevant fields.

Requirements

The Master of Science in pharmacy requires at least 30 s.h. of credit, which may include 9 s.h. of research. At least 24 s.h. must be completed at the University of Iowa after admission to a graduate program. Requirements for the master's degree include a final examination which, at the discretion of department, may be written or oral or both. The final examination will not duplicate course examinations. Various forms of extramural registration may qualify toward the 24 s.h. residence requirement. A master's degree can typically be earned in 3–4 semesters.

The Master of Science in pharmacy requires mastery of methodologies and practices of research and scholarship of the discipline. MS degrees may be designed to provide advanced study and accomplishment that serves a variety of career and other purposes. A thesis describing original scholarship or research may be required. No more than 9 s.h. of credit for thesis research and writing is counted toward the 30 s.h. requirement.

Three subprograms are available: drug discovery and experimental therapeutics, health services research, and pharmaceutics.

The drug discovery and experimental therapeutics curriculum provides a strong foundational base of knowledge along with options for a tailored experience for students. The thesis requirement provides an opportunity for engagement in cutting-edge scholarship, ongoing mentorship, and collaborative research interactions with multiple labs.

The health services research subprogram provides an innovative approach to studying the challenges facing the health care system and provides evidence to support policy-based solutions. The subprogram combines ideas across several distinct scientific paradigms (sociology, economics, psychology, business, and anthropology) to better understand the factors leading to decisions in health care and the consequences of these decisions. Students gain broad knowledge of health and pharmaceutical care, informed by theories from economics and social psychology. The subprogram teaches intellectual and practical skills to investigate research questions dealing with current issues.

The pharmaceutics subprogram is a multidisciplinary science that examines the development, production, and characterization of dosage forms, as well as the disposition and action of drugs in the body. As pharmaceutical scientists have been engaged in the development of novel biomaterials for sophisticated drug delivery systems, they also have expanded into research with applications in the development of medical devices and tissue engineering.

For more information about graduate study, visit the College of Pharmacy website.

Admission

The graduate program in pharmacy at the University of Iowa is mainly a PhD program with admission preference going to applicants with a PhD degree objective. Admission to the MS in pharmacy will be granted under special circumstances only, which may include the following: international government funding requirement, a Fulbright scholarship or some other scholarship source that specifies a master's degree, or a person working in the industry seeking a specific set of knowledge or skills for the purpose of enhancing their value to that employer. A master's degree is not required to be eligible to apply to the PhD program.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College. They must:

- hold a bachelor's degree from a U.S. institution or an equivalent degree from another country as determined by University of Iowa Admissions;
- have a grade-point average of at least 3.00; and
- submit a Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test score.

Visit Graduate Degree: How to Apply on the College of Pharmacy website for a list of program requirements and application deadlines. Academic requirements for maintaining graduate registration are determined by the Graduate College and by the individual divisions in the College of Pharmacy.

Career Advancement

Advanced study in the pharmaceutical sciences prepares students for research, teaching, and administrative positions in the pharmaceutical industry, in colleges and universities, in government agencies, and in health-related institutions and organizations.

Pharmacy, PhD

The College of Pharmacy offers a Doctor of Philosophy degree in pharmacy with subprograms in three areas: drug discovery and experimental therapeutics, health services research, and pharmaceutics.

The drug discovery and experimental therapeutics subprogram offers a unique educational opportunity for students interested in drug discovery and the development of novel therapeutics. The changing landscape of drug discovery has created a need for scientists with interdisciplinary training to navigate the complex landscape of medicinal chemistry, biotherapeutics, pharmacogenetics/genomics, and basic pharmacology/toxicology.

The health services research subprogram provides an innovative approach to studying the challenges facing the health care system and provides evidence to support policy-based solutions. It combines ideas across several distinct scientific paradigms (sociology, economics, psychology, business, and anthropology) to better understand the factors leading to decisions in health care and the consequences of these decisions. Students gain a broad knowledge of health and pharmaceutical care, informed by theories from economics and social psychology. The subprogram teaches intellectual and practical skills to investigate research questions dealing with current issues.

The pharmaceutics subprogram provides a multidisciplinary science focus that examines the development, production, and characterization of dosage forms, as well as the disposition and action of drugs in the body. As pharmaceutical scientists have been engaged in the development of novel biomaterials for sophisticated drug delivery systems, they also have expanded into research with applications in the development of medical devices and tissue engineering.

For more information about graduate study, visit the College of Pharmacy website.

Learning Outcomes

Graduates will demonstrate the ability to:

- identify important research problems through the development of subject matter expertise and critical evaluation of the current state of knowledge in that area of expertise;
- develop testable hypotheses and/or research questions and then utilize sound methodology to design research approaches to address them;
- conduct, analyze, and interpret independent original research that contributes new knowledge to the field of study;
- effectively communicate research results to a range of audiences in both written and oral formats;
- conduct all aspects of research and communication of results with the highest ethical standards; and
- be prepared for a diversity of career options in academia, industry, government, or other relevant fields.

Drug Discovery and Experimental Therapeutics

The Doctor of Philosophy in pharmacy with a subprogram in drug discovery and experimental therapeutics requires 72 s.h. of credit. The degree requires 25 s.h. of didactic coursework, including 15 s.h. of required courses and a minimum of 10 s.h. of interdisciplinary electives. The remaining hours may be fulfilled by research, seminars, additional electives, and the doctoral dissertation. The typical time to complete the degree is five years. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

The curriculum provides a strong foundational base of knowledge along with options for a tailored experience for students. The program prepares scientists capable of bridging the complex landscape of medicinal chemistry, biotherapeutics, pharmacogenetics/genomics, and basic pharmacology/toxicology.

The Doctor of Philosophy in pharmacy with a subprogram in drug discovery and experimental therapeutics requires the following work.

Required Courses

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these to total 15 s.h.:
PHAR:5510	Pharmaceutical Sciences and Experimental Therapeutics Seminar	1-2
PHAR:5545	Current Medicinal Chemistry	3
PHAR:6515	Perspectives in Drug Discovery	2
PHAR:6820	Drug Discovery and Experimental Therapeutics Research	arr.
PHAR:7101	Principles of Experimental Therapeutics	3
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3

Interdisciplinary Electives

Students select a minimum of 10 s.h. of electives chosen from the following courses. Additional electives can be selected from biochemistry, chemistry, genetics, neuroscience, and pharmacology at the discretion of the advisor.

Course #	Title	Hours
PHAR:5512	Drug Discovery and Mechanisms	3
PHAR:5537	Enzymatic Basis of Drug Metabolism	3
PHAR:5541	Total Synthesis of Biologically Active Natural Products	3
PHAR:5549	Analytical Biochemistry	3
PHAR:6501	Principles and Mechanisms of Chemical Toxicology	3
PHAR:6504	Mastering Reproducible Science	1
PHAR:6700	Advanced Pharmacokinetics and Pharmacodynamics	3
PHAR:7101	Principles of Experimental Therapeutics	3
PHAR:7102	Applied Clinical and Translational Science	3
BIOL:5512	Readings in Genetics	2
BIOS:5120/ IGPI:5120/ STAT:5610	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3

CHEM:5321	Spectroscopic Methods in Organic Chemistry	3-4
CHEM:5328	Mechanisms of Organic Reactions	3

Comprehensive Examination

Students take the comprehensive examination between the beginning and end of their third year of graduate study.

Dissertation

The dissertation is defended in a final oral examination.

Health Services Research

The Doctor of Philosophy in pharmacy with a subprogram in health services research requires 74 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

In the first two years in the program, students participate in ongoing research and complete coursework. In the third year, emphasis is placed on developing a dissertation topic. The following two years are spent on research and writing the dissertation.

The Doctor of Philosophy in pharmacy with a subprogram in health services research requires the following work.

Core Competencies

Students complete the following coursework before they take the core competency qualifying exam.

Health Services Research

BIOS:5120/ IGPI:5120/ STAT:5610	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
Additional statistics coursework (biostatistics, economics, education, psychology, mathematics, or sociobiology)		6

Specialty

The specialty area requires at least 24 s.h. of coursework. With the guidance of their faculty advisor, students develop a plan of study that encompasses an area of expertise or specialty.

Additional Requirements

Students are expected to participate in specific aspects of ongoing research. These research activities are often paid graduate research assistantships; course credit is not available for paid assistantships. By the end of their third year, students are expected to present the results from one completed research project at a regional or national meeting.

Course #	Title	Hours
PHAR:5310	Health Services Research Seminar (students enroll in the seminar for 1 s.h. each semester they are on campus, excluding summer session)	1
BMED:7270	Scholarly Integrity/ Responsible Conduct of Research I (taken in second year)	0
BMED:7271	Scholarly Integrity/ Responsible Conduct of Research II (taken in second year)	0

Pharmaceutics

The Doctor of Philosophy in pharmacy with a subprogram in pharmaceutics requires 72 s.h. of credit. The degree requires 30 s.h. in didactic coursework, including a minimum of 15 s.h. in divisional courses and 15 s.h. of elective coursework. The remaining 42 s.h. can be fulfilled with research (PHAR:6720 Pharmaceutics Research) or electives. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

Entering students who do not have basic knowledge in all subjects follow a plan of study in order to complete divisional requirements during their first and second years.

The Doctor of Philosophy in pharmacy with a subprogram in pharmaceutics requires the following work.

Divisional Courses

Course #	Title	Hours
15 s.h. from these:
PHAR:4146	Drug Disposition and Pharmacokinetics	2
PHAR:4736	Properties of Dosage Forms I (or equivalent)	3
PHAR:4800	Chemical and Biophysical Properties of Drugs	2
PHAR:5720	Pharmaceutical Materials and Analysis	3
PHAR:5745	Advanced Biopharmaceutics and Drug Delivery	arr.
PHAR:5880	Protein Pharmaceuticals	4
PHAR:6700	Advanced Pharmacokinetics and Pharmacodynamics	3
PHAR:6706	Equilibria Processes	3

PHAR:6710	Pharmaceutics Graduate Seminar (enrollment required each semester until completion of comprehensive exam)	1
BMED:7270	Scholarly Integrity/ Responsible Conduct of Research I (taken in second year)	0
BMED:7271	Scholarly Integrity/ Responsible Conduct of Research II (taken in second year)	0

Elective Courses

Students choose appropriate electives for individual research objectives.

Comprehensive Examination

Students take the comprehensive examination between the beginning and end of their third year of graduate study.

Dissertation

The dissertation is defended in a final oral examination.

Admission

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College. They must:

- hold a bachelor's degree from a U.S. institution or an equivalent degree from another country as determined by University of Iowa Admissions; and
- have a minimum grade-point average of at least 3.00.

Students may submit a Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test score, but that is optional.

Visit Graduate Degree: How to Apply on the College of Pharmacy website for a list of program requirements and application deadlines. Academic requirements for maintaining graduate registration are determined by the Graduate College and by the individual divisions in the College of Pharmacy.

Career Advancement

Advanced study in the pharmaceutical sciences prepares students for research, teaching, and administrative positions in the pharmaceutical industry, in colleges and universities, in government agencies, and in health-related institutions and organizations.

Academic Plans

Sample Plans of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Graduate certificates: agricultural safety and health; biostatistics; emerging infectious disease epidemiology; healthcare management; public health; translational and clinical investigation

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/

The College of Public Health, established in 1999, is a partner with the Carver College of Medicine and the colleges of Dentistry, Nursing, and Pharmacy in striving to improve human health and well-being. Consistent with the interdisciplinary traditions of public health, the college also collaborates with non-health science colleges across the university and with other Iowa Board of Regents institutions, state and local agencies, and the private sector.

Public health is the science of protecting and improving the health of communities. Professionals in this field use specialized knowledge and skills to better understand the root causes of diseases and injuries and, whenever possible, develop strategies to prevent them.

A population-based approach to health is a distinguishing feature of public health and of the college. For public health practitioners—a wide range of professionals including physicians, nurses, dentists, pharmacists, social workers, nutritionists, environmental scientists, health educators, and health service administrators—the primary focus is on the health of entire communities rather than individual patients. Tools that public health professionals use to improve and enhance quality of life include analytical methods to identify, describe, and monitor the health of communities and populations at risk; education and prevention programs, methods of assuring access to appropriate and cost-effective care; and formulation of sound public policies.

The public health approach has led to many important health improvements over the past century. Vaccination campaigns, improved sanitation, fluoridation of drinking water, and efforts to reduce tobacco use are among the most recognizable public health initiatives. Public health programs also have led to safer workplaces, a reduction of deaths from coronary heart disease and stroke, improved motor vehicle safety, and the creation of effective health systems to provide care to those who need it. Today, public health professionals play an important role worldwide in seeking better approaches to complex issues such as quality of life for the elderly, drug and alcohol abuse, teen pregnancy, new and reemerging infectious diseases, bioterrorism, health literacy, nutrition, and food safety.

The College of Public Health provides educational opportunities to students campuswide. In addition to training and educating public health students, the college welcomes students from the Tippie College of Business, the Carver College of Medicine, the Graduate College, and the colleges of Dentistry, Education, Engineering, Law, Nursing, and Pharmacy who enroll in public health courses. Undergraduate students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and graduate students from programs such as anthropology, microbiology, and statistics also register for public health courses. The college's faculty members, staff members, and graduate and postdoctoral students contribute to teaching and research activities throughout the health sciences campus and provide services to Iowa and the nation. Partnerships for teaching and research extend across the campus. This background provides a rich array of educational opportunities.

The college includes the departments of Biostatistics [p. 2108], Community and Behavioral Health [p. 2117], Epidemiology [p. 2124], Health Management and Policy [p. 2139], and Occupational and Environmental Health [p. 2154]. It offers programs leading to two undergraduate degrees: Bachelor of Arts (BA) and Bachelor of Science (BS). It also offers programs leading to four graduate degrees: Master of Health Administration (MHA), Master of Public Health (MPH), Master of Science (MS), and Doctor of Philosophy (PhD). In addition, it offers the Certificate in Agricultural Safety and Health [p. 2107], the Certificate in Biostatistics [p. 2116], the Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology [p. 2123], the Certificate in Healthcare Management [p. 2153], the undergraduate Certificate in Public Health [p. 2091], the graduate Certificate in Public Health [p. 2105], and the Certificate in Translational and Clinical Investigation [p. 2166].

The undergraduate and graduate programs of the college are accredited by the Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH), the accrediting body for schools and programs of public health. Three programs in the college are also accredited: the industrial hygiene MS training program is accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (ABET), the Master of Health Administration is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Management Education (CAHME), and the Occupational Medicine Residency is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME).

Faculty

The college's faculty includes members with single appointments in the College of Public Health as well as secondary and adjunct appointments. See the Faculty A-to-Z List on the college's website for more information.

Programs

Undergraduate Programs of Study

The College of Public Health offers the Bachelor of Arts (BA) and the Bachelor of Science (BS); see the BA in public health [p. 2081] and the BS in public health [p. 2086] in the catalog for more information. The college also offers the undergraduate Certificate in Public Health [p. 2091].

Graduate Programs of Study

The College of Public Health offers the Master of Public Health [p. 2092] (MPH); the Master of Health Administration [p. 2142] (MHA), the Master of Science (MS), and the Doctor of Philosophy (PhD); see the Biostatistics [p. 2108], Community and Behavioral Health [p. 2117], Epidemiology [p. 2124], Health Management and Policy [p. 2139], and Occupational and Environmental Health [p. 2154] departmental sections of the catalog for more information.

The College of Public Health also offers graduate Certificates in Public Health [p. 2105], Agricultural Safety and Health [p. 2107], Biostatistics [p. 2116], Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology [p. 2123], Healthcare Management [p. 2153], and Translational and Clinical Investigation [p. 2166].

Undergraduate Rules and Procedures

Academic Advising

First-year students directly admitted to the College of Public Health major are advised by undergraduate program staff at the College of Public Health. First-year College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS) public health interest students are advised at the university's Academic Advising Center. CLAS public health interest students who apply and are admitted to the College of Public Health are advised at the College of Public Health by undergraduate program staff. All students are required to have a conference with their advisor before registering for classes each semester.

Application for Degree

Students who wish to be considered for graduation must submit an Application for Degree through MyUI the session before they are eligible to graduate or before the deadline date during the session in which they expect to graduate.

Students who do not graduate in the session they submitted their Application for Degree must submit another application through MyUI for the next applicable session. Students do not need to be registered to apply for a degree.

See Degree Application on the Office of the Registrar's website.

Academic Recognition

Dean's List

Undergraduate students in the College of Public Health who achieve a grade-point average (GPA) of 3.50 or higher on 12 s.h. or more of University of Iowa graded coursework during a given semester or summer session and who have no semester hours of I (incomplete) or O (no grade reported) during the same semester are recognized by inclusion on the Dean's List for that semester.

President's List

Undergraduate students in the College of Public Health who achieve a GPA of 4.00 on 12 s.h. or more of University of Iowa graded coursework and who have no semester hours of I (incomplete) or O (no grade reported) for two consecutive semesters (excluding summer sessions) are recognized by inclusion on the President's List.

Graduation With Distinction

Graduation with distinction recognizes high academic achievement based on grades. See Grading [p. 17] in the "Academics at Iowa" section of the catalog.

Graduation With Honors

Graduation with honors recognizes high academic achievement based on both grades and exceptional accomplishment.

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in public health have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. To graduate with honors in public health, students must successfully complete all college requirements with a GPA of at least 3.33 in all courses for the major, in all college coursework, and in all UI coursework.

In addition, students must complete an honors thesis in CPH:4990 Mentored Independent Undergraduate Research in Public Health, where they must write a brief research proposal summarizing the background and goals of honors research, defend their research proposal to an honors project faculty member and an honors advisor, conduct research, submit their honors thesis, and conclude with an oral and/or poster presentation.

Outstanding undergraduate students in the college have an opportunity to undertake independent study and to work closely with faculty members. Completion of requirements for honors in the major will also satisfy the experiential learning requirement.

Academic Standards

Maximum Schedule

Course schedules of more than 19 s.h. for a semester, 12 s.h. for a summer session, or 3 s.h. for a winter session require approval of the advising staff in the undergraduate program office.

Classification of Students

Students are classified by the number of semester hours of credit they have earned toward the bachelor's degree.

Requirements	Hours
First year	0-29 s.h.
Second year	30-59 s.h.
Junior	60-89 s.h.
Senior	90 s.h. or more

Credit and Grading

Credit by Examination

Students may earn up to 30 s.h. of credit by examination by taking selected tests from the College Level Examination

Program (CLEP) and the Advanced Placement Program (AP) of the College Board, the General Certificate of Education (GCE), or the International Baccalaureate Program (IB). For information about when and how to take the CLEP and AP examinations, contact the university's Office of Teaching, Learning, and Technology.

The College of Public Health has information on scores, credit, and course duplicates for all CLEP, AP, and IB tests accepted by the college. Ordinarily, credit earned through examination is applied first to the General Education Requirements. Credit may also be applied to requirements of a major, minor, or certificate, or as elective credit.

Credit From Other Colleges

Students who have taken courses at another institution that are similar to those approved for the public health major or the General Education Requirements may request that these courses be evaluated for transfer credit. When students apply for admission to the College of Public Health, they must submit official transcripts from each college attended along with their application for admission. After the credit has been certified by Admissions as college-level work from an accredited institution and after admission has been granted, the credit is evaluated by the undergraduate program either before or during the student's first semester of enrollment in the college.

Grading System

The college uses a letter grading system. A denotes superior performance, B denotes above average, C denotes average, D denotes below average, and F denotes failure of the course. Plus and minus designate gradations of performance between letter grades. Letter grades and their numerical equivalents are as follows.

A+	4.33
A (superior)	4.00
A-	3.67
B+	3.33
B (above average)	3.00
B-	2.67
C+	2.33
C (average)	2.00
C-	1.67
D+	1.33
D (below average)	1.00
F (failing)	0

Adding and Dropping Courses

Students may drop courses, except College of Law courses, any time before the deadline published in the university's academic deadline calendar. Deadlines are different for regular and off-cycle courses. See Academic Calendar on the Office of the Registrar's website.

Students must obtain approval from the college that offers the course in order to request permission to add or drop a course after these deadlines.

Auditing Courses

College of Public Health students may choose to take courses without earning credit for them (audit) with the permission of the course instructor and their advisor. Students are still charged for auditing courses. The mark of AUS (audit successful) is assigned to students registered for zero credit if attendance and performance in the course are satisfactory; if unsatisfactory, the mark of AUU (audit unsuccessful) is assigned. Courses completed with a mark of AUS do not meet any requirements nor do they carry any credit toward graduation. Auditing may not be used as a second-grade-only option.

To register for a course on an audit basis, students must obtain the instructor's authorizing signature and their advisor's signature and must register for 0 s.h. To change registration from audit to credit or from credit to audit, a change in registration form is used. These changes must be made during the period when adding courses is allowed.

Pass/Nonpass Courses

Undergraduate students in the College of Public Health may not use courses taken P/N (pass/nonpass) to satisfy General Education Requirements, high school course requirements, prerequisite or major public health course requirements, or any course in the College of Public Health. Major public health requirements include any course that fulfills the major course requirements (including public health electives), regardless of the college offering the course. The College accepts a maximum of 15 s.h. of P (pass) credit from the University of Iowa toward the bachelor’s degree and a maximum of 30 s.h. of P (pass) and S (satisfactory) grades from all sources (UI as well as transfer work) toward the bachelor’s degree.

Pass/nonpass registration must be completed during the first 10 days of a fall or spring semester or the first one-and-one-half weeks of a summer session, and it requires the approval of the advisor and the instructor. For courses taken pass/nonpass, an earned grade of C-minus or higher is recorded as a P; an earned grade of D-plus or lower is recorded as an N. Pass/nonpass credit is not included in grade-point average calculations.

Satisfactory/Fail Courses

The College of Public Health Direct Admit Seminar and the Second and Third Year Career Planning Seminars are offered only satisfactory/fail (S/F). A grade of F (fail) earned for these seminars does not satisfy any portion of the professional development seminar requirement.

Certain other College of Public Health courses are offered satisfactory/fail (S/F). All students registered for these courses receive one of these marks.

Semester hours of S-graded coursework are not used in computing grade-point averages, but hours of F-graded coursework are used. Semester hours of S-graded coursework are counted as semester hours earned toward graduation; semester hours of F-graded coursework do not count as semester hours earned toward graduation.

College of Public Health undergraduates may not use S-graded coursework to fulfill General Education Requirements.

The college accepts a maximum of 15 s.h. of S credit from the University of Iowa toward the bachelor’s degree and a maximum of 30 s.h. of S and P grades from all sources (UI as well as transfer work) toward the bachelor’s degree.

Incomplete Grades

Instructors may report a mark of I (incomplete) only if the unfinished part of a student's work in a course other than research, thesis, or independent study is small; if the work is unfinished for reasons acceptable to the instructor; and if a student's standing in the course is satisfactory.

Students should not re-enroll in a course for which they have an incomplete. Incomplete grades must be removed by completing the unfinished part of the work. Faculty and students are encouraged to state clearly in a written agreement how the incomplete is to be completed and the due date for the remaining work. Both the faculty member and the student should keep a record of the written agreement.

Failure to remove the incomplete before the end of the next full semester, excluding summer and winter sessions, results in the replacement of the I with a grade of F, regardless of whether a student is enrolled during that semester. A grade change may be submitted to convert a grade of F to another letter grade, with the instructor's approval.

Students cannot graduate with an I mark on their record. They must either complete the course for a passing grade or allow the Incomplete to lapse to a grade of F.

Second-Grade-Only Option for CLAS Public Health Interest Students

Public health interest students must follow the rules established by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS). Contact the CLAS Undergraduate Programs office or consult the CLAS Academic Policies Handbook for more information.

Second-Grade-Only Option

College of Public Health students may repeat up to three courses taken at the University of Iowa regardless of the grade originally earned in the course and may only be used once per class. A course may not be repeated under the second-grade-only option once it has been used as a prerequisite for a more advanced course that the student has completed successfully. The second-grade-only option cannot be used to remove a grade of incomplete, which must be removed in the usual manner.

The second-grade-only option may only be used for University of Iowa courses. A course taken at another college or university may not be repeated at the University of Iowa under the second-grade-only option, nor may a UI course be repeated at another institution under the second-grade-only option.

Any second-grade-only options used before entry to the College of Public Health count toward the maximum of three second-grade-only options allowed.

If the course was taken for a grade the first time, it must be taken for a grade the second time.

If the course was taken satisfactory/fail the first time, a student may choose to take the course for a grade or as satisfactory/fail the second time.

Any University of Iowa course taken in any mode of delivery —during a regular semester, a summer session, an intensive session, through distance education, or through Distance and Online Education [p. 2194]—may be repeated in the same mode of delivery or in any other mode of delivery.

Students who have been awarded a degree from the University of Iowa may not use the second-grade-only option on a course taken before the degree was awarded.

Students must register as usual for the course that is to be repeated. After the session in which the course is being repeated has begun, students must request the second-grade-only option by completing the Second-Grade-Only Option Request Form. Students must follow this procedure or both grades will be counted in their University of Iowa grade-point average.

The permanent record is adjusted by placing a pound symbol (#) next to the first grade to indicate that it is no longer being included in the grade-point-average calculation, and only the semester hours from the second registration have been counted as semester hours earned. Once placed on the record, the option may not be retracted. Graduate or professional colleges may recalculate grade-point averages using all grades visible on the permanent record.

Student Academic Misconduct

Policies regarding cases of cheating or plagiarism are outlined in the Undergraduate Student Handbook; see Examples of Academic Misconduct on the College of Public Health website.

Academic Probation and Dismissal

College of Public Health students are expected to meet academic standards set by the college and to demonstrate reasonable progress toward a degree. To be considered in good academic standing, students must earn a minimum cumulative public health major GPA, a minimum UI cumulative GPA, and a minimum cumulative GPA for all college work of at least 2.00, and a required University of Iowa session GPA of 1.50 or higher during any spring, summer, or fall enrollment. If a student does not meet all grade-point average conditions, then the student is placed on academic probation.

Students usually are allowed only one session to return to good academic standing. They are required to meet with an academic advisor. Students on academic probation who withdraw registration after the deadline for dropping courses may be dismissed.

The college reviews academic records for all students at the end of the fall and spring semesters. There is no review at the end of the summer session. Students are placed on probation, dismissed for unsatisfactory progress (with or without previous probationary status), or restored to good standing only at the end of the fall and spring semesters.

Students who do not make satisfactory progress may be dismissed from the college without an intervening probationary period. Students who are dismissed from the college for unsatisfactory academic progress due to circumstances beyond their control, such as a death in their immediate family or extended personal illness, may appeal for a revocation of the dismissal. A student dismissed in January must submit a written appeal by the second day of spring semester classes. A student dismissed in May must submit the written appeal by June 15.

Students dismissed from the college for poor scholarship may appeal to re-enroll after an interval of at least one calendar year following the end of the term in which they were dismissed. A written appeal for reinstatement must be submitted to the Undergraduate Program Office. Appeals must be submitted before June 15 for reinstatement in a fall semester or before Dec. 1 for reinstatement in a spring semester.

For details, see the Undergraduate Student Handbook on the college's website.

Reinstatement

Students dismissed for unsatisfactory scholarship for the first time are not permitted to register again for one year. Students dismissed for the second time may or may not be granted a second reinstatement. Requests for reinstatement must be made in writing and should be addressed to the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, College of Public Health. Arrangements for a reinstatement interview must be made with the associate dean for academic affairs. The interview must take place between March 1 and July 1 for reinstatement for the fall semester, or between Oct. 1 and Dec. 1 for reinstatement to the spring semester. Late requests are deferred to the following semester.

Students who are permitted to register following dismissal are registered on academic probation and ordinarily are allowed two semesters to achieve good standing. Most reinstatements include a limit on the number of semester hours the student may take upon reinstatement. Very poor academic work in the first semester of reinstatement, however, may result in dismissal at the close of that semester.

Facilities

The College of Public Health Building, a state-of-the-art facility that opened in 2012 on the university's health sciences campus, houses the college's administrative, departmental, and faculty offices. The college's research centers, institutes, and specialized laboratories are located in Westlawn, on the health sciences campus; in University Capitol Centre, on the main campus east; and at the University of Iowa Research Park.

Four student computer laboratories are housed at the college. More than 55 software packages are available for student use, most without charge. Software includes Microsoft Office products, SAS, and S+. Some specialty labs are equipped with RedHat Linux and are loaded with R, Macanova, Xlispstat, Mathematica, and other software.

Students, faculty, and staff draw on extensive library resources available across campus. Hardin Library for the Health Sciences serves as a central resource for all of the health sciences colleges. Hardin Library's Information Commons, a state-of-the-art health sciences educational technology facility, provides central support and delivery for courseware development, classroom instruction, health-related research, and independent learning. It offers high-end multimedia development workstations, networked electronic classrooms, a case-based learning and conference room, and information research workstations for searching health-related databases and the internet.

Research Centers and Institutes

The College of Public Health is home to 21 centers and institutes that conduct research and provide public service. These multidisciplinary centers and institutes—most of which are supported by federal grants—focus their investigative efforts on important public health topics. They conduct an array of outreach, service, and policy activities through which the College of Public Health engages with agencies, communities, and organizations throughout Iowa, the Midwest, the nation, and the world. Students are encouraged to explore opportunities for involvement with any of the college's centers and institutes.

For more information, see Research Centers and Programs on the college's website.

Courses

College of Public Health Courses

CPH:1000 First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, readings, visits to research facilities).

CPH:1050 College of Public Health Direct Admit Seminar 1 s.h.
Introduction for first-year students to student life and the public health profession; tips for student success, resources on campus, coping with adversity, advising responsibilities, curriculum choices and career objectives, and community building events.

CPH:1400 Fundamentals of Public Health 3 s.h.
Introduction to public health; emphasis on issues, challenges, achievements, careers; historical events that serve as a foundation for public health practice. GE: Social Sciences.

CPH:1600 Public Health Science: Inquiry and Investigation in Public Health 3 s.h.
Introduction to epidemiology, biostatistics, and the interdisciplinary nature of public health research and practice; how public policy and population-based interventions are subsequently shaped by public health evidence. GE: Quantitative or Formal Reasoning.

CPH:1800 Social and Psychological Determinants of Health: Changing Behavior, Improving Health 3 s.h.
Study of the social and psychological aspects of health, including understanding behavior change to improve health.

CPH:2050 Career Planning: Exploring Careers in Public Health 1 s.h.
Preparation for experiential learning opportunities, including development of interpersonal, teamwork, leadership, and communication skills; ethical decision-making; understanding the cultural contexts in which professionals work; working with communities and the role of advocacy; professionalism. Requirements: second-year College of Public Health major.

CPH:2200 Climageddon: Understanding Climate Change and Associated Impacts on Health 3 s.h.
Discovery, underlying principles, and impacts of global climate change; scientific evidence, global climate models, international treaties, ethics, advocacy and denial of climate change; strategies for climate adaptation and mitigation of unsustainable practices. GE: Sustainability. GE: International and Global Issues; Sustainability.

CPH:2220 Building a Healthier Tomorrow: Public Health Methods to Minimize Disease and Pollutant Exposures 3 s.h.
Introduction to historical public health practices developed to prevent exposures to environmental contaminants; major sources of those contaminants that adversely affect natural waters and air are evaluated relative to methods used to provide safe drinking water and clean air; in-class exercises involve critical thinking and creativity to understand concepts and tools needed to utilize prior public health successes and application to current and future environmental health events.

CPH:2230 Finding Patient Zero: The Exploration of Infectious Disease Transmission and Pandemic Threats 3 s.h.
Exploration of lay and scientific literature, pandemic infection games, and popular culture television programming to evaluate past and fictional pandemics—are these pandemics rooted in fact or fiction?

CPH:2400 The U.S. Health System in a Global Context 3 s.h.
Fundamental organizational structures of the U.S. health system and the difference between systems globally; basic concepts of legal, ethical, economic, and regulatory dimensions of health care and policy and roles, influences, and responsibilities of government agencies.

CPH:2600 Introduction to Public Health Methods 3 s.h.
Introductory quantitative and qualitative methods used in public health practice and research. Prerequisites: CPH:1600 with a minimum grade of C-.

CPH:3050 Career Planning: Preparing Post-Graduation Plans 1 s.h.
Development and preparation for post-college plans, including how to conduct a job search, write a résumé and cover letter, interview, and apply to graduate programs in public health and related fields. Prerequisites: CPH:2050.

CPH:3100 Health Economics 3 s.h.
Introduction to microeconomic theory and applications to health and health care, including demand for health and health services, health insurance coverage, health care markets, behavior of health care providers, and role of government.

CPH:3200 Death at Work: Case Studies of Workplace Safety and Health 3 s.h.
Case-study approach to understanding the rights of workers to a safe and healthful workplace; relevant risk factors (physical, economic, social) among several working environments.

CPH:3210 Nutrition in Public Health 3 s.h.
Concepts and methods of obtaining and using food and nutrition information from federal databases and research publications; how food and nutrition knowledge, policy, and research are used for improvement of the health of populations.

CPH:3220 Public Health as a Public Good: Economics and Decision Making in Public Health Systems 3 s.h.
Role of government in the economy from a public health perspective; emphasis on the importance of public goods, behavioral economics in public health solutions, and key methods for evaluation of public programs.

CPH:3240 Global Health Today 1 s.h.
Attendance at diverse on-campus, local, and regional global health events. Same as GHS:3030.

CPH:3300 Undergraduate Independent Study in Public Health arr.
In-depth pursuit of an area of special interest in public health.

CPH:3400 Health, Work, and the Environment 3 s.h.
Survey of environmental and occupational health hazards and the associated health risks of exposure; how public health protects society from these hazards; how public health policy can be influenced by science. Same as SEES:3250.

CPH:3500 Global Public Health 3 s.h.
Exploration of historical, current, and forecasted trends in global public health, the factors influencing health demographics in human populations, sources of health inequalities, and appropriate policy and intervention approaches for addressing global public health challenges. Same as GHS:3500.

CPH:3600 Applied Public Health Methods 3 s.h.
Application of quantitative and qualitative methods used in public health practice and research. Prerequisites: CPH:1600 with a minimum grade of C- and CPH:2600 with a minimum grade of C-.

CPH:3700 Methods for Program Implementation and Evaluation 3 s.h.
Introduction of theory and practice of program implementation and evaluation for health care and public health interventions focusing on programs implemented at the community level, including projects in government and nonprofit organizations. Prerequisites: CPH:1600.

CPH:3750 Undergraduate Service Learning in Public Health arr.
Community service learning experience directly related to goals and objectives of a specific public health course for undergraduate students; faculty-guided planning and reflection; satisfies the experiential learning public health degree requirement for undergraduate public health majors. Recommendations: CPH:2050 strongly recommended.

CPH:3800 Why We Eat What We Eat: Public Health Theories and Society 3 s.h.
Examination of public health and social science theories as they relate to socioeconomics, policy, institutions, communities, individual decision-making, behavior, and health.

CPH:3900 Fundamentals in Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response 3 s.h.
Basic concepts and principles used in emergency prevention, preparedness, response, and recovery at the local, state, and national levels with emphasis on roles and responsibilities of public health that align with policies, laws, and systems.

CPH:3999 Undergraduate Research Experience in Public Health arr.
Hands-on involvement in scholarly public health research activities under the supervision of faculty or research staff; satisfies the experiential learning degree requirement for undergraduate public health majors. Recommendations: CPH:2050 strongly recommended.

CPH:4200 Agriculture, Food Systems, and Sustainability 3 s.h.
Identification and development of tools to measure environmental and social sustainability of global agricultural practices, including interactions with the environment, social considerations, and the ability of agriculture to support farmers' livelihoods.

CPH:4210 Making a Difference: Public Health Policy and Advocacy 3 s.h.
Important role of policy in health, including policy structures, implementation, advocacy, and evaluation; students focus their work on a policy of their specific interest.

CPH:4220 Global Road Safety 3 s.h.
Road safety problem, data sources, research methods used in field, and how intervention and prevention programs are developed and evaluated; lecture, hands-on approaches. Same as GHS:4530, OEH:4530.

CPH:4230 Injury and Violence Prevention 3 s.h.
Theory, research, and practice of injury control; unintentional and intentional injuries; local, national, international injury issues. Same as EPID:4510, OEH:4510.

CPH:4240 Special Topics arr.
Didactic material in public health; may include tutorial, seminar, or faculty-directed work; may be a special topic or experience taught one time or on a first-time basis.

CPH:4250 Field Experiences in Public Health 1 s.h.
Direct involvement in actions being taken at local community level; topics include environmental health, infectious diseases, chronic diseases, and pediatric health; practical examples and hands-on experiences during site visits for topic-specific field investigations. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOL:1140 or BIOL:1141 or BIOL:1411. Requirements: biology or microbiology coursework. Same as EPID:4314.

CPH:4260 College of Public Health Strike Force 0 s.h.
Provide support to public health organizations, health care systems, and nonprofit organizations throughout Iowa, nationally, and globally; students deploy to assist with diverse public health related projects; use of surge capacity, service learning, and just-in-time training models; hands-on learning opportunities that transition theory into practice while addressing real-life situations.

CPH:4650 Maternal Health in Migrant Communities 2 s.h.
Applied epidemiological and community-engaged research methods to understand clinical and social determinants of maternal and child health and reproductive care. Travel to La Casona territory in Costa Rica to learn about health systems in the context of the Costa Rica Social Security Fund. Same as EPID:4650.

CPH:4750 Undergraduate Global Learning in Public Health arr.
Global public health experience; satisfies the experiential learning public health degree requirement for undergraduate public health majors. Recommendations: CPH:2050 strongly recommended.

CPH:4755 International Perspectives: Xicotepec 2 s.h.
Interdisciplinary service-learning course to enrich understanding of Mexican culture and history; students hone teamwork, leadership, cultural sensitivity, cultural humility, and project management skills while developing and carrying out public health projects that address community-identified needs; coordinated with the support of Rotary International.

CPH:4850 Undergraduate Public Health Internship arr.
Public health internship experience; satisfies the experiential learning public health degree requirement for undergraduate public health majors. Recommendations: CPH:2050 strongly recommended.

CPH:4990 Mentored Independent Undergraduate Research in Public Health arr.
Independent student research project under the supervision of a faculty mentor; satisfies the experiential learning degree requirement for undergraduate public health majors. Corequisites: CPH:3600. Recommendations: CPH:2050 strongly recommended.

CPH:4999 Public Health Capstone: Practice of Evidence-Based Public Health 3 s.h.
Students in their final year synthesize and apply knowledge through cumulative and integrative activities that serve as a capstone to their educational experience. Prerequisites: CPH:1800 and CPH:2400 and CPH:3400 and CPH:3600 and CPH:3700.

CPH:5100 Introduction to Public Health 3 s.h.
Concepts, structures, and activities in public health practice. Offered fall semesters and summer sessions.

CPH:5203 Interprofessional Education and Practice for MPH Students 0 s.h.
Students gain knowledge and skills in interprofessional practice between health professionals including medicine, pharmacy, dentistry, physical therapy, nursing, health administration, and public health; understanding roles/responsibilities, values, and ethics across health professions; development of teamwork skills.

CPH:6100 Essentials of Public Health 2 s.h.
Introduction and overview of the scope of public health; emphasis on history, definitions, issues, achievements, and future challenges; examples of public health research and practice.

CPH:6500 Independent Study in Public Health arr.
In-depth pursuit of an area of special interest in public health. Requirements: approval from the College of Public Health.

CPH:6600 Service-Learning in Public Health arr.
Community service learning experience directly related to goals and objectives of a specific public health course; faculty-guided planning and reflection.

CPH:6700 Public Health Emergency Preparedness for Veterinarians and Other Public Health Disciplines 3 s.h.
Introduction to public health emergency preparedness from a one health perspective; emergency preparedness from federal, state, and local perspectives; important elements for preparing responders; preparedness information systems and communication techniques.

CPH:7000 MPH Practicum Experience 0-6 s.h.
Comprehensive and integrated application of knowledge acquired in the MPH program in a practice setting; demonstration of professional competence in public health practice. Prerequisites: CBH:4105 and (HMP:5005 or HMP:4000) and EPID:4400 and BIOS:4120 and OEH:4240 and CPH:5100. Requirements: an approved practicum proposal.

CPH:7200 MPH Capstone Experience 1 s.h.
Students gain knowledge and skills in public health practice by working on an interdisciplinary team to solve a real-world public health issue; each student has the opportunity to apply classroom and practical experience received throughout their MPH coursework into an integrative experience; students particularly gain skills in advocacy, communication with diverse audiences on public health issues, and the role of different public health disciplines in solving health issues in the community. Prerequisites: CBH:4105 and (HMP:5005 or HMP:4000) and EPID:4400 and BIOS:4120 and OEH:4240 and CPH:5100.

CPH:7270 Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health 0-1 s.h.
Training in the responsible conduct of research and scholarly activities; discussion of student/mentor responsibilities in pursuit of scholarly work and intellectual dialogues; responsibilities to the institution/scholarly community/society; public health core discipline examples are utilized.

CPH:7500 MPH Applied Practice Experience 1-2 s.h.
Comprehensive and integrated application of knowledge acquired in the MPH program in a practice setting; demonstration of professional competence in public health practice. Prerequisites: CBH:4105 and (HMP:5005 or HMP:4000) and EPID:4400 and BIOS:4120 and OEH:4240 and CPH:5100.

CPH:7604 Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health - Postdoc/K Awardees 0 s.h.
Training in the responsible conduct of research and scholarly activities; discussion of student/mentor responsibilities in pursuit of scholarly work and intellectual dialogues; responsibilities to institution/scholarly community/society; utilization of public health core discipline examples; for public health postdoc/K awardees.

CPH:7800 MPH Practicum 1-3 s.h.
A culminating applied practice experience in a public health setting that demonstrates a synthesis of foundational and concentration competencies. Prerequisites: CBH:4105 and HMP:4000 and EPID:4400 and BIOS:4120 and OEH:4240 and CPH:5100.

Public Health, BA

The Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree provides students with a basic understanding of the five core public health knowledge areas: biostatistics, social and behavioral sciences, epidemiology, health policy and management, and occupational and environmental health sciences. Students will be prepared to enter the workforce or continue their education.

A public health core provides the degree with breadth in the biological, social, economic, quantitative, geographic, and educational components of health and health disparities within and across populations. Students complete a cumulative capstone experience during which they will integrate, apply, and synthesize public health knowledge. As an integral part of their education, students also are exposed to public health professionals and agencies.

Requirements

The Bachelor of Arts with a major in public health requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 45 s.h. of work for the major. Students must have a cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major; in all college coursework and in all UI coursework; and in all college coursework in public health and in all UI public health coursework, including any courses administered by the College of Public Health in the departments of Biostatistics, Community and Behavioral Health, Epidemiology, Health Management and Policy, and Occupational and Environmental Health. Students are required to earn a minimum of 30 s.h. in public health coursework at the University of Iowa.

The BA with a major in public health requires the following coursework.

College Success Requirement

All students are required to complete CSI:1600 Success at Iowa during the fall semester; students complete part one before participating in an orientation program. The course is designed to help students successfully transition to college life. The course covers information about online tools that are specific to the university, such as MyUI and Iowa Courses Online (ICON), and also discusses resources for navigating life on campus. Additional content includes financial aid literacy, strategies for making healthy behavior choices, sexual assault awareness and prevention, and the comprehensive transitional survey known as MAP-Works.

General Education Requirements

Course #	Title	Hours
RHET:1030	Rhetoric: Writing and Communication	4
ENGL:1200	The Interpretation of Literature	3
World Languages		0-10
Natural Sciences		7
Quantitative or Formal Reasoning		3
Social Sciences		3
Historical Perspectives		3
Understanding Cultural Perspectives		3
International and Global Issues		3
Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts		3
Values and Society		3
Sustainability [1]		0

[1] Sustainability courses will count for two core requirements (i.e., for sustainability and one other approved general education core course in natural, quantitative, and social sciences, or culture, society, and the arts.

World Languages

Students may complete the world languages requirement using one of the following three options. One year of high school language study is generally equivalent to one semester of college language study.

Option One

Attain fourth-level proficiency in a single world language, usually by completing four years of that language in high school or four semesters in college or an equivalent combination of high school and college coursework; or pass an achievement test or evaluation at fourth-level proficiency.

Option Two

Attain second-level proficiency in each of two world languages, usually by completing two years of each language in high school or two semesters of each language in college or an equivalent combination of high school and college coursework; or pass achievement tests and/or evaluations at second-level proficiency in each language. Option two does not qualify students to earn credit under the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP).

Option Three

Attain second-level proficiency in a single world language, usually by completing two years of that language in high school or two semesters of that language in college plus one additional 3 s.h. course from the GE CLAS Core [p. 22] in International and Global Issues, Values and Society, Understanding Cultural Perspectives, or World Language and Cultural Exploration. Option three does not fulfill the World Languages requirement for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences or qualify students to earn credit under the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP).

Students may count courses taken to fulfill general education requirements toward other requirements for the BA degree.

Public Health Core Courses

Students must complete the following (29 s.h. for standard or transfer admission students, 30 s.h. for direct admission students). Only direct admission students complete CPH:1050 whereas standard admission students do not.

Course #	Title	Hours
CPH:1050	College of Public Health Direct Admit Seminar (only direct admission students complete this course)	1
CPH:1400	Fundamentals of Public Health	3
CPH:1600	Public Health Science: Inquiry and Investigation in Public Health	3

BA/CLAS Undergraduate Degree

Students admitted to or enrolled in the BA in public health program may pursue an additional degree in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS). Students pursuing an additional degree outside the College of Public Health are:

- expected to meet all degree requirements, general education requirements, and GE CLAS Core requirements for both degree programs;
- required to satisfy the collegiate residence requirements of both colleges;
- assigned two advisors, one in each college; and
- assessed tuition for the primary program of study in accordance with the rules of the Office of the Registrar.

Additional Considerations

Students may be awarded degrees in the two colleges simultaneously or separately without requiring additional coursework beyond the degree requirements. Current students enrolled in the College of Public Health who want to add a CLAS major should use the Change of College Application found in MyUI. Students who wish to discontinue the additional degree program will need to file a Discontinuation of Combined Degree Program form in the collegiate office of the program of study they are dropping.

Students may change majors with either college in the college academic programs office and still remain in the additional degree program.

Combined Programs

BA/Graduate Degree

Combined undergraduate to graduate programs provide an opportunity for students to earn both their BA and a master's degree in five years by beginning to earn graduate credit during their fourth year of undergraduate study.

Students in the combined programs must complete all requirements for each degree. Students apply for admission to the combined program during their third year as undergraduates and enter the program at the beginning of their fourth year.

Applicants must also apply for admission to the master's degree program and must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website. For more information, see Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) on the College of Public Health website.

Public health majors intending to pursue the Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) combined degree program in public health must complete 120 s.h. Up to 15 s.h. may be earned in graduate credit by the end of a student's fourth year.

Public health majors must complete all of the following requirements in addition to the 15 s.h. of graduate coursework.

Public Health Major Degree Requirements

Coursework for the following requirements total approximately 60 s.h.: public health core courses; BA coursework; public health elective coursework; experiential learning requirement; and general education requirement courses.

General Electives

University of Iowa nonmajor coursework must total 120 s.h. by the end of the fourth year; this could include up to 15 s.h. of graduate credit in public health coursework taken as an undergraduate student.

Graduate courses taken during the fourth year do not count toward major requirements (including public health electives) for the undergraduate public health major. However, these semester hours may count as general elective credits needed to complete the 120 s.h. required for a bachelor’s degree.

Honors

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in public health have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. To graduate with honors in public health, students must successfully complete all college requirements with a grade-point average of at least 3.33 in all courses for the major, in all college coursework, and in all UI coursework.

In addition, students must complete an honors thesis in CPH:4990 Mentored Independent Undergraduate Research in Public Health, where they must write a brief research proposal summarizing the background and goals of honors research, defend their research proposal to an honors project faculty member and an honors advisor, conduct research, submit their honors thesis, and conclude with an oral and/or poster presentation.

Outstanding undergraduate students in the college have an opportunity to undertake independent study and to work closely with faculty members. Completion of requirements for honors in the major will also satisfy the experiential learning requirement. Consult the College of Public Health undergraduate program office for more information.

University of Iowa Honors Program

Public health interest students interested in honors study are encouraged to participate in the University of Iowa Honors Program until they are admitted to the College of Public Health. Visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the university's honors program.

Membership in the UI Honors Program is not a requirement for applying to or graduating with honors in the public health major.

Admission

Students may be admitted to the College of Public Health either through direct admission or standard admission.

Direct Admission

Direct admission is designed for students applying to the university as first-year students for the fall semester. Applicants who meet the high school course requirements and present a Regent Admission Index (RAI) of 265 or higher and a high school grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.33 are directly admitted to the college. Applicants who meet course requirements and either the RAI or GPA requirement are carefully considered. Students who are denied direct admission may file an online petition for direct admission to the College of Public Health.

Students granted direct admission to the college are eligible to apply for first-year scholarships. The scholarship application process is competitive and is based on high school records and short essay responses.

First-year students not admitted directly to the College of Public Health may be admitted to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as a public health interest student.

Standard and Transfer Admission

University of Iowa students are eligible to apply for standard admission to the College of Public Health, typically after their first year, once they complete prerequisite courses and earn the required GPA.

The application deadline for fall admission is May 1. Application deadline for spring admission is Dec. 1. Students should meet the following requirements by the end of the semester in which they apply:

- completion of at least 12 s.h. at the University of Iowa; and
- a minimum GPA of 2.75 in all University of Iowa coursework and in all college coursework.

Students who are denied standard admission may file an online appeal for denial of admission to the College of Public Health if they can provide documentation of extenuating circumstances that affected their academic performance.

Transfer students who meet the GPA requirement may apply directly to the College of Public Health through standard admission.

Career Advancement

The BA program provides knowledge of the community and behavioral aspects of public health for students interested in working in health education, health communication, public health program development, or public health policy in local, federal, or international governmental or nongovernmental agencies. Students will be prepared for advanced education in the social sciences, communication studies, social and community health, health policy and management, and other fields.

Academic Plans

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the university's Four-Year Graduation Plan. Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.

The Four-Year Graduation Plan applies only to students who are directly admitted to the College of Public Health or students who meet the prerequisites and submit an application for standard admission before the third semester begins (including public health interest students).

Before the second semester begins: CPH:1050 College of Public Health Direct Admit Seminar (for direct admits only).

Before the third semester begins: CPH:1400 Fundamentals of Public Health, CPH:1600 Public Health Science: Inquiry and Investigation in Public Health, and at least one-quarter of the semester hours required for graduation.

Before the fourth semester begins: CPH:2050 Career Planning: Exploring Careers in Public Health and CPH:2600 Introduction to Public Health Methods.

Before the fifth semester begins: one-half of the semester hours required for graduation.

Before the sixth semester begins: CPH:3600 Applied Public Health Methods.

Before the seventh semester begins: CPH:3700 Methods for Program Implementation and Evaluation and at least three-quarters of the semester hours required for graduation.

Before the eighth semester begins: all public health core courses, except CPH:4999 Public Health Capstone: Practice of Evidence-Based Public Health, and the experiential learning requirement.

During the eighth semester: all remaining General Education Requirement courses, enrollment in all remaining coursework in the major, including CPH:4999 Public Health Capstone: Practice of Evidence-Based Public Health, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate.

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

a Students complete the experiential learning requirement by choosing an approved option. CPH:2050 is strongly recommended prior to enrollment in experiential learning.

b Sustainability must be completed by choosing a course that has been approved for Sustainability AND for one of these General Education areas: Natural Sciences; Quantitative or Formal Reasoning; Social Sciences; Historical Perspectives; International and Global Issues; Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts; or Values and Society.

c Prerequisite for admission to the College of Public Health.

d Fulfills a major requirement and may fulfill a GE requirement.

e GE courses may be completed in any order unless used as a prerequisite for another course. Students should consult with an advisor about the best sequencing of courses.

f Students may use elective courses to earn credit towards the total s.h. required for graduation or to complete a double major, minors, or certificates.

g Students must complete one of three options: (1) fourth-level proficiency in a single world language, (2) second-level proficiency in two different world languages, or (3) second-level proficiency in a single world language plus one additional 3 s.h. course from the GE CLAS Core in International and Global Issues, Values and Society, Understanding Cultural Perspectives, or World Language and Cultural Exploration.

h Students must complete a minimum of 12 s.h. of College of Public Health electives (prefix CPH). See the General Catalog for list of approved courses.

i Choose from: CPH:3999, CPH:4990, CPH:4850, CPH:4750, CPH:3750. A completed application and approval by the College of Public Health undergraduate program office are required.

j All core and experiential learning courses must be complete prior to enrollment in CPH:4999.

k Please see Academic Calendar, on Office of the Registrar website, for current degree application deadlines. Students should apply for a degree for the session in which all requirements will be met. For any questions on appropriate timing, contact your academic advisor or Degree Services.

Public Health, BS

The Bachelor of Science (BS) degree provides students with a basic understanding of the five core public health knowledge areas: biostatistics, social and behavioral sciences, epidemiology, health policy and management, and occupational and environmental health sciences. Students will be prepared to enter the workforce or continue their education.

A public health core provides the degree with breadth in the biological, social, economic, quantitative, geographic, and educational components of health and health disparities within and across populations. Students complete a cumulative capstone experience during which they will integrate, apply, and synthesize public health knowledge. As an integral part of their education, students also are exposed to public health professionals and agencies.

Requirements

The Bachelor of Science with a major in public health requires a minimum of 120 s.h., including at least 57 s.h. of work for the major. Students must have a cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.00 in all courses for the major and in all UI courses for the major; in all college coursework and in all UI coursework; and in all college coursework in public health and in all UI public health coursework, including any courses administered by the College of Public Health in the departments of Biostatistics, Community and Behavioral Health, Epidemiology, Health Management and Policy, and Occupational and Environmental Health. Students are required to earn a minimum of 30 s.h. in public health coursework at the University of Iowa.

The BS with a major in public health requires the following coursework.

College Success Requirement

All students are required to complete CSI:1600 Success at Iowa during the fall semester; students complete part one before participating in an orientation program. The course is designed to help students successfully transition to college life. The course covers information about online tools that are specific to the university, such as MyUI and Iowa Courses Online (ICON), and also discusses resources for navigating life on campus. Additional content includes financial aid literacy, strategies for making healthy behavior choices, sexual assault awareness and prevention, and the comprehensive transitional survey known as MAP-Works.

[1] Sustainability courses will count for two core requirements (i.e., for sustainability and one other approved general education core course in natural, quantitative, and social sciences, or culture, society, and the arts.

World Languages

Students may complete the world languages requirement using one of the following three options. One year of high school language study is generally equivalent to one semester of college language study.

Option One

Attain fourth-level proficiency in a single world language, usually by completing four years of that language in high school or four semesters in college or an equivalent combination of high school and college coursework; or pass an achievement test or evaluation at fourth-level proficiency.

Option Two

Attain second-level proficiency in each of two world languages, usually by completing two years of each language in high school or two semesters of each language in college or an equivalent combination of high school and college coursework; or pass achievement tests and/or evaluations at second-level proficiency in each language. Option two does not qualify students to earn credit under the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP).

Option Three

Attain second-level proficiency in a single world language, usually by completing two years of that language in high school or two semesters of that language in college plus one additional 3 s.h. course from the GE CLAS Core [p. 22] (in International and Global Issues, Values and Society, or Understanding Cultural Perspectives) or a CLAS-approved World Language and Cultural Exploration course. Option three does not fulfill the World Languages requirement for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences or qualify students to earn credit under the Furthering Language Incentive Program (FLIP).

Students may count courses taken to fulfill general education requirements toward other requirements for the BS.

Public Health Core Courses

Students must complete the following (29 s.h. for standard or transfer admission students, 30 s.h. for direct admission students). Only direct admission students complete CPH:1050 whereas standard admission students do not.

Course #	Title	Hours
CPH:1050	College of Public Health Direct Admit Seminar (only direct admission students complete this course)	1
CPH:1400	Fundamentals of Public Health	3
CPH:1600	Public Health Science: Inquiry and Investigation in Public Health	3

BS/CLAS Undergraduate Degree

Students admitted to or enrolled in the BS in public health program may pursue an additional degree in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS). Students pursuing an additional degree outside the College of Public Health are:

- expected to meet all degree requirements, general education requirements, and GE CLAS Core requirements for both degree programs;
- required to satisfy the collegiate residence requirements of both colleges;
- assigned two advisors, one in each college; and
- assessed tuition for the primary program of study in accordance with the rules of the Office of the Registrar.

Additional Considerations

Students may be awarded degrees in the two colleges simultaneously or separately without requiring additional coursework beyond the degree requirements. Current students enrolled in the College of Public Health who want to add a CLAS major should use the Change of College Application found in MyUI. Students who wish to discontinue the additional degree program will need to file a Discontinuation of Combined Degree Program form in the collegiate office of the program of study they are dropping.

Students may change majors with either college in the college academic programs office and still remain in the additional degree program.

Combined Programs

BS/Graduate Degree

Combined undergraduate to graduate programs provide an opportunity for students to earn both their BS and a master's degree in five years by beginning to earn graduate credit during their fourth year of undergraduate study.

Students in the combined programs must complete all requirements for each degree. Students apply for admission to the combined program during their third year as undergraduates and enter the program at the beginning of their fourth year.

Applicants must also apply for admission to the master's degree program and must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website. For more information, visit Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) on the College of Public Health website.

Public health majors intending to pursue the U2G combined degree program in public health must complete 120 s.h. Up to 15 s.h. may be earned in graduate credit by the end of a student's fourth year.

Public health majors must complete all of the following requirements in addition to the 15 s.h. of graduate coursework.

Public Health Major Degree Requirements

The degree requires public health core courses; BS coursework; public health elective coursework; the experiential learning requirement; and general education requirement courses.

General Electives

University of Iowa nonmajor coursework must total 120 s.h. by the end of the fourth year; this could include up to 15 s.h. of graduate credit in public health coursework taken as an undergraduate student.

Graduate courses taken during the fourth year do not count toward major requirements (including public health electives) for the undergraduate public health major. However, these semester hours may count as general elective credits needed to complete the 120 s.h. required for a bachelor’s degree.

Honors

Honors in the Major

Students majoring in public health have the opportunity to graduate with honors in the major. To graduate with honors in public health, students must successfully complete all college requirements with a grade-point average of at least 3.33 in all courses for the major, in all college coursework, and in all UI coursework.

In addition, students must complete an honors thesis in CPH:4990 Mentored Independent Undergraduate Research in Public Health, where they must write a brief research proposal summarizing the background and goals of their honors research, defend their research proposal to an honors project faculty member and an honors advisor, conduct research, submit their honors thesis, and conclude with an oral and/or poster presentation.

Outstanding undergraduate students in the college have an opportunity to undertake independent study and to work closely with faculty members. Completion of requirements for honors in the major will also satisfy the experiential learning requirement. Consult the College of Public Health undergraduate program office for more information.

University of Iowa Honors Program

Public health interest students interested in honors study are encouraged to participate in the University of Iowa Honors Program until they are admitted to the College of Public Health. Visit Honors at Iowa to learn about the university's honors program.

Membership in the UI Honors Program is not a requirement for applying to or graduating with honors in the public health major.

Admission

Students may be admitted to the College of Public Health either through direct admission or standard admission.

Direct Admission

Direct admission is designed for students applying to the university as first-year students for the fall semester. Applicants who meet the high school course requirements and present a Regent Admission Index (RAI) of 265 or higher and a high school grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.33 are directly admitted to the college. Applicants who meet course requirements and either the RAI or GPA requirement are carefully considered. Students who are denied direct admission may file an online petition for direct admission to the College of Public Health.

Students granted direct admission to the college are eligible to apply for first-year scholarships. The scholarship application process is competitive and is based on high school records and short essay responses.

First-year students not admitted directly to the College of Public Health may be admitted to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as a public health interest student.

Standard and Transfer Admission

University of Iowa students are eligible to apply for standard admission to the College of Public Health, typically after their first year, once they complete prerequisite courses and earn the required GPA.

The application deadline for fall admission is May 1. The application deadline for spring admission is Dec. 1. Students should meet the following requirements by the end of the semester in which they apply:

- completion of at least 12 s.h. at the University of Iowa; and
- a minimum GPA of 2.75 in all University of Iowa coursework and in all college coursework.

Students who are denied standard admission may file an online appeal for denial of admission to the College of Public Health if they can provide documentation of extenuating circumstances that affected their academic performance.

Transfer students who meet the GPA requirement may apply directly to the College of Public Health through standard admission.

Career Advancement

The BS program provides knowledge of the natural sciences for students interested in working in a research setting or preparing for advanced study in programs such as biostatistics, dentistry, environmental health, epidemiology, medicine, nursing, occupational health, pharmacy, public health, or veterinary medicine.

Academic Plans

Four-Year Graduation Plan

The following checkpoints list the minimum requirements students must complete by certain semesters in order to stay on the university's Four-Year Graduation Plan. Courses in the major are those required to complete the major; they may be offered by departments other than the major department.

The Four-Year Graduation Plan applies only to students who are directly admitted to the College of Public Health or students who meet the prerequisites and submit an application for standard admission before the third semester begins (including public health interest students).

Before the second semester begins: CPH:1050 College of Public Health Direct Admit Seminar (for direct admits only).

Before the third semester begins: CPH:1400 Fundamentals of Public Health, CPH:1600 Public Health Science: Inquiry and Investigation in Public Health, and at least one-quarter of the semester hours required for graduation.

Before the fourth semester begins: CPH:2050 Career Planning: Exploring Careers in Public Health and CPH:2600 Introduction to Public Health Methods.

Before the fifth semester begins: one-half of the semester hours required for graduation.

Before the sixth semester begins: CPH:3600 Applied Public Health Methods.

Before the seventh semester begins: CPH:3700 Methods for Program Implementation and Evaluation and at least three-quarters of the semester hours required for graduation.

Before the eighth semester begins: all public health core courses, except CPH:4999 Public Health Capstone: Practice of Evidence-Based Public Health, and the experiential learning requirement.

During the eighth semester: all remaining general education requirement courses, enrollment in all remaining coursework in the major, including CPH:4999 Public Health Capstone: Practice of Evidence-Based Public Health, and a sufficient number of semester hours to graduate.

Public Health, Undergraduate Certificate

Requirements

The undergraduate Certificate in Public Health requires 18 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a grade-point average of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate. They should contact the certificate coordinator to complete a plan of study before they begin certificate coursework.

The certificate is intended for non-public health majors and anyone interested in obtaining knowledge about public health concepts to enhance their ability to succeed in their chosen field. Students completing the certificate will have an understanding of emerging issues in public health, the social and behavioral aspects of preventing disease, environmental health concepts, and the changing health care system in the United States.

The certificate may be earned by any student admitted to the University of Iowa who is not concurrently enrolled in a graduate or professional degree program, except for those students who are earning a BA or BS with a major in public health or by those who have received one of those degrees. The certificate may also be earned by non-degree-seeking students.

The undergraduate Certificate in Public Health requires the following coursework. Fundamentals of Public Health (CPH:1400) must be taken prior to or concurrent with other certificate courses.

Master of Public Health, MPH

The Master of Public Health (MPH) is recognized as the primary professional degree in public health. The objective of Iowa's MPH program is to provide education and practical training in public health to students who will be leaders in their respective communities. The program is appropriate for individuals who already have professional experience and/or training in public health as well as for those whose expertise lies outside of public health.

Students may earn the Master of Public Health (MPH) as a single degree, or they may pursue one of several combined degree programs. The College of Public Health offers combined MPH/professional degree programs with the Carver College of Medicine and the Colleges of Law and Pharmacy. It also offers two programs in collaboration with the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University. See "MPH/DVM (Iowa State University)" and descriptions of the combined degree programs under Combined Programs [p. 2099] in this section of the catalog.

Undergraduate students can pursue an MPH degree in the following subprograms: biostatistics, community and behavioral health, epidemiology, occupational and environmental health, or policy. Undergraduate students work with their undergraduate advisor and the College of Public Health Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) coordinator to determine eligibility. In addition, the College of Public Health collaborates with other private colleges in Iowa to offer bachelor's degrees and Master of Public Health programs for undergraduate students who would like to earn an MPH degree.

The Master of Public Health program is offered by the College of Public Health; the degree is awarded by the Graduate College.

Learning Outcomes

For further information regarding MPH subprogram learning outcomes, visit MPH Programs of Study on the Master of Public Health website.

MPH Foundational Public Health Knowledge

Profession & Science of Public Health

Students will be able to:

- explain public health history, philosophy, and values;
- identify the core functions of public health and the 10 essential services;
- explain the role of quantitative and qualitative methods and sciences in describing and assessing a population’s health;
- list major causes and trends of morbidity and mortality in the United States or other communities relevant to the school, with attention to disparities among populations, e.g., socioeconomic, ethnic, gender, racial, etc.;
- discuss the science of primary, secondary, and tertiary prevention in population health, including health promotion, screening, etc.; and
- explain the critical importance of evidence in advancing public health knowledge.

Factors Related to Human Health

Students will be able to:

- explain the effects of environmental factors on a population’s health;
- explain biological and genetic factors that affect a population’s health;
- explain behavioral and psychological factors that affect a population’s health;
- explain the cultural, social, political, and economic determinants of health and how the determinants relate to population health and health inequities;
- explain how globalization affects global burdens of disease; and
- explain an ecological perspective on the connections among human health, animal health, and ecosystem health (e.g., One Health).

MPH Foundational Competencies

Evidence-Based Approaches to Public Health

Students will be able to:

- apply epidemiological methods to settings and situations in public health practice;
- select quantitative and qualitative data collection methods appropriate for a given public health context;
- analyze quantitative and qualitative data using biostatistics, informatics, computer-based programming, and software, as appropriate; and
- interpret results of data analysis for public health research, policy, or practice.

Public Health & Health Care Systems

Students will be able to:

- compare the organization, structure, and function of health care, public health, and regulatory systems across national and international settings; and
- discuss the means by which structural bias, social inequities, and racism undermine health and create challenges to achieving health equity at organizational, community, and systemic levels.

Planning & Management to Promote Health

Students will be able to:

- assess population needs, assets, and capacities that affect communities’ health;
- apply awareness of cultural values and practices to the design, implementation, or critique of public health policies or programs;
- design a population-based policy, program, project, or intervention;
- explain basic principles and tools of budget and resource management; and
- select methods to evaluate public health programs.

Policy in Public Health

Students will be able to:

- discuss the policy-making process, including the roles of ethics and evidence;

- propose strategies to identify relevant communities and individuals and build coalitions and partnerships for influencing public health outcomes;
- advocate for political, social, or economic policies and programs that will improve health in diverse populations; and
- evaluate policies for their impact on public health and health equity.

Leadership

Students will be able to:

- apply leadership and/or management principles to address a relevant issue; and
- apply negotiation and mediation skills to address organizational or community challenges.

Communication

Students will be able to:

- select communication strategies for different audiences and sectors;
- communicate audience-appropriate public health content, both in writing and through oral presentation to a non-academic, non-peer audience with attention to factors such as literacy and health literacy; and
- describe the importance of cultural humility in communicating public health content.

Interprofessional and/or Intersectoral Practice

Students will be able to integrate perspectives from other sectors and/or professions to promote and advance population health.

Systems Thinking

Students will be able to apply a systems-thinking tool to visually represent a public health issue in a format other than a standard narrative.

Requirements

The Master of Public Health requires at least 42–44 s.h. of graduate credit; the minimum credit hours required are determined by a student's subprogram. Students must maintain a Graduate College major program grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.00. The degree offers graduate preparation to students affiliated with College of Public Health (CPH) academic departments (biostatistics [p. 2093], community and behavioral health [p. 2094], epidemiology [p. 2095], occupational and environmental health [p. 2096], and policy [p. 2096]), students affiliated with specific combined degree programs (e.g., MD/MPH, PharmD/MPH), and other students with specific professional backgrounds (e.g., practicing veterinarians [p. 2097], practicing professionals [p. 2097]).

Degree requirements for all MPH subprograms include a core course in public health practice and in each of the five core disciplines of public health (biostatistics, epidemiology, environmental health, health policy and management, and social and behavioral sciences), a set of subprogram-specific required courses and electives, one interprofessional education course, and a practicum experience.

All MPH students complete the coursework listed under "Common Requirements." In addition, students complete the coursework listed for their chosen subprogram.

Common Requirements

The following coursework is required for all MPH students. Students must earn a B-minus or higher in each core course. A minimum 3.00 GPA in MPH core courses is required. Students may repeat a course to achieve this standard.

Core Courses

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
CPH:5100	Introduction to Public Health	3
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics (students in the biostatistics subprogram may substitute BIOS:5710)	3
CBH:4105	Introduction to Health Promotion and Disease Prevention	3
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
HMP:4000	Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System (students in the policy subprogram may substitute HMP:5005)	3
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3

Interprofessional Education Course

CPH:5203 Interprofessional Education and Practice for MPH Students (0 s.h.) is required for all MPH students. Students in a combined/joint non-departmental professional degree program (i.e., MPH/MD, MPH/PharmD, MPH/DVM), the practicing veterinarians subprogram, or the practicing professionals subprogram will have this requirement waived since the content is covered in pharmacy, medicine, or veterinary courses, or professional experience prior to enrollment in the MPH program.

MPH Practicum

Students complete CPH:7800 MPH Practicum for 3 s.h. During the practicum, students must complete at least 200 work hours in a public health practice setting, applying knowledge and skills from their MPH courses.

Prior to registering for the course, students develop a project proposal in consultation with their host organization (preceptor) and the course director. A final written report with an oral presentation or a poster presentation is required. There are many practicum opportunities for MPH students locally, nationally, and internationally.

Subprograms

Biostatistics Subprogram

The Master of Public Health with the biostatistics subprogram requires 42 s.h. of graduate credit. The subprogram is offered by the Department of Biostatistics [p. 2108].

The subprogram is designed to train public health professionals who can provide leadership in the analysis of public health data and the design of studies for public health investigations. It is intended for individuals who are interested in public health and who have quantitative ability but not advanced mathematics training.

Applicants to the subprogram must meet all MPH admission requirements; see Admission [p. 2100] in this section of the catalog. They also should have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00 and should have completed the following math and computer science coursework: single variable calculus and matrix algebra, satisfied by one semester of calculus equivalent to AP Calculus AB and a high school algebra course involving matrices; and elementary computer programming instruction in any commonly used modern programming language (e.g., Python, Java, C++). Individuals who are admitted to the subprogram without having met all of these requirements must satisfy unmet requirements during their first semester of enrollment in the program.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the biostatistics subprogram requires the following courses.

Biostatistics Subprogram Core

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
BIOS:4510	Data Science Foundations in R	2
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
BIOS:5130	Applied Categorical Data Analysis	3

Students with a sufficient mathematical background can substitute BIOS:5710 Biostatistical Methods I, BIOS:5720 Biostatistical Methods II, and BIOS:5730 Biostatistical Methods in Categorical Data in place of BIOS:4120 Introduction to Biostatistics (usually taken as part of the MPH Common Requirements), BIOS:5120 Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences, and BIOS:5130 Applied Categorical Data Analysis. The advanced sequence reduces the elective credit needed by 2 s.h.

Biostatistics Electives

Students fulfill the remainder of the 42 s.h. with elective courses. Electives may be chosen from the following list or may include any related course approved by the student's advisor.

Course #	Title	Hours
BIOL:4213	Bioinformatics	4
BIOS:6210	Applied Survival Analysis	3
BIOS:6310	Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis	3
BIOS:6420	Survey Design and Analysis	3
BIOS:6610	Statistical Methods in Clinical Trials	3
BIOS:6650	Causal Inference	3
BIOS:6720	Statistical Machine Learning for Biomedical and Public Health Data	3
BIOS:6810	Bayesian Methods and Design	3
BIOS:7270	Scholarly Integrity in Biostatistics	1
BIOS:7600	Advanced Biostatistics Seminar	0-3
CS:4470	Health Data Analytics	3
CS:4740	Large Data Analysis	3
CS:5110	Introduction to Informatics	3
DATA:6200	Predictive Analytics	3
EPID:6920	Applied Administrative Data Analysis	2
ISE:4172	Big Data Analytics	3
STAT:3100	Introduction to Mathematical Statistics I	4
STAT:3101	Introduction to Mathematical Statistics II	3
STAT:3210	Experimental Design and Analysis	3
STAT:4100	Statistical Inference I	3
STAT:4101	Statistical Inference II	3
STAT:4520	Bayesian Statistics	3
STAT:4540	Statistical Learning	3
STAT:4580	Data Visualization and Data Technologies	3

Community and Behavioral Health Subprogram

The Master of Public Health with the community and behavioral health subprogram requires 42 s.h. of graduate credit. The subprogram is offered by the Department of Community and Behavioral Health.

The subprogram prepares public health practitioners for a variety of positions related to community development, health program implementation, and health education. Students learn how to design, implement, and evaluate evidence-based interventions directed toward identified public health problems in populations.

A bachelor's degree in the social and behavioral sciences is good preparation for this program, but students come from a variety of educational backgrounds. Preference is given to applicants who have professional experience.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the community and behavioral health subprogram requires the following courses.

Community and Behavioral Health Subprogram Core

Students earn 18 s.h. in the required subprogram core.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
CBH:5220	Health Behavior and Health Education	3
CBH:5305	Evaluation: Approaches and Applications	3
CBH:6205	Designing and Implementing Interventions	3
CBH:6230	Health Equity, Disparities, and Social Justice	3
CBH:6335	Research Methods in Community and Behavioral Health	3
One of these:
CBH:5235	Community-Based Participatory Research (offered each fall)	3

CBH:5310	Qualitative Research for Public Health (offered each spring)	3

Community and Behavioral Health Electives

Students must take an additional 3 s.h. of elective community and behavioral health coursework or, with the approval of their advisor, coursework in another area.

The following is a list of suggested elective courses.

Course #	Title	Hours
CBH:4140	Feminist Activism and Global Health	3
CBH:4350	Maternal and Child Health Seminar	1
CBH:5235	Community-Based Participatory Research (if not taken as subprogram core course)	3
CBH:5310	Qualitative Research for Public Health (if not taken as subprogram core course)	3
CBH:5350	Foundations of Maternal and Child Health	3
CBH:5450	Foundations of Maternal and Child Health II	3
CBH:6115	Ethnographic Field Methods	3
CBH:6415	Independent Study in Community and Behavioral Health	arr.
HMP:6360	Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness I	3
URP:6253	Designing Sustainable and Healthy Cities	1-3
URP:6260	Transportation Policy and Planning	3

Epidemiology Subprogram

The Master of Public Health with the epidemiology subprogram requires 44 s.h. of graduate credit. The subprogram is offered by the Department of Epidemiology [p. 2124].

The subprogram focuses on fundamental epidemiological concepts and methods and provides training in the use of public health data and methods for disease assessment and in methods for evaluating the need and outcome of programs and interventions. Graduates of the program work in public health departments and other health care settings.

Epidemiology subprogram students are required to attend departmental seminars and journal club. They must also present one scientific poster at an international, national, regional, state, university, or departmental poster session.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the epidemiology subprogram requires the following courses.

Epidemiology Subprogram Core

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
EPID:5540	Public Health Surveillance Mechanisms, Applications, and Data	3
EPID:5580	Public Health Laboratory Techniques	1
EPID:5600	Introduction to Epidemiology Data Management and Analysis	3
EPID:5610	Intermediate Epidemiology Data Analysis With SAS and R	3
EPID:5925	Epidemiology Journal Club: Evaluating the Literature (taken three times)	0
EPID:6400	Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods	4
One of these bioscience courses:
HHP:4390	Understanding Human Disease	3
PATH:5270	Pathogenesis of Major Human Diseases	3

Students who already have completed a course equivalent to one of the bioscience courses, HHP:4390 Understanding Human Disease or PATH:5270 Pathogenesis of Major Human Diseases, may substitute additional elective credit.

Epidemiology Electives

Students fulfill the remainder of the 44 s.h. with elective courses. At least 3 s.h. of elective credit must be earned in courses offered by the Department of Epidemiology (prefix EPID) or in one of the following biostatistics courses.

Course #	Title	Hours
BIOS:6210	Applied Survival Analysis	3
BIOS:6310	Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis	3

Epidemiology Other Requirements

Department of Epidemiology Seminar

Every week during the academic year, the Department of Epidemiology seminar provides a forum for speakers to present information or research pertaining to diverse topics in epidemiology. Contact information for the seminar coordinators is located on the Department of Epidemiology website under Preceptorship, Journal Club, and Seminar Contacts. Information about the schedule is distributed weekly each semester. Students are expected to achieve at least 80% attendance at the seminar during each semester of enrollment.

Journal Club

Students are required to enroll in EPID:5925 Epidemiology Journal Club: Evaluating the Literature three times, typically fall and spring semesters of their first year and fall semester of their second year. Through the class, students gain experience in reading, interpreting, and critically evaluating recently published journal articles. Journal Club for first-year students is for those who are new to the department and is offered in the fall semester. Students should register for section 1 of the course.

Full-time students enroll in this course for 0 s.h. Students enrolled part-time (less than 9 s.h.) who have a graduate research assistantship appointment may choose to register for 1 s.h. However, the credit earned for this course will not be applied toward the minimum semester hours required for the MPH in epidemiology.

Every other week during the academic year, the Journal Club meets to discuss articles of interest in the field. Contact information for the Journal Club coordinators can be found on the Department of Epidemiology website under Preceptorship, Journal Club, and Seminar Contacts. Information about the schedule is distributed to students each semester. Students are required to achieve at least 80% attendance at Journal Club for three semesters during their time in the program.

Scientific Poster Requirement

Every MPH student in the epidemiology subprogram is required to present at least one scientific poster at the department level and is also encouraged to present a scientific poster at the international, national, regional, state, or university level at some point before graduation. The poster can be the same one used to meet the MPH program requirements for the practicum experience.

Occupational and Environmental Health Subprogram

The Master of Public Health with the occupational and environmental health subprogram requires 42 s.h. of graduate credit. The subprogram is offered by the Department of Occupational and Environmental Health [p. 2154].

The subprogram provides students with a broad perspective on public health and career preparation for a variety of professional positions in occupational and environmental health. Public health experience provides a desirable background for this subprogram.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the occupational and environmental health subprogram requires the following courses.

Occupational and Environmental Health Subprogram Core

Students earn 10 s.h. in the required subprogram core.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
OEH:5010	Occupational and Environmental Health Seminar (taken three times; twice for 0 s.h. and once for 1 s.h.)	0-1
OEH:5620	Occupational Health	3
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine	3
OEH:6230	Applied Environmental Health	3

Occupational and Environmental Health Electives

Students fulfill the remainder of the 42 s.h. with elective courses. Electives may be chosen from the following list of suggested courses or may include other related graduate-level coursework approved by the student's advisor.

Course #	Title	Hours
OEH:4310	Occupational Ergonomics: Principles	3
OEH:4510	Injury and Violence Prevention	3
OEH:4530	Global Road Safety	3
OEH:5410	Occupational Safety	3
OEH:6120	Current Topics in Agriculture and Rural Health	0-1
OEH:6420	Methods in Exposure Science	3
OEH:6431	Assessing Noise Hazards	1
OEH:6432	Assessing Nonionizing Radiation Hazards	1
OEH:6433	Assessing Ionizing Radiation Hazards	1
OEH:6510	Environmental and Occupational Epidemiology	3
OEH:6520	Injury Epidemiology	3
OEH:6710	Human Toxicology and Risk Assessment	3

Policy Subprogram

The Master of Public Health with the policy subprogram requires 42 s.h. of graduate credit. The subprogram is offered by the Department of Health Management and Policy [p. 2139].

The subprogram offers coursework and applied learning experiences that prepare students for careers in health policy analysis, system and organizational planning, and program evaluation. Graduates of the program find positions in federal, state, and local government; professional associations; and private agencies. Varied academic backgrounds are appropriate preparation for this program, including business, liberal arts and sciences, and the health professions.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the policy and administration subprogram requires the following courses. Policy subprogram students may count either HMP:5005 Introduction to Healthcare Organization and Policy or HMP:4000 Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System for the "Common Requirements."

Policy Subprogram Core

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
HMP:5450	Health Insurance and Managed Care	3
HMP:5610	Health Policy	3
HMP:5650	Health Policy Analysis	3
HMP:6610	Legal Aspects of Healthcare	2-3
HMP:6750	Seminar in Health Policy	3

If HMP:5650 Health Policy Analysis is not offered during the semester, students can replace it with HMP:6710 Federalism and Health Policy (odd years) or HMP:5750 Medicare and Medicaid Policy (even years).

Policy Electives

Students fulfill the remainder of the 42 s.h. with elective courses selected from the following.

Course #	Title	Hours
At least 6 s.h. chosen from these:
HMP:5230	Population Health	1,3
HMP:5320	Analytics for Healthcare Management	3
HMP:5310	Healthcare Quality and Operations Management	3

HMP:5350	Hospital Organization and Project Management	2-3
HMP:5410	Health Economics I	3
HMP:5750	Medicare and Medicaid Policy	3
HMP:6350	Medical Practice Administration	3
HMP:6360	Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness I	3
HMP:6710	Federalism and Health Policy	3
HMP:6850	Independent Study and Research	arr.
HMP:7550	Cost Effectiveness and Decision Analysis	3
HMP:7940	Primary Data and Mixed Methods	3
LAW:8562	Health Law	3
POLI:3100	American State Politics	3

Practicing Veterinarians Subprogram

The practicing veterinarians subprogram is not currently accepting new applicants. Students interested in pursuing this program should inquire about the practicing professionals subprogram.

The Master of Public Health with the practicing veterinarians subprogram requires a minimum of 42 s.h. of graduate credit. The program is presented through a collaboration between the University of Iowa College of Public Health and the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University and is offered primarily by distance learning. It enables students to prepare for new career opportunities and equips them to respond to public health challenges such as zoonotic diseases, food security and foodborne illnesses, bioterrorism, and environmental health.

Students participate in two summer institutes, one on each campus during consecutive summers (two weeks in May or June); the rest of the program is online and students may complete requirements at times that fit their schedules. Specific courses are required each semester of the program.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the practicing veterinarians subprogram requires the following courses.

Practicing Veterinarians Subprogram Core

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
CPH:6700	Public Health Emergency Preparedness for Veterinarians and Other Public Health Disciplines	3
EPID:5300	Food Safety	3
EPID:5470	Applied Veterinary Epidemiology/Biostatistics	3
EPID:5540	Public Health Surveillance Mechanisms, Applications, and Data	3
EPID:5550	Diagnostic Microbiology for Epidemiology	3
EPID:5570	Zoonotic Diseases	3
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine	3

Practicing Professionals Subprogram

The Master of Public Health with the practicing professionals subprogram is an individually defined concentration, requiring a minimum of 42 s.h. of graduate credit. Students and their advisor(s) identify courses to expand on foundational knowledge and skills and select a set of five competencies and corresponding courses for the individual student's plan of study from a preapproved list. Students have the option to complete this program in a hybrid modality.

Individuals who have already earned a professional degree may choose to complete the MPH practicing professionals subprogram, allowing greater flexibility in course selection. Typically, students who pick this subprogram are fellows, medical residents, practicing nurses, or physicians. Completion of the subprogram can enhance physicians' ability to receive primary certification from the American Board of Preventive Medicine. Physicians who are considering this certification should review the Become Certified requirements on the American Board of Preventive Medicine website. Students may take core courses on campus or online, accommodating a variety of schedules. Students work closely with their advisor to develop a plan of study that is tailored to their specific background and goals.

In addition to the MPH coursework listed under "Common Requirements," the practicing professionals subprogram requires the following courses.

Practicing Professionals Subprogram Core

In consultation with their academic advisor, students must select a set of five competencies mapped to corresponding courses for a minimum of 9 s.h. of graduate credit. Several competencies are available in each of the following areas: biostatistics [p. 2097], community and behavioral health [p. 2098], epidemiology [p. 2098], health management and policy [p. 2098], occupational and environmental health [p. 2098], professional [p. 2098], and veterinary [p. 2098].

Under certain circumstances, a student may be able to apply one course to two competency areas and thus be required to complete additional elective coursework to meet the 42 s.h. of graduate credit required to complete this subprogram. See MPH Concentration Competency Mapping on the College of Public Health website for a list of competencies.

Courses Mapped to Biostatistics Competencies

Students may select from biostatistics (BIOS) competencies numbered one through five.

Course #	Title	Hours
One of these (BIOS competency 1, 2, or 3):
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
BIOS:5720	Biostatistical Methods II	4
One of these (BIOS competency 4):
BIOS:4510	Data Science Foundations in R	2
BIOS:5510	Biostatistical Computing	2
One of these (BIOS competency 5):
BIOS:5130	Applied Categorical Data Analysis	3
BIOS:5730	Biostatistical Methods in Categorical Data	3

Courses Mapped to Community and Behavioral Health Competencies

Students may select from community and behavioral health (CBH) competencies numbered one through seven.

Course #	Title	Hours
CBH:5220	Health Behavior and Health Education (CBH competency 1)	3
CBH:5305 & CBH:6205	Evaluation: Approaches and Applications and Designing and Implementing Interventions (CBH competency 5)	6
CBH:6230	Health Equity, Disparities, and Social Justice (CBH competency 3 or 6)	3
Both of these (CBH competency 2):
CBH:6335	Research Methods in Community and Behavioral Health	3
CBH:5310	Qualitative Research for Public Health	3
or CBH:5235	Community-Based Participatory Research
One of these (CBH competency 4 or 7):
CBH:6205	Designing and Implementing Interventions	3
CBH:6220	Health Communication Campaigns	3

Courses Mapped to Epidemiology Competencies

Students may select from epidemiology (EPID) competencies numbered one through seven.

Course #	Title	Hours
EPID:5540	Public Health Surveillance Mechanisms, Applications, and Data (EPID competency 3)	3
EPID:5580	Public Health Laboratory Techniques (EPID competency 1)	1
EPID:5600	Introduction to Epidemiology Data Management and Analysis (EPID competency 5)	3
EPID:6400	Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods (EPID competency 4, 6, or 7)	4
Both of these (EPID competency 2):
EPID:5610	Intermediate Epidemiology Data Analysis With SAS and R	3
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3

Courses Mapped to Health Management and Policy Competencies

Students may select from health management and policy (HMP) competencies numbered one through five.

Course #	Title	Hours
HMP:5610	Health Policy (HMP competency 1 or 4)	1-3
HMP:6610	Legal Aspects of Healthcare (HMP competency 3)	2-3
HMP:6750	Seminar in Health Policy (HMP competency 5)	2-3
One of these (HMP competency 2):
HMP:5650	Health Policy Analysis	3
HMP:5750	Medicare and Medicaid Policy	3
HMP:6710	Federalism and Health Policy	3

Courses Mapped to Occupational and Environmental Health Competencies

Students may select from occupational and environmental health (OEH) competencies numbered one through six.

Course #	Title	Hours
OEH:5620	Occupational Health (OEH competency 5 or 6)	3
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine (OEH competency 1 or 2; also see "Professional Competencies")	3
OEH:6230	Applied Environmental Health (OEH competency 3 or 4)	3

Courses Mapped to Professional Competencies

Students may select from professional (PROF) competencies numbered one through three.

Course #	Title	Hours
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine (PROF competency 2 or 3; also see "Occupational and Environmental Health Competencies")	3
One of these (PROF competency 1):
EPID:5500	Introduction to Clinical Epidemiology	3
EPID:6910	Pharmacoepidemiology and Comparative Effectiveness Research	3

Courses Mapped to Veterinary Competencies

Students may select from veterinary (VET) competencies numbered one through six.

Course #	Title	Hours
CPH:6700	Public Health Emergency Preparedness for Veterinarians and Other Public Health Disciplines (VET competency 4 or 5)	3
EPID:5300	Food Safety (VET competency 3)	3
or EPID:5570	Zoonotic Diseases
EPID:5570	Zoonotic Diseases (VET competency 1, 2, or 3)	3
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine (VET competency 6)	3

Professional Electives

Students earn the remainder of credit for their degree (typically 12 s.h.) in elective courses from biostatistics (prefix BIOS), community and behavioral health (prefix CBH), public health (prefix CPH), epidemiology (prefix EPID), health management and policy (prefix HMP), or occupational and environmental health (prefix OEH) courses numbered 3000 and above. Additional graduate courses may be eligible to count as electives but must be preapproved.

Exceptions

Petitions to waive these regulations may be made for appropriate and justifiable reasons on behalf of any graduate student through the department executive to the assistant dean for student services. Petitions must be approved by both the College of Public Health and the Graduate College.

Combined Programs

Graduate and Professional Combined Programs

The Master of Public Health offers the following graduate and professional degree combined programs.

- MPH (Law Subprogram/Juris Doctor (JD)
- MPH (Medicine Subprogram)/Doctor of Medicine (MD)
- MPH (Pharmacy Subprogram)/Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD)
- MPH (Veterinary Medicine Subprogram)/Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (DVM)

Each combined degree program requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit in addition to the requirements for the respective doctoral degree. The respective doctoral degree will count toward the 42 s.h. of graduate credit required to earn the MPH. Separate application to each degree program is required; applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the combined degree program. For MPH admission requirements, see Admission [p. 2100] in this section of the catalog.

Students must complete courses listed as "Common Requirements" in this section of the catalog. Students in a combined degree program will have the interprofessional education course requirement waived because the content is covered in pharmacy, medicine, or veterinary courses, or professional experience prior to enrollment in the MPH program.

MPH (Law Subprogram)/Juris Doctor (JD)

The MPH law subprogram helps students develop special expertise in public health legal issues. It is designed to train qualified students for leadership roles in both the public and private sectors. Students in the combined program must complete the curriculum of the JD program: see Juris Doctor, JD [p. 1833] (College of Law) in the catalog. Students must be enrolled in the College of Law to take law courses.

The MPH law subprogram requires the following coursework.

Course #	Title	Hours
At least 9 s.h. from these:
HMP:5610	Health Policy	1-3
HMP:5650	Health Policy Analysis	3
HMP:6610	Legal Aspects of Healthcare	2-3
HMP:6750	Seminar in Health Policy	2-3

The following courses count toward both the MPH law subprogram and the Juris Doctor (JD).

Course #	Title	Hours
LAW:8467	Family Law	3-4
LAW:8562	Health Law	2-3

MPH (Medicine Subprogram)/ Doctor of Medicine (MD)

Students who complete this combined program enjoy expanded career opportunities and are well-prepared to apply the principles of medicine and public health in their work.

The medicine subprogram core requires a minimum of 9 s.h. of graduate credit selected in consultation with an advisor. Students must identify five competencies that expand on foundational knowledge and skills and complete corresponding coursework for the selected competencies as detailed in the Practicing Professionals Subprogram Core in this section of the catalog. Courses must be approved by the student's advisor. Under certain circumstances, a single course may apply to two competency areas. More than 9 s.h. of subprogram coursework may be needed to fulfill all five competencies.

All of the following courses count toward the MD; only 12 s.h. from these count toward the MPH degree.

Course #	Title	Hours
MED:8121	Clinical and Professional Skills I	3
MED:8122	Medicine and Society I	3
MED:8132	Medicine and Society II	4
MED:8222	Medicine and Society III	4

Students in the combined MPH/MD program must complete the curriculum of the MD program; see Carver College of Medicine [p. 1881] in the catalog.

MPH (Pharmacy Subprogram)/ Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD)

The MPH pharmacy subprogram/Doctor of Pharmacy helps students develop expertise in public health related to pharmacotherapy, health promotion, disease prevention, and medication safety. Graduates of the subprogram may work in areas of interest common to pharmacy and public health, such as spread and treatment of disease, community health, and immunology; bioterrorism, terrorism, and preparedness; genetics; insurance; managed care; family and juvenile health; and protection of special populations. Employment opportunities are available in hospitals and clinics and with health care providers; private practice; insurance and managed care organizations; local, county, state, and federal government; public health governmental agencies; and colleges and universities.

The pharmacy subprogram core requires a minimum of 9 s.h. of graduate credit selected in consultation with an advisor. Students must identify five competencies that expand on foundational knowledge and skills and complete corresponding coursework for the selected competencies as detailed in the Practicing Professionals Subprogram Core in this section of the catalog. Courses must be approved by the student's advisor. Under certain circumstances, a single course may apply to two competency areas. More than 9 s.h. of subprogram coursework may be needed to fulfill all five competencies.

All of the following courses count toward the PharmD degree; only 12 s.h. from these count toward the MPH degree.

Course #	Title	Hours
PHAR:8250	Applications of Pharmacy Practice I	2
PHAR:8263	Integrated Pharmacotherapy: Infectious Diseases	4
PHAR:8265	Applications of Pharmacy Practice II	2
PHAR:8374	Applications of Pharmacy Practice III	2
PHAR:8378	Pharmacy Law and Ethics	2

Students in the combined MPH/PharmD program must complete the curriculum of the PharmD program; see (College of Pharmacy) in the catalog. Students must be enrolled in the College of Pharmacy in order to take College of Pharmacy courses.

MPH (Veterinary Medicine Subprogram)/Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (DVM)

The MPH veterinary medicine subprogram/Doctor of Veterinary Medicine is offered by the University of Iowa College of Public Health and the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University (see College of Veterinary Medicine in the Iowa State University catalog). The program prepares students for work as state veterinarians, as college and university faculty members, in local and state departments of public health, in the Public Health Service Commissioned Corps, in state agricultural departments, and for public health positions in the military.

A total of 12 s.h. in specific courses from the DVM degree count toward the MPH veterinary medicine subprogram.

The MPH veterinary medicine subprogram requires the following coursework taken at the University of Iowa.

Course #	Title	Hours
At least 9 s.h. from these:
CPH:6700	Public Health Emergency Preparedness for Veterinarians and Other Public Health Disciplines	3
EPID:5300	Food Safety	3
or EPID:5570	Zoonotic Diseases
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine	3

Exceptions

Petitions to waive these regulations may be made for appropriate and justifiable reasons on behalf of any graduate student through the department executive to the assistant dean for student services. Petitions must be approved by both the College of Public Health and the Graduate College.

Admission

Applicants to the MPH program must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS) and then set up a University of Iowa account and pay the UI supplemental fee. For detailed application information, visit Prospective Graduate Students on the Master of Public Health website.

Applicants to the MPH program must have successfully completed one semester each of college algebra and biology.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Students may enter the MPH program in the fall and summer. The application deadline for fall or summer entrance to the MPH program is April 15.

The application deadline for the MPH for practicing veterinarians is March 1.

The application deadline for the Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) program is Feb. 1.

Students may enter the MPH combined programs in fall, spring, and summer. Contact the individual combined programs for deadline information.

Career Advancement

For more information about careers in public health, visit Career Services in Public Health on the College of Public Health website or Student Journey on the Association of Schools & Programs of Public Health (ASPPH) website.

Public Health, Graduate Certificate

Requirements

The graduate Certificate in Public Health requires 18 s.h. of credit. Students must complete the certificate's required coursework within five years of entering the program and must maintain a grade-point average of at least 2.75 in work for the certificate. All certificate courses are offered online at least once a year, and all courses are offered on campus. Students who are only enrolled in the Certificate in Public Health program may not register for courses other than those required for the certificate.

The certificate program is designed to improve public health practice and public health workforce capacity in Iowa and the upper Midwest. It is intended primarily for individuals in public health practice, those in the workforce, and those interested in strengthening their knowledge and skills in basic public health competencies.

The graduate Certificate in Public Health requires the following coursework.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
CPH:5100	Introduction to Public Health	3
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
CBH:4105	Introduction to Health Promotion and Disease Prevention	3

HMP:4000	Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System	3
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3

For more information about the program, visit Graduate Certificate in Public Health on the College of Public Health website.

Admission

Applicants to the certificate program must hold a bachelor's degree and must have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 2.75. They must submit official transcript(s), a statement of purpose, two reference letters, a résumé, and an online application.

For more information about how to apply, visit Graduate Certificate in Public Health on the College of Public Health website.

Agricultural Safety and Health

Head, Department of Occupational and Environmental Health

- Nathan Fethke

Director

- Diane Rohlman (Occupational and Environmental Health)

Graduate certificate: agricultural safety and health

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/certificate-ash/

The Certificate in Agricultural Safety and Health trains students to detect safety and illness hazards and to treat and prevent farm-related illnesses and injuries. The program is available for students in related health science, environmental science, or occupational health and safety programs who want to supplement other training with agricultural health information.

The certificate may enhance employment opportunities in health care delivery, government, and the private sector.

The Certificate in Agricultural Safety and Health is administered by the Department of Occupational and Environmental Health [p. 2154]. The Graduate College grants the certificate.

Biostatistics

Head

- Joseph E. Cavanaugh

Graduate degrees: MS in biostatistics; PhD in biostatistics

Graduate certificate: biostatistics

Faculty: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/biostatistics-faculty-list/

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/biostat/

The Department of Biostatistics prepares students for professional and academic careers in biostatistics. Graduates find positions in pharmaceutical, health care, and research companies and institutions; in universities and government agencies; and as consultants. The department also provides training for non-biostatistics students.

Biostatistics faculty members work closely with both clinical and basic science investigators on the University of Iowa health sciences campus in the design and analysis of research projects. The department has research expertise representing a broad array of methodological areas of statistics and biostatistics, including clinical trials, computational statistics, Bayesian modeling and inference, high-dimensional data analysis, statistical genetics and genomics, bioinformatics, informatics, statistical and machine learning, spatial and spatiotemporal modeling, time series analysis, survival data analysis, longitudinal data analysis, network analysis, causal inference, comparative effectiveness studies, model selection, epidemic modeling, and syndromic surveillance. Many of these areas represent current, cutting-edge areas of disciplinary focus in a rapidly evolving field.

In addition to the MS and the PhD degrees in biostatistics, the department offers a subprogram for the Master of Public Health (MPH) degree in biostatistics. See "MPH Subprogram."

MPH Subprogram

The Department of Biostatistics offers the biostatistics subprogram for the Master of Public Health degree. The subprogram is designed to train public health professionals for leadership in the analysis of public health data and the design of studies for public health investigations. See the Master of Public Health, MPH [p. 2092] in the catalog.

Programs

Graduate Programs of Study

- Biostatistics subprogram for the Master of Public Health [p. 2092] degree
- Master of Science in Biostatistics [p. 2111]
- Doctor of Philosophy in Biostatistics [p. 2113]
- Certificate in Biostatistics [p. 2116]

Facilities

Department of Biostatistics resources and activities include three centers. The Biostatistics Consulting Center provides opportunities for students to gain valuable experience working with faculty and staff in the health sciences at the University of Iowa. The Clinical Trials Statistical and Data Management Center serves the statistical design, data management, and analysis needs of a variety of multicenter clinical trials, and among those are Acute to Chronic Pain Signatures (A2CPS) Consortium, Network of Excellence in Neuroscience Clinical Trials (NeuroNEXT), and the Parkinson's Progression Markers Initiative (PPMI). The Center for Public Health Statistics facilitates the collection, analysis, and dissemination of health data in support of the research, teaching, and service missions of the College of Public Health. This includes collaborative relationships in the area of public health statistics including data management and statistical analysis services.

Courses

Biostatistics Courses

BIOS:4110 General Biostatistics 3 s.h.
Biostatistics and biostatistical computation; biostatistical aspects of health-related problems; clinical trials; statistical issues in big data problems; disease modeling; disease mapping; genetics and epidemiology; brief introduction to survival and longitudinal analyses.

BIOS:4120 Introduction to Biostatistics 3 s.h.
Application of statistical techniques to biological data including descriptive statistics, probability and distributions, sampling distributions, nonparametric methods, hypothesis tests, confidence intervals, analysis of categorical data, and simple linear regression; designed for non-biostatistics majors and MPH students. Requirements: college algebra or ALEKS score of 65% or higher.

BIOS:4510 Data Science Foundations in R 2 s.h.
Introduction to use of R tools for data wrangling and communication tasks commonly encountered in biostatistics; topics include preparation and manipulation of analytic datasets, data visualization, tabular summaries, and reporting.

BIOS:5120 Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences 3 s.h.
Continuation of BIOS:4120; correlation, simple and multiple linear regression, confounding, interactions, model selection, single and multiple factor ANOVA (analysis of variance) models, contrasts, multiple comparisons, nested and block designs; introduction to mixed models; for non-biostatistics majors. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:4120. Same as IGPI:5120, STAT:5610.

BIOS:5130 Applied Categorical Data Analysis 3 s.h.
Analysis of proportions, risk measures, and measures of association; Mantel-Haenszel method; logistic regression for binary responses and for matched data; logistic regression for multi-category responses; analysis of count data (Poisson regression and negative binomial regression); analysis of clustered data (generalized estimating equations and generalized linear mixed effects model); special topics include the application of propensity score methods; designed for non-biostatistics majors. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:5120. Same as IGPI:5130.

BIOS:5310 Research Data Management 3 s.h.
Introduction to data management techniques and problems encountered in gathering and processing data from biomedical investigations; introduction to SAS, techniques taught in SAS; designed for non-biostatistics majors. Recommendations: prior programming experience with C, C++, Python, Java, or other. Same as IGPI:5310, STAT:5810.

BIOS:5510 Biostatistical Computing 2 s.h.
Introduction to computer programming using SAS and R statistical software packages; programming language syntax, constructs, procedures, and techniques for data management, data analysis, and statistical programming commonly encountered in biostatistics; designed for first-year biostatistics majors. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: BIOS:5710. Same as IGPI:5510.

BIOS:5710 Biostatistical Methods I 4 s.h.
Probability distributions, moments, estimation, parametric and nonparametric inference for one-sample and two-sample problems, analysis of frequency data; emphasis on use of computers; designed for first-year biostatistics majors. Offered fall semesters. Requirements: two semesters of calculus. Same as IGPI:5710.

BIOS:5720 Biostatistical Methods II 4 s.h.
Continuation of BIOS:5710; multi-factor ANOVA (analysis of variance), multiple comparisons, orthogonal contrasts, linear regression and correlation, regression diagnostics and remedial measures, model selection, and mixed models; designed for first-year biostatistics majors. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:5710. Requirements: one semester of linear algebra. Same as IGPI:5720.

BIOS:5730 Biostatistical Methods in Categorical Data 3 s.h.
Estimation of proportions, rates, risks, relative risks, and odds ratios; Mantel-Haenszel method; logistic regression (including ordinal logistic regression and multi-category nominal logistic regression); Poisson regression and negative binomial regression; methods for correlated or clustered data (conditional logistic regression, generalized estimating equations, and mixed effects models); special topics include an introduction to generalized linear models and likelihood-based inferential techniques in this framework; designed for first-year biostatistics majors. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:5510 and BIOS:5710. Corequisites: BIOS:5720. Same as IGPI:5730.

BIOS:6210 Applied Survival Analysis 3 s.h.
Nonparametric, parametric, and semi-parametric methods for time-to-event data; types of censoring; Kaplan-Meier estimation; Cox proportional hazards models, including methods for assessing adequacy of the proportional hazards assumption; time varying covariates; sample size calculations for comparison of two or more groups; focus on analysis of real data sets and examples using statistical software. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:5120 or BIOS:5720. Same as IGPI:6210.

BIOS:6234 Basic Biostatistical Methods With Genetics Applications 1 s.h.
Introduction to terminology, fundamental concepts, and methods of biostatistics as applied to genetic research; genetic investigation examples used to illustrate statistical approaches. Same as GENE:6234.

BIOS:6310 Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis 3 s.h.
Introduction to statistical models and estimation methods for outcome variables (normal and non-normal) clustered or measured repeatedly in time or space; focus on applications and computer software methods for ANOVA based methods, hierarchical linear models, linear mixed models, correlated regression models, generalized estimating equations, and generalized linear mixed models. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:5120 or STAT:3200. Same as IGPI:6310, STAT:6550.

BIOS:6420 Survey Design and Analysis 3 s.h.
Methodological issues regarding design, sampling approach, implementation, analysis, and interpretation of surveys and questionnaires in public health research. Offered spring semesters of even years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 and BIOS:5120. Same as EPID:6420.

BIOS:6610 Statistical Methods in Clinical Trials 3 s.h.
Survey of statistical methods commonly used in clinical trials; primary focus on methodologic perspective for the design, conduct, analysis, and interpretation of all phases of clinical trials; logistical and operational aspects of conducting multisite clinical trials; designed for biostatistics majors. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOS:5720. Requirements: familiarity with SAS and R programming. Same as IGPI:6610.

BIOS:6650 Causal Inference 3 s.h.
Causal inference overview, emphasis on inference in observational research; conceptual issues (e.g., counterfactuals, causal graphs, time-varying treatments/confounding), methods (e.g., inverse probability weighting, doubly robust estimators), and related applications (e.g., causal mediation analysis, quantitative bias analysis); for advanced biostatistics or epidemiology students. Prerequisites: (BIOS:5720 and BIOS:5730) or (EPID:6400 and EPID:5241 and EPID:5610). Same as EPID:6655, IGPI:6650.

BIOS:6720 Statistical Machine Learning for Biomedical and Public Health Data 3 s.h.
Statistical machine learning techniques for analysis of biomedical and public health data; methodology and application of unsupervised learning, supervised learning for regression and classification, ensemble learning, model assessment, feature selection, and high-dimensional inference. Prerequisites: BIOS:5510 and BIOS:5720 and (STAT:4100 and STAT:4101) or (STAT:5100 and STAT:5101). Requirements: BIOS:5510 with topic of programming with R.

BIOS:6810 Bayesian Methods and Design 3 s.h.
Theory and application of Bayesian methods in biomedical research; foundations of Bayesian statistics including decision theory, study design, model development, inference and implementation of computational algorithms; designed for biostatistics majors. Offered fall semesters of even years. Prerequisites: BIOS:5510 and BIOS:5720 and BIOS:5730 and STAT:4100 and STAT:4101.

BIOS:7110 Likelihood Theory and Extensions 4 s.h.
Theoretical foundations of inferential methods based on likelihood and its extensions (e.g., profile, conditional, partial, marginal, pseudo likelihood). Prerequisites: (BIOS:5720 and STAT:5100 and STAT:5101) or (STAT:4100 and STAT:4101).

BIOS:7210 Survival Data Analysis 3 s.h.
Types of censoring and truncation; survival function estimation; parametric inference using exponential, Weibull, and accelerated failure time models; nonparametric tests; sample size calculation; Cox regression with stratification and time-dependent covariates; regression diagnostics; competing risks; topics may include analysis of correlated survival data and/or recurrent events; designed for biostatistics and statistics majors. Offered fall semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: BIOS:5720 and ((STAT:4100 and STAT:4101) or (STAT:5100 and STAT:5101)). Same as IGPI:7210, STAT:7570.

BIOS:7230 Advanced Clinical Trials 3 s.h.
Modules that address advanced topics and issues encountered when conducting a clinical trial; discussions of recent publications and FDA guidance documents dealing with current topics in clinical trials. Prerequisites: (STAT:4101 or STAT:5101) and BIOS:6610. Requirements: familiarity with SAS and R programming.

BIOS:7240 High-Dimensional Data Analysis 3 s.h.
Analysis of high-dimensional data with emphasis on use of penalized regression models such as lasso, elastic net, minimax concave penalty *(*MCP), smoothly clipped absolute deviation (SCAD), and group lasso; large-scale hypothesis testing and false discovery rate estimation; inference for penalized likelihoods. Prerequisites: (STAT:4100 and STAT:4101) or (STAT:5100 and STAT:5101) and BIOS:5510 and BIOS:5720. Requirements: BIOS:5510 with section subtitle of programming with R.

BIOS:7250 Theory of Linear and Generalized Linear Models 4 s.h.
Theoretical foundations of traditional linear models and generalized linear models; emphasis on modeling structures, estimability and identifiability, estimation and testing. Prerequisites: STAT:5100 and STAT:5101 and BIOS:5720.

BIOS:7270 Scholarly Integrity in Biostatistics 1 s.h.
Responsible conduct of research training; emphasis on issues of particular relevance to biostatisticians including authorship, communication, student/mentor relationships, plagiarism, fabrication and falsification of data, bias, Type I/II errors, reproducible research, data confidentiality and security, conflicts of interest, and human/animal subjects. Requirements: graduate standing in biostatistics.

BIOS:7310 Longitudinal Data Analysis 3 s.h.
Statistical models and estimation methods for outcome variables (normal and non-normal) clustered or measured repeatedly in time or space; includes ANOVA based methods, hierarchical linear models, linear mixed models, error structures, generalized estimating equations, and generalized linear mixed models; may include Bayesian approaches; designed for biostatistics and statistics majors. Offered spring semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: (BIOS:5720 and STAT:4100 and STAT:4101) or (STAT:5100 and STAT:5101). Same as IGPI:7310.

BIOS:7330 Advanced Biostatistical Computing 3 s.h.
Advanced topics in biostatistical computing and large or complicated data/models; matrix decomposition, optimization, Bayesian computing, parallel programming, working with campus high performance computing (HPC) resources; topics are explored in R, including package development and efficient R code. Prerequisites: MATH:2700 and BIOS:5510 and STAT:4101. Requirements: BIOS:5510 with section subtitle of programming with R.

BIOS:7410 Analysis of Categorical Data 3 s.h.
Distributions and inference for categorical data; descriptive and inferential methods for contingency tables; theory and application of generalized linear models including methods for parameter estimation and testing, model selection and assessment of model adequacy; models for binary, count, and multi-category outcomes; loglinear models for contingency tables; generalized additive models; generalized linear models for longitudinal and clustered data. Offered spring semesters of even years. Prerequisites: (BIOS:5720 or STAT:5200) and (STAT:5101 or STAT:4101). Same as STAT:7510.

BIOS:7500 Preceptorship in Biostatistics arr.
Work experience using knowledge and skill acquired in classroom; arranged in conjunction with ongoing departmental or collegiate activities or with governmental agencies or private industry; preparation of prospectus and presentation of research results in a department seminar.

BIOS:7600 Advanced Biostatistics Seminar 0-3 s.h.
Current topics; supervised experience in reading and interpreting biostatistical literature. Same as IGPI:7600.

BIOS:7604 Scholarly Integrity in Biostatistics for Postdocs 0 s.h.
Responsible conduct of research training; emphasis on issues of particular relevance to biostatisticians and statisticians including authorship, communication, student/mentor relationships, plagiarism, fabrication and falsification of data, bias, Type I/II errors, reproducible research, data confidentiality and security, conflicts of interest, human/animal subjects. Requirements: postdoctoral research scholar/fellow standing in biostatistics or statistics.

BIOS:7700 Problems/Special Topics in Biostatistics arr.
Didactic material in biostatistics; may include tutorials, seminars, faculty-directed independent work (e.g. literature search, project, short research project).

BIOS:7800 Independent Study in Biostatistics arr.
In-depth pursuit of an area of special interest in biostatistics requiring substantial creativity and independence.

BIOS:7850 Research in Biostatistics arr.
Research that may lead to a dissertation.

BIOS:7900 Thesis/Dissertation arr.

Biostatistics, MS

Learning Outcomes

Students will:

- summarize current statistical methods and practices used in the health sciences;
- develop statistical designs for a health science investigation;
- write computer programs in SAS and R for the management and analysis of data sets;
- apply quantitative and reasoning skills to analyze data from public health studies; and
- communicate key statistical principles resulting from health science studies to lay audiences.

Requirements

The Master of Science in biostatistics requires a minimum of 38 s.h. of graduate credit.

The program provides training in the design of experiments and in analysis of data related to biomedical or public health problems. It emphasizes mathematical, statistical, and computer methods for dealing with quantitative information and provides opportunities for students to gain statistical consulting experience with a variety of problems.

MS students are required to complete an in-depth preceptorship under the direction of a departmental faculty member and a final comprehensive-style examination.

The MS in biostatistics requires the following coursework.

Core Courses

All core courses must be taken on an A–F graded basis.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
BIOS:5510	Biostatistical Computing (taken twice for 2 s.h. each; topics should be programming with R and programming with SAS)	4
BIOS:5710 & BIOS:5720	Biostatistical Methods I and Biostatistical Methods II	8
BIOS:5730	Biostatistical Methods in Categorical Data	3
BIOS:6610	Statistical Methods in Clinical Trials	3
BIOS:7500	Preceptorship in Biostatistics	3
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
One of these sequences:
STAT:4100 & STAT:4101	Statistical Inference I and Statistical Inference II	6
STAT:5100 & STAT:5101	Statistical Inference I and Statistical Inference II (required for students who intend to earn a PhD)	6

Public Health Requirement

Course #	Title	Hours
This course:
CPH:6100	Essentials of Public Health	2

Responsible Conduct of Research Training

Course #	Title	Hours
This course:
BIOS:7270	Scholarly Integrity in Biostatistics	1

Electives

Students complete a minimum of 5 s.h. selected from the electives listed below. At least 3 s.h. must be in quantitative coursework in biostatistics (courses with prefix BIOS) or statistics (courses prefix STAT).

It is recommended that students consider a biology or public health course as the other elective, particularly if they have not had prior exposure to these areas. Electives must be approved by the advisor and the director of graduate studies; with their permission, courses not listed below may be completed as electives.

Course #	Title	Hours
At least 3 s.h. from these:
BIOS:6210	Applied Survival Analysis	3
BIOS:6310	Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis	3
BIOS:6420/ EPID:6420	Survey Design and Analysis	3
BIOS:6650/ EPID:6655	Causal Inference	3
BIOS:6720	Statistical Machine Learning for Biomedical and Public Health Data	3
BIOS:6810	Bayesian Methods and Design	3
BIOS:7110	Likelihood Theory and Extensions	4
BIOS:7210	Survival Data Analysis	3
BIOS:7230	Advanced Clinical Trials	3
BIOS:7240	High-Dimensional Data Analysis	3
BIOS:7250	Theory of Linear and Generalized Linear Models	4
BIOS:7310	Longitudinal Data Analysis	3
BIOS:7330	Advanced Biostatistical Computing	3
BIOS:7410	Analysis of Categorical Data	3
BIOS:7600	Advanced Biostatistics Seminar (topics include statistical methods in bioinformatics, model selection, spatial modeling, statistical analysis of network data)	1-3
BIOS:7700	Problems/Special Topics in Biostatistics	1
STAT:4520	Bayesian Statistics	3
STAT:4540	Statistical Learning	3
STAT:4580	Data Visualization and Data Technologies	3
STAT:6560	Applied Time Series Analysis	3
STAT:7400	Computer Intensive Statistics	3

May complete one of these to reach the 5 s.h. minimum:
BIOL:4213	Bioinformatics	4
BME:5335	Computational Bioinformatics	3
CBH:4105	Introduction to Health Promotion and Disease Prevention	3
CPH:5100	Introduction to Public Health	3
CS:5110	Introduction to Informatics	3
DATA:6200	Predictive Analytics	3
GENE:7191	Human Molecular Genetics	3
HHP:4390	Understanding Human Disease	3
HMP:4000	Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System	3
ISE:4172	Big Data Analytics	3
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3
PATH:5270	Pathogenesis of Major Human Diseases	3
PATH:8133	Introduction to Human Pathology for Graduate Students	2-4

Admission

Applicants to the MS program in biostatistics must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS). After the SOPHAS application is verified, the applicant pays a supplemental Graduate College admission fee to University of Iowa Admissions. For detailed application information, visit Requirements and How to Apply to Biostatistics on the Department of Biostatistics website.

The biostatistics faculty considers several factors when evaluating applications for admission, including grade-point averages, letters of recommendation, intent and motivation for graduate study, and research interests.

All applicants must hold a bachelor's degree and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

All biostatistics applicants are required to have strong written and oral communication skills.

All applicants must be competent in at least one computer programming language. They must also have mathematical sciences training in methods and techniques of single variable and multivariable differential and integral calculus, and linear algebra. Previous coursework or experience in statistical methods or data analysis is preferred.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Students may enter in the fall; the priority application deadline is Dec. 1.

Career Advancement

Graduates find career opportunities in many areas, including pharmaceutics, health care, research companies and institutions, consulting firms, universities, and government agencies.

Biostatistics, PhD

Learning Outcomes

Students will:

- describe current statistical theory, methods, and practices used in health sciences;
- analyze data from experimental and observational studies;
- design modern modeling structures used in health sciences analyses and research;
- communicate research findings to various audiences in writing and through oral presentation; and
- interpret analytical results from health science studies.

Requirements

The Doctor of Philosophy program in biostatistics requires a minimum of 79 s.h. of graduate credit, including credit from a master's degree. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00. Those who receive a grade of C on 7 s.h. of coursework may be dismissed from the program.

All students must successfully complete a comprehensive examination and a dissertation. The research topic and content, which vary depending on the program of study, must be approved by a student's dissertation committee. Other degree requirements include approved electives chosen from the Department of Biostatistics and other University of Iowa courses.

The PhD in biostatistics requires the following work.

Master of Science Background

PhD students must take the following courses required for the Master of Science in biostatistics. Students who have completed equivalent coursework at other institutions may request waivers and/or transfers of credit. Students who earned a Master of Science with a major in biostatistics at the University of Iowa automatically receive credit for these courses.

Electives

With the approval of their advisor, students choose 16–23 s.h. of courses according to their interest in biostatistics, statistics, genetics, computing, public health, or in other areas. No more than 5 s.h. in nonquantitative courses (e.g., epidemiology, environmental health) may count toward the electives requirement. Courses required for the MS that are not previously listed may also be used to satisfy the electives requirement, although BIOS:7800 Independent Study in Biostatistics does not generally count as an elective. At least 6 s.h. of elective coursework must be taken on an A–F graded basis.

These courses are recommended, but other coursework may be selected; students should consult their advisor.

Combined Programs

PhD/MD

Students may work toward the Doctor of Medicine degree and a PhD in biostatistics in a combined degree program offered by the Carver College of Medicine and the College of Public Health. Applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the combined degree program. See the Medical Scientist Training Program [p. 1901] (Carver College of Medicine) in the catalog.

Admission

Applicants to the PhD program in biostatistics must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS). After the SOPHAS application is verified, the applicant pays a supplemental Graduate College admission fee to University of Iowa Admissions. For detailed application information, visit Requirements and How to Apply to Biostatistics on the Department of Biostatistics website.

Biostatistics, Graduate Certificate

Learning Outcomes

- Propose and defend good statistical design as a collaborator on a public health project.
- Promote the use of sound statistical methods to answer open questions in public health science.
- Interpret results of data analysis for public health research, policy, or practice.
- Develop computer programs for the management and analysis of datasets.

Requirements

The graduate Certificate in Biostatistics requires a minimum of 14 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must earn a grade of at least B-minus in each certificate course and must achieve a major program grade-point average of at least 3.00 in order to earn the certificate. The certificate is designed for students who would like to add a formal biostatistics emphasis to their graduate programs.

The program is open to students enrolled in a University of Iowa graduate degree program outside the Department of Biostatistics. It is also open to individuals who hold graduate degrees in science disciplines or professional degrees in the health sciences and are admitted to the Graduate College as nondegree students.

The certificate requires two core courses (6 s.h.) and three electives (minimum 8 s.h.). Students should work with an advisor to plan their coursework carefully because some certificate courses have prerequisites, require permission for enrollment, or are not offered every year. They must complete at least 5 s.h. of the required coursework after being admitted to the certificate program and may count a maximum of 5 s.h. of certificate credit toward a degree or another certificate earned at the university. At least 5 s.h. of the certificate plan of study must be exclusively applied to the certificate.

The Certificate in Biostatistics requires the following coursework.

Core Courses

BIOS:6310	Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis	3
BIOS:6420/ EPID:6420	Survey Design and Analysis	3
BIOS:6650/ EPID:6655	Causal Inference	3

Other courses may be approved as electives by the Department of Biostatistics director of graduate studies. See Certificate in Biostatistics on the College of Public Health website for more information.

Admission

Enrollment is limited; applicants who have completed at least one of the certificate's required courses and whose research will be advanced by biostatistics training are given priority for admission. Visit the Certificate in Biostatistics on the department's website for an application form.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Community and Behavioral Health

Head

- Mark W. Vander Weg

Graduate degree: PhD in community and behavioral health

Faculty: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/cbh-faculty-list/

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/cbh/

The Department of Community and Behavioral Health examines the relationship between human behavior and community health and focuses on creating effective strategies for change. Community and behavioral health students learn how to design, implement, and evaluate interventions directed toward identified public health problems in communities.

The Department of Community and Behavioral Health advances teaching, research, and practice in four strategic areas: rural health; community engagement and participatory approaches; theory-based culturally informed intervention development, implementation, and evaluation; and social justice, health equity, and health disparities.

Department faculty members come from a variety of disciplines within the social and health sciences, drawn together by an interest in health behavior and promoting healthy communities.

In addition to the PhD in community and behavioral health, the department offers a subprogram for the Master of Public Health (MPH).

MPH Subprogram

The Department of Community and Behavioral Health offers a subprogram for the Master of Public Health degree.

The MPH subprogram in community and behavioral health prepares public health practitioners for a variety of positions related to intervention development, implementation, and evaluation using community participatory approaches with a focus on decreasing health disparities and inequities.

For detailed information about the MPH, see the Master of Public Health, MPH [p. 2092] in the catalog.

Programs

Graduate Programs of Study

Majors

- Community and behavioral health subprogram for the Master of Public Health [p. 2092] degree
- Doctor of Philosophy in Community and Behavioral Health [p. 2119]

Facilities

The department houses two centers, the Prevention Research Center for Rural Health and the Native Center for Behavioral Health.

The Prevention Research Center for Rural Health (PRC–RH) advances health equity through collaborations that transform social, structural, and environmental conditions. More specifically, the PRC–RH promotes the health of the residents of micropolitan and rural communities in Iowa and conducts research to develop strategies that work and can bring long-term benefits to these communities. We offer training and technical assistance to the public health community. The PRC–RH is funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and is the only funded Prevention Research Center in the Midwest with an exclusive rural health focus.

The Native Center for Behavioral Health consists of three programs: the National American Indian and Alaska Native Childhood Traumatic Stress Center, the Mental Health Awareness Training program for Sioux City, and the Indigenous Motivational Training program. The main goals for all the programs are to disseminate culturally informed evidence-based and experience-based practices in behavioral health and provide training, technical assistance, and workforce development assistance to urban Indigenous and Tribal communities across the country.

Potential and limits of mass media's ability to educate the public about health; research and theory on the influence of information and entertainment media; theories, models, assumptions of mass communication in relation to public health issues. Same as GHS:3150, JMC:3150.

CBH:4105 Introduction to Health Promotion and Disease Prevention 3 s.h.
Basic concepts, strategies, and methods of health promotion and disease prevention; health promotion in the context of public health, theories and principles that underpin health promotion; overview of policy formation and health promotion planning, implementation, evaluation.

CBH:4140 Feminist Activism and Global Health 3 s.h.
How female gender intersects with culture, environment, and political economy to shape health and illness; reproductive health, violence, drug use, cancer; readings in anthropology, public health. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 or GWSS:1001 or CPH:1400 or GHS:2000. Same as ANTH:4140, GHS:4140, GWSS:4140.

CBH:4200 Colonialism and Indigenous Health Equity 3 s.h.
Health problems and services for Indigenous populations worldwide, from perspective of Fourth World postcolonial politics. Prerequisites: ANTH:1101 or ANTH:2165 or GHS:2000 or HIST:1049 or CPH:1400. Same as ANTH:3110, GHS:3110, NAIS:3110.

CBH:4350 Maternal and Child Health Seminar 1 s.h.
Historical and applied perspective on maternal and child health problems and programs aimed at reducing morbidity, mortality, and health disparities across the life span. Same as EPID:4350.

CBH:5220 Health Behavior and Health Education 3 s.h.
Common theories of health behavior and health education and their application to varied public health problems and settings.

CBH:5235 Community-Based Participatory Research 3 s.h.
How community-based participatory research (CBPR) has emerged as a critical approach to conduct research and produce scholarship; opportunities, challenges, needed skills, and methods by which researchers and community members partner to conduct research that leads to community well-being and health; students share their experiences, explore, and learn through case studies, guest lectures, and interactive activities; application of research methods through a CBPR approach.

CBH:5305 Evaluation: Approaches and Applications 3 s.h.
Focus on program evaluation methods for use in public health and related educational and social service programs; exploration of methods and approaches, as well as planning strategies for conducting program evaluations; exposure to all components of evaluation from planning to dissemination of findings. Prerequisites: CBH:5220 and BIOS:4120 and EPID:4400. Requirements: enrollment in College of Public Health.

CBH:5310 Qualitative Research for Public Health 3 s.h.
Introduction to methods and theories of qualitative research that facilitate description and explanation of social phenomena related to health behavior, illness, prevention, and treatment in the public health domain.

CBH:5350 Foundations of Maternal and Child Health 3 s.h.
Life course approach to understanding determinants, mechanisms, and systems that promote and maintain health, safety, and well-being of mothers and their children. Prerequisites: EPID:4350. Same as EPID:5350.

CBH:5450 Foundations of Maternal and Child Health II 3 s.h.
Applied approach to developing, implementing, and evaluating programs to benefit pregnant and birthing individuals and their children; working with community and/or government organizations to meet the needs of children, adolescents, and parents/guardians. Prerequisites: EPID:4350 and EPID:5350. Same as EPID:5450.

CBH:6100 Public Health Responses to Substance Use and Misuse 3 s.h.
Introduction to substance use and misuse in the United States, using a population health perspective to examine relevant historical context, theories, empirical data, and interventions, with emphasis on critical analysis, health equity, and community engagement. Requirements: graduate program enrollment.

CBH:6115 Ethnographic Field Methods 3 s.h.
Basic data-gathering techniques for field research in sociocultural anthropology. Same as ANTH:6115.

CBH:6205 Designing and Implementing Interventions 3 s.h.
Theoretical foundations, phases, and skills necessary to plan, design, and implement a public health intervention program; techniques and strategies for designing and implementing public health interventions; emphasis on community engagement; evidence-based, culturally and contextually situated methods and skills to plan, design, and implement public health intervention program; analysis of case studies, individual and small group work on assignments and development of a data-driven program. Prerequisites: CBH:5220. Requirements: admission to College of Public Health.

CBH:6220 Health Communication Campaigns 3 s.h.
Intervention design and analysis of health campaigns; theory, practice, methods; mass media, community, organization, and interpersonal approaches. Same as COMM:6220.

CBH:6230 Health Equity, Disparities, and Social Justice 3 s.h.
Introduction to the concept of health equity and an overview of U.S. health disparities; students gain a better understanding of research and interventions through readings, lectures, reflection papers, in-class exercises, and research assignments. Same as EPID:6075.

CBH:6335 Research Methods in Community and Behavioral Health 3 s.h.
Overview of quantitative and qualitative research methods for community and behavioral health; major elements of behavioral and social science research, critical evaluation of research related to community and behavioral health, application of research methods in public health practice; opportunities for students to build skills for evaluation of research and application of quantitative and qualitative research methods.

CBH:6405 Global Maternal, Newborn, and Child Health 3 s.h.
Overview of global demographic trends in maternal, newborn, and child health; focus on low- and middle-income countries as well as programs, interventions, and policies that have successfully improved the health of women and children around the globe.

CBH:6410 Special Topics arr.
Didactic material in community and behavioral health that may include tutorial, seminar, or faculty-directed independent work (e.g., literature search, project, short research project).

CBH:6415 Independent Study in Community and Behavioral Health arr.
Pursuit of an interest in community and behavioral health requiring substantial creativity and independence.

CBH:7100 Community and Behavioral Health Doctoral Seminar 1 s.h.
Introduction to the Department of Community and Behavioral Health; essential skills for success in academia, individual faculty member's work, and doctoral program requirements; for incoming PhD students.

CBH:7200 Advanced Intervention Research 3 s.h.
Intervention research development and implementation including conceptualization, design, development of research team and intervention approaches, statistical power, and research ethics. Prerequisites: CBH:6205.

CBH:7300 Advanced Behavioral Theories 3 s.h.
Seminar on behavioral theory in public health; builds on student's previous training in theory with an emphasis on applications to guide research and thereby ensuring skills necessary to function as an independent scientist; examination of general principles of behavioral theory and several behavioral theories at different ecological levels; current state of theory development (i.e., gaps, future directions for research); emphasis on critical analysis and application of theory; students gain a better understanding of the role of behavioral theory in population health research. Prerequisites: CBH:5220. Requirements: doctoral standing.

CBH:7505 CBH Thesis/Dissertation arr.
Work on MS thesis or PhD dissertation in community and behavioral health, with thesis/dissertation advisor.

Community and Behavioral Health, PhD

Learning Outcomes

Graduates of the program will be able to:

- apply social and behavioral science theories in public health research;
- produce effective scientific writing;
- demonstrate grant-writing skills;
- participate in interdisciplinary research;
- communicate research findings to various audiences, including policymakers and community members;
- design a research study that incorporates knowledge of pertinent cultural, social, behavioral, and biological factors;
- design a theory-informed, community-based intervention research project;
- design an implementation and evaluation plan for a theory-informed, community-based intervention;
- formulate focused research questions to address gaps in community and behavioral health knowledge;
- evaluate social and behavioral science research design, methodology, and analysis related to public health; and
- evaluate how structural bias, social inequities, and racism undermine health and create challenges to achieving health equity at organizational, community, and societal levels.

Requirements

The PhD program in community and behavioral health requires at least 75 s.h. of graduate credit, including approved credit earned from a master's degree. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00.

Students must successfully complete a qualifying exam, a comprehensive exam, and a dissertation. The research topic must be approved by a student's dissertation committee.

During the first semester, students work with their academic advisor to develop a plan of study that satisfies their interests and professional goals as well as the program's requirements.

College of Public Health Core

Students complete the following (13 s.h.).

Course #	Title	Hours
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
CBH:4105	Introduction to Health Promotion and Disease Prevention	3
CBH:7100	Community and Behavioral Health Doctoral Seminar	1
CPH:6100	Essentials of Public Health	2
CPH:7270	Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health	1
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3

Behavioral and Social Sciences Core

Students complete the following (21 s.h.).

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
CBH:5220	Health Behavior and Health Education	3
CBH:5235	Community-Based Participatory Research	3
CBH:6205	Designing and Implementing Interventions	3
CBH:6220	Health Communication Campaigns	3
CBH:6230	Health Equity, Disparities, and Social Justice	3
CBH:7200	Advanced Intervention Research	3
CBH:7300	Advanced Behavioral Theories	3

Research Methods Core

Students complete the following (15 s.h.).

Course #	Title	Hours
Both of these:
CBH:5305	Evaluation: Approaches and Applications	3
CBH:5310	Qualitative Research for Public Health	3
9 s.h. from these:
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
BIOS:5130	Applied Categorical Data Analysis	3
CBH:6115	Ethnographic Field Methods	3
CBH:6335	Research Methods in Community and Behavioral Health	3
EPLS:6209	Survey Research and Design	3
EPLS:6370	Quantitative Methods for Policy Analysis	3
HMP:7940	Primary Data and Mixed Methods	3
PSQF:6243	Intermediate Statistical Methods	3
PSQF:6244	Correlation and Regression	4
PSQF:6249	Factor Analysis and Structural Equation Models	3
PSQF:6252	Introduction to Multivariate Statistical Methods	3
PSQF:7375	Topics in Educational Measurement and Statistics	1-3
SOC:5160	Research Design and Methods	3
SOC:6170	Introduction to Sociological Data Analysis	3
SOC:6180	Linear Models in Sociological Research	3

SOC:7170	Advanced Statistical Modeling of Data	3

Content Area Electives

Students complete 14 s.h. of elective coursework in consultation with their advisor. The following is a list of suggested coursework; however, other courses may be approved with the consent of the advisor.

Course #	Title	Hours
CBH:4140	Feminist Activism and Global Health	3
CBH:5350	Foundations of Maternal and Child Health	3
CBH:6410	Special Topics	arr.
CBH:6415	Independent Study in Community and Behavioral Health	arr.
HMP:5005	Introduction to Healthcare Organization and Policy	3
HMP:7940	Primary Data and Mixed Methods	3
HMP:7950	Design Issues in Health Service Research	3
HMP:7960	Analytic Issues in Health Services Research I	3
HMP:7965	Analytic Issues in Health Services Research II	3

Dissertation

Students complete 12 s.h. in CBH:7505 CBH Thesis/ Dissertation.

Admission

PhD applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS). Applications must include academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, a statement of purpose, and a writing sample. International transcripts should be evaluated by the World Education Service (WES) and submitted to SOPHAS. Interested PhD applicants are asked to connect with community and behavioral health faculty by Dec. 1. For detailed application information, visit How to Apply to the PhD in Community and Behavioral Health on the Department of Community and Behavioral Health website.

The community and behavioral health admissions committee considers several factors when evaluating applications for admission, including grade-point averages, letters of recommendation, intent and motivation for graduate study, and research interests. Students with deficiencies in one area may be admitted if all other components of their application are very strong.

Applicants must have a graduate grade-point average of at least 3.40 and have earned a graduate degree from an accredited college or university in a related public health, social science, or clinical health field. Applicants who do not hold a graduate degree should apply to a master's program prior to applying for the PhD program. PhD program applicants must also submit their master's thesis, or if no thesis is available, a sample of their scholarly writing.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

The application deadline is Jan. 15 for the fall semester. Applications are not accepted for spring or summer semesters.

Career Advancement

The program prepares individuals for academic, research, and policy-making work in the social and behavioral health sciences. This academic specialty offers many career opportunities in academic and research institutions.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology

Head, Department of Epidemiology

- Elizabeth A. Chrischilles

Graduate certificate: emerging infectious disease epidemiology

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/certificate-in-emerging-infectious-disease-epidemiology/

Emerging infectious diseases increasingly are recognized as global and regional issues. Some infectious diseases are controlled effectively with the help of modern technology. But new diseases—such as SARS, West Nile, and avian influenza virus infections—appear frequently, and older ones, including malaria, tuberculosis, and bacterial pneumonia, are now appearing in forms that are resistant to drug treatments. All of them have the potential to seriously affect human and animal health as well as economies locally and worldwide. They pose novel and unceasing challenges for professionals in health care, government, and private agencies.

The Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology is administered by the Department of Epidemiology [p. 2124]. The Graduate College grants the certificate.

Programs

Graduate Program of Study

- Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology

Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology, Graduate Certificate

Requirements

The graduate Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology requires 13 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must complete the certificate's required coursework within five years of entering the program and must maintain a grade-point average of at least 2.75 in work toward the certificate. Three of the required courses must be completed on campus: EPID:5570 Zoonotic Diseases, EPID:5580 Public Health Laboratory Techniques, and EPID:6550 Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases. The remaining courses may be completed on campus or by distance education.

The certificate program provides basic information and training related to infectious diseases. It is designed for a broad range of individuals, including graduate students, international public health professionals, laboratory professionals, physicians, nurses, veterinarians, and medical technologists.

The Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology requires the following coursework.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these (7 s.h.):
EPID:5570	Zoonotic Diseases	3
EPID:5580	Public Health Laboratory Techniques	1
EPID:6550	Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases	3
Two of these (6 s.h.):
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
EPID:5550	Diagnostic Microbiology for Epidemiology	3
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3

For more information about the program, visit the Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology on the Department of Epidemiology website.

Admission

Applications are only being accepted from current University of Iowa degree-seeking graduate students.

Applicants to the certificate program must hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university and must have a grade-point average of at least 2.75 (or international equivalent). For more information about how to apply, visit Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology on the Department of Epidemiology website.

Epidemiology

Head

- Elizabeth A. Chrischilles

Graduate degrees: MS in clinical investigation; MS in epidemiology; PhD in epidemiology

Faculty: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/epi-faculty-list/

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/epi/

The Department of Epidemiology strives to improve public and personal health by conducting innovative research addressing the magnitude, determinants, prevention, and management of disease and its consequences; educating researchers and public health practitioners; and collaborating with clinicians, communities, and public health agencies in the measurement and evaluation of health status and prevention effectiveness.

Students are guided by faculty members whose research interests include pharmacoepidemiology, cancer epidemiology, infectious disease epidemiology, antimicrobial resistance, immunology, adverse reproductive outcome epidemiology, genetics, cardiovascular disease, nutrition, maternal and child health, clinical epidemiology, socioenvironmental determinants, occupational and environmental epidemiology, psychiatric epidemiology, social epidemiology, neuroepidemiology, injury and violence prevention, road traffic safety, substance use disorders, mental health, intervention trials, diabetes, global health, and effects of aging.

In addition to the MS in epidemiology, the MS in clinical investigation, and the PhD in epidemiology, the department offers the epidemiology subprogram for the Master of Public Health degree; see Master of Public Health, MPH [p. 2092] in the catalog. The subprogram focuses on fundamental concepts and methods, and provides training in the use of data and methods for disease assessment and for evaluation of programs and interventions.

The MS in epidemiology and the MPH with an epidemiology subprogram are offered as part of the Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) program which provides an opportunity for University of Iowa students interested in health science to earn both their undergraduate and graduate degrees in five years. For more information about the U2G program that combines an undergraduate degree with the MS in epidemiology or the MPH (epidemiology subprogram), visit MS in Epidemiology—Undergraduate to Graduate on the Department of Epidemiology website or MPH in Epidemiology—Undergraduate to Graduate on the College of Public Health website.

Certificates

Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology

The Department of Epidemiology offers the graduate Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology. The certificate program provides basic information and training related to infectious diseases. It is designed for a broad range of individuals, including graduate students, international public health professionals, laboratory professionals, physicians, nurses, veterinarians, and medical technologists. To learn more, see the Certificate in Emerging Infectious Disease Epidemiology [p. 2123] in the catalog.

Translational and Clinical Investigation

The Department of Epidemiology and the Institute for Clinical and Translational Science offer the graduate certificate program in translational and clinical investigation; see the Certificate in Translational and Clinical Investigation [p. 2166] in the catalog.

Programs

Graduate Programs of Study

- Epidemiology subprogram for the Master of Public Health [p. 2092] degree
- Master of Science in Clinical Investigation [p. 2128]
- Master of Science in Epidemiology [p. 2131]
- Doctor of Philosophy in Epidemiology [p. 2135]

Facilities and Resources

Clinical and Health Services and Chronic Disease Epidemiology

The Iowa Cancer Registry (ICR), a component of the State Health Registries of Iowa in cooperation with the Iowa Department of Public Health, collects medical data on every Iowan diagnosed with cancer and compiles survival and mortality data. The Iowa Cancer Registry is one of 18 registries nationwide reporting data to the National Cancer Institute.

The Iowa Registry for Congenital and Inherited Disorders is a component of the State Health Registries of Iowa that monitors the occurrence etiology of birth defects for the State of Iowa.

The Holden Comprehensive Cancer Center, including faculty leadership in the Cancer Epidemiology Program and the Population Science Core.

The Health Effectiveness Research Center (HERCe) is a collaborative research enterprise between the Department of Epidemiology and the College of Pharmacy which studies whether particular health care treatments or services are over- or under-utilized in practice. HERCe researchers study variation in practice patterns and associate outcome differences with this variation.

The Preventive Intervention Center conducts population-based intervention trials to prevent the occurrence and recurrence of disease and to promote wellness and health. Trials have focused on major health problems, particularly in elderly men and women, including the Fracture Intervention Trial, the Hormone Estrogen Replacement Study, and the Women's Health Initiative.

The Nutrition Center provides expertise in nutrition and dietary assessment, dietary interventions, and nutrition lifestyle change strategies with a focus on the research, teaching, and service missions of the Department of Epidemiology and the College of Public Health.

The Institute for Clinical and Translational Science partners with all University of Iowa colleges and emphasizes working in community partnerships between the academic medical center, local health care providers, and the rural patient population.

Infectious Disease Epidemiology

The UI Center for Emerging Infectious Diseases (CEID) research projects study infectious diseases, often zoonotic, whose incidence in humans has increased over the past two decades or threatens to increase in the near future.

Courses

Epidemiology Courses

EPID:4314 Field Experiences in Public Health 1 s.h.
Direct involvement in actions being taken at local community level; topics include environmental health, infectious diseases, chronic diseases, and pediatric health; practical examples and hands-on experiences during site visits for topic-specific field investigations. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: BIOL:1140 or BIOL:1141 or BIOL:1411. Requirements: biology or microbiology coursework. Same as CPH:4250.

EPID:4350 Maternal and Child Health Seminar 1 s.h.
Historical and applied perspective on maternal and child health problems and programs aimed at reducing morbidity, mortality, and health disparities across the life span. Same as CBH:4350.

EPID:4400 Epidemiology I: Principles 3 s.h.
Epidemiological concepts and methods; design of descriptive and analytic studies, such as aggregate, case series, cross-sectional, case-control, cohort studies, clinical trials; application of epidemiology to public health practice; communication and dissemination of epidemiological findings. Recommendations: junior or higher standing.

EPID:4510 Injury and Violence Prevention 3 s.h.
Theory, research, and practice of injury control; unintentional and intentional injuries; local, national, international injury issues. Same as CPH:4230, OEH:4510.

EPID:4650 Maternal Health in Migrant Communities 2 s.h.
Applied epidemiological and community-engaged research methods to understand clinical and social determinants of maternal and child health and reproductive care. Travel to La Casona territory in Costa Rica to learn about health systems in the context of the Costa Rica Social Security Fund. Same as CPH:4650.

EPID:5214 Meta-Analysis of Epidemiologic Studies 3 s.h.
Methods for quantitative pooling of analytic study associations (cohort and case-control) between exposure and a dichotomous outcome; literature searches, data abstraction, test of homogeneity, publication bias and consideration of adjusted risk ratios (effects of confounding). Offered spring semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: BIOS:5120 and EPID:4400.

EPID:5241 Statistical Methods in Epidemiology 4 s.h.
Overview of methods to analyze data from epidemiologic investigations; estimation of relative measures of risk, attributable risk, stratified analysis; model-fitting approaches using linear, logistic, and Poisson regression analysis; confounding and effect modification; analysis of epidemiologic data sets. Offered spring semesters.

EPID:5250 Physical Activity Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Overview of epidemiological evidence on how physical activity, sedentary behavior, and sleep affect health outcomes including cardiovascular disease, diabetes, cancer, and obesity; emphasis on research design, interpretation of studies, selection of appropriate measurement tools, and translating scientific findings to recommendations/policies for health promotion and disease prevention. Same as HHP:5200.

EPID:5300 Food Safety 3 s.h.
Current issues and concepts of food safety in the United States, from plant to table; foodborne illness from microbial agents, food toxins, adulterants; disease investigation, risk analysis, risk mitigation, prevention. Offered summer sessions.

EPID:5350 Foundations of Maternal and Child Health 3 s.h.
Life course approach to understanding determinants, mechanisms, and systems that promote and maintain health, safety, and well-being of mothers and their children. Prerequisites: EPID:4350. Same as CBH:5350.

EPID:5450 Foundations of Maternal and Child Health II 3 s.h.
Applied approach to developing, implementing, and evaluating programs to benefit pregnant and birthing individuals and their children; working with community and/or government organizations to meet the needs of children, adolescents, and parents/guardians. Prerequisites: EPID:4350 and EPID:5350. Same as CBH:5450.

EPID:5470 Applied Veterinary Epidemiology/ Biostatistics 3 s.h.
Epidemiology and biostatistics applied to veterinary public health; outbreak investigations, surveillance, analyzing and evaluating diagnostic tests, translation methodology, risk assessment, data analysis software programs. Offered summer sessions. Prerequisites: EPID:4400.

EPID:5500 Introduction to Clinical Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Epidemiologic applications and methods used in clinical settings to evaluate clinical medicine and other health profession disciplines including health measurement, health outcome determination, diagnostic process, risk assessment and communication, prognosis, study design, patient surveys, clinical trials, decision analysis and meta-analysis, health services research. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: EPID:4400, if not taken as a prerequisite.

EPID:5540 Public Health Surveillance Mechanisms, Applications, and Data 3 s.h.
Introduction to fundamentals of public health surveillance with emphasis on cancer registration; use of resulting surveillance-based databases and information systems available to public health practitioners and researchers. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: EPID:4400.

EPID:5550 Diagnostic Microbiology for Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Introduction to microbiological culture, antigen detection, immunological and molecular amplification laboratory techniques for bacteria, viruses, parasites, fungi. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: MICR:2157 or MICR:3164.

EPID:5560 Biomarkers in Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Introduction to basic techniques of molecular biology (DNA, RNA, protein techniques) and their use in epidemiological research (e.g., diagnosis of disease, biomarker discovery, validation). Offered spring semesters of odd years. Corequisites: EPID:4400, if not taken as a prerequisite.

EPID:5570 Zoonotic Diseases 3 s.h.
Introduction to epidemiology and control of zoonotic diseases; zoonoses endemic to the midwestern United States. Offered summer sessions. Prerequisites: EPID:5550 or EPID:6550 or MICR:2157 or MICR:3164.

EPID:5580 Public Health Laboratory Techniques 1 s.h.
Common laboratory techniques in emerging infectious respiratory disease research and epidemiologic surveillance laboratories; emphasis on techniques for culturing, characterization, and serological surveillance of exposure to influenza viruses. Offered spring semesters. Requirements: completion of online Basic Biological Safety and Blood-Borne Pathogens courses; completed certificates must be brought to class.

EPID:5600 Introduction to Epidemiology Data Management and Analysis 3 s.h.
Organization, collection, management, and analysis of epidemiological data using computer programs. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: EPID:4400, if not taken as a prerequisite.

EPID:5610 Intermediate Epidemiology Data Analysis With SAS and R 3 s.h.
Basic principles of data analysis and collaborative research; SAS fundamentals; data manipulation and interpretation techniques. Offered spring semesters.

EPID:5900 Problems and Special Topics in Epidemiology arr.
Didactic material in epidemiology; may include tutorial, seminar, faculty-directed independent work (e.g. literature search, project, short research project); topics may include comparative effectiveness and patient-centered outcomes, neuroepidemiology, and epidemiology of aging.

EPID:5925 Epidemiology Journal Club: Evaluating the Literature 0-1 s.h.
Critical evaluation of primary epidemiologic methods and research papers; informative, challenging, and current topics from scientific literature. Requirements: epidemiology MS, MPH, or PhD standing.

EPID:5950 Preceptorship in Epidemiology arr.
Quantitative research-oriented project performed with a preceptor; preparation of prospectus, presentation of research results in a publication-quality report and a scientific poster session.

EPID:6000 Independent Study in Epidemiology arr.
In-depth pursuit of an area of special interest in epidemiology requiring substantial creativity and independence.

EPID:6050 Research in Epidemiology arr.
Research that may lead to a dissertation.

EPID:6071 Theory and Methods in Social Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Application of social theory and methodological approaches to investigate relationships between social factors and health. Prerequisites: EPID:4400.

EPID:6075 Health Equity, Disparities, and Social Justice 3 s.h.
Introduction to the concept of health equity and an overview of U.S. health disparities; students gain a better understanding of research and interventions through readings, lectures, reflection papers, in-class exercises, and research assignments. Same as CBH:6230.

EPID:6100 Writing a Grant Proposal 3 s.h.
Small group projects to develop grant proposals using epidemiological study designs; presentation and defense of proposals before faculty site visitors. Offered fall semesters.

EPID:6150 Writing for Medical Journals 1 s.h.
Skill development in writing medical journal articles for publication. Offered spring semesters.

EPID:6200 Environmental and Occupational Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Overview of methods to interpret and perform environmental and occupational epidemiologic studies with focus on exposure assessment; valuable insights into identifying regional, national, global environmental, and occupational health-related issues. Prerequisites: EPID:4400. Same as OEH:6510.

EPID:6330 Global Nutrition Policy 2-3 s.h.
Concepts and methods used in setting public health nutrition policy; evidence-based aspects of nutrition policy formation in public health settings; evaluation of nutritional public health policy implementation and ways of changing policy in China, Korea, Micronesia, Hawaii, Italy, and the United States. Offered spring semesters.

EPID:6350 Nutritional Epidemiology 2 s.h.
Application of epidemiology study designs to nutrition variables and chronic disease; analysis of nutrition epidemiology studies; research protocol design. Offered spring semesters. Recommendations: a basic nutrition course.

EPID:6360 Nutrition Intervention in Clinical Trials Research 2 s.h.
Nutrition interventions in clinical trials; disease related to nutrition variables; research that links effects of diet on chronic diseases. Offered fall semesters. Recommendations: a basic nutrition course.

EPID:6370 Nutrition Intervention in Research Lab 3 s.h.
Development and demonstration of group counseling skills in ongoing nutrition research projects at the University of Iowa. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: EPID:6360, if not taken as a prerequisite.

EPID:6400 Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods 4 s.h.
Epidemiologic study design and analysis; bias, confounding, and effect modification; case-control studies; cohort studies; field methods; measurement principles; exposure and disease classification; acute and chronic disease examples. Offered spring semesters. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 and EPID:5600.

EPID:6420 Survey Design and Analysis 3 s.h.
Methodological issues regarding design, sampling approach, implementation, analysis, and interpretation of surveys and questionnaires in public health research. Offered spring semesters of even years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 and BIOS:5120. Same as BIOS:6420.

EPID:6510 Injury Epidemiology 3 s.h.
How epidemiology can be applied to injury prevention and control: epidemiology literature, specific methodological problems involved in the epidemiology of injuries, critical evaluation of research articles. Offered spring semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400. Same as OEH:6520.

EPID:6550 Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases 3 s.h.
Underlying epidemiological concepts of infection disease, including causation and surveillance; prevention and control; case studies. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: EPID:4400. Same as GHS:6550.

EPID:6560 Hospital Epidemiology 2 s.h.
Health care associated infections; surveillance, investigative methods, resistant organisms, and molecular epidemiology; methods for preventing spread of pathogens, including isolation precautions; environmental issues, construction, and sterilization; interactive exercises. Offered spring semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400.

EPID:6570 Infectious Causes of Chronic Disease 3 s.h.
Evidence linking various infectious agents with the development of different types of chronic disease. Offered spring semesters of even years. Corequisites: EPID:4400, if not taken as a prerequisite.

EPID:6600 Epidemiology of Chronic Diseases 3 s.h.
Chronic disease epidemiology; survey of leading chronic diseases including measurement of disease, lifestyle, nutrition, occupation, and family history. Offered spring semesters of even years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400.

EPID:6620 Neuroepidemiology 2 s.h.
Basic epidemiologic concepts of neurologic disease; concepts, methods, examples of neuroepidemiology; varied diseases, methods. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 and EPID:5600.

EPID:6655 Causal Inference 3 s.h.
Causal inference overview, emphasis on inference in observational research; conceptual issues (e.g., counterfactuals, causal graphs, time-varying treatments/ confounding), methods (e.g., inverse probability weighting, doubly robust estimators), and related applications (e.g., causal mediation analysis, quantitative bias analysis); for advanced biostatistics or epidemiology students. Prerequisites: (BIOS:5720 and BIOS:5730) or (EPID:6400 and EPID:5241 and EPID:5610). Same as BIOS:6650, IGPI:6650.

EPID:6900 Design of Intervention and Clinical Trials 3 s.h.
Methodologic introduction to rationale and design of clinical trials; basics of clinical trial design, variety of designs, and examples from clinical trials. Offered fall semesters.

EPID:6910 Pharmacoepidemiology and Comparative Effectiveness Research 3 s.h.
Survey of methodological topics central to pharmacoepidemiology and comparative effectiveness research, including measures of treatment effects, clinical trial and observational study designs, treatment selection bias, covariate balancing methods, and claims database studies. Prerequisites: EPID:4400.

EPID:6920 Applied Administrative Data Analysis 2 s.h.
Concepts and methods for analysis of administrative health insurance claims data; focus on understanding types and sources of data, useful resources for classifying data, and applying SAS programming skills and common analytic approaches to studies using such data. Offered fall semesters. Prerequisites: EPID:5610 or BIOS:5310 or BIOS:5510. Requirements: EPID:5610 or BIOS:5310 or BIOS:5510 or SAS programming experience; and (concurrent or prior enrollment in BIOS:5120 and BIOS:5730) or (EPID:5241 and EPID:5610) or prior equivalent biostatistical coursework or experience.

EPID:6950 Clinical Research Ethics 2-3 s.h.
Ethical and regulatory aspects of clinical research; historical background, current regulations, and Institutional Review Board (IRB) requirements related to human subjects protection issues. Offered spring semesters. Requirements: K30 training grant or enrollment in degree program with clinical research project.

EPID:7000 Thesis/Dissertation arr.

EPID:7200 Teaching in Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Teaching methods in epidemiology; guided practicum experience in teaching epidemiology, in preparation for academic careers. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 and EPID:5600 and EPID:6400.

EPID:7400 Epidemiology III: Theories 3 s.h.
How epidemiology fits into the wider context of scientific inquiry. Offered fall semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400 and EPID:5241 and EPID:6400.

Clinical Investigation, MS

Program Competencies

Graduates will be able to:

- discuss issues related to biomedical informatics impacting clinical research;
- summarize requirements for building and maintaining a multidisciplinary research team;
- describe health and disease measurement in clinical and community populations;
- describe how to implement a clinical research study;
- develop a clinical research question;
- apply principles of responsible research and clinical research ethics to a research project;
- determine a study aim, objectives, and appropriate design to address a hypothesis;
- analyze epidemiologic data with descriptive analysis and regression models, including linear and logistic regression;
- analyze literature to identify gaps in knowledge; and
- communicate clinical research findings effectively.

Requirements

The Master of Science in clinical investigation requires 37 s.h. of graduate credit. In addition to completing the program's required coursework, students must write a manuscript or a grant proposal for a National Institutes of Health (NIH) career award or its equivalent, with oral defense. Graduate students must maintain a Graduate College program grade-point average of at least 3.00. Those who receive a grade of C in 7 s.h. of coursework may be dismissed from the program.

The program, which is offered in collaboration with the university's Institute for Clinical and Translational Science, is designed for clinicians interested in pursuing careers in clinical research. It includes in-depth training in biostatistics, epidemiology, research ethics, and academic survival skills as well as didactic training applicable to clinical research careers. Graduates of the program are able to critically evaluate clinical literature, write competitive grant proposals, design and conduct clinical research projects, work effectively with other researchers and support staff, and disseminate research results through manuscripts and presentations.

The MS in clinical investigation requires the following coursework.

Core Courses

All core courses except CPH:6100 and CPH:7270 must be taken on an A–F graded basis. Students must retake CPH:7270 if they completed the course more than four years ago or if they have changed degree programs.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these (25 s.h.):
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
EPID:5500	Introduction to Clinical Epidemiology	3
EPID:5610	Intermediate Epidemiology Data Analysis With SAS and R	3
EPID:6150	Writing for Medical Journals	1
EPID:6400	Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods	4
EPID:6950	Clinical Research Ethics	2
CPH:6100	Essentials of Public Health	2
CPH:7270	Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health (taken first year in the fall and spring semesters for 0 s.h. and 1 s.h., respectively)	1

Capstone Requirement

While a student does not take a final examination of courses, the evaluation of the student for graduation is based upon a positive review of a mentored K or R grant or a mentored publishable research paper. The grant or paper is completed in the second year of the program and is based on the area of focus. The capstone is a mentored activity that requires approval by a clinical mentor and a Department of Epidemiology primary faculty member. Successful completion of the course is denoted with a satisfactory (S) grade. The complete grant or paper will be due no later than one month prior to graduation for review.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS); they must also pay the required application fee to the Graduate College through University of Iowa Admissions when prompted. For detailed application information, visit How to Apply to the Department of Epidemiology on the department's website.

Applicants must hold a doctoral-level degree in a clinical discipline (e.g., MD, DO, DDS, PhD, PharmD, DVM) or be enrolled in the Medical Scientist Training Program [p. 1901] (Carver College of Medicine). They must hold a baccalaureate degree with a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00; internationally trained applicants must have an outstanding doctoral training record evidenced by research publications.

Applicants are considered based on their credentials, prior training, and research training plans. Applicants with deficiencies in one area may be admitted if all other components of their application are strong. Individuals must have a sponsoring department.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Application deadlines for fall admission are June 1 for U.S. citizens and April 15 for international applicants. For summer admission, the deadline is April 1; for spring admission, Dec. 1.

Prerequisites

The MS program requires at least 6 s.h. of prerequisite coursework in the disciplines of pathology, physiology, and/or pharmacology. Students accepted into the degree program who have not completed at least 6 s.h. from those disciplines may meet the requirement while they are enrolled.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

e The Capstone Requirement is completed under the Independent Study mentorship; work with faculty advisor for approval.

Epidemiology, MS

Program Competencies

Graduates will be able to:

- define the concepts and content of epidemiology;
- formulate a research hypothesis;
- determine a study aim, objectives, and appropriate design to address a hypothesis;
- apply concepts of ethics to research practice;
- develop study procedures and data collection instruments for conducting a study;
- collect data and manage data quality;
- use existing databases to provide supportive data to address a research question;
- analyze epidemiologic data with descriptive analysis and regression models, including linear and logistic regression; and
- compose an understandable and presentable report of research results.

Requirements

The Master of Science in epidemiology requires at least 39 s.h. of graduate credit and is offered with or without thesis. Students who choose to complete the degree without thesis must satisfy a final examination requirement; see the following section titled "Master's Final Examination for the MS Without Thesis." All students must maintain a Graduate College program grade-point average of at least 3.00. Those who receive a grade of C in 7 s.h. of coursework may be dismissed from the program.

The Master of Science in epidemiology requires the following coursework.

Core Courses

All core courses except CPH:6100, CPH:7270, EPID:5950, and EPID:7000 must be taken on an A–F graded basis.

Students must retake CPH:7270 Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health if they completed the course more than four years ago or if they changed degree programs.

EPID:7000	Thesis/Dissertation (for thesis students)	3

Epidemiology Journal Club

In addition to the above core courses, students are required to enroll in EPID:5925 Epidemiology Journal Club: Evaluating the Literature three times (typically the fall and spring semesters of their first year and the fall semester of their second year). Through the course, students gain experience reading, interpreting, and critically evaluating recently published journal articles.

Full-time students enroll in EPID:5925 for 0 s.h. Students enrolled part-time (less than 9 s.h.) who have a graduate research assistantship appointment may choose to register for 1 s.h., however, the credit earned for this course will not be applied toward the minimum semester hours required for the MS in epidemiology.

Every other week during the academic year, the journal club meets to discuss articles of interest in the field. Contact information for the journal club coordinators can be found on the Department of Epidemiology website under Preceptorship, Journal Club, and Seminar Contacts. Information about the schedule is distributed to students each semester. Students are required to achieve at least 80% attendance at journal club for three semesters during their time in the program.

Human Pathology Requirement

Students must take a human pathology course on an A–F graded basis. Most students choose to enroll in HHP:4390 Understanding Human Disease. Alternatively, students with a strong biosciences background may choose to enroll in PATH:5270 Pathogenesis of Major Human Diseases if it better complements their training plan; this is an advanced course that requires a strong foundation in molecular biology and related disciplines but may be suitable for some students.

Electives

Students must earn a minimum of 8 s.h. in elective coursework numbered 4000 and above, 6 s.h. of which must be from Department of Epidemiology courses (prefix EPID). The remaining 2 s.h., selected in consultation with the student's advisor, may be taken in an epidemiology course or other graduate coursework pertinent to the student's educational goals and background.

Students completing a thesis are required to take EPID:7000 Thesis/Dissertation once for 3 s.h.; see the preceding "Core Courses" section. They are permitted, but not required, to repeat the course once for a maximum of 3 s.h. and apply it toward elective requirements.

The following courses are examples of recommended courses that can be taken outside of epidemiology toward the elective requirement.

Course #	Title	Hours
BIOS:6210	Applied Survival Analysis	3
BIOS:6310	Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis	3
CBH:5220	Health Behavior and Health Education	3
HMP:4000	Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System	3
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3

Other Requirements

Department of Epidemiology Seminar

Every week during the academic year, the Department of Epidemiology seminar provides a forum for speakers to present information or research pertaining to diverse topics in epidemiology. Contact information for the seminar coordinators is located on the Department of Epidemiology website under Preceptorship, Journal Club, and Seminar Contacts. Information about the schedule is distributed each semester and is also available on the University of Iowa Events Calendar. Students are expected to achieve at least 80% attendance at the seminar during each semester of enrollment.

Scientific Poster Requirement

Every student is required to present at least one scientific poster at the department level and is encouraged to present at the international, national, regional, state, or university level at some point prior to graduation. A student's advisor or thesis/preceptorship mentor can help determine the suitability and timeline for the poster presentation.

For nonthesis students, this poster requirement takes the place of an oral seminar presentation as part of the preceptorship requirement. Nonthesis students would typically formulate preceptorship research into a poster presentation, though the requirement may be met by a poster presentation of other research, such as from an independent study or research related to employment.

For thesis students, the poster requirement is in addition to the oral seminar presentation requirement for the thesis. Thesis students would typically formulate thesis research into a poster presentation, though the requirement may be met by a poster presentation of other research, such as from an independent study or research related to employment. The poster must be submitted for review to the student's advisor or thesis/preceptorship mentor a minimum of 10 days before the poster session. A Department of Epidemiology poster session is held at the end of the fall and spring semesters.

Master's Final Examination for the MS Without Thesis

The master's examination is a written in-class exam covering the competencies expected for master of science graduates. It specifically covers material from the following core courses: EPID:4400 Epidemiology I: Principles, EPID:6400 Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods, and BIOS:5120 Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences. This exam is offered twice per year.

Students who earn a grade of B or higher in each of the three courses addressed on the exam are not required to take the exam.

Master's Thesis Defense for the MS With Thesis

The master's thesis defense is an oral presentation of the purpose, methods, and results of the thesis research. A specially formed committee thoroughly examines a student's area of knowledge associated with the context of the work. The goal of the thesis is a document that is publishable in a peer-reviewed journal.

Seminar Presentation for the MS With Thesis

In addition to the thesis defense, students are strongly encouraged and may be required by the thesis committee chair to make a presentation at a Department of Epidemiology seminar. It is recommended that students complete the seminar presentation and dissertation defense in the same semester, with the seminar presentation scheduled before the master's thesis defense so the seminar can serve as preparation for the defense.

Combined Programs

Undergraduate Degree/MS

The Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) program provides an opportunity for University of Iowa students interested in health science to earn their undergraduate and graduate degrees in five years. Undergraduate students should apply to the program by Feb. 1 of their junior year.

For additional information, visit MS in Epidemiology —Undergraduate to Graduate on the Department of Epidemiology website.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS); they must also pay the required application fee to the Graduate College through University of Iowa Admissions when prompted. For detailed application information, visit How to Apply to the Department of Epidemiology on the department's website.

The epidemiology faculty considers several factors when evaluating applications for admission, including Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test scores, grade-point average, letters of recommendation, intent and motivation for graduate study, and research interests. Students with deficiencies in one area may be admitted if all other components of their application are very strong.

All applicants must hold a baccalaureate degree and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00. Undergraduate preparation must include two semesters of biological sciences and mathematics through algebra. Coursework in statistics is highly recommended.

All applicants and students are required to have strong written and oral communication skills.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Application deadlines for fall admission are June 1 for U.S. citizens and April 15 for international applicants.

Career Advancement

The program prepares graduate students for professional careers in which specialized knowledge of epidemiological methods and analytic techniques is essential. Graduates find employment in local, state, and federal health agencies; academic institutions; and private enterprises, such as hospitals, pharmaceutical and device companies, insurance companies, and foundations.

Epidemiology, PhD

Program Competencies

Graduates will be able to:

- summarize specific risk factors and disease processes in a specialized area;
- describe methods for primary data collection including quality assurance and quality control;
- use advanced statistical analysis methods appropriate for the study design and controlling for confounding variables;
- develop data collection instruments for research purposes;
- develop hypotheses that build upon literature and theoretical models of disease and causation;
- compose a proposal for grant funding;
- communicate epidemiological concepts and methods in both writing and orally; and
- defend the methods, results, and implications of a research study.

Requirements

The Doctor of Philosophy program in epidemiology requires a minimum of 78 s.h. of graduate credit. Graduate students in epidemiology must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00. Those who receive a grade of C in 7 s.h. of coursework may be dismissed from the program.

The Doctor of Philosophy in epidemiology requires the following coursework.

Human Pathology Requirement

Students must complete either HHP:4390 Understanding Human Disease or PATH:5270 Pathogenesis of Major Human Diseases on an A–F graded basis for a total of 3 s.h. Most students choose to enroll in HHP:4390 during the fall semester of their second year in the program. Alternatively, students with a strong biosciences background may choose to enroll in PATH:5270.

Electives

Students will work with their advisor to develop a plan of study (24–27 s.h.) that ensures substantive knowledge in topical and methodological areas, which will generate important original research in alignment with the student's dissertation interests. The department has many areas of research strength and several recommended Research Interest Area Plans of Study (under the Curriculum header in each of the interest pages).

Additional Epidemiology Electives

Students must select at least 3 s.h. from Department of Epidemiology courses (prefix EPID) outside their research interest area.

Dissertation

Students must successfully complete a PhD thesis.

Course #	Title	Hours
EPID:7000	Thesis/Dissertation	10-18

Other Requirements

Preceptorship Requirement

Doctoral students who did not complete the MS program in epidemiology at the University of Iowa are required to take EPID:5950 Preceptorship in Epidemiology or demonstrate that an equivalent course has been completed, such as a completed master's thesis at another institution. This requirement must be fulfilled within one year of admission to the PhD program.

Department of Epidemiology Seminar

Every week during the fall and spring semesters, the Department of Epidemiology seminar provides a forum for speakers to present information or research pertaining to diverse topics in epidemiology. Students are expected to achieve at least 80% attendance at the seminar during each semester of enrollment.

Epidemiology Journal Club

Students are required to enroll in EPID:5925 Epidemiology Journal Club: Evaluating the Literature five times, typically the first five fall and spring semesters before the end of their third year, to gain experience in reading, interpreting, and critically evaluating recently published journal articles.

Full-time students enroll in this course for 0 s.h. Students enrolled part-time (less than 9 s.h.) who have a graduate research assistantship appointment may choose to register for 1 s.h. However, the credit earned for this course is not applied toward the minimum semester hours required for the PhD in epidemiology.

Every other week during the academic year, the journal club meets to discuss articles of interest in the field. Contact information for the journal club coordinators can be found on the Department of Epidemiology website under Preceptorship, Journal Club, and Seminar Contacts. Information about the schedule is distributed to students each semester. Students are required to achieve at least 80% attendance at journal club for three semesters during their time in the program.

Scientific Poster Requirement

Every student is required to present at least one scientific poster at the department level and one poster at the international, national, regional, state, or university level at some point prior to graduation. A student's advisor or dissertation mentor can help determine the suitability and timeline for the poster presentation.

Seminar Presentation

In addition to the dissertation defense, students are required to make a presentation at a Department of Epidemiology seminar. It is recommended that students complete the seminar presentation and dissertation defense in the same semester, with the seminar presentation scheduled before the defense so the seminar can serve as preparation for the defense.

Human Subjects Protections (IRB) Certification

Students are required to provide evidence that they have completed an approved education program in human subjects protection. This should be done at the time of appointment to a graduate research assistantship position, at the start of the preceptorship, or at the start of thesis/dissertation research. More information is available about the human subjects protection certification on the University of Iowa's Human Subjects Office website.

Examinations

All doctoral students must successfully complete a qualifying examination, a comprehensive examination, a dissertation prospectus, and a dissertation. The research topic and content, which vary depending on the program of study, must be approved by a student's dissertation committee.

Combined Programs

PhD/MD

Students may work toward the Doctor of Medicine degree and PhD in epidemiology in a combined degree program offered by the Carver College of Medicine and the College of Public Health. Applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the combined degree program. See the Medical Scientist Training Program [p. 1901] (Carver College of Medicine) in the catalog.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS); they must also pay the required application fee to the Graduate College through University of Iowa Admissions when prompted. For detailed application information, visit How to Apply to the Department of Epidemiology on the department's website.

The epidemiology faculty considers several factors when evaluating applications for admission, including Graduate Record Exam (GRE) General Test scores, grade-point average, letters of recommendation, intent and motivation for graduate study, and research interests. Students with deficiencies in one area may be admitted if all other components of their application are very strong.

All applicants must hold a baccalaureate degree (an MS or MPH is usually required) and must have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00. Courses in the biological, physical, and mathematical sciences provide important background; one semester of calculus, one semester of statistics or biostatistics, and two semesters of biological sciences are highly recommended. Computing skills are also desirable.

All applicants and students are required to have strong written and oral communication skills.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

The application deadline for fall admission is April 1.

Career Advancement

The program prepares graduate students for careers as scientists, teachers, and practitioners of epidemiologic methods. Employment opportunities exist in academic institutions; local, state, and federal health agencies; and private enterprises.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Health Management and Policy

Head

- George L. Wehby

Graduate degrees: MHA; MS in health services and policy research; PhD in health services and policy

Faculty: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/hmp-faculty-list/

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/hmp/

The Department of Health Management and Policy educates health care professionals for leadership roles in an increasingly complex and dynamic health care system. Graduates hold key executive, academic, research, government, and consulting positions in all areas of health management and policy, both in the United States and abroad.

The department offers the MHA in a traditional program track and an executive track. It also collaborates with the Tippie College of Business and the College of Law to provide concurrent and combined MHA/graduate and professional degree programs. In addition, the MS in health services and policy research, the policy subprogram for the Master of Public Health (MPH), the PhD in health services and policy, and the graduate Certificate in Healthcare Management [p. 2153] are offered.

The department's degree programs rank among the foremost in the field. The MHA is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Management Education. The PhD program, established in 1950, was the nation's first doctoral program in health care management.

MPH Subprogram

The subprogram prepares individuals for careers in health policy analysis, system and organizational planning, and program evaluation. Graduates find positions in federal, state, and local government as well as in professional associations and private agencies. See the Master of Public Health, MPH [p. 2092] in the catalog.

Alumni Relations

An active alumni association with more than 1,000 members supports the MHA program in a number of ways including scholarships, consultation on curriculum, continuing education, research, and fund development. Alumni serve as visiting faculty, consultants, mentors, and preceptors for summer internships, residencies, and fellowships. The alumni association also provides a network for graduates entering the profession.

Graduates maintain their Iowa connection and learn about news of their classmates, the department, and faculty members and students through the website and social media.

Samuel Levey Healthcare Leadership Symposium

The Department of Health Management and Policy and its alumni association jointly sponsor the annual Samuel Levey Healthcare Leadership Symposium, which is held in the spring. Renowned speakers from across the country present a variety of symposium topics. Health care leaders, alumni, educators, students, and friends of the department attend the symposium, which offers students a high-quality educational experience in addition to the opportunity to network with faculty and alumni.

Facilities

The Center for Health Policy and Research, the research arm of the Department of Health Management and Policy, is a university-wide interdisciplinary research facility. Faculty members from the Carver College of Medicine, the Tippie College of Business, and the colleges of Dentistry, Liberal Arts and Sciences, Nursing, Pharmacy, and Public Health serve as investigators in a variety of studies at the center. Graduate students assist with ongoing research projects.

Primary project funding for the center comes from the National Institutes of Health, the state of Iowa, the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, and the Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Initiative, as well as from foundations and private organizations.

The center also sponsors educational activities and promotes collaboration among health organizations through frequent exchanges with professional and provider associations, policy and planning groups, insurance organizations, health delivery institutions, and other members of the health services research community.

Courses

Health Management and Policy Courses

HMP:4000 Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System 3 s.h.
The U.S. health care system; socioeconomic, political, and environmental forces that influence the organization, financing, and delivery of personal and public health services; health services, policy, concepts, terminology.

HMP:5000 Professional Development Seminar 0-1 s.h.
Development of critical foundational management skills: business writing, personal presentation, teamwork, providing feedback, self-assessment, engaging other professionals, and organizational ethics.

HMP:5001 Interprofessional Health Care Administration I 3 s.h.
Concepts and methods related to developing and leading interprofessional teams; emphasis on roles and responsibilities in health care teams, communication, and conflict management; team development.

HMP:5002 Interprofessional Health Care Administration II 3 s.h.
Concepts and methods related to developing and leading interprofessional teams with an emphasis on values and ethics, including human resources concepts and skills, and building an organizational culture that supports interprofessional collaborative practice. Prerequisites: HMP:5001.

HMP:5005 Introduction to Healthcare Organization and Policy 3 s.h.
Organization of U.S. healthcare system, health policies that shape its development; historical, socioeconomic, political, environmental forces that influence the organization, financing, and delivery of personal and public health services; health services, policy concepts, and terminology, including health determinants, access to care, system integration, policy development, federalism.

HMP:5200 Healthcare Management 3 s.h.
Application of basic management principles such as leadership, goal setting, decision-making, and human resource management to healthcare organizations.

HMP:5230 Population Health 1,3 s.h.
Relationship between health care needs and utilization; emphasis on epidemiological concepts related to presence of disease and health care needs in a community; approaches to forecasting need and utilization of services.

HMP:5291 Performance Improvement in Healthcare 1-2 s.h.
General lean and six sigma principles; application to health care solutions; examples from University of Iowa Health Care, other institutions.

HMP:5310 Healthcare Quality and Operations Management 2-3 s.h.
Fundamentals of patient safety, quality improvement techniques, performance measurement approaches, and analytical tools including data collection methodologies used by managers in healthcare and public health settings.

HMP:5315 Health Information Systems 2-3 s.h.
Conceptual, practical aspects of analysis, development, and use of computer-based information systems; emphasis on application to the health sciences environment.

HMP:5320 Analytics for Healthcare Management 3 s.h.
Introduction to analytical techniques for making business decisions with emphasis on health care; using Excel and associated tools in practical problem solving; probability and statistical concepts and applications in strategic settings.

HMP:5342 Lean Six Sigma in Health Care 2-3 s.h.
Managerial approach combining Six Sigma methods and tools with lean manufacturing enterprise philosophy; eliminating waste of physical resources, time, effort, and talent while assuring quality in production and organizational processes; provides basic understanding of Six Sigma and Lean and DMAIC process (Six Sigma structure); application of basic tools to reduce waste while augmenting satisfaction among health care customers.

HMP:5350 Hospital Organization and Project Management 2-3 s.h.
Role of hospitals, governance, organizational structure, medical staff organization, departmental operations. Prerequisites: HMP:5005 and HMP:5200.

HMP:5402 Corporate Financial Reporting arr.
Introduction to accounting concepts, principles, and analyses; contemporary financial reporting practices with emphasis on preparation, analysis, and use of financial statement information for management decisions; fundamentals of accounting measurement and disclosure.

HMP:5410 Health Economics I 3 s.h.
Microeconomic principles applied to health care, health insurance, information and uncertainty, models of physician and hospital behavior, theory of the firm, market structure, regulation, competitive reform, managed care.

HMP:5450 Health Insurance and Managed Care 3 s.h.
History and theory of insurance, comparative health systems, health systems and networks, HMOs, public health insurance, care for uninsured; emphasis on public policy. Prerequisites: HMP:5005. Corequisites: PHAR:6330 or HMP:5410. Same as GHS:5455.

HMP:5610 Health Policy 1-3 s.h.
Policy process, policies and programs that shape provision of health care in the United States; health policies such as Medicare, Medicaid, Older Americans Act.

HMP:5650 Health Policy Analysis 3 s.h.
Introduction to analysis of contemporary health policy issues; frameworks for conducting analysis of health policy process and content; qualitative and quantitative methods for policy analysis; how to present policy-relevant information effectively. Prerequisites: HMP:5005.

HMP:5750 Medicare and Medicaid Policy 3 s.h.
Health policies most pertinent to Americans over age of 65. Same as ASP:5750.

HMP:5810 MHA Internship arr.

HMP:6055 Topics in Health Administration 3 s.h.
Topics related to contemporary problems that concern health care students, administrators.

HMP:6110 Healthcare Strategy and Business Development 3-4 s.h.
Strategy in health care including role of mission, vision, values, environmental analysis, strategic alternatives, organizational design, and evaluation of strategic decisions. Prerequisites: HMP:5200.

HMP:6150 MHA Integrative Capstone 2-3 s.h.
Integration and application of theories, concepts, principles; case studies. Prerequisites: HMP:5200 and HMP:6110.

HMP:6310 Human Resources and Performance Improvement in Healthcare 3 s.h.
Overview of human resource management theories and practices for health care organizations; strategic human resource management, equal employment, staffing, training and development, appraisal, compensation. Prerequisites: HMP:5200.

HMP:6315 Healthcare Ethics 1-2 s.h.
Biomedical and organization ethics in the contemporary healthcare environment; ethical concepts and principles, ethical issues that confront executive, clinical, and governance leaders in context of complex health organizations.

HMP:6350 Medical Practice Administration 3 s.h.
Survey of medical practice culture, operations, governance, financials, role(s) in health care system, and future. Prerequisites: HMP:5005 and HMP:5200.

HMP:6355 Healthcare Leadership and Ethics 3 s.h.
Management and leadership concepts and their application in healthcare organizations. Prerequisites: HMP:5200.

HMP:6360 Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness I 3 s.h.
Operational and financing aspects of nonprofit management; mission and governance of organization; strategic planning for effective management, including finance, budget, income generation, fund-raising. Same as MGMT:9150, PBAF:6278, RELS:6070, SPST:6010, SSW:6247, URP:6278.

HMP:6365 Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness II 3 s.h.
Qualities for leadership of nonprofit organizations, including relationships with staff and volunteers; relationship of nonprofit and outside world; marketing, public relations, advocacy strategies for nonprofits. Same as MGMT:9160, PBAF:6279, RELS:6075, SPST:6020, SSW:6248, URP:6279.

HMP:6410 Healthcare Financial Management 3 s.h.
Issues in working capital management, capital financing, cost analysis and rate setting, budgeting, reimbursement, managed care contracting and health reform initiatives; emphasis on use of information from accounting, financial management systems.

HMP:6610 Legal Aspects of Healthcare 2-3 s.h.
Statutory and common law frameworks applicable to healthcare system; court decisions that illustrate applications of general legal doctrines in hospital and health settings.

HMP:6710 Federalism and Health Policy 3 s.h.
How American government's organization shapes development and implementation of health policy, programs, services.

HMP:6750 Seminar in Health Policy 2-3 s.h.
Contemporary health policy issues; theoretical and applied perspectives; social justice and health care for vulnerable populations (e.g., mental health, nursing homes); readings, discussion. Prerequisites: HMP:5610.

HMP:6850 Independent Study and Research arr.
Supervised tutorial.

HMP:6855 Administrative Practicum 2-3 s.h.
Experience with operational and planning matters in a health care setting. Requirements: second-year standing and GPA of at least 3.00 for two consecutive semesters.

HMP:6860 Administrative Residency/Fellowship arr.

HMP:7250 Organizational Behavior and Theory in Health Care 3 s.h.
Key concepts of organizational behavior and organizational theory and their application to health care organizations and health services; perspectives from theoretical writings and empirical studies. Requirements: PhD standing and knowledge of human services organizations.

HMP:7550 Cost Effectiveness and Decision Analysis 3 s.h.
Methods of cost-effectiveness analysis and decision analysis; applications to resource allocation decisions in public health and medicine.

HMP:7930 PhD Independent Research 1-3 s.h.
Experience in empirical research through one or more substantive research experiences, with faculty mentor; authorship or coauthorship of at least one manuscript suitable for publication in peer review journal. Requirements: PhD in health services and policy and satisfactory completion of PhD preliminary exams.

HMP:7940 Primary Data and Mixed Methods 3 s.h.
Overview of research design and methods used to address health services research questions; collection of primary data and use of qualitative and mixed methods approaches.

HMP:7950 Design Issues in Health Service Research 3 s.h.
Design and causal inference reliability and validity in measurement; rules of evidence; research design for randomized-control trials, observational studies, meta-analysis.

HMP:7960 Analytic Issues in Health Services Research I 3 s.h.
Analytic tools used in health services research; focus on applications in nonexperimental research settings, such as analyses using administrative claims data or preexisting public use data sets.

HMP:7965 Analytic Issues in Health Services Research II 3 s.h.
Continuation of HMP:7960; advanced applications, including panel data and qualitative response models. Prerequisites: HMP:7960. Same as PHAR:7331.

HMP:7970 Seminar in Instruction and Professional Development 1-3 s.h.
Opportunity for PhD students to develop research and teaching skills through presentations, readings, and workshops on professional development topics. Requirements: satisfactory completion of PhD preliminary exams.

HMP:7990 Thesis/Dissertation arr.
Research for preparation of dissertation; seminar presentation.

Master of Health Administration, MHA

Learning Outcomes

The MHA program prepares graduates for their initial positions as health care managers and provides a solid foundation for executive career development in a variety of health organizations.

Core Competencies

Personal and Professional Development

- Effectively communicate in written and spoken form.
- Demonstrate evaluation of multiple sources of information and perspectives in arriving at decisions.
- Demonstrate ethical decision-making.
- Demonstrate growth through self-reflection and professional development.

Leading People

- Effectively lead teams toward a common vision and goals.
- Understand strategies in professionally developing others.
- Integrate the knowledge and experiences of other professions and sectors, as appropriate.

Leading in Communities

- Understand the complexity of communities and how to engage with them.

Managing Resources

Finances

- Describe how payment models impact healthcare delivery, quality, costs, access to care, population health, and the community.
- Create and analyze standard financial reports.
- Analyze the impact of financial decisions.

Operations

- Evaluate strategic and operational goals.
- Use various improvement tools to evaluate and improve operations.
- Apply organizational behavior concepts, strategies, and policies related to human resources.
- Assess healthcare workforce needs, projections, and critical issues.
- Analyze ethical and legal situations, including recognizing when to seek legal or ethical counsel.

Information

- Explain the roles of health, human resource, and financial information systems in clinical and strategic decision making.
- Analyze data to evaluate and improve strategic, operational, financial, and quality performance indicators.

Setting Strategic Direction

- Demonstrate organizational strategic planning, implementation, and evaluation with relevant constituent groups.
- Apply appropriate organizational designs consistent with its mission and strategies.

Requirements

The Master of Health Administration (MHA) requires 45–60 s.h. of graduate credit: 45 s.h. for the executive subprogram and 60 s.h. earned in two academic years of full-time study for the general program. Transfer credit and course waivers may be accepted, but all general program students are expected to complete a minimum of 54 s.h. at the University of Iowa during their course of study. Students must maintain a Graduate College program grade-point average of at least 3.00 to earn the degree.

The program prepares students for a wide variety of positions in health care management. It is designed to provide a comprehensive understanding of issues encountered by health care delivery organizations and strong business skills. Graduates are well prepared to advance to senior executive roles in a variety of health care organizations.

Students work with their advisors to create a plan of study that incorporates required and elective coursework that supports their career goals in areas such as operations management, managed care, or financial management. Required courses in management, economics, law, managerial finance, and financial accounting focus on health care applications. Students may also take coursework in other University of Iowa departments and programs, such as business, planning and public affairs, and aging and longevity studies.

During the first year, students are introduced to the social, political, economic, and financial environments of health care organizations. The concepts, tools, and techniques necessary for effective management are also presented. During the second year, courses focus on in-depth health care applications of management concepts that integrate prior coursework and develop skills in areas relating to students' special interests and career objectives.

The Master of Health Administration requires the following coursework.

General Program

Students complete a combination of core courses and electives for a total of 60 s.h.

Core Courses

Students complete 54 s.h. in the following core courses, with the exception of students in the law subprogram who do not complete HMP:5810 MHA Internship; the law subprogram core courses total 51 s.h.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
HMP:5000	Professional Development Seminar (taken four times for 1 s.h. each)	4

Electives

Students select elective courses to reach 60 s.h. total earned for the degree. Students complete at least 6 s.h. of elective coursework from the following list, or they may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of elective credit earned outside the Department of Health Management and Policy toward the MHA degree with their faculty advisor's approval.

Students in the business or law subprogram instead complete 6 s.h. or 9 s.h., respectively, from electives in their complementary fields; see "Combined Programs" in this section of the catalog for elective course options.

Summer Internships, Fellowships, Residencies

The department facilitates the placement of MHA students in required summer internships between the first and second years of study. Internships offer opportunities for practical experience interacting with executives in a health care setting. Internships are full-time positions that usually last 10–12 weeks. Students typically receive a salary or stipend and, in some cases, assistance with living arrangements.

Most MHA students complement their academic training with a postgraduate fellowship or residency. Such experiences provide opportunities to observe, develop, and demonstrate management skills and to develop connections with colleagues. The department takes an active role in helping students identify and secure fellowship and residency positions.

Executive MHA Subprogram

The executive Master of Health Administration subprogram (EMHA) requires 45 s.h. of graduate credit and is typically completed in two years. The plan of study is designed for working professionals who wish to advance their knowledge and skills in order to become effective health care administrators. The EMHA objectives are to:

- provide working professionals with advanced knowledge and skills in health care management;
- position experienced professionals to become effective health care administrators; and
- meet the need for leadership in transforming health care financing and delivery in dynamic environments.

The EMHA's curricular emphases are administrative skills specific to health care, population health administration, and interprofessional health care administration.

Courses are taught online synchronously by healthcare-experienced academic and practitioner faculty members. The program can typically be completed in two years, including the two summer sessions.

The Master of Health Administration (executive MHA subprogram) requires the following coursework.

For more information, visit Executive MHA Track on the College of Public Health website.

Combined Programs

Students interested in combining an MHA with a master's or professional degree in another field should discuss their plans with both academic units and indicate their interest when they apply to the MHA program. Separate application to each degree program is required; applicants must be admitted to both programs before they may be admitted to the combined degree program. For information about the MBA, see Master of Business Administration, MBA (Tippie College of Business) in the catalog. For information about the JD, see Juris Doctor, JD [p. 1833] (College of Law) in the catalog.

MHA (Business Subprogram)/MBA

The MHA with a subprogram in business allows students to gain training in both health care management and business. Students in this subprogram complete the required courses for the General Program [p. 2142].

MHA (Business) Electives

For the general program's elective requirement, MHA with a subprogram in business students complete 6 s.h. selected from the following MBA courses.

Course #	Title	Hours
MBA:8110	Marketing Management	3
MBA:8120	Management in Organizations	3
MBA:8140	Corporate Financial Reporting	3
MBA:8160	Managerial Economics	3

MBA:8300	Foundations in Strategy	3
MBA:8310	Business Integration	3
MBA:8320	Strategic Business Growth	3
MBA:9300	Strategy in Action	3

MHA (Law Subprogram)/JD

The MHA with a subprogram in law allows students to gain training in both health care management and law. Students typically complete the program in four years; they enroll only in law courses during the first two years. Students in this subprogram complete the required courses for the General Program [p. 2142].

MHA (Law) Additional Courses

For the general program's elective requirement, MHA with a subprogram in law students complete 9 s.h. selected from the following JD courses, which also contribute to the JD. Additional law courses may be selected with MHA program director approval.

Course #	Title	Hours
LAW:8010	Constitutional Law I	3
LAW:8280	Constitutional Law II	3
LAW:8421	Employment Law	3
LAW:8562	Health Law	3
LAW:8987	Veterans Benefits Law	3
LAW:9882	Public Health Law	3

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS) or the Health Administration, Management, and Policy Centralized Application Service (HAMPCAS). All applicants must also submit the supplemental University of Iowa application fee. For detailed application information, visit HMP Degree Programs on the Department of Health Management and Policy website.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Students begin the program in the fall semester. Personal interviews are required before admission; the admissions committee conducts Skype interviews with applicants unable to visit campus.

b Students must complete specific requirements in the University of Iowa Graduate College after program admission. Refer to the Graduate College website and the Manual of Rules and Regulations for more information.

c Graduate College program GPA is comprised of all courses that are approved degree requirements. If a student takes more than the minimum required number of semester hours to complete the degree, but all courses taken are eligible to count toward the degree, those courses will be included in the Graduate College program GPA.

d Take four times for 1 s.h. each.

e Students select elective courses (at least 6 s.h.) to reach 60 s.h. total earned for the degree; see the General Catalog for list of approved courses. Students may count a maximum of 6 s.h. of elective credit earned outside the Department of Health Management and Policy toward the MHA degree with their faculty advisor's approval.

Health Services and Policy Research, MS

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the MS in health services and policy research, students will be able to:

- evaluate the organization, financing, and delivery of U.S. health services;
- evaluate policies for their impact on public health and health equity;
- analyze the behavior of health care market stakeholders using the principles of health economics;
- select the appropriate study design and statistical models for health services research questions and outcomes;
- use statistical computing programs to analyze quantitative data; and
- conduct a study using health services research methods.

Requirements

The Master of Science in health services and policy research requires a minimum of 30 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must maintain a Graduate College program grade-point average of at least 3.00 to earn the degree.

Students are provided with content knowledge and methodological skills pertaining to the practice of health services research. Evaluating the organization, delivery, and outcomes of health services and the impacts of health policies on health services use and health outcomes is intrinsically interdisciplinary. As such, students will acquire theoretical knowledge of U.S. health policy, health economics, and the organization and delivery of health services as well as a range of analytic skills that will allow them to design and execute health services research studies.

The MS includes coursework in health services research design, statistical methods, health policy, health economics, and the organization and delivery of health care services. Additionally, students will be required to complete a final research project. Students have the opportunity to work with faculty mentors on research projects and participate in cocurricular learning opportunities that focus on health services research, such as seminars, journal clubs, and conferences. The MS is a pathway to the PhD in health services and policy.

The MS in health services and policy research requires the following coursework.

Core Courses

All core courses except CPH:6100 and CPH:7270 are required to be taken on an A–F graded basis.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
HMP:4000	Introduction to the U.S. Health Care System	3
or HMP:5005	Introduction to Healthcare Organization and Policy
HMP:5410	Health Economics I	3
HMP:5610	Health Policy	3
HMP:7950	Design Issues in Health Service Research	3
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
BIOS:5120	Regression Modeling and ANOVA in the Health Sciences	3
CPH:6100	Essentials of Public Health	2
CPH:7270	Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health (taken in the fall and spring semesters for 0 s.h. and 1 s.h., respectively)	1

Electives

Students choose 6 s.h. of elective coursework in courses numbered 3000 and above. Faculty advisors must approve elective coursework. The following are possible elective choices.

Course #	Title	Hours
HMP:5650	Health Policy Analysis	3
HMP:6610	Legal Aspects of Healthcare	3
HMP:6710	Federalism and Health Policy	3
HMP:6750	Seminar in Health Policy	3
HMP:7550	Cost Effectiveness and Decision Analysis	3
HMP:7940	Primary Data and Mixed Methods	3
HMP:7960	Analytic Issues in Health Services Research I	3
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3

Independent Research

Students complete 3 s.h. of independent research work in HMP:6850 Independent Study and Research.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS). All applicants must also submit the supplemental University of Iowa application fee. For detailed application information, visit HMP Degree Programs on the Department of Health Management and Policy website.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Students begin the program in the fall semester. Campus visits are encouraged.

Career Advancement

The MS in health services and policy research prepares graduates for research careers in a variety of applied settings including academia, think tanks, government agencies, private sector organizations, and other settings where health services research skills are sought.

The program is designed to provide clinicians with the skills needed to work as health services researchers in a wide variety of settings. Given the program's strong emphasis on research design, evaluation, and quantitative methods, it is a pathway for students who desire to prepare themselves to be competitive applicants for doctoral studies in health services research, health policy, health economics, and other closely related fields at the University of Iowa or other leading institutions.

The program also is designed in a way that allows students in the department's PhD in health services and policy program to earn the MS degree as they complete coursework and exam requirements for the PhD program en passant.

Health Services and Policy, PhD

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- demonstrate breadth of health services research theoretical and conceptual knowledge by applying alternative models from a range of relevant disciplines;
- apply in-depth disciplinary knowledge and skills relevant to health services research;
- apply knowledge of the structures, performance, quality, policy, and environmental context of health and health care to formulate solutions for health policy problems;
- pose innovative and important health service research questions, informed by systematic reviews of the literature, stakeholder needs, and relevant theoretical and conceptual models;
- select appropriate interventional, observational, or qualitative study designs to address specific health services research questions;
- know how to collect primary health and health care data obtained by survey, qualitative, or mixed methods;
- know how to assemble secondary data from existing public and private sources;
- use conceptual models and operational measures to specify study constructs for a health services research question and develop variables that reliably and validly measure these constructs;
- implement research protocols with standardized procedures that ensure the reproducibility of the science;
- use appropriate analytical methods to clarify associations between variables and to delineate causal inferences;
- ensure the ethical and responsible conduct of research in the design, implementation, and dissemination of health services research;
- work collaboratively in multidisciplinary teams;
- effectively communicate the findings and implications of health services research through multiple modalities to technical and lay audiences;
- understand the importance of collaborating with stakeholders, such as policymakers, organizations, and communities to plan, conduct, and translate health services research into policy and practice; and
- demonstrate hands-on teaching experience.

Requirements

The Doctor of Philosophy program in health services and policy requires a minimum of 72 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must maintain a Graduate College program grade-point average of at least 3.25 to earn the degree. Those who enter with a master's degree can apply to use transfer credit toward their doctorate degree with approval of the health services and policy program.

The PhD program is oriented toward applied, interdisciplinary research and scholarly inquiry. Students develop mastery of theories and research methodologies necessary to study the complex American health system. They work closely with faculty mentors on research projects and develop research design and methodology skills through coursework and an apprenticeship model of training.

Individual plans of study allow students to prepare for specific careers, and small class size encourages frequent student-faculty interaction, including participation in research projects as well as scholarly publications.

The PhD program provides students the flexibility to create a plan of study that allows them to either specialize in one of three research interest areas—health economics, health management and organization, or health policy—or to create a plan of study that includes elective courses from multiple research interest areas. Students work with a faculty advisor and a mentorship team of faculty members from their interest area(s). The advisor and mentorship team participate in initial planning with students during orientation and in annual professional development reviews. Students conduct required independent study and thesis research in their interest area(s); their comprehensive exam and dissertation committees include faculty members from their chosen research interest area(s).

Research Interest Areas

The health economics research interest area provides students with in-depth training in economic theory and its applications to health and health care. Students in this area acquire advanced theoretical knowledge and state-of-the-art analytical and econometric skills that enable them to build careers as health economists in academic departments, research organizations, and health care industries. The health economics interest area provides comprehensive coursework covering all main areas in health and health care economics, including demand for health and health care, economic determinants and consequences of health behaviors, health insurance, economic organization of health care markets, impact of government policy and regulation, econometric methods, and economic evaluation methods.

The health management and organization research interest area prepares students to conduct research on organizational, strategic, and operational issues that confront health institutions and systems. Emphasis is placed on health care applications of theories, concepts, and models from the fields of organizational theory (macro), organizational behavior (micro), strategic management, and operations management. Students in this area may conduct research on topics such as the effectiveness of health care organizations; improving the organization and management of health delivery processes; measuring performance and productivity of health care organizations; examining the relative influence of mission, culture, and financial incentives in hospitals and health organizations; and management of professional groups. Graduates of the health management and organization research interest area should find employment in academic and research organizations, integrated delivery systems, and governmental units that are interested in the impact of organizational structures and managerial practices on performance.

The health policy research interest area prepares students to undertake health services and policy research aimed at improving care and management of illness and disability and enhancing individual and community health outcomes. Students develop the skills necessary to conduct health services and policy research. They take courses in the basic disciplines that contribute to the fields of public and social policy (e.g., law, political science, public affairs) and courses that focus on the structure and organization of health policymaking in the United States. They study the formation and implementation of health policies; the effect of health policies on the organization, financing, and delivery of health services; the effect of health policies on access to, use of, and costs of health services; and approaches to improve access and effectiveness of care for vulnerable populations. Students who complete the health policy research interest area are prepared for employment in academic research institutions, policy organizations, and governmental agencies and departments.

The PhD in health services and policy requires the following coursework.

Coursework

Students take coursework in core content areas covering health care systems, health economics, health management and organizations, and health policy and courses in research design and statistical analysis. Credit may be awarded for guided and independent research project work. Students may waive specific courses, depending on their background. For more detailed information about PhD and focus area curricula, see the PhD in Health Services and Policy on the Department of Health Management and Policy website.

Electives

Students take elective coursework so that they are exposed to other areas or to gain greater depth within their area of interest.

Examinations

Students must pass a preliminary examination that tests mastery of core material covered during the first year in the department, including American health systems, health services research methods, and foundation courses in their research interest area.

Students take the comprehensive examination at or near the end of their formal coursework. The comprehensive exam focuses on a student's specific area of research and theoretical interest.

Dissertation

Doctoral candidates prepare dissertations based on original research that tests, extends, or applies concepts or principles to a health care problem related to their chosen research interest area(s). Students may complete a traditional dissertation or a dissertation based on three publishable papers.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS). All applicants must also submit the supplemental University of Iowa application fee. For detailed application information, visit HMP Degree Programs on the Department of Health Management and Policy website.

Applicants must meet the admission requirements of the Graduate College; see the Manual of Rules and Regulations on the Graduate College website.

Students begin the program in the fall semester. Personal interviews are required before admission; the admissions committee conducts video interviews with applicants.

Career Advancement

The program prepares students for careers in health services research, education, and policy leadership in universities, government agencies, and health organizations.

Graduate certificate: healthcare management

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/healthcare-management-certificate/

The graduate Certificate in Healthcare Management provides physicians, nurses, other clinicians, and managers with the foundational business and leadership skills specific to health care. The certificate is administered by the Department of Health Management and Policy [p. 2139]. The Graduate College grants the certificate.

Programs

Graduate Program of Study

- Certificate in Healthcare Management [p. 2153]

Healthcare Management, Graduate Certificate

Requirements

The graduate Certificate in Healthcare Management requires a minimum of 15 s.h. of graduate credit. Students must maintain a UI cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00 in order to earn the certificate. Enrollment is limited to 10 students.

The required courses provide foundational business and leadership skills specific to health care. They are offered in five-week blocks at University of Iowa campuses in Iowa City and Des Moines. Students complete the five health care courses over a period of 15 months; all 15 s.h. earned in the certificate program may be used toward degree requirements for the Master of Health Administration, MHA [p. 2142] executive subprogram (EMHA).

The Certificate in Healthcare Management requires the following coursework.

Course #	Title	Hours
HMP:5200	Healthcare Management	3
HMP:5402	Corporate Financial Reporting	3
HMP:5610	Health Policy	3
HMP:6355	Healthcare Leadership and Ethics	3

Occupational and Environmental Health

Head

- Nathan B. Fethke

Graduate degrees: MS in occupational and environmental health; PhD in occupational and environmental health

Faculty: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/oeh-faculty-list/

Website: https://www.public-health.uiowa.edu/oeh/

The Department of Occupational and Environmental Health focuses on the assessment of risk factors in the physical environment and their relationship to disease—particularly health problems of agricultural and industrial workers. Students are guided by faculty members whose research interests include rural health care delivery, agricultural health, environmental health, occupational medicine, occupational lung disease, mammalian toxicology, inhalation toxicology, ergonomics, indoor air quality, occupational injury, injury epidemiology, injury prevention programs, aerosol physics, air and water quality, environmental chemistry, analytical toxicology, and environmental health in developing countries.

In addition to the MS and PhD degrees in occupational and environmental health, the department offers a subprogram for the Master of Public Health (MPH) degree in occupational and environmental health. The subprogram provides students with a broad perspective on public health and career preparation for a variety of professional positions in occupational and environmental health. Students have the option of selecting focused coursework in the following areas: global environmental health, occupational health, rural health and safety, and injury and violence prevention. For more information, see the Master of Public Health [p. 2092] in the catalog.

The department also offers the College of Public Health's graduate Certificate in Agricultural Safety and Health; see Agricultural Safety and Health [p. 2106] in the catalog.

Programs

Graduate Programs of Study

- Occupational and environmental health subprogram for the Master of Public Health [p. 2092] degree
- Master of Science in Occupational and Environmental Health [p. 2157]
- Doctor of Philosophy in Occupational and Environmental Health [p. 2162]

Facilities

The Department of Occupational and Environmental Health is housed in the College of Public Health Building, on the university's health sciences campus, and at the Institute for Rural and Environmental Health at the University of Iowa Research Park. College of Public Health-based laboratory facilities give researchers and students access to cutting-edge technologies for the study of occupational and environmental health.

Pulmonary Toxicology Facility

The Pulmonary Toxicology Facility provides a full array of inhalation toxicology, aerosol science, and bioaerosol assay services. A primary focus of the facility is the study of toxicants found in the agricultural environment and related exposure situations. The facility is particularly well-equipped for studying organic dusts and bioaerosols.

Industrial Hygiene Laboratory

The Industrial Hygiene Laboratory provides expertise and equipment for exposure assessment in occupational settings. The laboratory offers a range of sample collection capabilities and an extensive inventory of sampling equipment. Field and laboratory services are available through laboratory support exposure-response studies and control technology development studies in a variety of occupational arenas, including agriculture, construction, and indoor environments (home and office).

Heartland Center for Occupational Health and Safety

The Heartland Center for Occupational Health and Safety, one of 18 education and research centers funded by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health, provides training, education, and outreach. Its program areas are industrial hygiene, occupational safety, ergonomics, agricultural safety and health, occupational injury prevention, and continuing education.

Courses

Occupational and Environmental Health Courses

OEH:4240 Global Environmental Health 3 s.h.
Environmental health comprised of aspects of human health determined by interactions with physical, chemical, biological, and social factors in global environment; worldview and survey; focus on issues most relevant today; sustainability; air, water, and soil pollution and remediation; occupational health; injury prevention; food safety and security; risk assessment; environmental health policy.

OEH:4260 Global Water and Health 3 s.h.
Overview of global water and health; microbial and toxicant identification, water-related adverse health effects, risk assessment, approaches to reduce water-related disease, distal water-related influences (e.g., global warming), and historic cases. Same as GHS:4260.

OEH:4310 Occupational Ergonomics: Principles 3 s.h.
Fundamental topics of occupational ergonomics important to future industrial hygienists, engineers, and other occupational safety and health practitioners; introduction to principles of ergonomics with focus on physiological and anatomical capabilities of the worker and interaction of workers with their environments; topics include anthropometry, physiological and biomechanical basis of work, occupational musculoskeletal disorders, risk factors for musculoskeletal disorders, workplace and tool design, manual materials handling, workplace environment, job analysis, and elements of ergonomics process to improve job design.

OEH:4510 Injury and Violence Prevention 3 s.h.
Theory, research, and practice of injury control; unintentional and intentional injuries; local, national, international injury issues. Same as CPH:4230, EPID:4510.

OEH:4530 Global Road Safety 3 s.h.
Road safety problem, data sources, research methods used in field, and how intervention and prevention programs are developed and evaluated; lecture, hands-on approaches. Same as CPH:4220, GHS:4530.

OEH:4920 Solid and Hazardous Wastes 3 s.h.
Sources, characteristics, collection, disposal of solid and hazardous wastes; environmental impacts of hazardous waste management; resource recovery systems. Requirements: for OEH:4920—OEH:4240. Same as CEE:4158.

OEH:5010 Occupational and Environmental Health Seminar 0-1 s.h.
Contemporary topics in occupational health, agricultural and comparative medicine, environmental health.

OEH:5110 Managing and Sharing Your Research Data 1 s.h.
Overview of essential practices in managing the data you collect and generate during research. Topics include file organization; documenting your work and lab notebooks; optimizing spreadsheet data and cleanup tools; reproducibility; funder and publisher requirements; and conclude with how and where to share and publish data, from choosing a repository to creating a data record, including licensing, ownership, preservation of access, reuse, and citation. Applicable for any student currently doing research, or planning to do so. Same as CEE:5110.

OEH:5410 Occupational Safety 3 s.h.
Principles and practices of occupational safety; applications in industrial and other occupational settings; interactions with other disciplines.

OEH:5620 Occupational Health 3 s.h.
Introduction to occupational health and safety; for graduate students in agricultural health and safety, environmental health, ergonomics, industrial hygiene, injury prevention, occupational epidemiology, and occupational medicine.

OEH:6110 Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine 3 s.h.
Clinical orientation of specific health problems of rural residents, agricultural workers; rural health care delivery, socioeconomic issues in agriculture and their effects on health and safety of the agricultural population; occupational health problems, environmental health hazards in rural areas.

OEH:6120 Current Topics in Agriculture and Rural Health 0-1 s.h.
Current issues that affect the health of rural populations including agricultural hazards, pesticide exposure, mental health, global agricultural health, and food safety.

OEH:6230 Applied Environmental Health 3 s.h.
Advanced concepts in environmental health, from current issues to policy and risk management; application of methods to minimize health outcomes and disparities resulting from exposure to environmental hazards found in water, food, soil, and air. Prerequisites: OEH:4240.

OEH:6420 Methods in Exposure Science 3 s.h.
Principles, with emphasis on recognition of chemical health hazards, physical health hazards at work. Corequisites: OEH:5620, if not taken as a prerequisite.

OEH:6431 Assessing Noise Hazards 1 s.h.
Scientific methods to measure noise, assess human noise exposure, and implement technology to control noise exposure.

OEH:6432 Assessing Nonionizing Radiation Hazards 1 s.h.
Scientific methods to measure nonionizing, assess human nonionizing exposure, and implement technology to control nonionizing exposure.

OEH:6433 Assessing Ionizing Radiation Hazards 1 s.h.
Scientific methods to measure ionizing radiation, assess human ionizing radiation exposure, and implement technology to control ionizing radiation exposure.

OEH:6440 Control of Occupational Hazards 3 s.h.
Physical science concepts applied to control of occupational hazards ranging from dusts to mists to vapors; strategies, management issues, personal protective equipment, implementation skills; in-depth instruction on local exhaust ventilation system design.

OEH:6450 Aerosol Technology 3 s.h.
Particle statistics and physics of aerosols, including inertia, diffusion, nucleation, evaporation, condensation, optics, electrical properties; relationship to fields such as agriculture, nanotechnology, environmental and occupational health, atmospheric chemistry, drug delivery.

OEH:6460 Quantitative Exposure Assessment: Study Design and Evaluation 1,3 s.h.
Principles of designing occupational and environmental exposure assessment studies, analyzing exposure data, and conducting exposure-response evaluations. Requirements: prior experience in statistics.

OEH:6510 Environmental and Occupational Epidemiology 3 s.h.
Overview of methods to interpret and perform environmental and occupational epidemiologic studies with focus on exposure assessment; valuable insights into identifying regional, national, global environmental, and occupational health-related issues. Prerequisites: EPID:4400. Same as EPID:6200.

OEH:6520 Injury Epidemiology 3 s.h.
How epidemiology can be applied to injury prevention and control: epidemiology literature, specific methodological problems involved in the epidemiology of injuries, critical evaluation of research articles. Offered spring semesters of odd years. Prerequisites: EPID:4400. Same as EPID:6510.

OEH:6710 Human Toxicology and Risk Assessment 3 s.h.
Sources, routes of absorption, effects of environmental toxicants affecting man; pathophysiology of toxicant actions, including those of air and water pollutants, metals, pesticides, solvents, food toxicants, chemicals. Requirements: college chemistry and biology.

OEH:6720 Advanced Toxicology 4 s.h.
Hepatic metabolism and toxification mechanisms, pulmonary and immunotoxicology, nervous system poisons and their mechanisms of action, general and molecular concepts of chemical carcinogenesis. Prerequisites: OEH:6710 or PHAR:6501.

OEH:7000 Thesis/Dissertation arr.

OEH:7010 Problems in Occupational and Environmental Health arr.
Didactic material in occupational and environmental health; may include tutorial, seminar, faculty-directed independent work (e.g., literature search, project, short research project).

OEH:7020 Independent Study in Occupational and Environmental Health arr.
In-depth pursuit of an area in occupational and environmental health requiring substantial creativity and independence.

OEH:7040 Preceptorship in Occupational and Environmental Health arr.
Work experience using knowledge and skills acquired in the classroom; arranged in conjunction with departmental or collegiate activities or with governmental agencies or private industry.

OEH:7050 Occupational and Environmental Health Internship 0,3 s.h.
Comprehensive and integrated application of knowledge acquired in a workplace setting; structured approach to demonstrate skills and knowledge obtained through a workplace experience. Corequisites: OEH:5620 or OEH:4240, if not taken as a prerequisite.

OEH:7060 Research Design in Occupational and Environmental Health 3 s.h.
Development of a research grant proposal based on student's independent research aims and hypotheses, preparation of accompanying documents for a grant proposal submission, and development of a comprehensive dissemination plan that articulates how academic and lay audiences will be reached with research findings.

OEH:7070 Interpreting Occupational and Environmental Health Research 3 s.h.
Systematic evaluation of methodological strengths and weaknesses of published research studies in occupational and environmental health. Prerequisites: (OEH:5620 or OEH:4240) and BIOS:4120 and EPID:4400.

Occupational and Environmental Health, MS

An MS in occupational and environmental health (OEH) is offered with optional subprograms in agricultural safety and health and industrial hygiene.

Learning Outcomes

General Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- describe major environmental hazards that adversely affect human health;
- demonstrate the use of regulatory guidelines enacted to control occupational health and injury issues;
- apply epidemiological principles used to assess associations between exposure to occupational health and injury hazards on health outcomes;
- use statistical methods and related software to test a hypothesis; and
- apply interventions to prevent occupational health and injury hazards.

Agricultural Safety and Health Subprogram Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- describe the basic concepts of agricultural safety and health;
- summarize epidemiological and toxicological principles that can be used to determine health outcomes associated with exposure to occupational hazards;
- explain appropriate research design and methodology related to the field of agricultural safety and health;
- communicate agricultural safety and health concepts both orally and in writing;
- interpret the significance of research data relative to an exposure or health outcome;
- apply best practice safety guidance to develop products and interventions to prevent injuries related to agricultural hazards; and
- develop skills to design and evaluate a research project relative to peer-reviewed literature in agricultural safety and health.

Industrial Hygiene Subprogram Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- anticipate and recognize occupational and environmental hazards (i.e., physical, chemical, and biological agents, factors, and stressors) generated by or associated with defined sources, unit operations, and/or processes;
- describe qualitative and quantitative aspects of the generation of hazards;
- apply scientific principles, instrumentation, and methods to adequately assess exposures to hazards;
- organize and interpret exposure data using qualitative and quantitative methods in the context of physiological, epidemiological, and toxicological knowledge of the response of the human body to hazards;
- recommend and evaluate controls to reduce or eliminate hazards with regard to traditional hierarchy considerations;
- understand applicable business, managerial, and leadership practices with an emphasis on program and project management;
- communicate effectively and appropriately to advocate for continuous improvement in worker health and safety to pertinent audiences, including the workforce, management, the public, and professional peers;
- interpret and apply applicable and emerging regulations, consensus standards, and best practices affecting occupational and environmental health;
- demonstrate an understanding of the professional code of ethics; and
- understand the value of and path to attain professional certification in industrial hygiene and allied fields.

Requirements

The Master of Science in occupational and environmental health requires 38–43 s.h. of graduate credit. The degree program is offered with three options—the MS in occupational and environmental health (38 s.h.) without a subprogram, the MS with an agricultural safety and health subprogram (42 s.h.), or the MS with an industrial hygiene subprogram (43 s.h.).

MS Without Subprogram

The Master of Science in occupational and environmental health without a subprogram requires a minimum of 38 s.h. and includes the following coursework. Completion of a thesis is required.

Core Courses

All core courses except OEH:5010, CPH:6100, and CPH:7270 must be taken on an A–F graded basis.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these (16 s.h.):
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3
OEH:5010	Occupational and Environmental Health Seminar (taken three times, twice for 0 s.h. and once for 1 s.h.)	1
OEH:5620	Occupational Health	3
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
CPH:6100	Essentials of Public Health	2
CPH:7270	Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health (taken twice, once for 0 s.h. and once for 1 s.h.)	1
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
6 s.h. from these:
OEH:4310	Occupational Ergonomics: Principles	3
OEH:4510	Injury and Violence Prevention	3
OEH:5410	Occupational Safety	3
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine	3

OEH:6230	Applied Environmental Health	3
OEH:6710	Human Toxicology and Risk Assessment	3

Electives

Students complete 16 s.h. in elective coursework. This may include any occupational and environmental health (prefix OEH), biostatistics (prefix BIOS), community and behavioral health (prefix CBH), epidemiology (prefix EPID), health management and policy (prefix HMP), or college of public health (CPH) course numbered 4000 or above. Students work with an advisor to select courses appropriate for their professional goals, which may include coursework outside the College of Public Health.

Thesis

Completion and acceptance of a master's thesis is required. Students are permitted, but not required, to enroll in OEH:7000 Thesis/Dissertation for a maximum of 6 s.h. and apply it toward the elective requirement.

MS With Agricultural Safety and Health Subprogram

The Master of Science in occupational and environmental health with an agricultural safety and health subprogram requires a minimum of 42 s.h. and includes the following coursework. Completion of a thesis is required. The program prepares students for careers in education, health care, insurance, and agribusiness as specialists in agricultural safety and health.

Core Courses, Agricultural Safety and Health Subprogram

All core courses except OEH:5010, OEH:7040, CPH:6100, and CPH:7270 must be taken on an A–F graded basis.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these (29 s.h.):
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3
CPH:6100	Essentials of Public Health	2
CPH:7270	Principles of Scholarly Integrity: Public Health (taken twice, once for 0 s.h. and once for 1 s.h.)	1
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3
OEH:5010	Occupational and Environmental Health Seminar (taken three times, twice for 0 s.h. and once for 1 s.h.)	1
OEH:5410	Occupational Safety	3
OEH:5620	Occupational Health	3
OEH:6110	Rural Health and Agricultural Medicine	3
OEH:6120	Current Topics in Agriculture and Rural Health (taken three times for 1 s.h. each)	3
OEH:6710	Human Toxicology and Risk Assessment	3
OEH:7040	Preceptorship in Occupational and Environmental Health	1

Electives, Agricultural Safety and Health Subprogram

Students complete 13 s.h. in elective coursework. This may include any occupational and environmental health (prefix OEH), biostatistics (prefix BIOS), community and behavioral health (prefix CBH), epidemiology (prefix EPID), health management and policy (prefix HMP), or college of public health (CPH) course numbered 4000 or above. Students work with an advisor to select courses appropriate for their professional goals, which may include coursework outside the College of Public Health.

Thesis, Agricultural Safety and Health Subprogram

Completion and acceptance of a master's thesis is required. Students are permitted, but not required, to enroll in OEH:7000 Thesis/Dissertation for a maximum of 4 s.h. and apply it toward the elective requirement.

MS With Industrial Hygiene Subprogram

The Master of Science in occupational and environmental health with an industrial hygiene subprogram requires a minimum of 43 s.h. and includes the following coursework.

Students choose either the thesis or nonthesis option. Those who select the thesis option conduct a research project and write a thesis. Those who select the nonthesis option complete an internship. The program prepares students for careers in industrial hygiene as well as the broad field of occupational safety and health. Career opportunities are available in health and safety departments of industries; in consulting firms; in academic institutions; and in local, state, and federal public health agencies.

Core Courses, Industrial Hygiene Subprogram

All core courses except OEH:5010, CPH:6100, and CPH:7270 must be taken on an A–F graded basis.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these (22 s.h.):
BIOS:4120	Introduction to Biostatistics	3

OEH:6520	Injury Epidemiology	3

Electives, Industrial Hygiene Subprogram

Thesis (Research Option)

Students completing a thesis are required to complete 9 s.h. in elective coursework; they are permitted, but not required, to enroll in OEH:7000 Thesis/Dissertation for a maximum of 6 s.h. This may include any occupational and environmental health (prefix OEH), biostatistics (prefix BIOS), community and behavioral health (prefix CBH), epidemiology (prefix EPID), health management and policy (prefix HMP), or college of public health (CPH) course numbered 4000 or above. Students work with their advisor to select courses appropriate for their professional goals, which may include coursework outside the College of Public Health.

Nonthesis (Internship Option)

Students not completing a thesis are required to complete an internship and an internship report. Students enroll in OEH:7050 Occupational and Environmental Health Internship for 3 s.h. Students are required to complete a minimum 150-hour internship.

Students complete an additional 6 s.h. in elective coursework. This may include any occupational and environmental health (prefix OEH), biostatistics (prefix BIOS), community and behavioral health (prefix CBH), epidemiology (prefix EPID), health management and policy (prefix HMP), or college of public health (CPH) course numbered 4000 or above. Students work with an advisor to select courses appropriate for their professional goals, which may include coursework outside the College of Public Health.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS); they also must apply for admission to the Graduate College through University of Iowa Admissions. For detailed application information and admission requirements, visit How to Apply to Occupational and Environmental Health on the department's website.

The occupational and environmental health faculty considers several factors when evaluating applications for admission, including grade-point averages, letters of recommendation, intent and motivation for graduate study, and research interests. Students with deficiencies in one area may be admitted if all other components of their application are very strong.

MS applicants must hold a bachelor's degree and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00. Undergraduate preparation for applicants should include coursework in mathematics, biology, chemistry, and either physical sciences or engineering, depending on the applicant's chosen specialty area.

Students may enter in the fall. May 1 is the final application deadline.

Career Advancement

The program prepares students for professional and academic careers in environmental and occupational health. Graduates will be qualified for a career in a range of private, public, and academic positions; consulting firms; state and federal occupational and environmental agencies; chemical and consumer products areas; pharmaceutical industries; and universities.

Academic Plans

Sample Plans of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Occupational and Environmental Health, PhD

A PhD in occupational and environmental health (OEH) is an advanced research degree that emphasizes depth of knowledge and original research skills. The degree is designed to develop leaders in environmental and occupational health research and practice.

Students work with their faculty advisor to design a specialized curriculum of coursework and research projects in the following areas: agricultural safety and health, environmental health, environmental toxicology, ergonomics, industrial hygiene, and occupational injury prevention.

Learning Outcomes

In addition to mastering the learning outcomes for the MS in occupational and environmental health, PhD students will:

- develop a proposal for grant funding;
- use appropriate analytic methods to interpret data relevant to the field of occupational and environmental health;
- develop a plan to communicate research findings to various audiences;
- design a research study in the field of occupational and environmental health; and
- evaluate the strengths and limitations of peer-reviewed studies in the field of occupational and environmental health.

Requirements

The Doctor of Philosophy program in occupational and environmental health requires 72 s.h. of graduate credit. All students must complete a dissertation.

The Doctor of Philosophy in occupational and environmental health requires the following coursework.

Required Courses

Students may use a course only once to fulfill a requirement.

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these:
OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3
OEH:5010	Occupational and Environmental Health Seminar (taken three times, twice for 0 s.h. and once for 1 s.h.)	1

BIOS:5130	Applied Categorical Data Analysis	3
BIOS:6310	Introductory Longitudinal Data Analysis	3
EPID:6400	Epidemiology II: Advanced Methods	4
STAT:6516	Design of Experiments	3

Electives

Students must earn a minimum of 18 s.h. in non-research-related courses, including classroom courses or equivalent web-based courses. Students work with their advisor to select courses appropriate for their professional goals.

Research Credit

Students earn the remaining credit for the PhD by completing any combination of the following courses or other classroom courses. All students must complete a dissertation.

Course #	Title	Hours
OEH:7000	Thesis/Dissertation	arr.
OEH:7020	Independent Study in Occupational and Environmental Health	arr.

Admission

Applicants must apply through the Schools of Public Health Application Service (SOPHAS); they also must apply for admission to the Graduate College through University of Iowa Admissions. For detailed application information and admission requirements, visit the How to Apply to Occupational and Environmental Health on the department's website.

The occupational and environmental health faculty takes several factors into consideration when evaluating applications for admission, including grade-point averages, letters of recommendation, intent and motivation for graduate study, and research interests. Students with deficiencies in one area may be admitted if all other components of their application are very strong.

PhD applicants must hold a bachelor's degree and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.25. Completion of a master's program before beginning PhD study is recommended.

Students may enter in the fall. May 1 is the final application deadline.

Career Advancement

The program prepares students for professional and academic careers in environmental and occupational health. Graduates will be qualified for a career in a range of private, public, and academic positions; consulting firms; state and federal occupational and environmental agencies; chemical and consumer products areas; pharmaceutical industries; and universities.

Translational and Clinical Investigation, Graduate Certificate

Requirements

The graduate Certificate in Translational and Clinical Investigation requires 17 s.h. of graduate credit and may be completed in one year. Certificate requirements include didactic coursework, clinical research preceptorships, and clinical research seminar participation.

The Department of Epidemiology [p. 2124] and the Institute for Clinical and Translational Science (ICTS) offer the certificate for clinicians who seek advanced training in clinical methodology and applied patient-oriented research skills. The certificate program is open to individuals who hold a doctoral-level degree in a clinical discipline (e.g., MD, DO, DDS, PhD, PharmD, DVM), are practicing academic clinicians, and are admitted as graduate students to the College of Public Health or are enrolled in a basic or health science doctoral program at the University of Iowa. Other admission requirements are similar to those for the MS program in epidemiology.

The Certificate in Translational and Clinical Investigation requires the following coursework.

Website: https://uc.uiowa.edu

University College (UC) is home to a wide range of programs for University of Iowa students and precollege students. The following overviews the many programs that are housed in University College.

Undergraduate Degrees

Two online degree programs, the Bachelor of Applied Studies [p. 2174] (BAS) and the Bachelor of Liberal Studies [p. 2177] (BLS), are administered through University College. Both programs enable students to complete a bachelor's degree through Distance and Online Education [p. 2194]. The BAS, designed for graduates of community college technical programs, provides alternatives to traditional academic majors, permitting students to plan their own emphasis areas in consultation with their advisors. The BLS is an interdisciplinary undergraduate degree program without a traditional academic major; students select a track and work with their advisors to enroll in courses that meet their individual objectives.

Undergraduate Certificates, Minors, Training, and Coursework

The college offers undergraduate Certificates in Clinical and Translational Science [p. 2188], Leadership Studies [p. 2199], and Nonprofit Leadership and Philanthropy [p. 2209]. University College is also home to many undergraduate research opportunities in the science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) fields as well as in microbiology and medical scientist training.

An affiliated program, Lifetime Leisure Skills [p. 2204], offers a broad range of sports and fitness activities, while the Reserve Officer Training Corps programs, Aerospace Studies (Air Force ROTC) [p. 2170], and Military Science (Army ROTC) [p. 2206] prepare undergraduate students for commissions as officers and offer minors. An undergraduate minor is offered in Urban Studies [p. 2243] that allows students to understand and address urban issues. Public Policy [p. 2212] offers a minor so that students are able to analyze public policies and the process of policymaking. In addition, there are major college-level programs such as the University of Iowa Honors Program [p. 2236], Study Abroad, [p. 2215] and Career Center Programs [p. 2185].

Students from the University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa may take courses at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory [p. 2196], and Summer Research Experiences for Undergraduates [p. 2232] develops research skills in students led by UI faculty members.

University College offers courses in the K–12 program University of Iowa Upward Bound [p. 2242].

Student Success and Outreach

Associate Dean: Andrew Beckett

Many University College programs serve the entire undergraduate population (particularly first-year students) and are designed to smooth entering students' transition to college life. Students begin their connection to the University College when they take their first online course, CSI:1600 Success at Iowa, at around the same time they attend orientation. When they arrive on campus, they experience campus life for the first time with the On Iowa! program.

Other programs that promote success include Excelling@Iowa, Tutor Iowa, and the Academic Resource Center (ARC). These direct service programs support students when they need support in their college careers.

Distance and Online Education [p. 2194] combines leading-edge technology and support with nationally recognized faculty to provide the best educational experience possible—online and on location. In partnership with University of Iowa colleges and departments, online and on-location coursework provide degree and certificate opportunities for students looking to complete their degree from a highly ranked public institution. Courses offered through University College are taught by University of Iowa faculty and staff members.

Aerospace Studies (Air Force ROTC)

Director

- Jared J. Sandstrom

Undergraduate minor: aerospace studies

Website: https://veterans.uiowa.edu/air-force-rotc

The Aerospace Studies Program administers the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) at the University of Iowa. AFROTC prepares highly qualified undergraduate students for commissions as officers in the United States Air Force and the United States Space Force.

While AFROTC is structured primarily for students pursuing active-duty Air Force and Space Force commissions, any undergraduate or graduate student may take aerospace studies courses for academic credit, with the exception of the leadership laboratories. The amount of credit that may be applied toward a degree varies from college to college at the University of Iowa. The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, for example, accepts a maximum of 20 s.h. of aerospace studies credit. Additionally, any undergraduate student may apply the courses toward the minor in aerospace studies.

In order to receive a commission, AFROTC cadets must satisfactorily complete all University of Iowa degree requirements as well as courses specified by the U.S. Air Force.

Undergraduate and Graduate Programs

AFROTC offers programs lasting two, three, or four years. Joining early allows students to try AFROTC without obligation and can also provide them with an advantage in the scholarship selection process.

The AFROTC program's three main components are the general military course (GMC), the professional officer course (POC), and the Field Training (FT) program.

General Military Course

The general military course (GMC) consists of one AFROTC course (1 s.h.), physical fitness training, and a leadership laboratory taken each semester for two years. Any student who meets AFROTC qualifications and is in good academic standing is eligible to participate in the GMC. Students normally apply for the GMC up to the time they earn 60 s.h. Students who have earned more than 60 s.h. may enroll in the GMC if they are willing to extend their academic plan by a semester or more.

Professional Officer Course

The professional officer course (POC) consists of one AFROTC course (3 s.h.), physical fitness training, and a leadership laboratory taken each semester for two years. Students accepted into the POC make a commitment to serve a minimum of four years as U.S. Air Force or Space Force officers. To enter the POC, students must be selected to attend and must successfully complete field training. Students generally take the POC during their last 60 s.h.

Field Training

All POC applicants must successfully complete Field Training (FT) at a U.S. Air Force base. Selection to attend FT is competitive; if selected, students experience an intensive, two-week program generally completed the summer after the sophomore year. It provides a first-hand look at the active duty Air Force and Space Force and develops military leadership and discipline. Students participate in junior officer education, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat training, physical fitness training, and expeditionary skills training in a simulated environment. After completing FT, cadets are ready to return to school and assume leadership positions in the AFROTC program.

Activities

Students may compete for acceptance to a variety of optional AFROTC summer training programs. If selected, a student may return to Field Training as a cadet training assistant (CTA), travel to another country for a cultural immersion program, or compete for other Air Force immersion programs as available. The Air Force provides transportation, meals, lodging, and a daily expense allowance for all summer programs.

The AFROTC cadet corps also sponsors community service projects, intramural athletics, and social events, including formal and informal dinners.

Educational Delay

Cadets may request an educational delay to postpone entry to active duty until after completion of an advanced degree or professional training program. Selection for an educational delay is highly competitive.

Financial Aid

In-College Scholarship Program (ICSP)

If a prospective cadet is already in college, they can still experience the benefits of joining AFROTC. Freshman and sophomore students may be eligible for the In-College Scholarship Program (ICSP). The program awards scholarships based on merit during two selection phases (fall and spring semesters). They provide varying awards for tuition and fees, a stipend for books, and a monthly tax-free subsistence allowance. Applicants are selected based on objective and subjective factors. This scholarship does not cover room and board.

General Charles McGee Leadership Award (CMLA)

Cadets who are not already on scholarship and are selected to commission into the Air Force or Space Force are awarded a scholarship that pays $18,000 per year for two years upon successful completion of field training. Any scholarship awardee has the option to convert their award for a $10,000-per-academic-year “housing scholarship” used for on-campus housing. This is for room only; board is not included, and the conversion must begin at the start of the fall academic term if exercised.

All uniforms and required AFROTC textbooks are furnished free of charge.

Courses

Aerospace Studies Courses

AERO:1100 Air Force Heritage and Values I 1 s.h.
Introduction to the United States Air Force and Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC); featured topics include structure of the U.S. Air Force, the Air Force's capabilities, career opportunities, benefits, Air Force installations, core values, leadership, teambuilding, and communication skills. Requirements: first-year or sophomore standing.

AERO:1119 Crosstown Air Force Mentoring 0 s.h.
Mentoring opportunity from an Air Force Officer as needed to provide guidance on the Air Force way of life; for crosstown enrolled Air Force ROTC students. Requirements: crosstown enrollment as AFROTC cadet.

AERO:1150 AFROTC Leadership Laboratory (LLAB) AS 100-FA 1 s.h.
A progression of experiences designed to develop leadership ability; military customs and courtesies, drill and ceremonies, military professional development, the life and work of a junior officer; leadership skills in a practical, supervised military lab setting. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: AERO:1100. Requirements: first-year or sophomore standing.

AERO:1159 Crosstown Air Force ROTC 0 s.h.
A progression of experiences designed to develop leadership ability; military customs and courtesies, drill and ceremonies, and military professional development. Requirements: crosstown enrollment as AFROTC cadet.

AERO:1200 Air Force Heritage and Values II 1 s.h.
Introduction to the United States Air Force (USAF) and Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC); featured topics include evolution of the U.S. Air Force/Air Force history, principles of war/tenets of air power, what the Air Force brings to the joint fight, Department of the Air Force, and Air Force major commands; leadership concepts including ethical decision-making, communication, and professional speaking opportunities. Requirements: first-year or sophomore standing.

AERO:1250 AFROTC Leadership Laboratory (LLAB) AS 100-SP 1 s.h.
A progression of experiences designed to develop leadership ability; military customs and courtesies, drill and ceremonies, military professional development, the life and work of a junior officer; leadership skills in a practical, supervised military lab setting. Offered spring semesters. Corequisites: AERO:1200. Requirements: first-year or sophomore standing.

AERO:2100 Team and Leadership Fundamentals I 1 s.h.
Foundation for leadership and team building; concepts applied in team-building activities and class discussion, including demonstration of basic verbal and written communication; featured topics include listening, followership, and problem solving efficiently.

AERO:2150 AFROTC Leadership Laboratory (LLAB) AS 200-FA 1 s.h.
See AERO:1150. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: AERO:2100.

AERO:2200 Team and Leadership Fundamentals II 1 s.h.
Foundation for leadership and team building; concepts applied in team building activities and class discussion, including demonstration of basic verbal and written communication; featured topics include conflict management, comprehensive airman fitness, and a leadership capstone.

AERO:2250 AFROTC Leadership Laboratory (LLAB) AS 200-SP 1 s.h.
See AERO:1150. Offered spring semesters. Corequisites: AERO:2200.

AERO:3100 Leadership Studies: Leading People and Effective Communication I 3 s.h.
Builds on leadership fundamentals taught in AERO:2100 and AERO:2200; students study leadership and leadership skills to use in their future Air Force environment; profession of arms, communications skills, and ethics; case studies used to examine Air Force leadership situations and demonstrate and exercise practical application of the concepts studied. Requirements: junior or higher standing.

AERO:3150 AFROTC Leadership Laboratory (LLAB) AS 300-FA 1 s.h.
See AERO:1150. Offered fall semesters. Corequisites: AERO:3100.

AERO:3200 Leadership Studies: Leading People and Effective Communication II 3 s.h.
Leadership and leadership skills used in the Air Force environment; continued study of the profession of arms, communication skills, and ethics taught in AERO:3100; creating a vision, mentoring, and other leadership fundamentals; students continue to hone their reading, writing, and speaking skills via several communication studies applications; case studies used to examine Air Force leadership situations, and to demonstrate and exercise practical application of the concepts studied; goal is to instill a more in-depth understanding of how to effectively lead people and organizations. Requirements: junior or higher standing.

AERO:3250 AFROTC Leadership Laboratory (LLAB) AS 300-SP 1 s.h.
See AERO:1150. Offered spring semesters. Corequisites: AERO:3200.

AERO:4100 National Security/Leadership Responsibilities and Commissioning Preparation I 3 s.h.
Introduction to the national security process, regional studies, advanced leadership ethics, and Air Force doctrine; focus specifically on current Air Force organization, leadership, and practical knowledge needed for a student's future as an Air Force officer; students improve oral and written communication skills and delve into military professionalism and ethics. See AERO:1150. Offered spring semesters. Corequisites: AERO:4200.

Aerospace Studies, Minor

Requirements

The undergraduate minor in aerospace studies requires a minimum of 16 s.h. in aerospace studies program courses. Students must maintain a grade-point average of at least 2.50 in all courses for the minor and in all UI courses for the minor. Coursework in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass. In order to count transfer coursework taken at other institutions toward the minor, students must have approval from the director of the Aerospace Studies Program.

The minor in aerospace studies requires the following coursework.

Bachelor of Applied Studies

Associate Dean

- Andrew Beckett

Program Director

- Dawn Freerks

Undergraduate major: BAS

Website: https://basbls.uc.uiowa.edu/degree-requirements/bachelor-applied-studies

The Bachelor of Applied Studies (BAS) is designed for graduates of community colleges who wish to complete a bachelor's degree through online education. The degree may be completed completely online or through a combination of on-site and online coursework. Students may earn credit toward the degree with a selection of several types of courses, including semester-based online courses, on-site courses at off-campus locations throughout Iowa, and regular-session on-campus courses.

The BAS is a general undergraduate degree without a traditional academic major. Students can design an individual program or select from four optional emphasis areas: creative writing, human relations, justice studies, and political science. BAS students may complete multiple emphasis areas and earn undergraduate minors and certificates offered by the University of Iowa. They may not enroll in a second college at the University of Iowa while completing the BAS degree.

Working with their academic advisors, BAS students may plan programs designed to advance their careers, begin new careers, or prepare for graduate or professional study. Students who have specific career goals or advanced degree programs in mind should determine what educational background they will need in order to achieve their goals, and they should include appropriate coursework in their BAS programs.

The BAS is awarded by University College [p. 2168] and is administered by Distance and Online Education [p. 2194].

Bachelor of Applied Studies, BAS

Requirements

The Bachelor of Applied Studies requires a minimum of 120 s.h. and is intended to be completed entirely by distance education. Students must maintain a cumulative grade-point average of 2.00 or higher in all coursework attempted, all coursework taken at the University of Iowa, and all upper-level coursework.

After admission to the University of Iowa, one of the following residence requirements must be met—at least 90 s.h. completed at the University of Iowa, or 45 of the final 60 s.h. completed at the University of Iowa, or the final 30 s.h. completed at the University of Iowa.

Students must earn at least 60 s.h. of the minimum 120 s.h. required for the degree at four-year colleges, including 45 s.h. in upper-level coursework. University of Iowa upper-level courses are numbered from 3000 to 4999. Some courses numbered below 3000 may be considered upper level for the BAS; for details, see BAS Upper-Level Coursework on the Bachelor of Applied Studies website.

Students must also complete the following core requirements and a set of distribution areas; see BAS Core Requirements and Distribution Areas on the Bachelor of Applied Studies website for more information.

Core Requirements

Requirements	Hours
Rhetoric coursework equivalent to composition II and speech
Quantitative or formal reasoning	3
Social sciences	3
Values and society	3
Business/management	6

Distribution Areas

Students must complete 12 s.h. in three of the following five distribution areas (total of 36 s.h.). In each distribution area, 6 of the required 12 s.h. must be earned in upper-level courses.

Requirements	Hours
Communication and arts (e.g., journalism, communication studies, creative writing, art, music)
Humanities (e.g., literature, history, philosophy, religion)
Natural sciences and mathematics (e.g., mathematics, biology, statistics, computer science)
Professional fields (e.g., business, education, nursing, social work, aging and longevity studies)
Social sciences (e.g., sociology, psychology, economics, political science, anthropology)

All University College policies regarding grading, course drops, withdrawals, academic standards, and so forth apply to BAS students. For more information, see Taking University College Courses on the University College website.

Optional Emphasis Area

Students may include an emphasis area in their BAS program.

Admission

Individuals who wish to earn a BAS must apply for admission to the program by completing an application through Admissions. Additional information on the BAS program may be found on the Bachelor of Applied Studies website.

Applicants to the BAS program must have earned an associate degree from a regionally accredited institution. They must have a minimum of 60 s.h. of approved transfer credit. There is no limit on the amount of career-technical credit accepted as a part of the 60 s.h. of approved transfer credit.

Students who have an AA degree from a two-year institution participating in articulation agreements with the University of Iowa are considered to have satisfied the BAS core requirements, except for the business/management courses. Additional information on articulation agreements can be found on the Admissions website.

Applicants who graduated from an Iowa community college or Waldorf College must have a cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.00; those who graduated from Black Hawk College in Illinois must have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.25; those who graduated from other institutions outside Iowa must have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.50.

Undergraduate major: BLS

Website: https://basbls.uc.uiowa.edu/degree-requirements/bachelor-liberal-studies

The Bachelor of Liberal Studies (BLS) is designed for students who have earned college credit at a regionally accredited institution and would like to complete a bachelor's degree by online education. The degree may be completed completely online or through a combination of on-site and online coursework. Students may earn credit toward the degree with a selection of several types of courses, including semester-based online courses, off-campus courses at sites throughout Iowa, and regular session on-campus courses.

The BLS emphasizes workplace and leadership skills. Students must select at least one track from the following six options: expression in writing and arts; family, community, and social support; global studies; health and human studies; justice and ethics; and organizational studies. BLS students may complete multiple tracks and earn undergraduate minors and certificates offered by the University of Iowa. They may not enroll in a second college at the University of Iowa while completing the BLS degree.

The BLS is awarded by University College and is administered by Distance and Online Education [p. 2194].

Bachelor of Liberal Studies, BLS

Requirements

The Bachelor of Liberal Studies (BLS) requires a minimum of 120 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a grade-point average of at least 2.00 in all coursework for the degree, all University of Iowa coursework, and all coursework for the BLS track.

After admission to the University of Iowa, one of the following residence requirements must be met—at least 90 s.h. completed at the University of Iowa, or 45 of the final 60 s.h. completed at the University of Iowa, or the final 30 s.h. completed at the University of Iowa.

Students must earn at least 60 s.h. of the minimum 120 s.h. required for the degree at four-year colleges, including 30 s.h. in upper-level coursework. University of Iowa upper-level courses are numbered from 3000 to 4999.

BLS students must complete a required set of common core courses and a BLS track, as part of the total number of semester hours required for the degree. Students select at least one track from six options: expression in writing and arts; family, community, and social support; global studies; health and human studies; justice and ethics; and organizational studies. Students may complete more than one track.

All University College policies regarding grading, course drops, withdrawals, academic standards, and so forth apply to BLS students. For more information, see the For Students section on the University College website.

The following coursework is required for all BLS students.

BLS Common Core

Common core courses develop fundamental skills in writing, critical thinking, information literacy, and leadership and give students the opportunity to explore ideas from multiple perspectives.

Some courses in the common core are part of the General Education College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Core (GE CLAS Core). Students should contact the BLS advisor for information about additional courses that will fulfill their common core requirements.

Rhetoric

Rhetoric courses develop speaking, writing, listening, and critical reading skills and build competence in research, analysis, and argumentation. Each entering student's degree audit shows the course(s) that must be completed in order to fulfill the rhetoric requirement.

Courses approved for the Rhetoric area of the GE CLAS Core satisfy the BLS rhetoric requirement.

Course #	Title	Hours
RHET:1030	Rhetoric: Writing and Communication	4-5

Students who have transfer credit in composition, speech, and argumentation may instead be held to one of the following.

Course #	Title	Hours
RHET:1040	College Writing and Reading	3
RHET:1060	College Communication and Reading	3

Students should contact a BLS advisor if they have questions about which rhetoric course they may need to fulfill this requirement.

Find Rhetoric courses offered by distance education on MyUI.

Interpretation of Literature

Courses in the Interpretation of Literature area focus on the major genres of literature (short and long fiction, nonfiction, poetry, and drama), improving students' abilities to read and analyze a variety of texts. Small group discussions in these courses challenge students to think critically, share insights, and listen thoughtfully to the arguments of others.

Students must complete one approved course (3 s.h.) in this area. They may use any 3 s.h. course approved for the Interpretation of Literature area of the GE CLAS Core.

Find Interpretation of Literature courses offered by distance education on MyUI.

Natural Sciences

Courses in the Natural Sciences area explore the scope and major concepts of a scientific discipline. Students learn the attitudes and practices of scientific investigators: logic, precision, experimentation, tentativeness, and objectivity.

Students must complete one approved course (3 s.h.) in this area. They may use any 3 s.h. course approved for the Natural Sciences area of the GE CLAS Core.

Find Natural Sciences courses offered by distance education on MyUI.

International and Global Issues

Courses in the International and Global Issues area focus predominantly on countries or issues outside the United States, encouraging students to understand contemporary issues from an international perspective. Students develop knowledge of one or more contemporary global or international issues, gain a greater awareness of varied international perspectives, and improve their skills of analysis and critical inquiry.

Students must complete one approved course (3 s.h.) in this area. They may use any 3 s.h. course approved for the International and Global Issues area of the GE CLAS Core.

International and Global Issues Requirement and Military Overseas Service

BLS students who have or are serving in the military and have been deployed overseas may have the International and Global Issues (IGI) requirement satisfied by military service if such service is noted on the Veteran’s DD-214 form. DD-214 forms should be submitted to the University College Academic Standards Committee [uc-asc@uiowa.edu]. The IGI requirement is satisfied by overseas service, but no credit is awarded and there is no reduction in the hours needed for graduation.

Find International and Global Issues courses offered by distance education on MyUI.

Values and Society

Courses in the Values and Society area focus on how culture shapes the human experience and the role of values in society, with students asking fundamental questions regarding the human experience while exploring their own values and beliefs. They may use any 3 s.h. course approved for the Values and Society area of the GE CLAS Core.

Find Values and Society courses offered by distance education on MyUI.

Students may also use one of the following distance education courses, which are not part of the GE CLAS Core, to satisfy the BLS Values and Society requirement.

Admission

Individuals who would like to earn the Bachelor of Liberal Studies degree must apply for admission to the program.

Applicants to the BLS program must meet one of the following sets of requirements:

- they must have at least 24 s.h. of graded college-level transfer credit with a grade-point average (GPA) of 2.00 or higher; or
- they must hold an associate degree with a GPA of 2.00 or higher in all college-level transfer credit.

Career Center Programs

Director

- Angi McKie

Website: https://careers.uiowa.edu/

The University of Iowa Marvin A. and Rose Lee Pomerantz Career Center administers the university's Career Center Programs. Students may use the Pomerantz Career Center's services at any time during their academic careers. The center encourages entering first-year and transfer students to visit after they arrive on campus and to make use of all of the center's services throughout their studies at Iowa.

The center offers tailored professional career coaching for students who are deciding on majors that connect with career interests, résumé and cover letter help, job and internship strategies, ways to gain hands-on experience, interview strategies, preparing for graduate school, and other career-related topics. Students also can drop in daily for assistance from career peer advisors. Workshops and programs are presented to students across campus on career and professional development-related topics each semester.

Academic courses in career-related topics, such as career exploration and job search skills, are available each semester for academic credit ranging from 1–3 s.h. per course. See the following section, "Professional Development Courses," for more information. Other courses are offered through the Leadership Studies Program [p. 2199].

The center hosts several career fairs and events each fall and spring, offering students the opportunity to talk with and learn about prospective employers.

The Pomerantz Career Center facilitates job and internship interviewing with a wide range of employers: regional, national, and international; profit and nonprofit; state and federal government. Employers conduct on-campus and virtual interviews at specific times during the year, and many post immediate openings year-round for internships and for full-time positions. On-campus recruiting and job, internship, and student employment postings are available online; visit Handshake on the Pomerantz Career Center website.

The center helps students find internships in Iowa, the Midwest, nationwide, and sometimes in other countries. For internship course options through the Career Center, see Courses in this section of the catalog.

For more information about the center's services and facilities, contact the Pomerantz Career Center.

Professional Development Courses

Professional development courses give students the opportunity to engage in practical, hands-on, skills-based instruction relevant to careers and leadership development. The topics and curricula for the following courses incorporate input from employers, who were surveyed about their experiences, real-world examples, guidance, and the skills they most often seek when hiring new graduates.

CCP:1005 Internship in Liberal Arts and Sciences 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships.

CCP:1006 Internship in Business 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships.

CCP:1007 Internship in Education 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships. Requirements: admission to Teacher Education Program for undergraduates.

CCP:1010 Internship in Nursing 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships. Requirements: admission to College of Nursing.

CCP:1015 Internship 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships.

CCP:1017 Winterim Externship 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience for career exploration; externships are shorter in duration and can include job shadowing, small projects, and informational meetings under the mentorship of a supervising professional; experiential education course that provides students with an opportunity to expand on their externship by reflecting on their experience through a self-assessment and evaluation; does not meet the Tippie RISE requirement for business students or CPT/Academic Training requirements for students on an F-1 or J-1 visa.

CCP:1018 Hawkeye Experience Grant 0 s.h.
Opportunity to expand on internship, research/creative scholarship, service, or community-engagement experience by developing learning objectives, reflecting on experience, and networking with fellow awardees; students relate experiences to academic coursework and career goals; for students who have been awarded the Hawkeye Experience Grant. Requirements: Hawkeye Experience Grant awarded for the semester of registration, and at least 50 s.h. of university credit earned prior to this semester.

CCP:1091 Internship in Law 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships.

CCP:1170 Internship in Public Health 0 s.h.
Recognition of practical work experience and internships. Requirements: admission to the College of Public Health.

CCP:1201 Academic Internship 1-3 s.h.
Opportunity for students to expand on internship experiences by developing learning objectives and reflecting on experience; how internship experience relates to academic coursework and future career goals. Prerequisites: a minimum g.p.a. of 2.00. Requirements: secured internship, cumulative GPA of at least 2.00, and completion of 24 s.h. of UI coursework (12 s.h. for transfer students).

CCP:1300 Major and Career Explorations 1 s.h.
Helps students identify their interests, skills, and values relative to majors and careers; self-assessment, informational interviews, research on majors and careers.

CCP:1301 Communication for the Workplace 1 s.h.
How effective verbal and written communication is utilized in the workplace; how email and social media communication is used at work; appropriate ways to utilize assertiveness skills; development of refined presentation skills necessary for the workplace; hands-on, skills-based learning environment. Requirements: sophomore or higher standing.

CCP:1302 Office Etiquette for the Workplace 1 s.h.
How professionalism and work ethic is demonstrated in the workplace; time management and organization skills relevant to full-time employment; succeeding in multigenerational workplaces; hands-on, skills-based learning environment. Requirements: sophomore or higher standing.

CCP:1303 Successful Teamwork for the Workplace 1 s.h.
Demonstration of problem solving and self-awareness skills relevant to the workplace; application of listening and critical thinking skills; how to perform with a global mindset in the workplace; hands-on, skills-based learning environment. Requirements: sophomore or higher standing.

CCP:1306 Student Employment for Career Success 2 s.h.
All-in-one assistance with career and professional preparation, relevant across all degree programs and academic years. Using current work experience (on or off campus) as the foundation, topics include the impact of student employment on future employability, strategies for proactive job or graduate school searching and networking, résumé and cover letter writing to stand out to employers, interview preparation and execution, and personal branding. Requirements: concurrent student employment, on- or off-campus.

CCP:2001 Graduate Admissions 101 1 s.h.
Preparation for graduate school application and admissions process; graduate entrance examinations, how to select a graduate program, graduate school applications and personal statements, securing a graduate assistantship, and graduate school interviews. Recommendations: junior standing or one-to-two years before start of graduate school for an intentional and less stressful application process.

CCP:2004 Internships: Search, Secure, and Succeed 1 s.h.
Types of internships; how to find and succeed at an internship; identifying internship priorities; creating résumés; interviewing skills; successful networking; tips for professionalism.

CCP:2005 Pursuing Purpose: Preparing for Experiential Education 1 s.h.
Preparation for students to find and apply for experiential education opportunities that fit their interests, strengths, abilities, and values—pursuing career development purposefully; experiential education may include internships, co-ops, service learning, employment, study abroad, research, and practicums; ways that students can experience areas of career that allow for exploration and development of future career goals.

CCP:2020 Washington Center Internship Program arr.
Internship placements for all UI majors; sample internships include United Way Worldwide, U.S. Department of Education, Federal Trade Commission, Financial Services Roundtable, Congressional offices, Urban Institute, Pan American Health Organization, U.S. Department of the Interior, Peace Corps, C-SPAN, Voice of America, U.S. Marshals Service, Federal courts, and law offices; in addition to the internship, program includes the LEAD Colloquium (Leadership, Civic Engagement, Achievement, and Career Development), an academic course with professional networking, participation in Presidential Lecture Series, and Congressional Breakfast Series.

CCP:2021 Washington Center Seminar arr.
Combined classroom instruction, faculty-led discussions, and experiential work opportunities; usually offered in Washington, D.C., occasionally at other locations tied to an event (e.g., political convention); one or two weeks.

CCP:2202 International Student Full-Time Academic Internship 9 s.h.
Academic credit for full time internship (minimum of 40 hours per week) that relates to student's major field. Requirements: occupies an academic term (fall or spring) and must participate in the internship and the course during the same semester, F-1 or J-1 visa international student, undergraduate standing in the Tippie College of Business, minimum 3.00 GPA, must be approved by International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS) for F-1 Curricular Practical Training (CPT) or J-1 Academic Training (AT), and concurrent registration in approved singular 3 s.h. distance education course to reach full-time (12 s.h.) student standing.

CCP:3102 Job Search Essentials 1-3 s.h.
Essential skills for finding full-time employment; creating and polishing a résumé, techniques for interviewing and networking, and developing a personal job search plan; for students thinking about graduation and wanting to get serious about a job search. Recommendations: junior or higher standing.

CCP:3103 MoneyWise 1-2 s.h.
Basics of personal finance for success at work and in life; savings, debt, mortgages, loans, employer benefits, insurance and student loans; may include investment basics (e.g., stocks, bonds, mutual funds, 401Ks, IRAs).

Undergraduate certificate: clinical and translational science

Website: https://icts.uiowa.edu/undergraduate-certificate-clinical-and-translational-science

Translational science focuses on applying biomedical discoveries to health care. It requires team-based interdisciplinary approaches to move research-generated discoveries into clinical trials and to facilitate the adoption of best practices in clinical and community settings. Investigators in translational science understand the principles involved in foundational research and how such research relates to epidemiology, behavioral medicine, and patient-oriented research.

Opportunities for training in translational science are available through graduate and professional study in medicine, public health, nursing, dentistry, pharmacy, and other allied health professions, including biostatistics, behavioral medicine, clinical pharmacology, and epidemiology.

The certificate program in clinical and translational science provides undergraduates with opportunities to connect their research activities to translational science and begin training in the discipline.

The Certificate in Clinical and Translational Science is presented by the Institute for Clinical and Translational Science and Iowa Sciences Academy; it is administered by University College.

Clinical and Translational Science, Certificate

Requirements

The undergraduate Certificate in Clinical and Translational Science requires 16 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a grade-point average of at least 3.00 in the certificate's core courses. Work for the certificate includes core courses and electives. Students must complete all coursework for the certificate within three years of entering the program.

The Certificate in Clinical and Translational Science requires the following coursework.

Core Courses

Course #	Title	Hours
All of these (10 s.h.):
EPID:4400	Epidemiology I: Principles	3
STAT:3510/ IGPI:3510	Biostatistics (or an equivalent course)	3
URES:3001	Introduction to Translational Research (must take EPID:4400 before or at the same time as this course)	2
URES:3002	Practicum in Clinical and Translational Science (capstone course; must take URES:3001 before this course)	2

Electives

Students must earn a total of 6 s.h. in courses chosen from the following lists.

OEH:4240	Global Environmental Health	3

Admission

Admission to the certificate program is selective. Applicants must fulfill the following requirements by the end of the semester in which they apply:

- have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.00;
- have earned a minimum of 45 s.h. of college-level credit;
- have been engaged in mentored scientific research at the University of Iowa;
- have completed BIOL:1411 Foundations of Biology or BIOL:1141 Human Biology: Health Professions; and
- have completed MATH:1460 Calculus for the Biological Sciences or MATH:1550 Engineering Calculus I or MATH:1850 Calculus I.

Application

Interested students should apply through the certificate program's student application system. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis and are reviewed by the Certificate in Clinical and Translational Science steering committee. Students will receive an email after an admissions decision has been made. Consult the Undergraduate Certificate in Clinical and Translational Science website for more information.

Applications should include the following:

- a description of the student's undergraduate research (maximum of 1,000 words), including the approximate number of hours per week the student spends conducting this research and the name and email address of the student's research mentor;
- a personal statement outlining the student's professional and career goals;
- a copy of the student's grade report from MyUI; and
- a letter of recommendation from the student's research mentor.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

College Success Initiatives

Coordinator

- Maureen M. Schafer

College Success Initiatives (CSI) courses are designed to support new first year and transfer students in their transition to the University of Iowa. In addition, CSI courses enrich students' experiences, develop their academic skills, and prepare them for college-level learning.

College Success Initiatives courses are administered by the associate provost for undergraduate education through the Academic Advising Center and University College.

Undergraduate Program

The Iowa Edge

The Iowa Edge Program strives to cultivate a community of leaders and future professionals among all students, including transfer and first-generation college students. The program achieves this by connecting participants with faculty and staff, campus resources, and transformative career and leadership development activities. Participants are connected with a peer leader who is trained to help students with their transition to the University of Iowa.

Courses

College Success Initiatives Courses

CSI:1010 Kirkwood Joint Admission Program 0 s.h.
Requirements: enrollment in the Kirkwood Joint Admission program.

CSI:1015 Living Learning Community Seminar 1 s.h.
Provides participants an opportunity to reflect on their transition to the University of Iowa, engage with fellow students, and learn about campus resources. Requirements: placement in a living learning community.

CSI:1020 Academic Seminar I 3 s.h.
Development of knowledge and skills essential for academic success at college level; reading, writing, and communication skills; focus on reading comprehension, class discussion, and development of writing process; various narratives including published collections of essays and peers' texts; writing process and techniques, and components that bring each piece together. Requirements: IowaLink participant.

CSI:1021 Academic Seminar II 3 s.h.
Continued development of knowledge and skills necessary for academic success; reading, writing, and communication skills; experimentation with ethnographic research methods, exploration of cultures and subcultures; writing about findings in various experimental forms, using as a model, short ethnographic essays, excerpts from a graphic novel; focus on reading comprehension strategies, class discussion, and development of writing process. Requirements: IowaLink participant. Recommendations: CSI:1020.

CSI:1100 College Transition Seminar 1 s.h.
College culture, University of Iowa resources, refinement of study skills, test taking, identification of personal values, self-motivation, goal setting; taught in small sections with emphasis on classroom discussion. Requirements: entering first-year student.

CSI:1110 College Transition for Pre-Health: Seminar I 1 s.h.
Explores the skills, values, and mindsets that are important in healthcare professions and how to cultivate them in college; identify and strengthen study skills and strategies for success in pre-health coursework and explore how healthcare professionals confront complex problems that have several possible answers; identify personal values, engage in meaningful extracurricular activities, explore personal interests and how they relate to career goals, and hone academic/study skills; first in a two-course series. Corequisites: CSI:1160 and CHEM:1070.

CSI:1115 College Transition for Pre-Health: Seminar II 1 s.h.
Explores the skills, values, and mindsets that are important in healthcare professions and how to cultivate them in college; identify and strengthen study skills and strategies for success in pre-health coursework and explore how healthcare professionals confront complex problems that have several possible answers; identify personal values, engage in meaningful extracurricular activities, explore personal interests and how they relate to career goals, and hone academic/study skills. Corequisites: CSI:1165 and CHEM:1110.

CSI:1150 College Transition Workshop 1 s.h.
Preparation for affiliated lecture course; practical context to apply, evaluate, and refine study skills strategies explored in CSI:1100; expand study strategies, enhance grasp of affiliated course material, and apply study skills to future coursework. Corequisites: CSI:1100. Requirements: concurrent enrollment in a CIC affiliated lecture course.

CSI:1160 College Transition for Pre-Health: Workshop I 1 s.h.
Facilitated group study for connected anchor course; workshop setting to apply, evaluate, and develop study skills explored in CSI:1110; deepen grasp of connected anchor course material; expand and refine study strategies; apply study skills to future coursework and academic/professional goals. Corequisites: CSI:1110 and CHEM:1070.

CSI:1165 College Transition for Pre-Health: Workshop II 1 s.h.
Facilitated group study for connected anchor course; workshop setting to apply, evaluate, and develop study skills explored in CSI:1115; deepen grasp of connected anchor course material; expand and refine study strategies; apply study skills to future coursework and academic/professional goals.

CSI:1180 College Transition 1 s.h.
College culture, University of Iowa resources, refinement of study skills, test taking, identification of personal values, self-motivation, goal setting; taught in small sections with emphasis on classroom discussion.

CSI:1200 First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Introduction to the intellectual life of the university; opportunity to work closely with a faculty member or senior administrator; active participation that eases the transition to college-level learning.

CSI:1210 Peer Led Undergraduate Study (PLUS) 0 s.h.
Peer guided and facilitated academic support focusing on quantitative problem-solving skills; students discuss course material, address multiple course concepts, and develop tools and skills for effective study habits. Corequisites: CHEM:1070 and MATH:1005.

CSI:1213 Special Topics I 0-6 s.h.
Special topics offered through University College.

CSI:1214 Special Topics II 0-6 s.h.
Special topics offered through University College.

CSI:1270 Strategies for Veteran Success 1 s.h.
Promotion of academic success, improve retention of student veterans, and assist in cultivating a systematic approach to career planning and decision-making; primary focus on available resources, identification of individual goals and strengths, development and application of study skills and time management strategies, and problem solving related to personal issues or barriers that could impede student transition and academic performance; for student veterans and service members in academic transition from active duty military or guard/reserve status to the University of Iowa. Requirements: veteran status.

CSI:1280 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step I 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; first in a series of courses.

CSI:1281 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step I 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; second in a series of courses.

CSI:1290 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step II 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; third in a series of courses.

CSI:1291 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step II 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; fourth in a series of courses.

CSI:1380 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step III 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; fifth in a series of courses.

CSI:1381 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step III 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; sixth in a series of courses.

CSI:1390 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step IV 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; seventh in a series of courses.

CSI:1391 Steps to Success for TRIO: Step IV 1 s.h.
Learning about and adjusting to the University of Iowa for TRIO Student Support Services (SSS) students; eighth in a series of courses.

CSI:1400 The Three Ms: Strategies for Success in College and Beyond 2 s.h.
Introduction to the Three Ms for Effective Learning (mindset, metacognition, and memory) and the practical tools to apply these concepts and achieve goals in college and beyond.

CSI:1410 Life Design 2 s.h.
Students discover what they are innately drawn to do through readings, activities, and reflective writing; integration of worldview and professional life; practical skills and exercises for investigating different career paths; cultivating mentors; relationship between ambition, drive, and the value of creating a meaningful life.

CSI:1420 Life Design II: A Better World 2 s.h.
Once you start unraveling who you are, the next matter becomes what world do you want to live in? Readings, structured experiments, and written reflections provide generalizable knowledge about the science of empathy, passion, and perseverance; students apply these insights to efforts "bigger than themselves" and a deliberate path to become agents of social and environmental change.

CSI:1450 Explore Iowa Colloquium 3 s.h.
Opportunities for peer mentors involved in CSI:1400; activities include short readings and media screenings related to innovative and best practices in learning and teaching; emphasis on multimodal writing online for peers; informal presentations and reflections; may include work with Passport Projects students, collaboration on development of guidelines and handouts for best practices in writing, and supplemental writing reflections.

CSI:1460 Athletic Transition Seminar 1 s.h.
Focus on the comprehensive development of UI student-athletes through the Hawkeye Life Program pillars of leadership, community engagement, academic success, career development, and health and wellbeing).

CSI:1500 College Success Seminar 1 s.h.
Skills, habits, and mindsets essential for college success: goal setting, motivation, resiliency, time management, preparing for exams, working with instructors, and using campus resources including academic advisors, the Pomerantz Career Center, and University Counseling Service; emphasis on class participation and completion of assignments related to course topics. Requirements: selected students with first-year standing in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

CSI:1550 Strategies for Academic Success 1 s.h.
Designed for second-year students; focus on academic strategies to help students improve their academic performance; topics include organization, goal setting, motivation, time management, study skills, test preparation, and campus resources; requires class participation and completion of assignments related to course topics. Requirements: second-year standing in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and no prior credit earned for CSI:1500.

CSI:1600 Success at Iowa 0-1 s.h.
Online course designed to help students transition successfully to the University of Iowa; required of all new undergraduate first-year and transfer students.

CSI:2010 Undergraduate Engagement Corps Grant 0 s.h.
Builds on the foundations of community engagement; provides support and reflection space for students implementing community-engaged projects with UEC grant funding. Requirements: selection as an Undergraduate Engagement Corps Grant awardee.

CSI:2021 First Gen Hawks Seminar 1 s.h.
Opportunity to be part of a class planned specifically for First Gen Hawks; students connect with the UI in a meaningful way through one of three learning track areas—civic engagement and leadership, on-campus student employment, or undergraduate research; course format includes small class size with lots of classroom discussion; assignments emphasize self-reflection; content areas equip students with information and skills they need to thrive at the University of Iowa. Requirements: participation in First Gen Hawks program.

CSI:2100 The Transfer Transition 1 s.h.
Adjustment to university life and academics; strategies for academic success including study and test-taking skills, time management, utilization of campus resources for success in courses; planning a major and learning about Career Center services; exposure to university culture; opportunities to reflect on adjustment to the university. Requirements: entering transfer student standing.

CSI:2150 Open Minded 1 s.h.
Focus on self-reflection and use of resources to research majors; topics include values, strengths, goals, identity, managing uncertainty, critical reading and thinking skills, recognizing transferable skills cultivated by majors; class participation and assignments related to course topics; for students with open majors.

CSI:3000 The Hawkeye Life Experience: Life After Sport 1 s.h.
Prepares student-athletes for transitioning out of college and into life after sport. Explore topics such as professional development, athletic identity, strength, conditioning, and nutrition in life after sport, and post-graduate financial literacy. With a hands-on approach, participants leave class with a better understanding of how to navigate today's professional world.

Distance and Online Education

Associate Dean

- Andrew Beckett

Website: https://distance.uiowa.edu/

Distance and Online Education (DOE) increases access to the services and resources at the University of Iowa to students and other constituents across the state. In partnership with the university's colleges and departments, DOE provides high-quality credit coursework, degrees, and certificate programs to traditional and nontraditional learners. Using a variety of locations, schedules, and technologies, DOE helps provide a University of Iowa learning environment beyond the physical borders of the Iowa City campus. In addition, many on-campus students enjoy the flexibility that online coursework affords them. Courses offered through Distance and Online Education are taught by University of Iowa faculty and staff members.

Programs of Study Online or on Location in Iowa

There are over 100 undergraduate, graduate, and professional degrees and certificates available either online or on location in Iowa. DOE consistently offers support for over 700 online or on-location courses during the academic year.

For additional information on a particular program, see the program finder on the DOE website.

Resource Centers

Distance and Online Education partners with resource centers across the state of Iowa. The primary goal of the centers is to increase access to high-quality undergraduate and graduate educational opportunities for students in the region where they live. These opportunities are delivered in a variety of formats including online and on location. Community partnerships also have been created through the centers which further benefit Iowans.

Western Iowa Regents Resource Center

Director: Steve Warnstadt
Website: https://wirrc.org

Western Iowa Regents Resource Center (WIRRC) works with community colleges in their service areas to provide access to quality education to students in western Iowa. Offices are located in Council Bluffs, Sioux City, and Sheldon. Coursework and degree programs are provided by the three state universities.

Iowa Lakeside Laboratory and Regents Resource Center

Executive Director: Mary P. Skopec
Website: https://iowalakesidelab.org

This center is located near Milford, Iowa, on scenic West Okoboji Lake on Little Miller’s Bay. Iowa Lakeside Laboratory is a field station run cooperatively by the University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa, and administered by the University of Iowa. The laboratory offers summer courses and research opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students. Courses focus on the ecology, taxonomy, and conservation of northern plains animals, plants, microorganisms, and ecosystems.

Des Moines Programs

Contact: Rayf Schmidt

Website: https://desmoines.uiowa.edu

The Master of Social Work (MSW) program, graduate degrees, and certificates are offered at the John and Mary Pappajohn Education Center (JMPEC), located in downtown Des Moines, Iowa. Close to many corporate businesses and government offices, JMPEC is an ideal location for a variety of students who want to further their education.

Associated Courses

Students who are members of University of Iowa intercollegiate athletics teams may register for CSI:1460 Athletic Transition Seminar and CSI:3000 The Hawkeye Life Experience: Life After Sport.

First-year student-athletes who enroll in CSI:1460 Athletic Transition Seminar receive 1 s.h. of graded credit. This eight week course provides new student-athletes with an overview of the Iowa athletics department, Hawkeye Life student development programs, and campus resources.

Continuing students may enroll in CSI:3000 The Hawkeye Life Experience: Life After Sport and receive 1 s.h. of credit, graded on an S/F basis. This eight week seminar is designed to prepare student-athletes for their transition out of collegiate athletics and life after sport.

Registration for CSI:1460 and CSI:3000 requires permission from Student-Athlete Academic Services. Members of University of Iowa sport clubs are not eligible to enroll.

Website: https://iowalakesidelab.org/

Iowa Lakeside Laboratory is a field station run cooperatively by the University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa. Students at all three institutions, as well as visiting students, nationally and internationally, may take Iowa Lakeside Laboratory courses for credit through their home institution.

Iowa Lakeside Laboratory was established in 1909 for the conservation and study of the rich flora and fauna of northwest Iowa, especially the numerous lakes, wetlands, and prairies of the Iowa Great Lakes region. The campus is located on approximately 140 acres of restored prairie, wetland, and gallery forest along the west shore of West Okoboji Lake. Teaching and research facilities include eight laboratory buildings, a library, and a lecture hall. Living accommodations include cottages, motel-style units, and a large mess hall. All students are encouraged to stay at Lakeside while they are taking courses to derive full advantage of its educational, professional, and social life.

Mission

Lakeside's mission is to provide undergraduate and graduate students an opportunity for hands-on experience in a variety of natural and human environments through its field-oriented courses and to provide research facilities and support for graduate students and faculty members working on research projects in northwestern Iowa.

Summer Session

Each summer Iowa Lakeside Laboratory offers students a unique educational experience—small, inquiry-based, full-immersion, field-oriented courses in the natural sciences (archaeology, biology, botany, ecology, hydrology, soils, zoology) and related areas, such as environmental sciences, environmental humanities, sustainability, and the health sciences. Courses are taught at the sophomore/junior level and the senior/graduate level. Enrollment usually is limited to 10 or fewer students per course. Most courses meet all day Monday through Friday, last up to four weeks, and offer 1 s.h. of credit for each week (40 clock hours) in class. One- and two-week courses are also available, including courses designed especially for teachers and professionals.

Not all courses are offered every year; visit the Course Catalog on the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory website or consult summer course offerings at the University of Iowa or the other public universities in Iowa to learn which courses will be offered during a particular summer session. Students should check with their advisors to determine whether specific courses count toward requirements for their majors or minors or toward other requirements.

Research

Research projects by undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty members can be completed either on the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory campus or at many nearby natural areas. Undergraduate and graduate students are strongly encouraged to work on independent projects at the laboratory, and graduate students are welcome to use Lakeside as a base for their thesis and dissertation research. Laboratory space and other facilities are available for long- or short-term research projects.

Registration

Students may enroll in Iowa Lakeside Laboratory courses by submitting an online registration and housing form on the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory website. Information about scholarships, tuition, and housing can also be found on this website under the Student Resources section.

Registration usually opens in early January. Enrollment is limited, so students should register early. When they register, they must apply for housing or indicate that they plan to live off campus.

Financial Support

Financial support is available for undergraduate and graduate students. The Friends of Lakeside Lab organization provides a merit scholarship that is equivalent to the cost of room and board. Additional financial support may be available from Iowa Lakeside Laboratory and from other sources. Consult the Office of Student Financial Aid for information about support, including work-study and loan programs.

Courses

Iowa Lakeside Laboratory Courses

IALL:1010 Earth, Air, and Sky 1-4 s.h.
Essentials of earth science, including astronomy, meteorology, geology, and paleontology; includes laboratory and fieldwork.

IALL:1030 Natural History Workshop 1-2 s.h.
A specific aspect of the upper Midwest's natural history, or techniques for studying natural history; amphibians and reptiles, birds and birding, nature photography, mushrooms and other fungi, Iowa's trees and forests, fish biology, prairies, common algae, common insects, aquatic plants, life in rivers, life in lakes, mosses and liverworts, natural history of Iowa Great Lakes region, field archaeology, scuba diving, astronomy, nature sketching; five-day, nontechnical introductions.

IALL:1040 Field Archaeology 3-4 s.h.
Nature of cultural and environmental evidence in archaeology, how such evidence is used to model past human behavior and land use; emphasis on Iowa prehistory; basic reconnaissance surveying, excavation techniques.

IALL:1045 Illustrating Nature: Photography 1-2 s.h.
Beginning/intermediate technique and composition in color photography of natural areas, their plants and animals.

IALL:3034 Topics in Ecology and Sustainability 1-4 s.h.
Scientific introduction at intermediate level to ecology and evolution of important groups of organisms: algae to vertebrates, different ecological phenomena (e.g., fire and climate change), varying landforms, different ecosystems (e.g., prairies and aquatic systems); emphasis on sustainability with introduction to concepts, issues, and practices; ability to communicate environmental information through a variety of means. Requirements: one general biology course.

IALL:3075 Acoustic Ecology arr.
Build a strong understanding of the role sound plays in the environment; explore a variety of tactics for exploring, documenting, and analyzing soundscapes at various locations surrounding Lakeside Lab and beyond.

IALL:3099 Earth and Environmental Science for Educators 1-4 s.h.
How to introduce, explore, and understand Earth systems, processes, and environment; use of experiential, immersive, and place-based approaches to build confidence with subject matter and deepen understanding of landforms, landscapes, climate, geology, and geologic time; for in-service teachers, pre-service teachers, and informal educators.

IALL:3103 Aquatic Ecology 2,4 s.h.
Analysis of aquatic ecosystems; emphasis on basic ecological principles; ecological theories tested in the field; identification of common plants and animals. Requirements: ecology course.

IALL:3106 Plant Taxonomy 2-4 s.h.
Principles of classification and evolution of vascular plants; taxonomic tools and collection techniques; use of keys; emphasis on field and laboratory studies to identify local flowering plants; recognition of major plant families.

IALL:3109 Ecology and Systematics of Algae 2,4 s.h.
Ecology, morphological structure, phylogeny, and taxonomy of freshwater algae based on field material collected; emphasis on genus-level identifications, biodiversity, ecology; habitat visits to lakes, fens, streams, rivers; algal ecology.

IALL:3113 Undergraduate Independent Study 1-4 s.h.
Requirements: junior or senior standing.

IALL:3114 Field Mycology 2 s.h.
Identification and classification of common fungi; techniques for identification, preservation, and culture practiced with members of various fungi groups.

IALL:3117 Ecology and Systematics of Diatoms 2,4 s.h.
Field and laboratory study of freshwater diatoms; techniques in collection, preparation, and identification of diatom samples; study of environmental factors affecting growth, distribution, taxonomic characters; project design and execution, including construction of reference and voucher collections; data organization and analysis.

IALL:3123 Prairie Ecology I 2 s.h.
Recognition of Iowa prairie plants and understanding the systems in which they exist; emphasis on identification of tallgrass prairie flora by sight recognition, family, genus, species, and common names. Requirements: basic familiarity with biology and ecology.

IALL:3125 Prairie Ecology II 2 s.h.
Hands-on learning experiences demonstrating dynamic, human-influenced (anthropogenic) systems which have impacted prairie ecosystems for the past 10,000 years or more; emphasis on identification of tallgrass prairie flora by sight recognition, family, genus, species, and common names. Requirements: general familiarity with biology and ecology.

IALL:3126 Ornithology 2-4 s.h.
Biology, ecology, and behavior of birds; emphasis on field studies of local avifauna; group projects with focus on techniques of population analysis and methodology for population studies.

IALL:3131 Ecology 4 s.h.
Introduction to the principles of ecology at the population, community, ecosystem levels; field studies of local lakes, wetlands, and prairies used to examine factors that control distributions, interactions, and roles of plants and animals in native ecosystems. Requirements: two semesters of introductory biology.

IALL:3134 Wildlife Field Techniques 1-4 s.h.
Practical training in the methods used to monitor and manage wildlife populations. Topics include proper animal handling and permitting, wildlife capture techniques, measuring morphometrics and marking, radio telemetry, camera traps, sampling protocols, research design, and Iowa wildlife identification. Students learn to enter and analyze data using database and GIS tools.

IALL:3141 Environmental Policy 3 s.h.
Theory and practice of environmental policies, including the study of U.S. federal environmental policies with direct and indirect bearings on water issues; focus on policy history, implementation, and effectiveness; how policies interact with each other, how local stakeholders perceive their pros and cons, and linkages between local implementation efforts and regional and large-scale impacts.

IALL:3162 Restoration Ecology 2 s.h.
Ecological principles for restoration of native ecosystems; establishment (site preparation, selection of seed mixes, planting techniques) and management (fire, mowing, weed control) of native vegetation; evaluation of restorations; emphasis on prairie restoration and wetland vegetation. Requirements: ecology course.

IALL:3164 Animal Behavior 2 s.h.
Examination of ecological and evolutionary theories of animal behavior through field studies of animal coloniality, courtship, territoriality, predator defense, habitat selection, foraging, mating systems, and parental care. Requirements: two biology courses.

IALL:3175 Soil Formation and Landscape Relationships 2-4 s.h.
Relationships between soil formation, geomorphology, environment; soil description, classification, geography, mapping, interpretation for land use.

IALL:3176 Glacial Geomorphology 2,4 s.h.
Field-based introduction to glacial environments and processes including the origin of sediments, landforms, and landscapes produced in glacial and associated environments; aeolian (wind) processes, river and lacustrine systems, and mechanisms and chronologies of climate change.

IALL:3200 Introduction to Research and Inquiry 1-3 s.h.
How data transforms to information and ultimately knowledge through scientific investigations; examinations and applications include steps formulating the scientific method using 21st-century data, conditions, and related challenges; deliverables include a thoroughly documented scientific experiment beginning with research questions and hypotheses, recommended methods, and concluding with anticipated results.

IALL:3210 Paleontology Field School 1-3 s.h.
Participants will be introduced to essential methods of field paleontology including prospecting; identification and comparative anatomy; site mapping; and excavation, preservation, and preparation techniques; as well as the process of interpreting fossil finds. The field school includes learning opportunities on the history, development, and current state of the science of paleontology, with a focus on dinosaur paleontology. Requirements: minimum age 18.

IALL:5113 Literature and Multispecies Kinship: Making Kin With(in) Place 1-3 s.h.
Exploration of what it means to build kin within a place, while in a place (specifically NW Iowa); human impact on the planet and inherent demand from climate change to abandon anthropocentrism and fundamentally alter human relationship with environments, places, and species therein; interdisciplinary; readings include texts by ecologists, botanists, climatologists, indigenous writers and theorists, fiction writers and playwrights, poets, and podcasters.

IALL:5164 Animal Behavior 2 s.h.
Examination of ecological and evolutionary theories of animal behavior through field studies of animal coloniality, courtship, territoriality, predator defense, habitat selection, foraging, mating systems, and parental care. Requirements: two biology courses.

IALL:5213 Graduate Independent Study 1-4 s.h.

IALL:5217 Ecology and Systematics of Diatoms 1-4 s.h.

Leadership Studies

Director

- Matthew Augeri

Undergraduate certificate: leadership studies

Website: https://careers.uiowa.edu/alp

Leadership studies is a multidisciplinary academic field that draws upon theories and applications from a wide variety of related disciplines, such as the social sciences (e.g., psychology, sociology, political science, and anthropology) and the humanities (e.g., philosophy and history), as well as professional fields, including management and education. The Leadership Studies Program examines ethical issues, principles, theories, and styles of leadership; the dynamics of interactions between leaders, followers, and group members; leaders' impact on organizations and communities; and leadership skills such as goal setting, communicating effectively, creating a vision, and empowering others.

The Leadership Studies Program offers the undergraduate Certificate in Leadership Studies as well as the Career Leadership Academy, a two-course sequence designed to help undergraduate students develop leadership and employment skills. The program also offers professional development courses.

Certificate in Leadership Studies

The Certificate in Leadership Studies is an interdisciplinary program coordinated by the Pomerantz Career Center and supported by the Tippie College of Business, the colleges of Education and Liberal Arts and Sciences, and the Office of Leadership, Service, and Civic Engagement.

Career Leadership Academy

The Career Leadership Academy is a two-semester sequence of courses designed to help undergraduate students develop vital skills for leadership and career development: communication, interpersonal, and presentation skills and the ability to work well with others. This highly interactive program consists of weekly seminars, activities, and events. Participants also engage in career exploration opportunities, professional networking, and leadership development experiences.

For more information, see Career Leadership Academy on the Pomerantz Career Center website.

Professional Development

Professional development courses provide students with opportunities to engage in practical, hands-on, skills-based instruction relevant to careers and leadership development. The topics and curricula for the following courses incorporate input from employers, who were surveyed about their experiences, real-world examples, guidance, and which skills they most often seek when hiring new graduates.

Courses

Leadership Studies Courses

LS:1014 Pedagogy: Creating Collaborative Learning Environments 0-3 s.h.
Enhancement of skills that lead to success in facilitating collaborative learning; helping skills, knowledge, and peer support to promote deeper reflection, learning, and application of content; use of collaborative activities and discussions to highlight concepts and skills, and individual reflection assignments to promote metacognition; led by UI Academic Support and Retention; for learning assistants in first semester of role.

LS:1015 Learning Assistant Advanced Practicum 0-2 s.h.
Opportunity to continue to develop skills in facilitating collaborative learning environments; application of pedagogy concepts to learning assistant experience; students facilitate activities in assigned lecture courses and reflect on their experience in advanced practicum sessions; topics include helping skills, metacognition, study strategies, diversity, equity, inclusion, and motivation in learning environments; exploration of problem solving and personal growth. Requirements: LS:1014 and acceptance to learning assistant program as a returning learning assistant.

LS:1017 Orientation Leader Development: Understanding Your University 0-3 s.h.
Preparation for a leadership role in the Office of Orientation Services.

LS:1020 Introduction to Leadership 3 s.h.
Examination of leadership behaviors and actions that turn challenging opportunities into remarkable success; the Five Practices of Exemplary Leadership; discussions with campus leaders; development of a plan to improve leadership skills; exploration of the experience of present-day leaders and movements with a common reading selected annually; for emerging student leaders.

LS:1021 Current Issues and Leadership in Fraternity and Sorority Life 3 s.h.
Current issues facing leaders (alcohol and hazing education, conflict management, lasting impact of organizations on members); lifetime membership and values based decision-making; for leaders of fraternity and sorority community.

LS:1022 President's Leadership Class 3 s.h.
Inside look at the University of Iowa; focus on development of student leadership through team and campus projects; opportunity to interact with campus leaders, including the University of Iowa president. Requirements: sophomore standing and application.

LS:1024 Hawkeye Service Breaks arr.
Introduction to theoretical approaches to service learning and shared experiential learning; concepts of intersectionality of varied social and community issues, reflection and reciprocity, active citizenship and community building, practical implementation of skills from student's academic disciplines, leadership development; includes overnight service immersion experience during spring break in a designated team location where students complete approximately 24 total hours of direct service with nonprofit partners and participate in critical reflection; emphasis on stretch and serve components of the IOWA Challenge.

LS:2002 Career Leadership Academy Part 1: Leadership in Practice 3 s.h.
How to become a successful leader; opportunity to increase understanding of self, others, and the skills sought by employers; work and lead effectively in teams; creation of a group presentation focused on community needs; career components of résumé writing, LinkedIn profile development, and networking; first in a two-course series.

LS:2013 Strengths-Based Leadership 1 s.h.
Examination and evaluation of personal unique talents, be more engaged, and gain better understanding of leadership from a "Strengths" perspective; how to maximize strengths to stand out from the crowd; how society encourages people to be well-rounded (according to Gallup Organization's Strengths research) and how this pursuit of many goals can actually result in mediocrity.

LS:2020 Women in Leadership 3 s.h.
Overview of relevant history, theory, and practice of women in effective leadership; women leaders from historical to modern times; focus on exploring obstacles and challenges faced by women in leadership and how people of all genders can work to overcome these barriers.

LS:2022 Leading From the Margins 3 s.h.
Examination of those with historically marginalized identities who rise to prominence as leaders; demonstration of knowledge and ability to analyze key issues and events through an intersectional leadership lens; focus on developing tools to assemble pathways and structures that foster diverse and equitable leadership.

LS:2024 Hawkeye Service Breaks Leadership 0,2 s.h.
Focus on techniques for planning trip logistics, education on social issues, and facilitation of critical reflection; development in theoretical approaches to service learning specifically connected to service immersion leadership; varied concepts including intersectionality of varied social and community issues, reflection and reciprocity, active citizenship and community building, practical implementation of skills from student's academic disciplines, leadership development, and other related areas. Requirements: LS:1024, and application and acceptance to leadership position.

LS:3002 Career Leadership Academy Part 2: Leadership in Action 3 s.h.
Leadership development and career readiness; application of strengths, building effective teams, motivation, and delegation skills to a service-learning project designed by the class through engagement with a community partner; explore interviewing, personal branding, job searching, professional etiquette, salary negotiation, and transitioning successfully into the workplace; second in a two-course series. Prerequisites: LS:2002.

LS:3004 Perspectives on Leadership: Principles and Practices 3 s.h.
Broad foundation of leadership knowledge representing diverse approaches to studying and practicing leadership; core course for students pursuing the leadership certificate. Requirements: sophomore or higher standing.

LS:3011 Leadership Certificate Capstone 0-2 s.h.
Registration of practical work experience (internship or career position) with leadership components, or meaningful and educational cocurricular experience in on-campus leadership position (i.e., student organization leader, student government leader, residence assistant, student orientation advisor, peer educator, fraternity/sorority leader) with active leadership roles and responsibilities (i.e., executive leadership position, initiating and organizing a major event); application of leadership models and theories to practical experiences; for students completing the leadership certificate. Prerequisites: LS:3004. Requirements: an additional 6 s.h. of approved leadership coursework and meet with advisor prior to enrollment.

LS:3012 Leadership Theory to Practice 3 s.h.
How the world is changing at an accelerating rate; leadership effectiveness and demand of a high-level ability to work with others and respond to change; foundational concepts of major theories and behaviors of leadership models; practical challenges of leadership analyzed through use of experiential projects, discussion, presentations, exercises; development of self-awareness through use of behavioral instruments, group exercises, individual reflection; major approaches to leadership, authentic leadership, team leadership, gender issues in leadership, emotional intelligence, virtual leadership.

Leadership Studies, Certificate

Requirements

The undergraduate Certificate in Leadership Studies requires 20 s.h. of credit. Students must maintain a grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.00 in work for the certificate.

The certificate may be earned by any student admitted to the University of Iowa who is not enrolled in a UI graduate or professional degree program. Undergraduate to Graduate (U2G) students may earn the certificate when the undergraduate classification is primary.

Students must declare their intent to earn the certificate to a leadership studies advisor in the Pomerantz Career Center; see Leadership Studies Certificate on the center's website for information on how to enter the certificate program.

The certificate program provides a structure for involvement and commitment to leadership. It introduces students to leadership concepts and offers them hands-on leadership experiences they will need in order to begin the lifelong development of these skills. Certificate students complete two interdisciplinary core courses (6 s.h.), area electives (12 s.h.), and an experiential learning course (2 s.h.). A course may not be used to satisfy more than one certificate requirement. Students also have the opportunity to complete the certificate online.

The Certificate in Leadership Studies requires the following coursework.

Interdisciplinary Core Courses

All certificate students are required to complete two interdisciplinary core courses. In order to enroll in either course, students must have sophomore or higher standing and be in good academic standing as defined by University College (cumulative GPA of at least 2.00).

Course #	Title	Hours
LS:3004	Perspectives on Leadership: Principles and Practices	3
LS:3012	Leadership Theory to Practice	3

Perspectives on Leadership: Principles and Practices (LS:3004) provides students with a broad foundation of leadership knowledge. It introduces diverse approaches to studying and practicing leadership and gives students a structure for organizing knowledge and skills from other leadership courses and experiences. The course features presentations by guest instructors from across the university, offering students an interdisciplinary perspective on leadership.

With the world changing at an accelerating rate, Leadership Theory to Practice (LS:3012) examines leadership effectiveness and the demand of a high-level ability to work with others and respond to change. Foundational concepts of major theories and behaviors of leadership models are covered, and practical challenges of leadership are analyzed.

Area Electives

Area electives are drawn from four developmental areas central to effective leadership: self and group leadership, communication, cultural competence, and ethics and integrity. Students must complete 3 s.h. from each of these areas (total of 12 s.h.).

Experiential Learning

Certificate students must earn at least 2 s.h. in coursework focused on experiential or hands-on learning. An experiential learning course may take different forms, such as a service learning experience, an internship or on-campus leadership practicum, or other approved course offerings.

Service Learning Courses

Service learning courses incorporate community engagement with academic coursework. They allow students to gain hands-on experience along with a deeper understanding of course content while responding to real community needs. Students may satisfy the certificate's experiential learning requirement by earning a minimum of 2 s.h. from the following courses.

Course #	Title	Hours
LS:1024	Hawkeye Service Breaks	arr.
LS:3002	Career Leadership Academy Part 2: Leadership in Action	3

Internship or On-Campus Leadership Practicum

Certificate students may register for LS:3011 Leadership Certificate Capstone to receive credit for an internship or on-campus leadership practicum. Those who want to enroll in this course must contact the advisor for the certificate to begin the approval process. Certificate students must complete LS:3004 Perspectives on Leadership: Principles and Practices and at least 6 s.h. of additional leadership coursework in the certificate before they may enroll in LS:3011. All course assignments must be completed to fulfill the experiential learning requirement. Students who want to count LS:3011 toward the Tippie RISE requirement must register for an internship or career experience; registering with an on-campus leadership practicum will not satisfy Tippie RISE.

Course #	Title	Hours
LS:3011	Leadership Certificate Capstone	2

Internships consist of preapproved, supervised on-the-job learning; they may be paid or unpaid.

To meet the certificate's experiential learning requirement, an internship must consist of professional experience that relates to a student's major field of study or career interest area and allows the student to build on the academic coursework already completed in the certificate program. At least 80% of a student's internship duties must be professional-level work, and a student must receive continuous supervision by a professional (not a student) in the internship field. The internship must last a minimum of 15 weeks in fall or spring semester or six weeks in the summer and requires 150 hours of work.

Internships that fulfill the certificate's experiential learning requirement must be approved in advance by one of the certificate program's advisors, and the internship site supervisor must agree to the terms of the internship and must complete the required form before the internship may be approved. Students may work with staff at the Pomerantz Career Center to find an approved internship opportunity, or they may secure their own internship.

For more information about internships, see Jobs and Internships on the Pomerantz Career Center website.

Students who wish to fulfill the experiential learning requirement with an on-campus leadership practicum must engage in a formal, approved experience that is meaningful, educational, and cocurricular. It requires a student to take initiative and pursue active leadership roles and responsibilities. Examples include positions as student organization leaders, student government leaders, University Housing resident assistants, student orientation advisors, peer educators, and fraternity and sorority leaders. Practicums may be paid or unpaid.

To meet the certificate's experiential learning requirement, a practicum must last a minimum of 15 weeks in fall or spring semester or six weeks in the summer and requires 150 hours of work.

Practicums that fulfill the certificate's experiential learning requirement must be approved in advance by one of the certificate program's advisors. Students must submit a list of goals and assignments and/or duties they will complete during the practicum in order to demonstrate that the practicum provides substantive work assignments and opportunities to build on the academic coursework they have completed in the certificate program.

Each student also must identify a practicum mentor and demonstrate that the mentor is willing to guide and evaluate the student's work and development of leadership skills, and intends to participate in reviewing the student's goal-setting assignment and the final review of the student's performance.

Other Approved Experiential Learning Courses

Students may also satisfy the certificate's experiential learning requirement by earning a minimum of 2 s.h. from the following.

Course #	Title	Hours
COMM:1302	Introduction to Civic Bridge-Building: Skills for Effective Dialogue	1
COMM:2829	Leadership for Civic Dialogue	1-3

Lifetime Leisure Skills

Director

- Steve J. Campbell

Website: https://recserv.uiowa.edu/lifetime-leisure-skills

Lifetime leisure skills courses (prefix LLS) are designed to engage students in fun and healthy recreational activities that can be continued beyond college and throughout their lives. Courses range from outdoor recreation activities such as rock climbing, canoeing, kayaking, backpacking, biking, and camping to indoor activities that include kickboxing, Brazilian jiu-jitsu, and yoga. The majority of lifetime leisure skills courses are appropriate for students at all skill levels. A small number of courses are offered at the intermediate to advanced level and are clearly identified as such.

Lifetime leisure skills courses are open to University of Iowa undergraduate and graduate students. Undergraduate students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences may count credit earned in lifetime leisure skills courses toward the total number of semester hours required for their degree. Students should consult their academic advisor.

While the majority of courses are on campus or in the Iowa City area, several off-campus courses travel to locations such as Grand Canyon National Park, Canyonlands National Park, Arches National Park, Zion National Park, Big Bend National Park, Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument, Glen Canyon National Recreation Area, Effigy Mounds National Monument, Yellow River State Forest, Backbone State Park, Maquoketa Caves State Park, Devil's Lake State Park, Pictured Rocks County Park, and the Upper Iowa River.

Military Science (Army ROTC)

Director

- William Todd Kuebler

Undergraduate minor: military science

Website: https://veterans.uiowa.edu/army-rotc

The Military Science Program maintains the University of Iowa's Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program. Military science courses develop individual and organizational leadership attributes both in and out of the classroom. These skills apply to both civilian and military career fields. Military science courses are essential to students who wish to commission as an Army officer through the Army ROTC program.

Students may earn a minor in military science. Military science credit may be applied to additional certificates at the University of Iowa. Students should check with their academic advisors for limitations of military science course credit towards their specific field of study.

Military science courses are open to all students, without obligation of military service. The department maintains merit scholarships to current university students through the ROTC program. Students must have a minimum of four semesters prior to graduation to be eligible for ROTC scholarships.

Course credit that counts toward graduation varies by college. Students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences may count up to 20 s.h. earned in military science courses toward graduation.

Undergraduate and Graduate Programs

Basic Courses

The ROTC basic course sequence is designed primarily for first- and second-year students. It provides the fundamentals of leadership and management and introduces the roles of the military as influenced by national and foreign policy. Students incur no obligation to the military for participation in the basic courses.

The following four courses satisfy the basic course requirement.

Course #	Title	Hours
MILS:1010	Leadership and Personal Development MSL101	1
MILS:1020	Introduction to Tactical Leadership MSL102	1
MILS:2010	Innovative Team Leadership MSL201	2
MILS:2020	Foundations of Tactical Leadership MSL202	2

Students who wish to join ROTC and commission as an Army officer but are unable to take the basic course requirements in sequence should meet with military science faculty to discuss their individual circumstances and tailor an academic plan. Students with prior military service may receive credit towards basic course requirements.

Advanced Courses

ROTC advanced courses are restricted to students who wish to pursue a commission as an Army Lieutenant in Active Army, Army Reserves, or the Army National Guard upon graduation. They are open to both undergraduate and graduate students. Most cadets in advanced courses incur an obligation to the Army that can be satisfied in the Active Army, Army Reserve, or Army National Guard.

To join advanced courses, students must satisfy the basic courses requirement, earn at least 54 s.h., and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 2.00. In order to become U.S. Army officers, cadets must complete the Advanced Camp, held at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Cadets normally attend Advanced Camp during the summer between their third and fourth years.

The following courses satisfy the advanced courses requirement.

Course #	Title	Hours
MILS:3010	Adaptive Tactical Leadership MSL301	3
MILS:3020	Leadership in Changing Environments MSL302	3
MILS:4010	Developing Adaptive Leaders MSL401	3
MILS:4020	Leadership in a Complex World MSL402	3

Additional Coursework

Cadets whose aim is a commission must satisfy a Professional Military Education (PME) requirement. They must complete at least one course in military history from the following list. Cadets may use other courses to meet the additional coursework requirement with the military science director's approval.

Course #	Title	Hours
HIST:1261	American History to 1877	3
HIST:1262	American History 1877-Present	3
HIST:3271	American Revolutionary Period	3

Scholarship Opportunities

The Military Science Program offers two-, three-, and four-year ROTC scholarships for students who enter the ROTC program. These scholarships pay full tuition at the University of Iowa, an allotment for books and supplies each semester, mandatory educational fees, and a tax-free monthly stipend during the academic year. The tax-free monthly stipend is provided to non-scholarship cadets who enter a contractual agreement with ROTC to serve in the Army. Additional financial assistance may be provided through scholarships.

Nonprofit Leadership and Philanthropy

Codirectors

- Lon D. Moeller (Management and Entrepreneurship), Jenifer A. Vick (Journalism and Mass Communication)

Undergraduate certificate: nonprofit leadership and philanthropy

Website: https://nlp.uiowa.edu/

Nonprofit organizations play a crucial role in strengthening communities and improving lives. From supporting youth and aging populations to preserving wildlife and the arts, nonprofits drive social impact and meaningful change.

Managing a nonprofit requires specialized training to navigate challenges in leadership, programming, funding, and finance. The Certificate in Nonprofit Leadership and Philanthropy equips students with the skills and knowledge to turn their passion into a career or make a lasting impact as a volunteer, board member, or committee participant.

The curriculum covers key areas such as leadership, strategic planning, client programming, fundraising, marketing, event planning, communication strategies, and nonprofit ethics. By combining academic principles with real-world experience, the program offers opportunities to apply skills through collaborations with community partners.

All undergraduate students admitted to the University of Iowa can pursue this certificate. Courses are offered on campus and online, allowing distance and online students to earn the certificate.

The Certificate in Nonprofit Leadership and Philanthropy is administered by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication [p. 621] (College of Liberal Arts and Sciences) and the Department of Management and Entrepreneurship [p. 1236] (Tippie College of Business). It is awarded by University College.

Undergraduate minor: public policy

Faculty: https://sppa.uiowa.edu/faculty-staff

Website: https://sppa.uiowa.edu/

The minor in public policy is offered for undergraduate students who seek to understand how and why public policies are adopted; how they impact the economy, society, and communities; and how innovative public policies are developed to improve economic prosperity, well-being, and environmental sustainability at the local, state, national, and global levels.

Students who earn the minor will be able to analyze the impact of past and current public policies, understand the institutions and process of policymaking, and develop new public policies to tackle pressing challenges faced by our society. They will be prepared to enter policymaking fields in their areas of interest and to make communities, states, and nations more resilient, inclusive, and prosperous.

The minor is awarded by University College.

Website: https://international.uiowa.edu/study-abroad

The University of Iowa sponsors a wide variety of study abroad programs in approximately 50 countries throughout the world. Students may choose from summer, fall, or spring semester, academic year, spring break, and winter session programs that complement and extend the university's academic programs across the curriculum.

Study Abroad offers programs to appeal to a broad range of majors and interests. Major Advising Pages (MAPs) are created to help students better understand how study abroad can fit into their programs of study. International internships are also offered in many locations. The program search engine, Search UI Study Abroad Programs, allows students to browse information about study abroad programs.

Students also can participate in study abroad programs sponsored by other accredited U.S. and international institutions. They should obtain advance approval of all transfer credit by completing a Study Abroad Credit Approval Form.

Additionally, Study Abroad offers some virtual global courses and internships that take place entirely online but are internationally focused and make connections in host countries around the world.

Information on University of Iowa study abroad programs is available from Study Abroad.

Facilities

Study Abroad is located in the International Programs suite in the University Capitol Centre (UCC). Students can meet with their assigned study abroad advisor in the Study Abroad office or virtually via Zoom.

Summer Research Experiences for Undergraduates

Director

- Tawny L. B. Tibbits

Website: https://our.research.uiowa.edu/

The University of Iowa hosts a variety of summer research experiences for undergraduates, both from the UI and from other institutions, to enhance students' understanding of research in a variety of disciplines. Acceptance into these programs is based on a competitive application system.

Participants develop research skills under the mentorship of University of Iowa faculty members. They also become part of a research community with access to programming, workshops, and professional development. These programs highlight career opportunities and provide guidance on applying to graduate and professional schools.

Programs typically last 8–10 weeks and include a competitive stipend. Housing, food, and travel expenses are commonly covered by the programs. Interested students should refer to the individual programs for additional information on applications, timelines, research areas, and compensation. Many of these programs offer a 0 s.h. course enrollment for transcript recognition of participation.

Summer Programs at the University of Iowa

Summer programs that students may enroll in include the following:

- Biochemistry Summer Undergraduate Research Fellowship (BSURF)
- Biomedical Scholars Summer Undergraduate Research Program (BSURP)
- Cancer Research Opportunities at Iowa (CROI)
- Iowa Neuroscience Institute (INI) Summer Scholars Program
- Iowa Summer Institute in Biostatistics
- NSF REU in Interdisciplinary Evolutionary Sciences
- NSF Summer Research Experience for Undergraduates (REU) in Microbiology
- Summer Health Professions Education Program (SHPEP) at the University of Iowa
- Summer Research Opportunities Program (SROP)
- Summer Undergraduate MSTP Research (SUMR) Program

Undergraduate Research Experiences

Undergraduate research experiences (URES) courses enhance research and creative scholarship experiences for undergraduate students. These courses are administered through the Office of Undergraduate Research (OUR), which seeks to provide a broad range of research and professional development opportunities for undergraduates and their mentors.

URES Independent Study Courses

Undergraduate research experiences independent study courses provide opportunities for students to earn academic credit or transcript recognition for their research/creative scholarship involvement. These courses are intended to promote recognition of ongoing research participation. They are available to all undergraduates in any academic session other than the winter session.

Collegiate and department-based research courses also may be available. Students are encouraged to consult their mentors or academic advisors regarding which option is most suited to their circumstances.

First-Year Seminars

First-Year Seminars (FYS) designated as research-focused are offered through undergraduate research experiences. Research-focused FYS introduce students to research in an instructor's field. These courses often involve visits to research sites, hands-on projects, and exposure to disciplinary-based research. These are typically 10-week courses that meet for 75 minutes per week. An optional poster session is held during the last week of the course for students to display what they have learned during the semester.

Summer Research Programs

Many University of Iowa summer research programs enroll students for 0 s.h. in courses that provide transcript recognition of participation in the program. These are available to both current University of Iowa students and students who visit from other institutions to develop their research skills; see Summer Research Experiences for Undergraduates [p. 2232] in the catalog for more information.

Courses

Undergraduate Research Experiences Courses

URES:1000 First-Year Seminar 1 s.h.
Small discussion class taught by a faculty member; topics chosen by instructor; may include outside activities (e.g., films, lectures, performances, readings, visits to research facilities); research focus allows students to actively discover new information with guidance from instructor, pursue research in small groups, learn the "how to" of a field, and share their findings; no prior research knowledge or experience required. Requirements: first- or second-semester standing.

URES:2200 Discover Research 1 s.h.
Introduction to research at the University of Iowa; exploration of life as a researcher through a mixture of lecture, faculty and student guest speakers, and virtual lab tours; process of finding and contacting potential research mentors, interviewing for research positions, and making the most out of a research experience; for first-year undergraduates.

URES:3001 Introduction to Translational Research 0-3 s.h.
Array of scientific studies translated into clinical solutions, creative ideas balanced with practical strategies for implementation at bedside, and expansive number of career opportunities becoming available in translational sciences; opportunity to learn how translational research is conceived and developed; interpreting student research in a translational paradigm; survey of translational biomedicine research program covering the scope of interdisciplinary teams and breadth of T1 to T4 research applications. Requirements: enrollment in clinical and translational science certificate program, and engagement in mentored research activity. Recommendations: successful completion of EPID:4400 highly recommended.

URES:3002 Practicum in Clinical and Translational Science 0-3 s.h.
How research experience translates into clinical practice; translational impact of independent research; summary of research accomplishments; outline of a translational paper that is mutually acceptable to student, preceptor, and faculty; submission of paper and completion of poster presentation describing research project and translational application of research. Prerequisites: URES:3001. Requirements: enrollment in clinical and translational science certificate program.

URES:3100 Undergraduate Research Ambassador 0-1 s.h.
Promotion of undergraduate research from all disciplines within campus community; hosting various on-campus events, leading workshops, and presenting at student organization meetings and in class; leadership and public speaking; regular meetings with the Office of Undergraduate Research staff.

URES:3991 Undergraduate Research and Creative Projects 0 s.h.
Independent research or pursuit of a creative project under mentorship of a faculty supervisor.

URES:3992 Undergraduate Research and Creative Projects 0 s.h.
Independent research or pursuit of a creative project under mentorship of a faculty supervisor.

URES:3993 Undergraduate Research and Creative Projects 1-4 s.h.
Independent research or pursuit of a creative project under mentorship of a faculty supervisor.

URES:3994 Undergraduate Research and Creative Projects 1-4 s.h.
Independent research or pursuit of a creative project under mentorship of a faculty supervisor.

URES:3995 Independent Creative Research by Undergraduates Summer Internship 0 s.h.
Recognition of undergraduates involved in scholarly efforts of UI faculty and research staff; work on specific research and/or creative projects under selected mentors; funded annually by the Office of Undergraduate Research (OUR) through a competitive application process. Requirements: selection as ICRU fellow.

URES:3996 Research Fellow 0 s.h.
Involvement in scholarly efforts of UI faculty and research staff; students work on specific research and/or creative projects under selected mentors; funded by various strategic initiatives through competitive application processes. Requirements: selection by department or faculty mentor.

URES:4000 Independent Creative Research by Undergraduates Fellowship 0-1 s.h.
Recognition of undergraduates involved in scholarly efforts of UI faculty and research staff; work on specific research and/or creative projects under selected mentors; funded annually by the Office of Undergraduate Research (OUR) through a competitive application process. Requirements: selection as OUR fellow.

URES:4100 Undergraduate Research Ambassador Leadership 1 s.h.
Work with professional staff in the undergraduate research office to develop and provide outreach and events for undergraduate researchers on campus; hold recruitment events to engage K-12 students in discovery through research and creative efforts. Prerequisites: URES:3100. Requirements: be selected by the Office of the Undergraduate Research staff to serve in this role.

URES:4110 Computational Bioengineering Summer Research Experience for Undergraduates 0 s.h.
Immersive research experience focused on fundamental concepts of computational bioengineering and application of concepts to solve challenging biomedical problems; work on mentored research projects and showcase research at a university-wide presentation opportunity.

URES:4120 Research Experience for Undergraduates: Computing for Health and Well-Being 0 s.h.
Research experience in using computer science methods to study and solve current problems in health, well-being, and health care systems; work on mentored research projects and showcase research at a UI presentation opportunity.

URES:4130 Research Experience for Undergraduates in Microbiology 0 s.h.

URES:4140 Research Experiences for Undergraduates in Evolutionary Biology 0 s.h.
Intensive hands-on experience in a research lab; students create digital exhibits in collaboration with the UI Museum of Natural History and present their research at a university-wide poster presentation.

URES:4150 Undergraduate Medical Scientist Training Program Research 0 s.h.

URES:4170 Research Experience for Undergraduates in Nanoscience and Nanotechnology 0 s.h.

URES:4180 Edge of Space Academy 0 s.h.
Summer research experience centered around space-based instrumentation for observing Earth and space; students build small instrument payloads that are integrated onto drone and high-altitude aerial platforms to take measurements of the Earth below and the atmosphere and space environment above; hands-on experience for students who have an interest in Earth, atmospheric, solar, and space science. Requirements: application and acceptance to program.

URES:4220 University of Iowa Premed Student Summer Research Internship 0 s.h.
Immersive medical research experience with focus on gathering, analyzing, and interpreting health data; writing a manuscript for publication.

URES:4240 Fostering Undergraduate Talent: Uniting Research and Education (FUTURE) in Biomedicine 0 s.h.
Mentored research experience to create new discoveries in biomedicine; preparation to pursue careers in science and clinical practice; translation of current knowledge into new educational materials; discussions, conferences, workshops, training sessions, lectures; university-wide presentation opportunity and a FUTURE in biomedicine symposium.

URES:4260 Cancer Summer Undergraduate Research 0 s.h.
Holden Comprehensive Cancer Center faculty-mentored cancer biology research; cancer research education; lectures and seminars; oral poster presentation experience; career counseling; extended mentoring.

URES:4270 Undergrad Research Experiences Radiation Biology 0 s.h.
Faculty-mentored research focused on radiation therapy, redox biology, cancer biology, traditional and medical physics, engineering, medical imaging, and immunology.

URES:4280 Data-Driven Weather Intelligence and Agricultural Community Resilience Summer Program 0 s.h.
Advance knowledge in weather prediction, local weather intelligence, and resilience in agricultural communities; understand climate science and rural resilience; explore emerging technologies. Topics include weather intelligence, community resilience, sensor deployment, unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs), and AI applications.

URES:4290 Undergraduate Research Experience in Heavy Element Chemistry arr.
Faculty-mentored intensive hands-on experience in a research lab focused on inorganic chemistry, radiochemistry, and quantum information science.

URES:4500 Summer Policy Research Institute 1 s.h.
Exposure and enhancement of fluency with policy research through mentored, team-based experience; students choose between two tracks depending on their experience level.

University Libraries

University Libraries offers these courses intended for undergraduates: ULIB:1001 Library Research in Context, ULIB:2001 Being Responsible Online: From Facebook to Academic Research, ULIB:2022 Special Topics in Library Research, and ULIB:3011 Global Research: Strategies and Skills.

Library Research in Context (ULIB:1001) is an activity-based course that helps students integrate information skills and concepts into their academic tool kit, enabling them to develop habits of critical inquiry and to accomplish course goals. The course uses active learning to introduce students to the basic research process and helps them formulate research questions and evaluate information. It also touches on the social and ethical contexts of information. Subject-specialist librarians teach the course using in-class activities, assignments, and class discussions. Most sections of the course are offered online.

Being Responsible Online: From Facebook to Academic Research (ULIB:2001) introduces students to ethical issues that surround online information, especially in the context of social media. Discussion topics include issues of privacy, security, free versus fee-based information, censorship, one's digital footprint, and academic integrity.

Special Topics in Library Research (ULIB:2022) meets the varying needs of students. The course may address a current or timely topic, focus on a particular content area not currently addressed by course offerings from the University Libraries, or serve as a pilot/trial offering for a course prior to becoming part of the permanent course offerings.

Global Research: Strategies and Skills (ULIB:3011) teaches skills for gathering and using information that are required for international jobs, upper-level international studies coursework, and individual international research. Students develop a familiarity with a variety of research and popular materials (such as government information or human rights resources); become experts in at least one academic research database (such as journal, newspaper, or statistical databases); and enhance their critical thinking skills. The class features small group activities, short student presentations, and an individual research consultation with the instructor.

Courses

University Libraries Courses

ULIB:1001 Library Research in Context 1 s.h.
Academic research, effective use of the library and its resources, basic research methods, process of scholarly communication; content may be keyed to a discipline-specific course; students apply concepts and processes to their research projects; transferable skills.

ULIB:2001 Being Responsible Online: From Facebook to Academic Research 1 s.h.
Introduction to ethical issues surrounding online information; using information as researchers or creating information on a social networking site; issues of privacy, reliability, and intellectual property; skills to navigate online information responsibly and knowledgeably.

ULIB:2022 Special Topics in Library Research 1 s.h.
Activity-based course that explores specialized content, selected research areas, or current/emerging issues in the context of information literacy and library resources; designed for sophomores and juniors; introduces students to the basic research process, helps them to develop critical thinking skills and evaluate information; topics may vary by semester.

ULIB:3011 Global Research: Strategies and Skills 1 s.h.
Skill development in international research; academic projects; work with research librarian; activity-based introduction to article, statistical, and governmental databases; research and popular materials; information discovery process (tools and search strategies); enhancement of critical thinking skills. Same as GHS:3011, IS:3011.

ULIB:3022 Advanced Special Topics in Library Research 1 s.h.
Activity-based exploration of specialized content, selected research areas, or current/emerging issues in context of information literacy and library resources; introduction to basic research process, development of critical thinking skills, and evaluation of information; topics vary.

ULIB:6313 Studio Summer Fellowship 1 s.h.
Investigation of and reflection on digital scholarly collaboration, production, and promotion. Same as GRAD:6313.

University of Iowa Honors Program

Director

- Shaun P. Vecera

Website: https://honors.uiowa.edu/

The University of Iowa Honors Program's general objective is to enrich the undergraduate experience by cultivating intellectual curiosity, promoting engaged, active learning, and developing students' self-efficacy. Central to this enrichment is the honors community fostered by the program, which facilitates connections to faculty mentoring and with peers through engaging coursework, co-curricular involvement, and experiential learning.

Honors at Iowa gives students the space and opportunities to make connections and develop self-authorship through self-discovery. For example, honors students have the opportunity to form closer connections with their academically like-minded and motivated peers as well as their professors on campus. Such networks and working relationships can change careers and lives through mutual discovery. Honors courses create spaces for students to get more from their courses, their faculty, their peers, and their time, and in turn more from themselves. This establishes a network that feeds into and optimizes the students' four-year experience.

Connections and Networks

Many students choose to participate in Honors Primetime, a unique program that kicks of the fall semester for new honors students. This multi-day in-depth experience fosters lasting connections and sets an example for learning by doing in-depth inquiry.

In the first year, honors students take HONR:1000 Introduction to Honors, which further connects them to other honors students, the honors building facilities, and honors faculty and staff. In this course, students learn about the opportunities and privileges afforded to them by their continued participation in honors.

First-year students also enroll in a 3–4 s.h. honors course in their first semester. Honors students may additionally opt to take a first-year seminar. Students should try to continually enroll in at least one honors course each semester until 12 s.h. of honors coursework is complete. Students may take as many additional honors courses as they wish.

The UI Honors Program places a strong emphasis on experiential learning (learning by doing), which comprises half the program’s curricular requirements. Experiential learning takes the form of undergraduate research, study abroad, internships, teaching practica, being an honors ambassador or an Honors Writing Fellow (or both), and other opportunities. Learning by doing, besides being the most effective way of acquiring knowledge, also helps with self-discovery.

In general, students who are serious about their education and about making a meaningful contribution to the world with their particular capabilities and gifts can be assured that the University of Iowa Honors Program will help them in their journey.

Unique Honors Academic Activities

Honors Outreach Ambassadors

Ambassadors earn academic credit for acquiring and then sharing knowledge of honors opportunities by organizing events around campus and meeting with prospective students and their families.

Honors Writing Fellows

Fellows are trained and paid to assist in undergraduate courses by mentoring a dozen students each semester on major writing assignments.

The Iowa Policy Research Organization

This organization selects honors students each year to earn academic credit by learning how to conduct policy analysis and then writing policy papers for Iowa communities and the Iowa Legislature.

Study Abroad and Internships

These opportunities with a reflective component or embedded project enable students to earn honors academic credit for their experience.

Learn more about honors activities and Experiential Learning on the honors program website.

Cocurricular Programs

Honors at Iowa offers students a rich variety of activities outside the classroom. Many honors students find cocurricular programming a good way to meet people, get involved, and learn more about themselves and the world around them. Some of the programs are volunteer-based, some offer pay, and some award honors credit. These opportunities provide peak educational experiences, especially extensive and intensive interactions with faculty mentors and other honors students.

- Honors newsletters, which are written by honors student editors, inform readers on and beyond the campus about honors at the University of Iowa.
- Honors student staff earn pay by staffing the UI Honors Program reception area and other duties as assigned.
- Honors Peer Mentors earn pay by mentoring honors students.
- The Presidential Scholars Program (PSP) engages recipients of the Presidential Fellowship in shared classes, opportunities for prestigious fellowships, and unique programming. Presidential Fellows participate in events with faculty and key administrators, scholarship and fellowship mentoring programs, and volunteer projects.

To learn more, visit Opportunities on the honors program website.

Programs

Undergraduate Program of Study

University Honors

Honors at Iowa helps students tailor opportunities to different educational needs and goals. Honors students may take honors courses each semester that they are enrolled at the university. Honors courses are generally small and interactive.

They connect students with distinguished professors and offer new topics each semester. Honors courses also are part of the GE CLAS Core [p. 22] curriculum and do not add requirements for graduation.

Honors Coursework

First Semester

Students begin honors work in their first semester.

Course #	Title	Hours
HONR:1000	Introduction to Honors	1
HONR:1100	Honors Primetime (taken immediately before the fall semester begins)	0
An honors course that fulfills a student's major or general education requirement		3-4

Students who enter the honors program directly from high school may also take an honors first-year seminar with selected professors on current topics.

Subsequent Semesters

After the first semester of in the program, students are expected to continue to enroll in an honors section of a course each semester until they reach at least 12 s.h. of honors coursework.

Students in their third year of study and beyond may take honors courses in their majors or pursue individual instruction with faculty members through honors courses such as HONR:3994 Honors Research Practicum. Students may also earn honors credit for a non-honors course by developing an honors contract with the course instructor; the student and instructor negotiate a unique project for the course and develop the honors contract around the project.

Additional academic opportunities include honors advanced seminars, honors independent studies, and honors practica in teaching and service.

To learn more, visit Honors Requirements on the program's website.

Experiential Learning

In addition to coursework, students must complete and report on 12 s.h. of experiential learning. These cocurricular activities come in many forms and vary in scale and depth. Students often complete three to four signature experiences including but not limited to study abroad, internships, research, leadership positions, service and volunteering, relevant work, teaching assistantships, fellowships, and practica. Experiences from a student's first day of classes at UI can be considered for credit.

Find more information on experiential learning opportunities by visiting Experiential Learning on the Honors at Iowa website.

Joining the Honors Program

Students may apply to the University of Iowa Honors Program as entering first-year, entering transfer, or current University of Iowa students. Current students are encouraged to apply prior to earning 30 s.h. in coursework. This enhances the benefit the student may get through their honors participation.

To remain in the Honors Program and to graduate with University Honors, students must complete the program's curricular requirements. At the time of graduation, students must have a UI cumulative grade-point average of 3.33 for "University Honors" to be recorded on their transcript. For more information about joining the University of Iowa Honors Program, see Join on the program's website.

Graduation With University Honors

Students who graduate with University Honors through the UI Honors Program are recognized at commencement. University Honors is noted on a student's diploma and transcript. UI Honors Program students completing any undergraduate degree program may graduate with University Honors.

Facilities

Blank Honors Center

Honors at Iowa has its home in the Blank Honors Center (BHC), a facility that helps foster community among honors students. The Blank Honors Center is located near the center of the University of Iowa main campus, next to residence halls and classroom buildings. It offers social areas, quiet study areas, wireless internet access, computer stations, and classrooms for students. The center also houses the honors staff and has rooms for meetings, events, presentations, and conversation.

Honors housing is available for first-year honors students on campus. Students must apply to live in the Honors Residential Community. See Housing on the Iowa Division of Student Life website for information about how to apply.

Financial Support

Honors at Iowa has scholarship opportunities for current honors students selected from academic programs throughout the university. Scholarship possibilities are announced annually.

In addition, visit Scholarships and Awards on the UI Honors Program website.

Academic Plans

Sample Plan of Study

Sample plans represent one way to complete a program of study. Actual course selection and sequence will vary and should be discussed with an academic advisor. For additional sample plans, see MyUI.

Courses

University of Iowa Honors Program Courses

HONR:1000 Introduction to Honors 1 s.h.
Learn about what it means to be a student in the honors program and build community with peers, faculty, and staff. Corequisites: HONR:1100.

HONR:1100 Honors Primetime 0 s.h.
Preparation for honors opportunities, especially activities and courses; teamwork on projects that develop skills of invention and communication; presentation of products and performances; connect honors students, honors teachers, and staff members. Corequisites: HONR:1000.

HONR:1350 Honors Seminar for Presidential Scholars 1 s.h.
Through self-discovery, students learn to know themselves and one another better while participating in selected events and structured experiences (e.g., readings, in-class discussion, small-group work, guest presentations, event attendance); students take time to reflect on interests, experiences, and knowledge, and have an opportunity to explore and integrate skills and resources in a way that helps develop the personal and academic self while also considering knowledge and experience of other individuals and groups; students are provided with tools to seek out academics and activities related to their interests and pursuits to better connect with development resources. Requirements: Presidential Scholarship award received when admitted to the University of Iowa.

HONR:1360 Honors Seminar for Presidential Scholars II 1 s.h.
Through self-discovery, students learn to know themselves and one another better while participating in selected events and structured experiences (e.g., readings, in-class discussion, small-group work, guest presentations, event attendance); students take time to reflect on interests, experiences, and knowledge, and have an opportunity to explore and integrate skills and resources in a way that helps develop the personal and academic self while also considering knowledge and experience of other individuals and groups; students are provided with tools to seek out academics and activities related to their interests and pursuits to better connect with development resources. Prerequisites: HONR:1350.

HONR:1670 Values and Culture 3 s.h.
Asking fundamental questions about human experience and its meaning while becoming more aware of what, exactly, defines culture and values; students have a chance to consider their own values and beliefs, and the importance to their lifelong goals. GE: Values and Society.

HONR:2050 Honors Contract Project 1 s.h.
Individual or group project arranged with faculty; students and faculty develop and complete an honors contract study plan or project for a non-honors UI course.

HONR:2100 Honors Colloquium 1 s.h.
Attendance at talks, performances, and other events across campus.

HONR:2600 Honors Special Topics 1-3 s.h.
Small-class learning with a faculty member on special topics.

HONR:2900 Honors Publications: From Pitch to Print 1-2 s.h.
Students develop and hone writing skills as they create content for UI Honors Program publications from start to finish—envisioning themes, interviewing, writing, securing photos and captions, workshopping, and editing pieces; topics related to student body, professional staff, alumni, and current events relevant to honors program; completion of up to three major projects published in Honors Newsletter, Alumni Connection, honors program blog, or other social media; discussion posts and workshops.

HONR:2990 Honors Second-Year Seminar: Meaning, Motivation, and Experiential Learning 2 s.h.
Experiential learning requirements for the UI Honors Program.

HONR:2991 Honors Students and Wellness 3 s.h.
Learn about how one's high academic ability and overall wellness interact during college years and beyond. Focuses on student challenges such as impostor syndrome, perfectionism, burnout, study habits, physical activity, nutrition, sleep, and work/life balance.

HONR:2992 Classic Cult Cinema 3 s.h.
Have you ever wondered why certain films reach cult status and others do not? What makes us want to go to repeated midnight showings of the same film and even dress up like the characters? What is a cult classic and who are the great masters of these films? And most importantly, how do these films add social and political commentary about the culture around them? Students explore these questions while watching, discussing, and reading about what puts the "cult" into cult cinema. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

HONR:2993 The Art of Creativity: How to Think Like a Writer 3 s.h.
Develop literary community while generating new work, invigorating works-in-progress, and learning to navigate writer's block. Using carefully structured writing prompts, intuition exercises, and guided meditations, students develop a significant portfolio of creative work in any genre. Additionally, students learn actionable strategies for developing a productive writing practice based on traditional and non-traditional techniques. GE: Literary, Visual, and Performing Arts.

HONR:2994 Poetics (Taylor's Version) 3 s.h.
Explore Taylor Swift's songs through an examination of poetic techniques and common motifs; discuss innocence, heartbreak, revenge, nostalgia, betrayal, and anti-heroism in light of Swift's authorial vision. Texts by and about Swift as well as academic and popular articles about her cultural impact will be discussed. Students will analyze and experience Swift's fandom through embodied practices such as the creation of friendship bracelets.

HONR:3050 Honors Studies arr.
Independent studies arranged with faculty members who certify satisfactory completion of study plans and performance for topics not covered by other UI courses.

HONR:3100 Honors Teaching Practicum 0-4 s.h.
Teaching internship in first- and second-year courses; may include providing tutorial assistance, conducting review sessions, aiding course organization.

HONR:3150 Honors Service Learning arr.
Service learning projects arranged with faculty members who certify satisfactory completion of study plans and service.

HONR:3170 Honors Outreach Ambassadors 1-2 s.h.
Experience sharing knowledge and experiences of the honors program with other students in meetings during office hours, online chats, other venues; outreach ambassadors; answer questions, provide information, help students find honors opportunities in and out of class.

HONR:3210 Honors Policy Research Practicum 1 s.h.
Theory and practice of public policy research; development of policy-research skills; production of policy-research papers. Requirements: sophomore or junior standing.

HONR:3994 Honors Research Practicum 1-4 s.h.
Individual research performed in conjunction with a faculty member's research.

HONR:4990 Honors Thesis or Project 1-3 s.h.
Culminating project of research or artistic creation; preparation and completion of the final product associated with graduation with honors in the student's major. Requirements: member of the University of Iowa Honors Program and junior or senior standing.

Precollege Program of Study

The University of Iowa TRIO Upward Bound is a federally funded college preparatory program for income-qualified and/or first-generation college students who are motivated to pursue a college degree. The program serves eligible high school students from three southeastern Iowa community high schools: Columbus Community High School, Muscatine High School, and West Liberty High School.

Students participate during the academic year in weekly after-school programming at their local high school. They participate in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) related educational opportunities, American College Testing (ACT) preparation, community service, cultural programs, field trips, and college visits.

During the summer, students attend a six-week residential program on the University of Iowa campus from mid-June through July. Participants take mathematics, science, language arts, and world language courses to prepare them for classes they will take at their local high school in the fall. In addition, students take STEM workshops to expose them to a broader range of career opportunities and an ACT preparation course to ready them for college admissions exams.

Upward Bound Bridge students (those who will enter college in the fall) enroll in a University of Iowa course during the six-week summer session. Bridge students participate in an on-campus job shadow and take a college transition seminar.

Upward Bound provides services to students during high school through enrollment in postsecondary education. All services received are at no cost to students.

Other postsecondary institutions in Iowa and across the nation sponsor Upward Bound programs. High school students who do not attend schools served by the University of Iowa program should ask their counselors whether an Upward Bound program serves their area.

For more information, contact TRIO Upward Bound.

Admission

For admission:

- participants must reside in the target area and attend a target school;
- students must be in grades 9 through 11; and
- students must be potential first-generation college students or their family income must meet U.S. Department of Education low-income guidelines.

Courses

University of Iowa Upward Bound Course

UIUB:1010 Upward Bound Project - Bridge Seminar 1-2 s.h.

Provides new high school graduates in the Upward Bound program the opportunity to take courses at the University of Iowa. Prepares students for college-level learning, introduces students to topics specific to higher education, and aids students in their transition to college.

Undergraduate minor: urban studies

Faculty: https://sppa.uiowa.edu/faculty-staff

Website: https://sppa.uiowa.edu/

The minor in urban studies is offered for undergraduate students who seek to understand and address urban issues, want to work in urban communities, and are interested in community well-being, sustainable development, environmental shifts, mobility and access, public health, and economic prosperity. It is well suited for students in a wide range of majors.

The minor in urban studies is awarded by University College.

- Minor in Urban Studies [p. 2244]

Urban Studies, Minor

The minor in urban studies is highly relevant to students interested in addressing emerging and persistent issues in cities of the 21st century, including climate change, environmental conservation, sustainable development, mobility and access, housing affordability, public health, and economic prosperity—each of which has local, urban, and regional dimensions.

Requirements

The undergraduate minor in urban studies requires 15 s.h. of coursework taken at the University of Iowa. Students must maintain a grade-point average of at least 3.00 in work for the minor. Coursework in the minor may not be taken pass/nonpass.

The minor in urban studies requires the following coursework.

Core Course

The core course provides an introduction to urban studies, policies, and practices.

Office of the Registrar Calendars

The Office of the Registrar provides additional calendars that list detailed academic deadlines, final exam schedules, and university holidays. Please see these calendars for the most current dates and deadlines. It also publishes a five-year academic calendar.

Individual College Calendars

Some University of Iowa colleges have academic year schedules that vary from the one listed. Contact the individual colleges or visit their websites; use the A–Z List or the Directory Search on the University of Iowa home page.

Campus Visits

Each year the University of Iowa is the destination for visitors with wide-ranging interests. Prospective and new students and their parents, new faculty and staff members, fans of intercollegiate athletics, University of Iowa health care patients, audiences for the visual and performing arts, museum visitors, and conference and continuing education participants are among those drawn to the campus.

Prospective and New Students

Prospective and new students should contact the Admission Visitors Center if they are interested in a campus visit. The Admission Visitors Center hosts a variety of programs for future students and their families, including large group events and individual visits tailored to specific interests. It is best to visit the campus on weekdays when classes are in session and when other university offices are open. See First Year Visit Options on the Admissions website to arrange for a campus visit.

Attractions, Campus Maps, Parking

The University of Iowa website has links to campus maps, walking tours, how to arrange visits to varied attractions, and where to park on campus.

Iowa Administrative Code

Code of Iowa

The Code of Iowa contains information about admission and residency rules common to Iowa's three state universities —the University of Iowa, Iowa State University, and the University of Northern Iowa. It also provides supplemental information about application to the University of Iowa. Visit Iowa Code on the Iowa Legislature website to search and read the Iowa Administrative Code.
